ARMISTICE MEMORIAL SECTION

ANNIVERSARY NUMBER —— CANADA, SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 11th, 1928 —— COMPLIMENTARY

Honour to Canadians who fought and died in the cause of the Allies on the fields of France and Flanders.

Honneur aux Canadiens qui ont combattu et qui sont morts pour la cause des Alliés sur les champs de France et des Flandres

MEMORIAL CHAMBER

The Walls of the Memorial Chamber are lined with Chelsea Cuilford Marble, a gift from France, and its floor is paved with stone from Belgium. The Altar of Sacrifice is a block of Rockdale Marble, and will be the resting place for Canada's Book of Remembrance, in which the names of grade upon grade of glorious citizens who died in the Great War, are to be inscribed.

THE VICTORY MEMORIAL TOWER

It is two hundred and fifty feet high. — Its clock is sixteen feet in diameter. — It houses a carillon of fifty bells.
Its archway forms the main entrance to the Dominion's House of Parliament.

Erected at St. Nazaire.

Erected at Ypres.

St. Julien Memorial.

INTERNATIONAL PRAYER

O Lord God, Father of Man, King of Kings and Ruler of Nations, we humbly thank Thee on this Day of Hallowed Memories, for Thy Presence and help in the dark days of conflict past and for Thy divine comfort in our sorrow, and that Thou mayest continue us to live in harmony and peace with all the nations of the world. Thou didst make the earth for the peaceful habitation of man, and didst cover it with fair fields and majestic hills, with fertile valleys and tumultuous rivers, with dense forests and rolling prairies, that life might spring forth on all sides and man made in Thine own image mayest have dominion over all.

Make us to remember the heroic and noble sacrifices made in behalf of mankind by many peoples and heal, O Lord, their sorrows. Take away we beseech Thee, the animus and hatreds which cause men and nations to make war where Thou has intended "Peace on Earth to Men of Goodwill." Continue Thy mercy unto all peoples, binding them ever more closely together in concord and brotherly love; and grant Thy blessings to all peoples, to their rulers, councils, and all in authority under them, that all things may be so ordered and settled by their endeavors upon the best and surest foundations that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among them for all generations. [Amen].

CANADA'S GARDEN of MEMORIES

PROLOGUE
1914-1918

"The world is full of soldiers . . . It is roaring with the commerce of war . . . In muddy camps there is the tramp of drill . . . In quiet rooms the click of knitting needles . . . On battlefields the parting wrench of souls."

SO it was that in foreign lands, on new frontiers, the peoples of many nations gave unstintingly of their life's blood and treasure to save the world. The peremptory knock at the Gates of Liege, following close upon a sinister pistol shot in the dark of Sarajeva, was the challenge which united the British Empire and their Allies in defence of democracy and righteousness.

The great effort of the British Empire during the bitter war years which preceded the Armistice, is a matter of historical record—imperishable chapters penned in the blood of her sons on four continents. But at last the Armistice of November Eleventh, 1918, came to still the cannon of war which for more than four years hurled death and destruction over a battle-front of three hundred miles, and wrought the greatest human suffering in the world's history.

"On that bright November morn
The White Comrade came Down the bitter aisles of pain,
Back to the waiting earth,
That called to Him again;
(And lifted a cup of tears)."

Surely humanity stood still, enthralled, failing for the moment to comprehend the full meaning of the Armistice: but, finally, with the realization, heart strings—tightened to the breaking point by terrible years of conflicting emotions—responded to the latent force of new found joy and happy release from the grim tollmaster—WAR.

Today, on the tenth anniversary of Armistice, Canada celebrates not the winning of the war, but war's memories which are sacred in her national life—the heroic sacrifice of her sons for world peace.

With high hopes and aspirations for understanding and for permanent peace among all peoples, and with the same indomitable spirit which united her in the Great War, which solved her difficult post-war problems and re-established her civil, industrial and financial systems, and brought about her political solidarity, the people of Canada—happy in their prosperity—join in reverent and respectful tribute to fellow Canadians who fought and died for Canada and the Empire, that future generations of Canadians might live in the full enjoyment of their great common heritage.

Today, Canada's Garden of Memories is opened to every community, every home and every heart in the Dominion, and beyond. We enter the sacred precincts of this enchanted garden, where now grow only memory plants, sheltered by walls of affection for those who gave all for us, and in giving all, have passed beyond the surging flood of battle's tide. The paths of this garden are studded with 'thought gems' garnered from the lives they lived among us; the walks are paved with the hopes of everlasting life, and its gates are opened by the key of love.

Having crossed the threshold of memories' wondrous realm, there comes to us from out the hidden vista, familiar faces and forms to greet us, and they stand before us a very living presence. All that we should not see is hidden from our eyes, leaving only cherished hope when soul shall meet soul and there shall be no more strife, nor separation.

In reverent mood we pass down the winding paths of Canada's Garden of Memories in France and Flanders, pausing here and there at places, the names of which are carved deep on the minds of three generations of Canadians. The first of these are ST. JULIEN, LANGEMARCK, YPRES, once a contentious section of 'NO MAN'S LAND.' We pluck with tender hands the 'thought flowers' which bloom here in such abundance and such fragrance that we are lulled to a sense of happy communion with the silent ones about us.

Traversing these by-paths, we pause next at ST. ELOI, HOOGE, SANCTUARY WOOD, COURCELETTE and VIMY RIDGE. There is no pain here, nor regrets, where a few short years ago were laughter, joy, bloodshed, tears; and there should be no tears now, except those of thankfulness that our cause was a righteous one worth fighting for—worth dying for. Each place a tomb for dead heroes: Such examples of sacrifice: "O death, where is thy sting, O grave, thy victory."

With something of their courage, we pass on to FRESNOY, MESSINES, HILL 70, LENS and PASSCHENDAELE; thence on to AMIENS, ARRAS, CAMBRAI (the Somme), CANAL DU NORD, DOUAI and VALENCIENNES. We marvel at the transformation for there is nothing of the noise and clamour of the years 1914-1918. Only memorials are here to mark the spot where men died; and crosses 'row on row' the silent symbols of war's sacrifice; and lastly, where all the paths converge—MONS.

Here, we stand in the midst of the last great array: It is the ARMISTICE! We look towards the four corners of the earth in sympathetic understanding of sacrifices other than our own, and turning our eyes heavenward as did many of our most brave, we thank God for His deliverance from sore tribulation. Everywhere, today, chapel bells peal out the 'immortal hour' while a vast and bowed multitude pay respectful and reverent tribute to the great army of the courageous, whose very presence is heralded in the garden by a thousand trumpets sounding the 'Last Post.' (The last call of the day, and so it was for sixty thousand Canadians who laid down their lives for humanity.)

There is nothing strange in the hushed stillness which for 'two minutes' invades loyal hearts at prayer, or in the lofty notes of the organ as it pays its tribute in the solemn strains of Harvey Gaul's Chant of Dead Heroes, or in the warmth of voices which are joined in praise. Neither is there any alarm in the first shrill note of the 'Reveille' which awakens us from our reverie to remind us that our journey through Memories' Garden is finished, and the benediction is over.

As we pass out over the threshold with firm step, not minded to linger too long, the key of love is in the lock, the gate swings gently on its hinges; and as we turn for one last look, there close up to the entrance, is a cluster of forget-me-nots. We take the key from the lock, and placing it within the innermost recesses of our hearts, we turn again to our allotted tasks in a very practical and busy world, glad of having lived again on this anniversary a brief hour with the glorious dead.

(Thus may memories sacred in our national life live forever, and war's sinister influences perish from the earth.)

THE WARDERS

On Vimy Ridge and Passchendaele
Our silent armies sleep,
Through Summer's sun and Winter's gale
And 'neath the starry deep;
No more for them the dawn of day,
Nor sunset on the hill,
Their shouts and songs have died away,
Their giant strength is still.

The march of time goes swiftly by
And brings its care and toil,
But in eternal youth they lie
Beneath a foreign soil;
With iron limbs and fire for breath
They charged amidst the gloom,
And shared along those fields of death
The comradeship of doom.

Yet not in vain they watch and wait,
Strong champions of the right,
They are the warders at our gate
And guard us through the night.
From selfish aim and paltry ease,
From slavery of the soul,
The men that save the land are these
They point us to the goal.

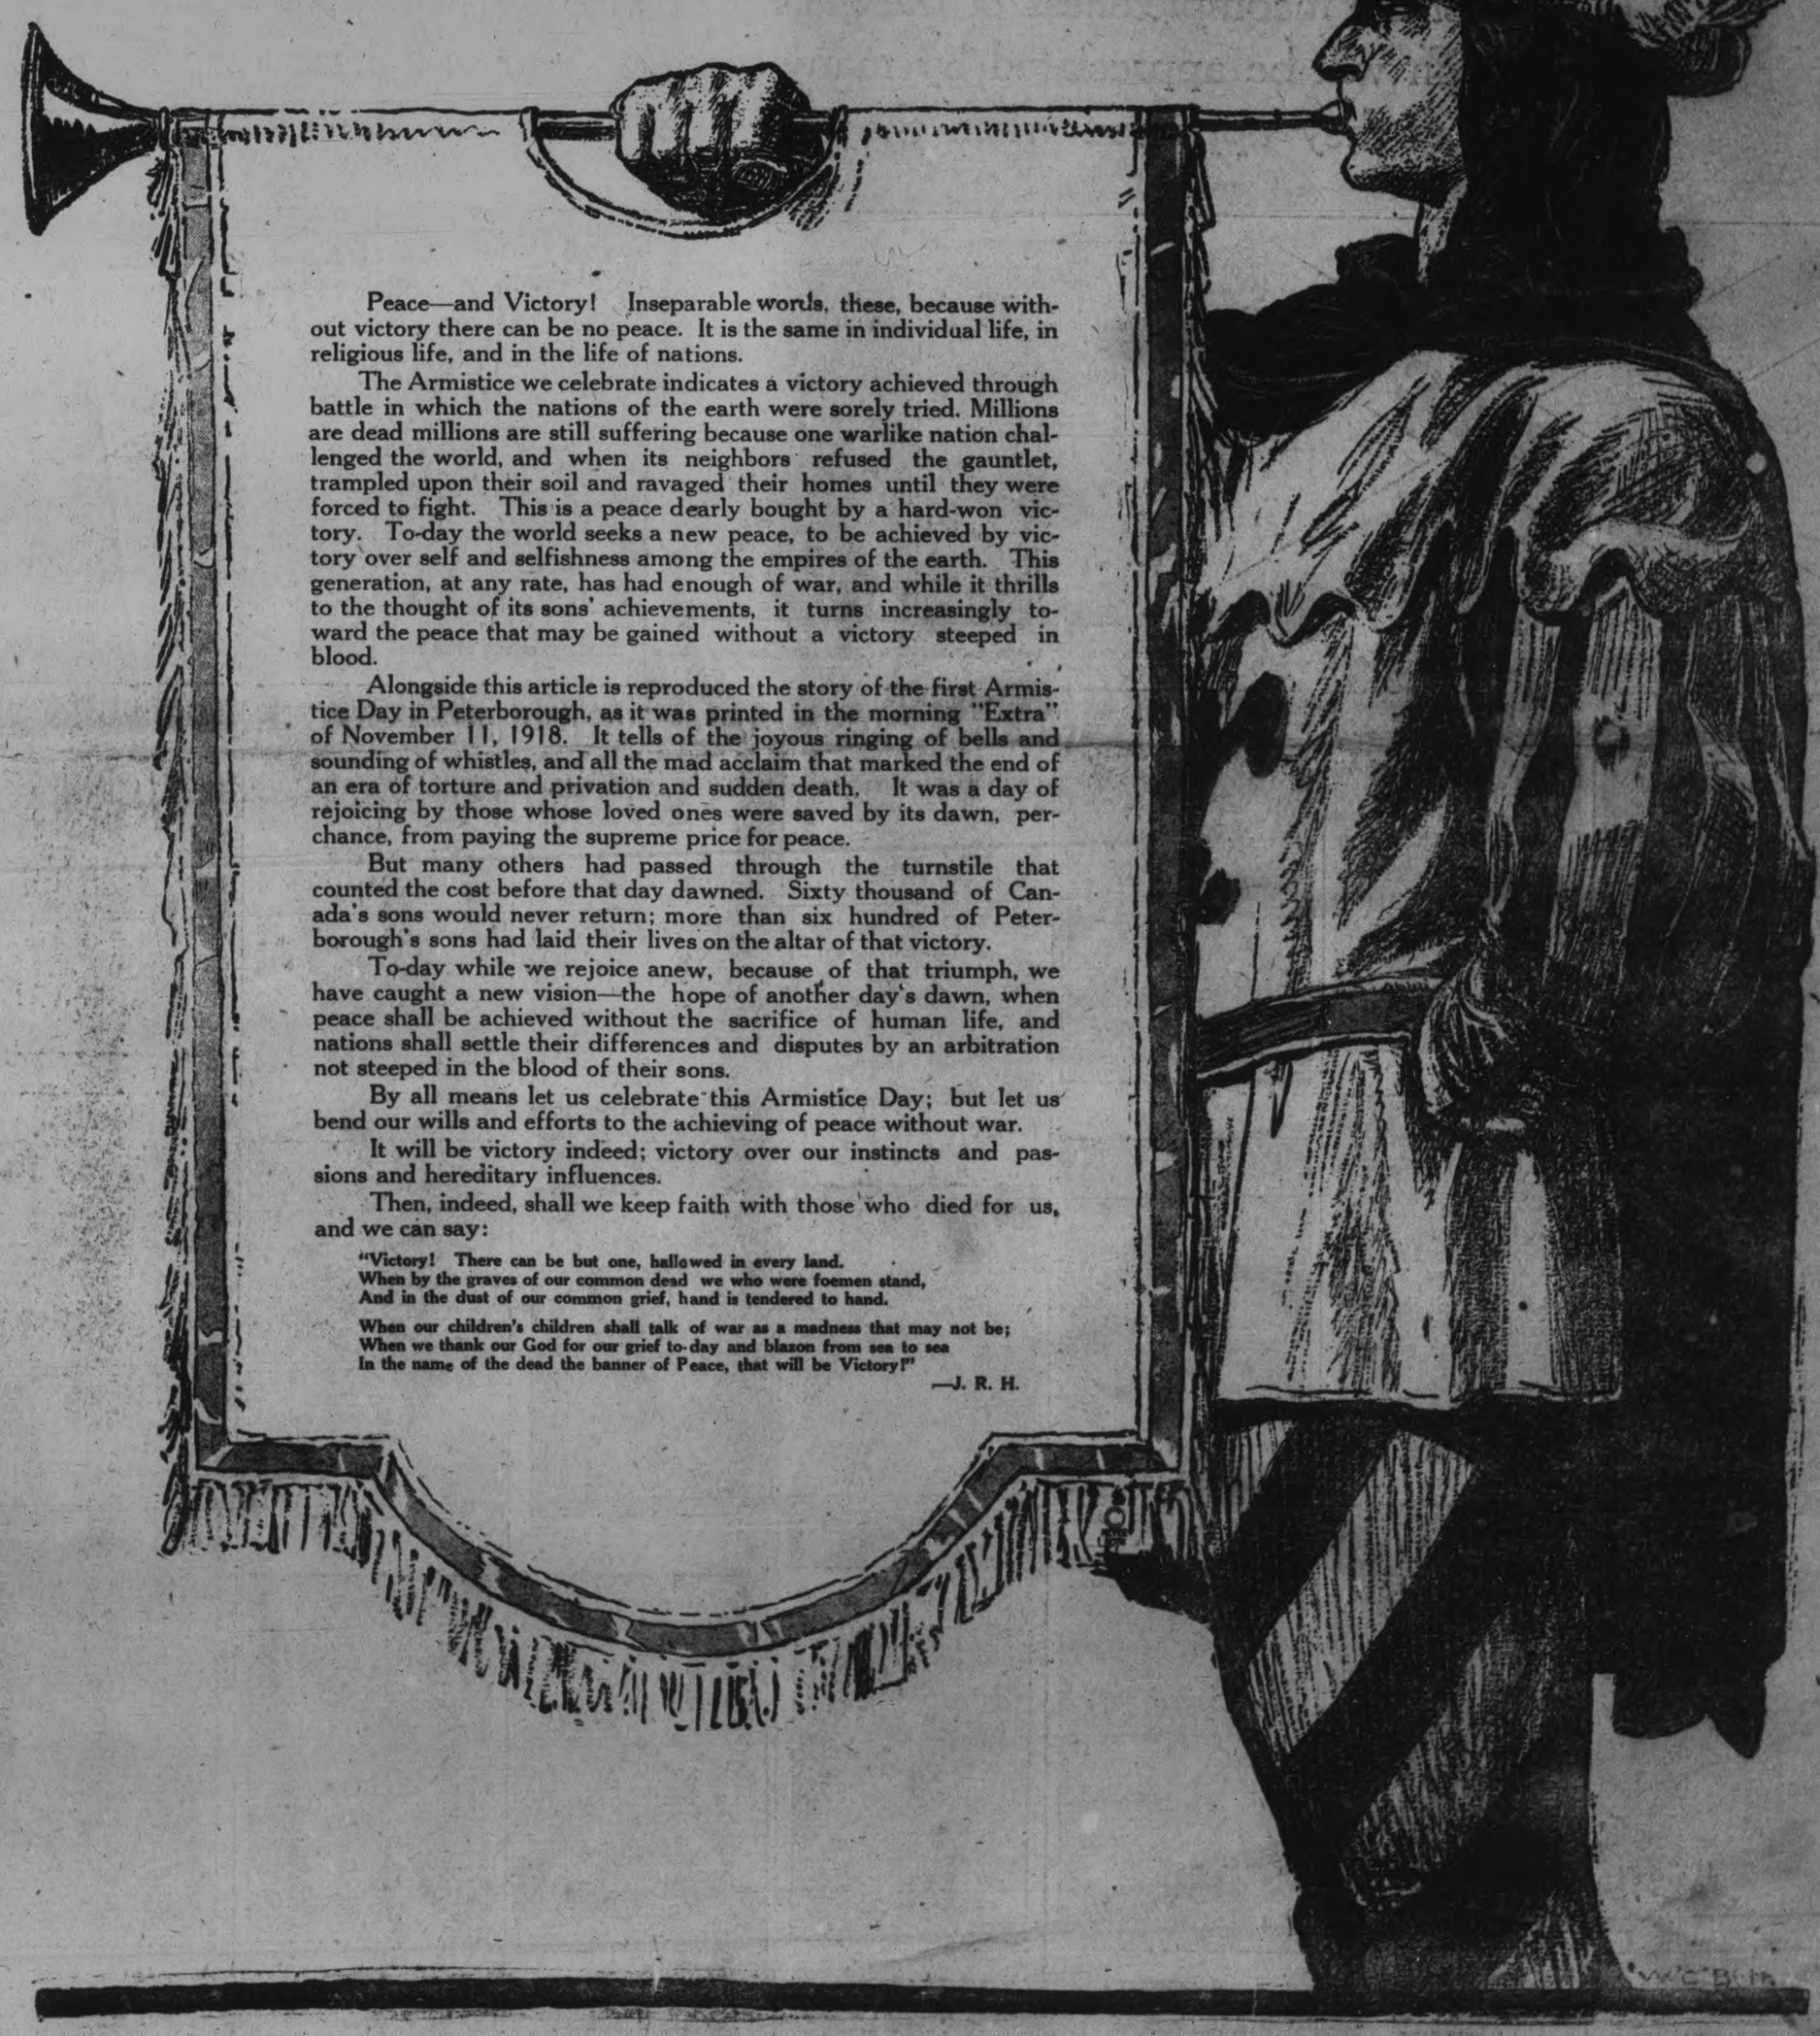
PEACE NOV. 11TH

VICTORY!



"THE DAY'S" DAWN IN PETERBORO'

How the News Reached This City at 3.20 This Morning

A UNITED PRESS "BEAT."

THE DAY for which Peterborough waited so long, so patiently and so confidently was heralded by the United Press telephone message to The Examiner at 3.20 o'clock this morning. Immediately, pre-arrangements for the publication of the glorious news were set into operation. Members of the mechanical and editorial departments were gathered by automobile and in a comparatively short time the staff was handling the detailed despatches before any other news agency was heard from. The Examiner's street bulletin announced the cessation of hostilities at four o'clock, nearly an hour before the news had reached Peterborough by any channel other than the United Press.

Police Sergeant Blade broke the news to Mr. E. G. Patterson of the C.G.E. Company, who forthwith passed on the great tidings to the light sleeping citizens by some internal arrangement by which the "Old Roarer" broke the news. Homes flashed light more than an hour before the whistle usually wakes them, but the first consciously heard note was significant of the momentous event that had been expected hourly since Friday.

The old bellower achieved a new note this morning, as it echoed the swan song of the last and most belligerent nation of the once haughty and arrogant Central Alliance. To the low rumbling tones that call the workmen to a new day six times a week was added a high-pitched exulting blast that was the keynote of the forthcoming rejoicing.

The most ardent spirits scrambled out of bed and soon issued from their homes straggling up town singly and in little groups that haled each other with hopeful cheers. Undoubtedly most persons breathed a prayer of thanksgiving when they first heard the whistled announcement, but it was admitted that the greater part of the populace are sound sleepers or upon hearing the C.G.E. whistle's glorious chortles decided that the celebration would keep until nightfall, and dropped back into the dream land the Kaiser and his vanquished war lords would have envied in their nightmare of disaster.

Toward 6 a.m., George Street began to take on something of real life. Mayor Duncan and City Clerk Armstrong had been working for an hour up to that time on the plans for the approaching day, which should be the most memorable in Peterborough's history, and at 6.30 His Worship kicked off the lid.

Bells, whistles and cheers greeted the grey morning, clamorously announcing the dawn of that greater democracy for which the world has bled and died during more than four long years.

The Fire Department's motor engine screamed through the streets between the hour of six and seven, bearing the news of the German acceptance to every home, and presently George Street began to collect the crowd that promises to celebrate the greatest carnival Peterborough has ever known and for which she has paid a heavy price.

Peace—and Victory! Inseparable words, these, because without victory there can be no peace. It is the same in individual life, in religious life, and in the life of nations.

The Armistice we celebrate indicates a victory achieved through battle in which the nations of the earth were sorely tried. Millions are dead millions are still suffering because one warlike nation challenged the world, and when its neighbors refused the gauntlet, trampled upon their soil and ravaged their homes until they were forced to fight. This is a peace dearly bought by a hard-won victory. To-day the world seeks a new peace, to be achieved by victory over self and selfishness among the empires of the earth. This generation, at any rate, has had enough of war, and while it thrills to the thought of its sons' achievements, it turns increasingly toward the peace that may be gained without a victory steeped in blood.

Alongside this article is reproduced the story of the first Armistice Day in Peterborough, as it was printed in the morning "Extra" of November 11, 1918. It tells of the joyous ringing of bells and sounding of whistles, and all the mad acclaim that marked the end of an era of torture and privation and sudden death. It was a day of rejoicing by those whose loved ones were saved by its dawn, perchance, from paying the supreme price for peace.

But many others had passed through the turnstile that counted the cost before that day dawned. Sixty thousand of Canada's sons would never return; more than six hundred of Peterborough's sons had laid their lives on the altar of that victory.

To-day while we rejoice anew, because of that triumph, we have caught a new vision—the hope of another day's dawn, when peace shall be achieved without the sacrifice of human life, and nations shall settle their differences and disputes by an arbitration not steeped in the blood of their sons.

By all means let us celebrate this Armistice Day; but let us bend our wills and efforts to the achieving of peace without war.

It will be victory indeed; victory over our instincts and passions and hereditary influences.

Then, indeed, shall we keep faith with those who died for us, and we can say:

"Victory! There can be but one, hallowed in every land.
When by the graves of our common dead we who were foemen stand,
And in the dust of our common grief, hand is tendered to hand.

When our children's children shall talk of war as a madness that may not be;
When we thank our God for our grief to-day and blazon from sea to sea
In the name of the dead the banner of Peace, that will be Victory!"

Peterborough District Men Who Served Overseas

THIS Section presents six hundred and seventy-one pictures of Peterborough District Men who fought in the Great War, all that are left of the war time engravings. The pictures are, in many cases, irreplaceable. Hundreds more men from this district served in France and Flanders and on the sea, but unfortunately their engravings are no longer in the Examiner's possession.

In spite of the incompleteness of the gallery of pictures, The Examiner feels that the section will be appreciated by many readers who will here recognize some soldiers as they appeared when they marched away on the Great Adventure.

The Spiritual Significance of Armistice Day

(By Rev. H. B. Herrington, United Church, Warsaw.)

There are some things Armistice Day brings to mind for which we have cause to be thankful. For one thing, the Fighting Spirit has not died out of the race. We have not yet become apathetic and willing to stand by indifferent when we believe an injustice is being done. Again, Love of Country is still strong in us. Materialism has not so gotten us in its grip but what men are willing, on occasion, to turn aside from their money-making to make sacrifices, even to die, for their country. Men still believe that such spiritual things as liberty, righteousness, and justice are of supreme value.

We might turn this day to spiritual ends by, on this occasion, urging upon the people of our country to take into their daily lives that spirit of self-sacrifice which our boys manifested 1914 to 1918. If we really love our country we ought to be willing to live for it as well as die for it. Why cannot a man manifest the spirit of self-sacrifice in his business as well as on the battle field?

Then, too, Armistice Day might be used as a great occasion on which to work toward the sublimation of this fighting instinct within us,—make it sublime. Turn it loose, not against men, but against evil. If men would only get mad, fighting mad, against the evils that lie at their door! If nations but turned the fighting instinct of men against that inordinate lust for conquest, that greed of gain, those racial prejudices, within their own borders, they would have little occasion to fight against each other.

If the thoughts of our people are directed along such lines on Armistice Day, then it will have a real Spiritual Significance.

(By Rev. Wm. McDonald, B.A., Knox United Church, Peterborough.)

Armistice Day will ever mark the meeting place of Sacrifice and Victory. It must be kept always as a Memorial; a National Sacrament. Every Cenotaph and Monument, every Tablet and dedicated Banner should be a shrine to which survivors of the First Armistice Day must return to renew their tribute to the memory of those who saw not the victorious climax of their sacrifice. Here, too, the younger generation should be taught to understand the price of Liberty and the value of that heroic spirit which flames forth when any foe threatens our national heritage. By such remembrance will we truly learn to value peace with all men at any price save that of liberty and honor.

As in our Christian faith the Sacramental value of remembering Calvary and rejoicing in an Empty Tomb, has kept alive the Redemptive Triumph of the Lord of Life, so we can make of this Commemoration a true Sacrament. We can perpetuate the spirit of heroic manhood in the temper of each succeeding geenration until that time comes when, "The war-drum throbs no longer, and the battle-flags are furled, in the parliament of man, the Federation of the world."

(By Rev. G. W. Rivers, B.A., B.D., Trinity United Church, Madoc)

As we approach Armistice Day, Sunday, November 11, we find that the hearts and hopes of men are being quickened as to the possibility of realizing the goal of a peaceful world before another international crisis. Recent international events have helped to dispel the obession that war is inevitable.

The Christian Church used to bless war, and fill its temples and cathedrals with memorials of great soldiers, but now we have a religion whose worshippers take as a part of their creed: "I believe that war is Sin, and that the State which uses it as an instrument of policy may not claim the blessing of the Church."

On this Armistice Day communities as such will assemble for a public celebration of the dead, in rejoicing for the manifest progress of peace, and in self-dedication to the full consummation of the great hope. We look forward to a time when the Prince of Peace will rule throughout the world, and when the great principles of Brotherhood and Love shall be the guiding principles of the nations. And for this reason we rejoice in the wonderful forward step signified by the Pact of Paris.

Shall we not all make this tenth celebration of Armistice Day a day of Remembrance, Thanksgiving and Loyalty, but also a day of Consecration to the ideals of peace?

(By Rev. Donald A. McKenzie, Burnbrae:)

The spirit of Cain who killed his brother is abroad in the world. It is the spirit which evokes jealousy, suspicion, hatred, murder and war. It is the spirit which alienates man from man, sows the seeds of discord and emnity, keeps nations armed and makes potential war, and propagates the baneful falsehood of conflicting interests between man and man, class and class, nation and nation.

The apostle James, chapter 4, verse 1, says: "From whence come wars and fightings among you? Come they not hence even if your lust that war in your members?" That Cain spirit is the root cause of war.

What is needed?

1. The spirit of Christ, which is the spirit of love, goodwill, brotherhood and peace, must supplant the spirit of Cain.

2. There must be a radical moral and spiritual change, a change of heart, spirit and will that works for righteousness, justice and freedom.

3. The defeat of war must be through the education and development of a Christian public opinion against war, as being a satanic, useless and barbarous method of settling international disputes.

4. The church, school and press are under a moral obligation to create a spirit of goodwill and peace among all nations and impress upon them that love is better than hatred, and peace better than war, and that the Golden Rule should be observed and overcome evil with good.

That is the Christian way to universal brotherhood, goodwill and peace.

In this way we abolish war by releasing the moral qualities and spiritual character. Then we bring ourselves to believe that the right way to settle international disputes is the peaceful, righteous and just way instead of the old way of war, then that faith and spirit will spread to others and upon the spread of which depends the cessation of war.

(By Rev. James Ross, Presbyterian Church, Lakefield.)

The near approach of November 11 brings to us all two messages. First, an expression of thanksgiving to Almighty God in commemoration of the close of the Great War, and for the growing conviction among nations, and of the better class of men and women that war should be abolished, and can be abolished; that the world may see the dawning of the day when Isaiah's picture or painting shall be revealed to us. (See Isaiah 2-4).

A second message coming from Nov. 11 to us is a memorial of the heroism and sacrifice of those who gave their lives, their all for their country.

And in looking on this memorial of lives so heroically given, there may be born into the heart of this generation, a happier spirit of democracy and brotherly service which will enable us to keep faith with our fallen or falling heroes, and yet look forward to the dawn of a brighter day. There are heroes and heroines in this world still.

Look at the man exposing his life in the most hazardous undertaking for the world's good. Look at the men engaged in the most dangerous work to make like more enjoyable to the rest of us.

Look at the daughter giving up her natural ambitions to care for an aged or an invalid father or mother.

Look at the widow earning by hard toil a living for her family and sending them forth to the world to do their share in its work.

These are instances which could be multiplied a hundredfold, and all such deserve our respect, our love, and our devotion as surely as did the men who gave their all in time of war.

(By Rev. L. M. Smith, Baptist Church, Campbellford)

In thinking of the significance of Armistice Day it is well to remember that the term does not suggest something which is assured, but, as the dictionary define the word, "a temporary cessation of hostilities agreed upon by opposing forces." That, perhaps, describes the situation which the world faces to-day.

The significance of Armistice Day, therefore, is the significance of a call to complete an unfinished task. It is our duty to hold high the torch which has been thrown to us from "failing hands"; to lead men, by education and example, to think and act rightly.

But how may this be accomplished? How may peace be made permanent? We believe that it will be possible only when the principles of Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace, become regnant in the hearts and lives of men.

He leads men by putting His Spirit and ideas into their minds. He never employs force: He founded an empire in love. There is no compulsion in love. The way to get people to do right is to get them to thinking right. It is impossible for men to think war and live at peace with each other.

If there is to be peace among the nations, the nations must think peace. A new spirit must dominate the heart of the world, the Spirit of Christ, Who is first the King of Righteousness, and, after that, the King of Peace.

Let us, then, accept the challenge of Armistice Day, and give ourselves anew to the task of establishing peace on earth and good will among men.

(By Rev. Mr. Elkaner, Baptist Church Warsaw.)

Armistice Day is a day that stirs within us a great many emotions. Above these all the note of thankfulness rises up as the most dominant one among the many profound thoughts that stir us. Thankful first, for the cessation of bloodshed and carnage. Thankful, too, that victory was obtained and a measure of safety was secured so that former treaties could not be violated without dire consequences. Then thankful also, that some of those who were engaged in this great conflict would return again to take up their regular vocations in life.

Our hearts would be stirred further for those who did not come back and the enormous sacrifices they had made in order to secure peace and prosperity.

These sacrifices should give us a new valuation of life and an appreciation that such sacrifices were not made in vain. Armistice Day ought to be an incentive to live not merely for our comforts, but for the welfare of others. We must further fight, although "not against flesh and blood" but against those forces of sin and evil which destroy the peace and prosperity of the human race. We must deal resolutely with everything that makes life sordid and unwholesome. Let us remember that "Righteousness alone exalts the nation, but that sin is a reproach to any people."

Let us make sure that we are in the place where we can ask God's blessing upon all our undertakings, so that we may know Him whom to know is life eternal.

Let Armistice Day remind us that we also have a part to play in life and that we must face our responsibilities towards God and our fellowmen. May we view life in its right perspective, so that we will put first things first. For to those "Who seek first the Kingdom of God all other things will be added."

"..THE TORCH..BE YOURS TO HOLD IT HIGH.
IF YE BREAK FAITH WITH US WHO DIE
WE SHALL NOT SLEEP, THOUGH POPPIES GROW
IN FLANDERS FIELDS."
—Col. John C. McRae.

Contributed by the Ministers of Peterborough District

(By Rev. W. R. Archer, Havelock United Church.)

On Decoration Day and often on other days men and women visit the graves of their loved ones. On November 11 each year, just before the hour of eleven all loyal Canadians travel by the airplane of imagination which can make the trip in a fraction of a second to Flanders Field, "where poppies grow" and where there are crosses "row on row." There they stand, heads bared, silently, reverently beside the graves of those they knew. A message is heard by all, the words of Dr. McCrae: "To you from failing hands we throw the torch; If you break faith with us who fell we shall not sleep though poppies grow in Flanders' Fields."

Hence the Spiritual Significance stands out clearly against a background of crosses, row on row. It is redemption. We are redeemed. 'Tis true by Calvary's Sacrifice but also let that scripture, 1 Peter 1, verse 18, tell us also of their sacrifice. "We are redeemed not by corruptible things such as silver and gold by by precious blood." They volunteered, they lived through months of war for us. They, thousands upon thousands, died for us. They gave their lvies, their all for God and Righteousness and humanity that we might have our life and liberty.

The Spiritual Significance of Armistice Day, then, for us focuses in one question: "What manner of men ought we to be redeemed at such a cost, bought at such a price?"

(By Rev. F. L. Carpenter, United Church, Cavan.)

"Cast thy bread upo nthe waters, for thou shall find it after many day." does not seem to convey much to the Western mind; it looks like the maddest of mad acts. A dweller in the Far East would understand, for it is the method of sowing rice in the Nile River at flood time, after months of weary waiting comes its harvest.

It is a universal law, with a far-reaching principle, that war through the whole universe both natural and spiritual. It is a challenge. So many people to-day think life is "Vanity and Vexation of Spirit." Not so, it is a venture of faith, for if we want to live we must take the risk of death. That is the method of perpetuating life. This principle is no less true in patriotism and natural life. We bow our heads in thanksgiving when we think of the reckless giving of life during its years of the Great War, "The Great Adventure," and we thank God for those who held not their lives dear unto themselves.

Armistice Day is the reward for the Venture: A League of Nations for the outlawing of war. A better understanding among nations. A wider outlook and revelation of a mighty truth, that nation can only live as they are willing to live unselfishly. And that we dwell in a world where God is demanding of us more and more the spirit of Peace to men of good will, and then overcoming the barrier between nations.

Deeds may be lost to sight, but are never lost.

(By Rev. W. W. Jones, B.A., B.D., United Church, Millbrook.)

November 11 has already assumed world-wide significance; its need and and value call forth all that poetry, imagination, faith, and hope may ask of us in a time of Peace, when all good men are seeking the moral equivalents of war.

To the discerning this day liberates all that is within us of grateful memory for those whose graves are scarcely yet green; who died for us, our homes, and our fair land; and for those still with us—the broken and maimed who rushed from their books, their tools, and their games to oppose the terrible foe advancing upon us, as Nature in convulsion, in earthquake, and in flood.

The soul of the world is again heard in the prayer: "In remembrance of those who made the great sacrifice, O God, make us better men and women, and give peace in our time."

The gains of the war are negative and positive. Armistice Day celebrates no great allied victory, but the Day of Peace. War itself has been dethroned, its glamor, and halo of romance are gone. The war department of our government was the most heavily subsidized of any; in our songs, and even in our hymns, we glorified war. Now from the heart and conscience of the world comes the universal cry for reasonable and peaceful methods of adjusting our difficulties until, as between the United States and Canada, there shall be in reality between all nations of the world, a "Bridge of Peace."

In materialistic Europe the gold dollar is no longer the unit of value, and the basis of calculation, but the individual man.

The ideal of a false nationalism has tottered to its fall; the iron hand of autocracy has been removed from the place of government to make room for the sceptre of the people's will, in many countries. Christianity also has been in the crucible; institutional religion, and denominational forms, have seriously lost caste; and this is all to the good, and the conviction deepens that religion is life—life at peace with God and man, before it was even doctrinal.

Ideals of tyranny are changing to ideals of service, and as the root cause of the war was fear, the foundation of peace must be trust, love, and goodwill among the nations.

Ruling ideals of peace, righteousness co-operation are the prophecy of the speedy coming of that new era wherein the moral and spiritual will be supreme.

There are those to whom Armistice Day will have no significance; men who have memories of an unworthy part played in the war, or such as choose to forget the necessary part that pain plays in weaving permanent values into our lives. These are glad to forget the day's real meaning and to make it only another holiday.

The most of us feel, however, that there is in such an occasion a meaning deeper than words can easily express. There is more than holding green in memory the sacrifice of the "unreturning ones," though that is infinitely worth while. In some dim fashion we feel that into the making of the land we love has gone much that is beyond our power to value, the death of heroes, the tears of widows, and many an unnamed sacrifice. Before so great a sacrifice we stand with uncovered heads.

As in our Christian religion we enter into redemption through pain that Another bore, so in Patriotism we come into possession of unseen spiritual wealth, the very marrow of the nation, through the men who poured out their lives on the altar of their country.

Thus Armistice Day is a call to remembrance. If we would be worthy of the land that bore us we dare not be insensible of those noble sacrifices, but must carry the memory with us even while the years drive us farther and farther from the days of the war.

(By Rev. Joseph Wilks, Methodist Episcopal Church, now in Millbrook.)

The suggestion "that at 11 a.m. on Armistice Day, November 11, all citizens of the British Empire cease from their usual activities, and spend two minutes in silent prayer to God," if seriously observed, cannot but have an influence for good on the spiritual life of the individual, and of the community.

God is a Spirit, and prayer brings man into the conscious presence of His Maker, who has promised to answer prayer in the forgiveness of sins, and to grant a peace that passeth all understanding to the soul in trouble.

Possessing this peace, man puts away all the things that do not harmonize with the spiritual life, because he is spiritually minded, and thinks on the things that are pure and good, just and true.

Living in peace with God, man will strive to live in peace with his neighbor. He will think thoughts of peace and not of war; of goodwill, and not of hate.

The world wants peace; national leaders are conferring to secure it; progress has been made, but a lasting and universal peace on earth can only be assured by the recognition of the Fatherhood of God, and the supremacy of Jesus in the thoughts of men, together with the practice of the Golden Rule in national and international life.

(By Rev. Dr. E. C. Blagrave, St. John's Anglican Church, Peterborough.)

The outstanding event which took place ten years ago announced to the world the sovereignty of righteousness. We thought then and we think yet, that we were fighting for a just and righteous cause. Had the issue gone the other way, it would have meant nothing less than the military dominance of the world in the hands of one great nation. That would have meant subjugation of the rest of the world to a political tyranny, probably fashioned somewhat after the model of the Roman Empire, and the complete loss of political freedom. It would have proclaimed to the world the perverse principle that "might was right." As it is the righteouness for which the nations fought was vindicated, that the order of the universe is rooted in righteousness, and so far shares the quality of the creative mind of God.

But it was not done without sacrifice. Freedom, righteousness and justice are human ends and qualities and obtain only among peoples in their relations with one another. They can only be maintained when people esteem them of high value. There is no guarantee that what is right and just will be maintained among people unless it is so valued as to be worth fighting for. When it is worth fighting for it must be at the cost of sacrifice.

The world in the war paid a high human price to maintain righteousness and freedom. The end was attained only through sacrifice. Nor can we uphold in times of peace the high ends of civilization which are the same as the Divine purpose of Creation, unless at the cost of sacrifice. That is the significance of the Cross of Christ. It is the sacrificial cost of truth shown to us by God Himself. It exalts what is righteous and just and true above every other consideration, even to the surrender of life itself.

Thus every christian is called to share the glory of the cross which is the Spiritual Significance of Armistice and the combination of the Incarnation.

During the last years the world has wakened up to the folly of war. But as far as we are concerned we would do the same again under the same circumstances, and would be equally justified. The aim of the world must be to make these circumstances impossible. The price is not so high before as after. It consists in the exercise of wisdom, self restraint and forbearance, all of which are Christian virtues. The nations of the world must support the League of Nations, the spirit of Locarno and the Kellogg pact to make war a crime against civilization. We must form a new conception of the true meaning of patriotism; cultivate international friendships that will remove suspicion and distrust, and establish a faith that the Almighty has not designed war as the means by which His people should settle their differences. "Christianity, a full Christianity, which harbors no hatred or jealouy but longs for the welfare of all nations and peoples, is the only salvation for our troubles."

The Spiritual Significance of Armistice Day

(By Rev. J. B. McCormack, Baptist Church, Lakefield.)

There are days in the lives of individuals and nations which demand careful and prayerful consideration, because of the relationship they bear toward the welfare of all.

One such day is Armistice Day. While it is a right and proper thing for men to celebrate this eventful day, let us keep in mind:

1.—Its relationship to the past. The sorrow, the sufferings, the misery, the pain, the victory, the brave lads who fell, the brave lads who came back, many broken in health and many maimed for life.

"Yes, let us not forget the past."

2.—Its relationship to the present. National peace, the price paid, the widow, the orphans, the wounds of the nations healing up.

As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also unto them.

3.—The nations' relationship and responsibility to God.

One of thankfulness.

As a people and nation we cried unto the Lord. He heard. He delivered us.

Let us pay our vows in sincerity and truth, and discharge all our duties to man and nation as unto the Lord.

Remembering One who made peace through the Blood of His Cross.

(By Rev. D. A. Thomson, Presbyterian Church, Hastings.)

Ten years ago on the 11th day, of the 11th month, at the 11th hour, the words of command were given which thrilled the world with joy. They were "Cease fire." Then the Armistice was declared; the greatest war in history came to an end; and a new day was born, named Armistice Day. 8he spiritual significance of that day is still evident. Ever sirice that day the nations of the earth have been laboring to make "Cease fire" a permanent command. To make the last Great War a war to end all war. If this can be accomplished it will give comfort to all hearts to feel that our boys did not fight and fall in vain. The trend in this direction is seen in the noble efforts of the League of Nations to settle the quarrels of nations by arbitration; to foster disarmament; and in the ready response of the great powers to sign the treaty of Secretary Kellogg to "outlaw all war."

We all desire and pray, as Armistice Day comes round, that wars may cease unto the ends of the earth; that God may hasten the realization of the prophet's vision: "They shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift the sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

May such a desire grow stronger, and stronger—

"Till the war drums throb no longer,
And the battle flags are furled,
In the Parliament of Man—
The Federation of the World."

(By Rev. W. S. Edgar, Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church.)

As long as I live I will never forget the thrill of irrepressible enthusiasm and joy that passed over the Old Land when the news reached it, that the Armistice was signed; the people were simple beside themselves with gladness. It meant that reason had once more ascended the throne from which she had been so ruthlessly torn at the beginning of the war. It meant that military power, and senseless slaughter had to give place to intelligence and commonsense.

The spirit of Armistice is the spirit of optimism; it looks forward hopefully towards the day when war will be completely abolished from among men; when reason and arbitration shall take the place of the sword in the settling of international disputes.

May be remember that armistice means only a temporary peace and that this has to be translated into a permanent and lasting peace.

"When the nations shall beat their swords into ploughshares,
Their spears into pruning hooks,
When they shall learn the art of war no more."
"Till the war drums throb no longer,
And the battle flags are furled,

(By Rev. A. B. Caldwell, St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora.)

When the Armistice was signed on November 11th, 1918, it gave rise to a demonstration of joy in all civilized countries which will never be forgotten. It came after a long, bitter, and severe struggle, involving the loss of millions of men. How natural it was and is that the hopes and desires of all should cry out for peace: a peace which could not come to this war-stricken world until man learned to give freely of his time and means and was in earnest about securing it. The yearly remembrance of the events of that day keeps ever fresh in our minds the thoughts of those years of terrific struggle for mastery in this world and what it cost the nations involved. As we prayed in those days for God's guidance, so we pray to-day, that God will direct aright our thoughts and minds that we will never forget the great lessons of those days and that there will always be peace among nations.

(By Father J. O'Sullivan, Roman Catholic Church, Wooler.)

Having celebrated the great feast of Christ our King, we are, at once, brought face to face with the great Spiritual Significance of an Armistice Day. Because on the great day of the coming of the Prince of Peace, the angels swooped down from heaven, lit up the plains, and sang "Glory to God in the highest and peace on earth to men of good will." If men had been of good will, France, Germany, United States, Canada and all the other nations, would not have forgotten that this Prince of Peace, heralded by angels said, "Not by bread alone doth man live, but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God." No not by commerce, trade, dollars and cents doth man live but by the complete and adequate obedience to the Word made flesh. When the great General Foch commanded "Cease fire," the soldiers laid down their arms, returned to their homes; war was over; and when the world, personally and nationally, obeys the command of the Master of all generals, "Follow Me," then Armistice Day will have a real and solid significance.

(By Rev. T. G. Marshall, St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc — Mr. Marshall was a member of he Canadian Machine Gun Corps in France.)

November the 11th will not fail to take us back in memory to that great day in 1918 when the signing of the Armistice ended the days of battle of the Great War. It was a day of great joy; but even in the midst of our joy there was sadness as we thought of those who laid down their lives in sacrifice for home, country and civilization.

Ten years have passed since that memorable day in 1918, and we are now better able to judge of war and its results. If terrible was the conflict then only a little less terrible has been its aftermath.

Mankind is tired of continuous strife. There is a heart-felt yearning for that state of brotherhood, when nation shall no longer rise up against nation and when the blood of brothers shall no longer stain the earth.

Armistice Day will have a true spiritual significance if Christian men and women will on it resolve to work to win all nations and peoples away from selfish pride and love of gain to an unselfish concern for others. When this spirit of the Good Samaritan becomes a part of people's lives, then Armistice Day will not only mean the termination of the Great War but the end of all war for all time.

(By Rev. David Wren, M.A., B.D., Trinity United Church, Peterboro.)

Eleven swift years have gone since that eventful morning which now belongs to history, when it was flashed around the world a great world war had ceased. As we approach another anniversary of Armistice Day, we pause and contemplate upon its full meaning and ask ourselves what is the spiritual significance of that day. To perpetuate it in remembrance of the cessation of a great world struggle is surely not all that can be said in reference to it. In one of the inspiring passages of Scripture an old warrior has written to his brother: "If we suffer we shall also reign!" Life is God's university—happiness is the graduating point, but suffering and adversity—are his chosen teachers. The world was built for joy and peace, and we can only come to our full estate through the tutelage of suffering and conflict. Even the great Teacher who brought to the world glad tidings of great joy, is exhibited as passing through the uttermost of pain upwards to the uppermost of pleasure and the world's throne. If humanity washes its eyes in tears and makes its garments white with blood, then it is promised the throne and the sceptre of a higher and nobler manhood. Eleven years after the close of that great struggle, when a distrangled world had passed through its Gethsemane, we may well pause to ask, "How far are we from our throne?"

The world has crossed a new international date line. We have discovered that Christianity has not failed in the earth, but rather the distortions and substitutions which failed to ensure a peaceful and secure world order—the cross materialistic philosophy of life, a rampant and agressive autocracy with an immoral theory of the state as above law, a pagan trust in power, and the elevation of power as the supreme good with the denial of the claims of human brotherhood. The spiritual significance of this Armistice Day is that the world has now its chance to bring about the dream of the Master, "Peace on earth among men of goodwill."

As Christian people, we may well be thankful that this tenth anniversary of Armistice Day falls on Sunday, the day when our thoughts are especially directed to spiritual things.

As we gather in our Father's house, let us remember with gratitude at the throne of grace those who cheerfully laid down their lives in the great struggle to defend the rignt and to defeat tyranny and oppression.

With shame let us also confess how very slow we have been to maintain and uphold with our lives that for which they died. We have not proven ourselves worthy of the great sacrifice which they made of themselves for us. We have gone on in our old selfish way, forgetting our duty and privilege to live as our Master lived—for the good of others.

Let us now dedicate ourselves to the great task of seeking to promote peace and goodwill among men. Let us not speak as many are doing, as if another and a greater war would naturally follow in due time. There need be no more war! There must be none!

Let us pray for a stronger sense of justice, and a true regard for the equal worth of other peoples and races. Let us have faith in the possibility of peace through justice, and a great enthusiasm for the cause of peace.

"Oh, haste the day! when all nations say,
'Let war and its horrors cease,'
When every land stands hand in hand
For universal peace."

"..THE TORCH..BE YOURS TO HOLD IT HIGH.
IF YE BREAK FAITH WITH US WHO DIE
WE SHALL NOT SLEEP, THOUGH POPPIES GROW
IN FLANDERS FIELDS."

On the 11th day of November, ten years will have passed into history since the Armistice was signed, bringing to a close the greatest struggle in the history of mankind. During this period we have had ample time and opportunity to study the conflict in its many aspects and take to our hearts its meaning and its significance. In this connection there are two observations which I would like to make.

1st: War could not exist unless certain other conditions existed, namely, hate, prejudice, suspicion and ignorance, and the last-named is the root of most of our troubles. Can anyone doubt that if love and sympathetic understanding of each other's viewpoint had prevailed in the councils of Europe for the few weeks prior to the fatal 14th of August, 1914, the catastrophe would have been averted? These sinister motives long since had been allowed to dominate the thinking of the war lords and war was the logical end. War is hate in action. The saying, "War settles nothing," is quite true, since it fails utterly to remove its cause or causes.

2nd: If then we would have a world in which war will be impossible, we must pray and work for a new order. Our Blessed Lord pointed out the way. "But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you. We must learn in private and in public life that love is mightier than hate. We must overcome prejudice with sympathy. We are to meet suspicion with kindness and where ignorance has grown we must plant the seeds of knowledge.

Deeply and indelibly written upon the heart of this generation, are the impressions of that bright November morning, just a decade ago, when bells, whistles and cannon announced the return of peace to a war-weary world. And truly, it seemed that heaven had thrown open her doors and windows, in order to share her joy with men. Is it then possible to witness the return of this memorable day and feel no touch of Divine influence, and no deep thrill of veneration and gratitude to God?

As Moses stood beside the Burning Bush he saw something bigger than a blazing tree. He was deeply impresesd with the power and glory of God, and the removal of his shoes was only the visible expression of his soul, kindled with love and devotion to the Almighty.

Even so, as we stand before the cold facts of Armistice Day, we are reading deeper lines than those written by the iron pen of War and Patriotism; we are looking upon letters of fire that stir the soul to its depths.

The laying of the wreath upon the cenotaphs is only the outer expression of this full heart as it recalls the heroic service of our men, the sacrifice made upon the battlefields of the world and the joy that came with peace, but this gratitude and illumination of the soul is fraught with mighty spiritual values.

(By Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly, of St. Aiden's Church, Young's Point.)

Ten years have passed since that day, never to be forgotten, when the gloom and sorrow which four previous years had spread, was momentarily forgotten in a healthy celebration of the fact that peace had been declared.

The Spiritual Significance of the cessation of hostilities is suggested in the word "Peace."

Have we any more Peace now than there existed in 1918?

The cynics sneer, and the skeptics scoff, but there is little question but that though we have not attained the ideal peace, mankind is on the way to attaining it. We must not forget the Locarno Treaty or the Kellogg Pact.

The movement for peace, started in 1918, is gaining momentum and we look forward with confidence and hope to the realization of Perfect Peace; that peace which ensures unity among men of different nationality, language, race, religion, and color; that peace for which Our Lord and Master came into this world, and gave His life to attain.

(By Rev. E. F. Swayne, Fraserville.)

If there are sorrows that lie too deep for tears, there is a thankfulness all too deep for words. Only God may know the deep thankfulness in men's hearts when Armistice Day ended the World War. Its annual observance has, therefore, very fittingly been linked with our national Thanksgiving Day.

To harmonize the memories of our sacrifices with Thanksgiving, we need remember that the highest quality of thankfulness is not removed from sacrifice. The word of Jehovah, to those who gave thanks formally was, "Render the sacrifice of thanksgiving." The Pilgrim Fathers were smitten by disease that reduced half their number; their harvest failed; yet they appointed a day and gave thanks.

Any trial, any victory over difficulties, any experience that fits us for better living, is cause of thankfulness. It is the good soldier that endures hardness; the hero, who has conquered; the friend, tested by adversity. It was the Man of Sorrows and acquainted with grief from whom our salvation came.

Let us thank God for the ministry of sacrifice.

This year's Armistice celebration has special encouragement for the multitudes of people who desire the day of universal peace. It may turn out that the last war was indeed "a war to end war." Every war has been followed by a peace movement. But with the lapse of time, the will to peace gradually weakened. The oncoming generation yielded to the military appeal, and war followed war. During the past ten years, however, former tendencies have been reversed, and peace sentiment throughout the world is more hopeful and determined than ever before.

Call to witness that on the twenty-seventh day of August last, the plenipotentiaries of fifteen different nations set their signatures to a solemn covenant renouncing war, since which late forty other governments have officially expressed concurrence in the pact, and mirabile dictu, Germany's name stands first Of course there are doubters, but this is what they have written, signed, sealed and published:

"The high contracting parties solemnly declare in the names of their respective peoples that they condemn recource to war for the solution of international controversies, and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another.

"The high contracting parties agree that the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or of whatever origin they may be, which may arise among them, shall never be sought except by pacific means."

So it is written, and surely the world has learned that "a scrap of paper" is a sacred thing.

(By Rev. M. R. Brown, Roseneath.)

The Spiritual Significance of Armistice Day may be expressed very simply.

It means that Christ is going to have His way. I like Robert Keable's rendition of the Lord's Prayer in the Great Galilean, "Thy Kingdom is coming, Thy will is done on earth as it is in heaven."

To quote Dr. Fordick in his League of Nations sermon, "We must contend that mankind's most real conflict is not between this nation and that, but between forward-looking, progressive Christ-like citizens of all nations who have caught a vision of all hunmanity organised for peace, and those who are backward-looking, unforgiving, militaristic people of the same nations."

So we see that the deepest lines of conflict do not run vertically between nations but horizontally through all of them, whom Christ, who leads us to warfare against sin, is not essentially respected and taken seriously.

Surely the Yule-tide bell could ring for us next Sunday at 11 a.m., and all through the pear, proclaiming

Peace on earth,
Good will among all men.

Armistice Day has become a national institution of great spiritual significance on both sides of the Atlantic. From the memories embodied in its observance we have learned to discard the old ingrained ideas concerning war. We have at last thrown aside the iniquitous belief that "War is a biological necessity." We have come to doubt it was ever the purpose of the Creator that the human race should attain its fruition by periodic killings. We are beginning to learn that any place movement must fail to move until it finds its inspiration in Christian faith. The observance of Armistice Day should inspire all to a sense of individual and personal responsibility in meeting one's own task, patiently, consistently and joyfully.

(By Rev. John Lennox, Knox Presbyterian Church, Havelock)

The Spiritual Significance of the late World War has been seen and demonstrated through the spirit of patriotism, which adhered to the ideals of freedom, democracy and religion as believed in by the British, French, Americans and their allies. To maintain these ideals of spiritual and religious freedom, millions of lives were sacrificed and millions maimed and billions of dollars spent.

Speaking of our own Dominion, we through our man power, patriotic influence and resources, under the Providence of God contributed unstintedly to maintain the right to live our lives in accordance with our ideals of traditional, political, religious and spiritual freedom. The vision of the past rises before us. When war was declared the manhood of our country rallied to the standard. The orators stood before large assemblages in churches, spacious halls, school rooms, in public squares, in marketing places, also in the open field, and in wooded glen, setting forth the seriousness of the situation and the crisis that faced us.

As a result of these Dominion wide appeals a great proportion of our manhood enlisted under the banner of the free. They came from the North, the South, the East and the West. Mothers with tears in their eyes and prayers in their hearts parted with their sons as they joined the ranks to do their bit. The maidens in the alleys and lovers' lanes and on the doorsteps of their homes bade adieu; the last kiss was given and the last wave of the hand with tear-stained handkerchief, with beating throbbing breast with the consciousness that they would never meet again.

The thousands of crosses on the thousands of graves in far-off Flanders and other parts of the world.Also the thousands of cenotaphs erected in conspicuous places throughout our fair Dominion and Lady of the Snows all remind us of the prices that was paid for the maintenance of our spiritual and democratic freedom. To this we owe untold gratitude to God in having delivered us from the mailed fist and from a vile autocracy, the enemy of freedom.

Armistice Terms Imposed on Germany

The most stupendous war in all history came to an end with the signing of an armistice between Germany, the Allied Powers, and the United States, on November 11, 1918. This great event was preceded by the unconditional surrender of Bulgaria and the conclusion of an armistice between that country and the Allies at Salonica, on September 29; by the surrender of Turkey and the signing of an armistice by Turkish and Allied representatives at Mudros, on the Island of Lemnos, on October 31; and by the surrender of Austria-Hungary to General Diaz, the Italian commander, and the signing of an armistice at Italian headquarters, on November 3.

The diplomatic correspondence leading to the conclusion of the Armistice dates from October 6, when the German Government appealed to President Wilson for an immediate armistice and the conclusion of peace terms previously laid down by the President in his public utterances. Numerous notes were interchanged by the two governments, and on Nov. 5 the German government was notified by the United States of the willingness of the Allies to arrange an armistice on the principles already laid down by the President, the terms to be obtained from Marshal Foch, the accredited representative of the United States and the Allied powers. The German government accordingly named as its representatives Mathias Erzberger, Gen. H. K. A. von Winterfield, Count Alfred von Oberndorff, Gen. von Grunnri and Naval Captain von Salow. These delegates were received by Marshal Foch in his special train at Rethondes, 6 miles east of Compiegne, on Nov. 8 and there were given the terms of the armistice with a formal demand that they be accepted or refused within seveny hours. On November 11, at 5 a.m. Paris time (midnight Washington time), the armistice was signed by Marshal Foch and Vice-Admiral Sir Rosslyn Wemyss, First Lord of the British Admiralty, representing the Allies and the United States, and by Mathais Erzberger, General von Winterfeld, Count von Oberndorff, and Capt. von Salow representing Germany.

The conditions of the armistice were formulated by the Supreme War Council in session at Versailles in October and November. As finally signed they concluded the following provisions:—

Western Front

1.—Cessation of operations by land and in the air six hours after the signing of the armistice.

2.—Immediate evacuation of invaded countries—Belgium, France, Alsace-Lorraine, Luxembourg—to be completed within fourteen days of the signing of the armistice.

3.—Repatraition beginning at once and to be completed within fourteen days, of all the inhabitants of all the countries above enumerated.

4.—Surrender in good condition by the German armies of the following war materials:—Five thousand guns (2,500 heavy and 2,500 field), 25,000 machine guns, 3,000 minenwerfer, 1,700 airplanes.

5.—Evacuation by the German Armies of the countries on the left bank of the Rhine, these countries to be administered by the local troops of occupation.

6.—In all territories evacuated by the enemy there shall be no evacuation of inhabitants; no damage or harm shall be done to the persons or property of the inhabitants.

7.—Five thousand locomotives and 150,000 wagons (freight cars) in good working order, with all necessary spare parts and fittings shall be delivered to the associated powers, and there likewise shall be delivered 5,000 motor lorries (trucks) in good order, within a period of thirty days.

8.—The German command shall be responsible for revealing within the period of forty-eight hours after the signing of the armistice all mines or delayed action fuses and any other destructive measures on territory evacuated by the German troops shall assist in their discovery and destruction.

9.—The right of requisition shall be exercised by all the Allied ond United States armies in all occupied territories. The upkeep of the troops of occupation in the Rhineland (excluding Alsace-Lorraine) shall be charged to the German Government.

10.—The immediate repatriation, without reciprocity, of all Allied and United States prisoners of war.

11.—Sick and wounded men who cannot be removed from evacuated territory will be cared for by German personnel, who will be left on the spot with the medical material required.

Eastern Frontiers of Germany

12 and 13.—Evacuaion by German troops of Russia, and of all territories formerly belonging to Austria-Hungary, Roumania, Turkey, and Russia.

14.—Cessation by German troops from all requisitions and seizures and any other undertaking with a view to obtaining supplies intended for Germany in Roumania and Russia.

15.—Renunciation of the treaties of Bucharest and Brest-Litovsk and of the supplementary treaties.

16.—Free access for the Allies to the territories evacuated by the Germans on their eastern frontiers, either through Danzig, or by the Vistula, in order to convey supplies to the populations of those territories and for the purpose of maintaining order.

East Africa

17.—Evacuation of all German forces operating in East Africa within a period to be fixed by the Allies.

General Clauses

18.—Repatriation without reciprocity, of all interned civilians, including persons under trial or convicted, belonging to the Allied or associated powers other than those enumerated in Article Three.

19.—Financial reparation for damage done; immediate restitution of cash deposit in the National Bank of Belgium, in general immediate return of all documents, specie, stocks, shares, paper money, together with plant for the issue thereof, touching public or private interests in the invaded countries; restitution of the Russian and the Roumanian gold yielded to Germany or taken by that power.

Naval Conditions

20.—Immediate cessation of all hotilities at sea and definite information to be given as to the location and movement of all German ships.

21.—All naval and mercantile marine prisoners of the Allied and associated powers in German hands to be return without reciprocity.

22.—Surrender to the Allies and United States within fourteen days of all submarines (including submarine cruisers and all mine-laying submarines) now existing, with their complete armament and equipment.

23.—German surface warships which shall be designated by the Allies and the United States shall be immediately disarmed and thereafter interned in neutral ports, or indefault in Allied ports to be designated by the Allies and the United States. The following warships are designated: six battle cruisers, ten battleships, eight light cruisers (including two mine layers), fifty destroyers of the most modern types. All other surface warships (including river craft) are to be concentrated in German naval bases to be designated by the Allies and the United States.

24.—Th Allies and the United States shall have the right to sweep up all mine fields and obstruction laid by Germany outside German territorial waters, and the position of these are to be indicated.

25.—Free of access to and from the Baltic to be given to the naval and mercantile marines of the Allied and associated powers.

26.—The existing blockade conditions set up by the Allied and associated powers to remain unchanged.

27.—All naval aircraft are to be concentrated and immobilized in German bases to be specified by the Allies and the United States.

28.—In evacuating the Belgian coasts and ports Germany shall abandon in situ and in fact all port and river navigation material, all merchant ships, tugs, lighters, all naval aeronautic apparatus, material and supplies, and all arms, apparatus, and supplies of every kind.

29.—All Black Sea ports are to be evacuated by Germany; all Russian war vessels of all descriptions seized by Germany in the Black Sea are to be handed over to the Allies and the United States; all neutral merchant vessels seized are to be released; all warlike and other materials (of all kinds) sized in those ports are to be returned, and German materials as specified in Clause 28 are to be abandoned.

30.—All merchant vessels in German hands belonging to the Allied and associated powers to be restored without reciprocity.

31.—No destructions of ships or of materials to be permitted before evacuation, surrender, or restoration.

32.—The German government will notify the neutral governments of the world, and particularly the governments of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland, that all restrictions placed on the trading of their vessels with the Allied and associated countries are immediately cancelled.

33.—No transfers of German shipping of any description to any neutral flag are to take place after signature of the armistice.

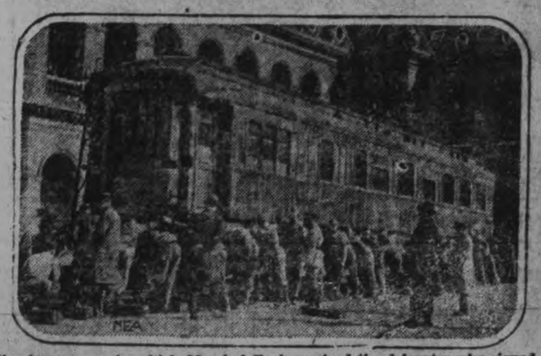
The duration of the armistic was for thirty days, with option to extend. Supervision of execution of its terms was vested in an International Armistice Commission, including representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany.

The armistice was extended on December 12 to January 17, 1919, and on January 13 to February 17, subject to the following conditions:

That Germany surrender to the Allies all her cargo steamers in German or Allied ports to enable the Allies to revictual Germany and adjacent countries, equitable remunerations for the use of the ships to be paid to Germany and applied as payment for foodstuffs to be furnished to Germany; that Germany restore all manufacturing machinery, etc., taken from invaded regions which can be identified (including some 58,000 agricultural machines); that guarantees be furnished regarding the removal of the Reishbanks from Berlin in view of the civil strife there.

On February 15 the armistice was extended indefinitely, with the provision that Germany cease hostilities against the Poles and complete the disarmament and demobilization of German forces under regulations prescribed by the military and naval advisers of the Allies.

WHERE THE ARMISTICE WAS SIGNED



The famous car in which Marshal Foch received the delegates who signed the Armistice is being returned to the Forest of Compiegne, where the meeting took place. There it will be placed in a memorial building.

Armistice Day

ARMISTICE DAY! And back across the long grey years our thoughts are flying, not to the living who exulted in the conclusion of the war, but to those who are lying in their far-away graves under the rows of little crosses in foreign cemeteries—to those who sank to their last sleep in the depths of the sea—and to those who lie we know not where. One thing we know of all of them; they are in God's keeping, and He knows and sanctifies their resting-places. Are they not all His children? Catholics, Protestants, Jews, Mohammedans, He called and they came, cheerfully, unhesitatingly, to do the thing He set for them. And there they lie together, the common sons of a common Father, one in Him, no matter what their earthly faith was called. For we know now how the barriers of creed fell away, and were not, in that mighty Presence, and in that spirit they lived, and fought, and died, and passed to their God.

And we who are left? Ah! it is our part to carry on; to emulate their unselfishness, and their single-hearted devotion to duty at all costs; to comfort the sorrowing; to break down the barriers that lie between us; to prove our loyalty to that dear country for which they suffered and died; until that greatest Armistice Day when we will welcome, not the dead, thank God!, but the living, that live for evermore

"Toujours Vainqueur; Jamais Vaincu"

Motto bestowed upon Canadian Corps by the French

There were Peterborough soldiers engaged in practically every battle in which the Canadian Corps participated, and yet, to many of these men, as well as to the citizens at large, no clear idea is known of what were really "battles." A few evenings ago The Examiner was asked by telephone to tell the "four great Canadian battles."

To clear up this point, and afford a ready reference to Canada's part in the war, the following complete record of all battles, actions, and minor tactical operations in which the Canadian troops took part, is given. The names of the battles are those officially sanctioned by the British War Department, and the list itself is officially compiled by the Canadian Department of National Defence.

It was the proud boast of the Canadian Corps that never a trench was lost by it that it did not recapture, with interest. There were reverses, but they were more than made up. This was recognized by the French, who hailed them as being "Always victorious; never defeated."

OTTAWA, Ont., November 9 (Canadian Press). — The Historical Section of the General Staff, Department of National Defence, has compiled the two exceedingly interesting lists appended covering the entire field of Canadian military operations in France and Flanders from the action of St. Eloi, March, 1915, in which the Princess Patricias first bore Canadian colors into battle, to the taking of Mons on Armistice Day. These have not only prime historic value, but will appeal directly to every Canadian soldier who served on the West Front.

The first list includes the important engagements in which Canadians participated. The next gives the complete and detailed record of all battles and engagements in which Canadians participated on the West Front, including the Canadian Cavalry Brigade.

For the first time the accepted nomenclature of the different engagements is made public, such being approved by the Battles Nomenclature Committee appointed by the War Office. The operations shown in heavy type are those designated by the committee as "Battles"; operations shown in light type are those designated by the same committee as "Actions" or "Tactical Incidents" — some of which would indeed have constituted a set battle a generation ago.

Notes

(a) Battles and Actions in which a Canadian Division was responsible for a portion of the line.

(b) Battles and Actions in which the only color-bearing Canadian troops present were the P.P.C.L.I.

In the case of operations not specially referenced as above the only Canadian troops engaged were detached formations, such as individual batteries, mining companies, etc, which do not carry colors.

The dates given are those during which Canadian troops were engaged, they do not necessarily cover the full period of the battle.

Armistice Day, 1928

(By "One Who Was There")

Let silence brood o'er all the land, two fleeting minutes span.
Let movement cease, turmoil be stilled, in all the haunts of man.
Toll not the bell, roll not the drum, but stand with bow-ed head
In silent prayer, "God grant them peace, our glorious warrior dead."

'Tis meet that on the scrolls of fame, on pillar and facade
Their names be 'grayed, that down the years their glory shall not fade.
But at this hour, one day each year, more seemly 'tis that we Shall pray, "Dear God, oh give them peace and rest for aye with Thee."

"For they, for whom this day we pray, our unreturning brave,
"They were but mortal, but became immortal when they gave

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. FRANK McCOY

The Way of "The Fast Way to Health"

©1926 McCOY HEALTH SERVICE - LOS ANGELES - CAL.

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, Nov. 11th:

Sunday.

Breakfast: French Omelet (made of the whites of eggs and milk), stewed figs, Melba toast.
Lunch: Buttered macaroni, cooked spinach, raw celery.
Dinner: Jellied tomato consomme, broiled chicken, string beans, baked egg plant, cauliflower salad, ice cream.

Monday.

Breakfast: Coddled egg, 2 or 3 slices of crisp bacon, stewed prunes, Melba toast.
Lunch: 8-ounce glass of grapejuice.
Dinner: Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, spinach, turnips and tops, salad of sliced tomatoes with celery, gelatinized milk with whipped cream and prune juice.

Tuesday.

Breakfast: Cottage cheese, Melba toast, applesauce.
Lunch: Baked ground beets, combination salad of celery, tomatoes and small green peas on lettuce.
Dinner: Mushroom soup, roast pork, steamed carrots with parsley, salad of cold asparagus (canned) baked apple.

Wednesday.

Breakfast: Baked egg, Melba toast, stewed raisins.
Lunch: Oranges as desired.
Dinner: Broiled lamb chops, string beans, cooked celery, McCoy salad, pineapple gelatin.

Thursday.

Breakfast: Coddled egg, Melba toast, stewed apricots.
Lunch: Corn and eggplant (See recipe given Oct. 28th).
Dinner: Vegetable soup, roast beef, buttered vegetables (diced carrots, beets and turnips), spinach, salad of raw celery and ripe olives, raspberry whip.

Friday.

Breakfast: Re-toasted food with cream (no sugar), stewed figs.
Lunch: Raw apples as desired, with glass of sweet milk.
Dinner: Baked white fish, cooked lettuce, salad of sliced tomatoes, plain Jello, no cream.

Saturday.

Breakfast: French Omelet, Melba toast, stewed prunes.
Lunch: Sandwiches of wholewheat bread, lettuce and peanut butter. Salad of grated raw carrots.
Dinner: American cheese, cooked cucumbers, asparagus, salad of tomatoes and celery, pineapple sponge.

"Cauliflower Salad: Separate the tender flowerets of a head of cauliflower and arrange on a nest of shredded lettuce and endive. Over all pour a dressing made of peanut butter thinned with a little milk, when ready to serve. If you have never eaten raw cauliflower, you will be surprised at its pleasing, nut-like flavor.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

White Spots on Skin.

Question: Miss M. E. M. writes: "I have white spots over my neck and arms ever since about thirteen. Can you tell me what they are from, and if there is a way to get rid of them, and how?"

Answer: The white marks are caused by a destruction of the skin pigment through a systemic acidosis which you had when you were thirteen years old. I know of no way to restore this pigment to the spots affected, but you can prevent more forming if you will live a healthful life and eat so that you do not have another period of acidosis.

More Iron in Wheat or Spinach?

Question: R. L. K. asks: "Is it true there is more iron in wholewheat than in spinach or any other vegetable, and is it as easily assimilated?"

Answer: Wholewheat contains only .3 parts of iron per 1000 parts of dry substance, whereas spinach contains 6.07 parts of iron per 1000 parts of dry substance. As far as can be judged from ordinary tests, there is no difference in the assimilability of the iron in different foods.

Salt Water in Morning.

Question: A Reader writes: "I am a girl of 18. Upon arising in the morning I have been taking a teaspoonful of salt in a quart of lukewarm water. Is this harmful?"

Answer: I do not recommend that you use salt to such an extent as you write about in your letter, although it does have the effect on your bowels. Try balancing your diet with enough green vegetables to give your intestines the necessary bulk, and I am sure you will not need any kind of cathartic or laxative.

Does Bloody Sputum Indicate Tuberculosis?

Question: J. A. C. asks: "Does it necessarily bespeak pulmonary tuberculosis if one expectorated bright red blood and had blood-streaked sputum for five or six days?"

Answer: The symptoms you have described go with tuberculosis of the lungs but may only come from some throat irritation. These symptoms are not diagnostic of tuberculosis except as there is much evidence to support such a diagnosis.

WAR AND AFTER-THE-WAR PICTURES

LED CANADIANS.—General Sir Arthur Currie, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., Commander of the Canadian Corps.

THE FAMOUS GUARDS.—Britain's crack regiment, which made such a name for itself in the Great War, trooping the colors in London.

GENERAL SIR SAM HUGHES, through whose efforts the first Canadian contingent of 33,000 was mobilized and transported overseas.

ADMIRAL EARL JELLICOE, who commanded the British Grand Fleet during the war.

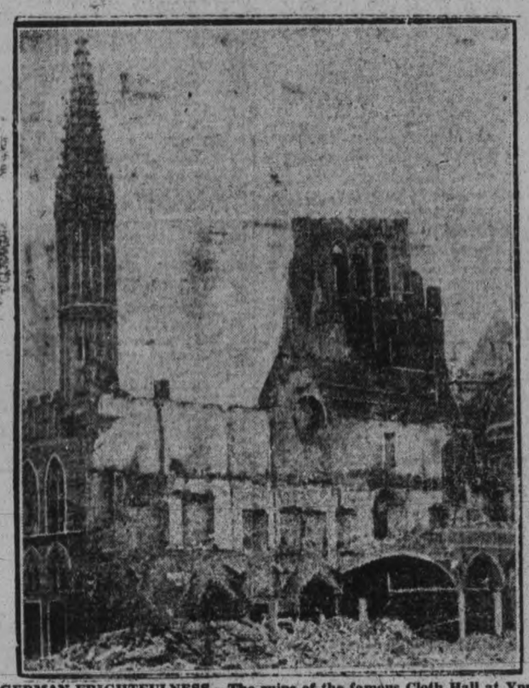
ARMISTICE DAY 1928

HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE V. who ruled over the British Empire during its most difficult time in history.

UNDYING FAME.—This memorial on Zeebrugge "mole" a granite column seventy feet high, commemorates the famous raid by the British Navy in which the defensive works of the "mole" were destroyed.

BRITISH COMMANDER.—Field Marshall Earl Haig of Bemersyde, who commanded the British Army during the war. He is seen here with the Prime Minister.

A NATIONAL MONUMENT.—The famous "Trench of the Bayonets" where hundreds of French soldiers were buried by a bomb. Their bayonets still show about the ground.

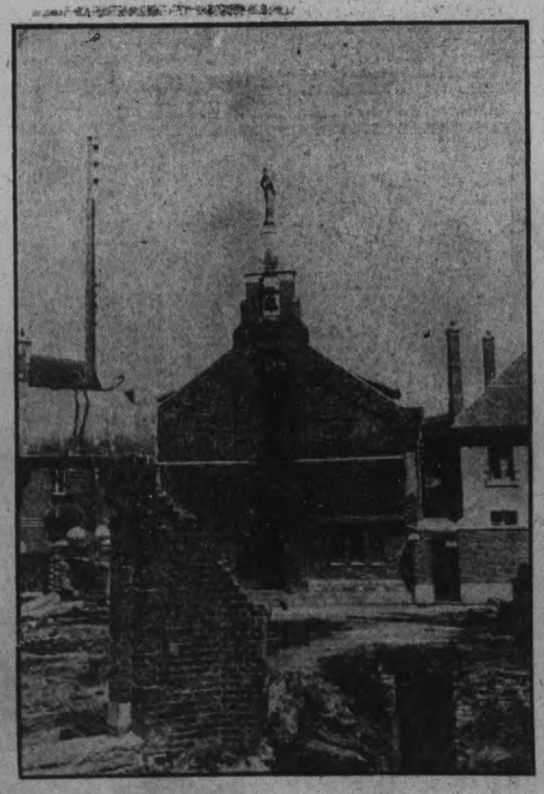


GERMAN FRIGHTFULNESS.—The ruins of the famous Cloth Hall at Ypres after the German bombardment.

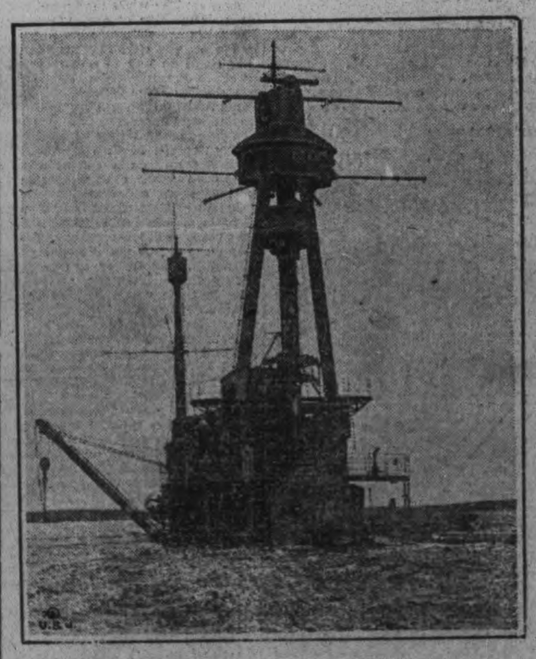
ON TOP OF THE SOMME.—Poizieres Ridge was the scene of hard fighting in 1916, and Canadians will remember the famous Bapaume Road shown here.

"NUMBER TEN."—Canadians won fame at Courcellette, the main street of which is shown in this picture. The ruins on the right mark the site of the famous dugout, "Number Ten.

NOTORIOUS THIEPVAL.—Thiepval was well known to the Canadians, and this picture of a present-day dump will seem familiar to many.



KNOWN TO CANADIANS.—The temporary church at Albert photographed from the ruins of the old Cathedral, so well remembered by its leaning Virgin.



ALL THAT IS LEFT.—The great German battleship "Hindenburg" surrendered to the British and sunk in Scapa Flow on June 21, 1919.

LOCARNO, where one of the greatest peace discussions of modern times took place.

GENERAL FOCH, Generalissimo of the Allied Armies during the latter days of the war, who dictated the Armistice terms.

ARMISTICE DAY IN FRANCE—The illustration shows French troops, with regimental colors flying, marching past the grave of the French Unknown Soldier beneath the Arch of Triumph, Paris.

NORWOOD

These memorial gates open into the Memorial Park, donated to the village of Norwood by Mrs. J. W. Davidson, of Toronto, in memory of Lieutenant Walter Robus, who died in Toronto in 1926 as the result of wounds he sustained in the Great War. Lieutenant Robus was the first from that district to enlist at the outbreak of war, and crossed the ocean with the First Canadian Contingent.

TO THOSE WHO FELL IN WAR

By Ralph E. Renaud
Managing Editor, New York Evening Post
(These verses first appeared in F.P.V.'s colum in the New York Tribune)

We knew them well.
We watched them move unstaled beneath the spell
Of trivial things, industriously footing
The Daybook of the Devil and the Flesh,
Punching the clock of History and putting
The frivolous old World at last to bed.
But when the blood of Freedom, fierce and fresh,
Called from the fields of wrath unharvested,
We saw their own blood sting the darkening cheek,
We know the road their eager feet must seek.

And yet, and yet—
When up the glacis of Death's parapet
They swept amid the lustral primeval
And dauntless flung their liberating souls
Full in the fangs of Tyranny and Evil—
Ah, to have known them then! To seize and sense
The sacrificial moment that controls
The destiny of Time! To feel the intense
Emancipation from the shattered clod
Of sudden eagles soaring up to God!

For us they died
Facing their last assignment sanctified
In fellowship with all things clean and splendid.
For us they bore the muck and filth of it
As men on whom a gift of grace descended.
For us they wrestled with the Night of Fear
And slew the black assemblage of the Pit.
Yet not for us, nor all the world holds dear,
Would they one fatal footfall have withdrawn
Ere their bright, blinded spirits lit the dawn.

Sleep, friends, and rest.
Sistered by France and wedded to her breast,
Above your bivouac there the sentinel flowers
Will challenge only vagrant butterflies
Through the long, dreamless, summer-silken hours
That weave a winding sheet of Peace for you.
But on mysterious eves of hushed surmise,
While ancient captains muster in review,
Among your crosses glimmering in the grass
The Christ Himself, the Crucified, shall pass.

LINDSAY

The very human war memorial at Lindsay portrays a soldier in marching order, wearing his great-coat. It is simple and dignified, and the inscription, "Lest We Forget," is in keeping.

LAKEFIELD HAS LENGTHY LIST

Erection of War Memorial Planned by Citizens to Commemorate Names.

34 DIED OVERSEAS

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 9.—As the tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice draws near, the fact, that as yet no proper war memorial has been erected in the village, is brought home to the people of Lakefield, and we note the handsome and suitable memorials in Apsley, Hastings, Keene, Norwood and Warsaw, it is felt that it is time Lakefield perpetuated its rememberance of its sons who gave their lives in the service of King and Country. Not only would it stand as a lasting monument to the dead but as an appreciation of those who did return after having risked their all in service in the same great cause.

On a bronze tablet in the lobby of the Town Hall are inscribed the names of those who did not return as follows:

Roll of Honor.

Arthur Aldred, Frank Armstrong Dalling Burlee, Edward Blomfield Herbert Calberry, Roland Carter Keith Cumberland, Bruce Edwards Arthur Frankish, John Halifax, Geoffrey C. Hilliard, Isaac Hampton Wilfrid Hull, Maxwell Johnson, Theodore Johnson, Joseph Jamieson Stanley Kidd, Percy Lemay, Noble Milburn, Jonathan Morris, Sherman Mahood, Herbert Nicholls, Philip Pattrick, George Rowe, Howard Rowe William Rowe, Joseph Sabatino, Ira Snelgrove, Herbert J. Stuart, George R. Strickland, R. D. Strickland, C. R. White, Roydon Wilson, Leonard Wingett.

To other soldiers have died since this tablet was erected.

Gordon Crawford, who died in April, 1915, from the effects of war service.

Sherman Hill, who met death by drowning while serving his country in the department of the Trent Valley Canal, December, 1926

TRENT RIVER

Trent River War Memorial, which was erected by A. H. McKeel, of Campbellford, to the memory of Pte. Richard O. Cowan, killed at Vimy Ridge, April 9, 1917, aged 25 years, the only Trent River boy to make the supreme sacrifice in the Great War.

There is also a tablet placed in the United Church, with the following inscription:

"In loving memory of Pte. Richard O. Cowan, killed at Vimy Ridge, April 9, 1917, aged 25 years. The only Trent River boy to make the supreme sacrifice in the Great War, 1914-1918. Erected by his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Wood."

The War Memorial at Cobourg, unveiled a few years ago, is a simple but impressive-looking monument.

STROPPING IS ESSENTIAL TO THE PERFECT SHAVE

a Million Boosters say it's GREAT

The Million Dollar Valet AutoStrop Razor shows the necessity of stropping before each shave

BECAUSE it solves the problem of men with stubborn beards, the new Valet AutoStrop Razor is taxing our factories' capacity to meet Canada's demand.

Everywhere wise men are turning to the improved Valet AutoStrop Razor because it is teaching them the vital importance of never shaving with a blade that has not been properly stropped.

All barbers know that until it is stropped the cutting edge of every blade is a row of tiny needle points that scrape and tear the skin. Stropping smooths them out.

With the automatic self-stropping device of the new Valet AutoStrop Razor you can do this in a few seconds.

And the new model offers you many other modern features exclusive in this razor. It is the result of 21 years of experiment and the expenditure of a million dollars.

Both the razor and the blades have been distinctly bettered. Made of the costliest steel, treated by the exclusive Valcite process, Valet blades have a perfect edge. The self-stropping feature keeps them so. New type guard gives you full use of the shaving surface of these keener blades. Instantly inserted or removed by pressing a button. Locked in a firm non-flexible grip, they put blade vibration and razor pull out of the picture for good. No need to remove the blade to strop and clean it.

Try this new Million Dollar Razor. You'll quickly learn to like it. And once you know its soothing shaves and friendly angle, you'll stick to it for life.

Gold Plated ELDORADO Set complete with Strop and Blades $3.00. De Luxe Models $5.00 to $25.00.

DOMINION INLAID LINOLEUM with the New Domolac Finish

THAT rich, mellow tone that you have long admired in floors that have been laid for years, is yours now, from the first day down, with Dominion Inlaid Linoleum.

The secret is in the new soft-lustre lacquer finish, called the DOMOLAC Finish. All Dominion Inlaids have it . . . adding to the matchless beauty of their artistic designs and radiant colourings.

The DOMOLAC Finish is impervious to wear. It is stainproof, and will not fade. Polishes beautifully with very little effort and retains its pleasing lustre.

And with all these added advantages, Dominion Inlaid Linoleum is as moderately priced as ever.

The Domolac Finish in Tins

This new and enduring finish is also available in convenient tins for application to your present floors.

Other Beautiful Dominion Floors

Wider choice than ever is offered in Dominion Linoleum Rugs and Dominion Printed Linoleum . . . two long-wearing, low-priced favourites for every room. They do not, however, have the DOMOLAC Finish.

EXCESSIVE ANGER MAKES YOU NICE.

Detroit, Nov. 9, by NEA Service.—The cure for anger is more anger. Or words to that effect by Dr. Oliver Kamm, director of chemical research of the Parke-Davis Research Laboratories here.

"Anger, or fright," says Dr. Kamm, "increases the secretion of the suprarenal gland, which in turn increases the sugar or fuel content of the blood. Simultaneously the blood pressure is raised, and the bronchial tubes are dilated so as to admit more air.

"The basis is thus laid for the development of a vicious cycle. But this is prevented by a wise provision of nature. Excessive anger changes the reaction of the blood to a point where the suprarenal secretion is rendered ineffective.

"Thus, fortunately, anger is its own cure."

"WEAR THE POPPY"

The Battlefield of 1914-1918 may be overgrown with flowers, but no man or woman should forget that there is still a great work to do, especially in this Canadian Legion of ours. The Poppies and Wreaths are purchased direct from the Vetcraft Work Shops, made by men who are disabled and handicapped for life in the labor market due to war service. Therefore by wearing the Poppy you are perpetuating "Remembrance" and assisting a double cause. It may require honest effort on your part, but that means devotion, and devotion means perhaps sacrifice, and out of sacrifice grows perfection. Citizens, you have a right by wearing the Poppy to recall to your children the heroic deeds of our Canadian soldiers, their splendid valor, and to hand down to posterity the testimony of their heroism, to keep before the rising generation the great effort made by Canada and the remainder of the British Empire, and to remind them of the tragedy of "War."

To-day there are hundreds of men who are still fighting a long fight against ill-health because they cannot prove their trouble originated on Service. During 1914-18, on the battlefields of Europe and other theatres of war, the greatest possible strain was put on every man's physical and mental make-up, and they can never make up the loss. Hundreds knock at the door of the military hospitals seeking relief, sometimes from sickness and some even from want through no fault of their own. Then, in loving memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice, remember them by your kindness and charity to the living.

Dead not to us, though perhaps the world may forget
That hideous travail of a nation's birth;
Your living memory is with us yet
Despite far-scattered mounds of earth.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE DO NOT VOTE

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

All of us believe that it is a great privilege to vote. We regard the ballot as our best assurance and safest guarantee of a voice in the government, as the corner stone of self government. If there were any danger of losing the franchise we would rise up in arms, fight to the last and die if need be before we'd give up this sacred and inalienable right.

And yet when it comes to exercising this most precious privilege we are inclined to be somewhat indifferent. Not more than half the qualified voters on an average cast their ballots in ordinary elections.

There are reasons why we do not vote as there are reasons why we do vote. No one will cast a ballot without impulsion or motive of some sort.

The plainest reason why so many do not vote is the lack of impelling motives—or else they have motives which impel them away from the polls. The latter is illustrated by the man who is so thoroughly disgusted with both major parties and their candidates that he deliberately stays away from the polls and washes his hands of the whole affair.

Again, a man may "go fishing" on election day to avoid supporting the opposite party whom he dislikes on general principles.

A great majority of those who fail to vote simply lack the interest. They are too lazy or too stupid to study the candidates and the issues. The outcome of the election does not seem to make any difference to them. Why bother to vote when both candidates and both parties are equally satisfactory or equally unsatisfactory?

To still others the whole affair looks hazy and abstract. The benefits or harm, if any, are in the future. They do not get excited over mere possibilities that do not perceptibly affect their daily life.

Not a few fail to vote because of a sense of futility. A single vote seems so insignificant as compared with the millions that will be cast in a presidential election. "They'll never miss my vote" is the expressed or unvoiced sentiment of this type of person who does not vote.

Why do you do what you do. Ask Dr. Thomson. Write care of this paper, and send stamped, self-addressed envelope.

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

We recognize this year as 1928; the Mohammedans call it 1346; the Jews 5688; the Japanese 2587; and the Bybantine calendar says it is 7436.

SIMPLE TRICKS IN MAGIC by JACK MULHALL

"The Dissolving Knot. The act of upsetting the knot and converting it from a square to a slip knot is here shown. This is done under pretence of pulling knot very tightly.

Take a large silk handkerchief, preferably one with a narrow border, and, holding two ends, tie them into a square or figure eight knot. Pretending to pull the knot very tight catch hold of the right hand end protruding from the knot and pull it to the left, thus "upsetting" the knot and converting it into a slip knot.

Roll the handkerchief up by covering the knot with the loose ends. While doing this with your right hand—especially the third and little fingers, slip the end of the handkerchief from the knot, which is at once loosened. Let someone first feel the knot under the handkerchief, however. Then ask the spectator to blow on the knot. You at once let the handkerchief fall open and the knot has dissolved.

It is all important to tie a square knot and not a "granny knot." Also to pull the right end to upset it. This can easily be learned from experiment. Should you by mistake pull the wrong end let someone else untie the knot, just to show that it is a real one. Then repeat the experiment and untie it "magically."

VOL. LXI. No. 111 PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1918 PRICE TWO CENTS

ARMISTICE HAS BEEN SIGNED

Washington—United Press—2.45 a.m.—The Armistice with Germany was signed at 5 o'clock this morning—French time—Hostilities ceased this morning at 11 o'clock—French time—The State Department stated that the terms of the Armistice would be made public immediately though it plans to make a quick Announcement of the Terms.

ARMISTICE HAS BEEN SIGNED BY GERMANY STATE DEPT. ANNOUNCED THIS MORNING

Fighting ceased this morning at six o'clock, Peterboro' time, bringing to a close the biggest war in History—The terms of the Armistice not disclosed in the early morning despatches—Nature of the terms are such as to make it impossible for Germany to renew hostilities.

Principal Strategic Points in Germany Will Be Occupied by Allied Forces

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The armistice terms have been signed by Germany, the State Department announced at 2.40 o'clock this morning. The announcement was made verbally by an official of the State Department in the following form:

"The armistice has been signed. It was signed at 5 o'clock a.m., Paris time, and hostilities will cease at 11 o'clock this morning, Paris time."

Five o'clock a.m., Paris time, is midnight Sunday here. Eleven o'clock is six o'clock a.m., Toronto time. The terms of the armistice, it was announced, will not be made public until later. Military men here, however, regard it as certain that they include:

The immediate retirement of German military forces from France, Belgium, and Alsace Lorraine.

Disarming and demobilizing of the German Army.

Occupation by the Allied and American forces of such strategic points in Germany as will make impossible a renewal of hostilities.

Delivery of part of the German High Seas Fleet and a certain number of submarines to the Allied and American naval forces.

Disarming of all the German ships under the supervicion of the Allied and American Navies, which will guard them.

Occupation of the principal German naval bases by sea forces of the victorious nations.

Release of Allied and American soldiers, sailors and civilians held prisoners in Germany.

Without such reciprocal action by the associated Governments.

There was no information as to the circumstances under which the armistice was signed, but since the German courier did not reach the German military headquarters until ten o'clock yesterday morning, French time, it was generally assumed here that the many envoys within the French lines had been instructed by wireless to sign the terms.

Forty-seven hours had been required for the courier to reach German headquarters, and unquestionably several hours were necessary for the examination of the terms and a decision.

It was regarded as possible, however, that the decision may have been made at Berlin, and instructions transmitted from there by the new German Government.

Public Holiday

In order to mark the signing of the armistice by Germany and the glorious victory of the British Empire and its Allies, and to celebrate the victory and the cessation of hostilities, I ask all citizens to observe this day as a public holiday.

A public procession and meeting will be held to-night at the Central Park. The parade will start from the Park at 7.30 o'clock.

Praise God, from Whom all blessings flow.

God Save the King.

GEORGE H. DUNCAN, Mayor.

Germany had been given until 11 o'clock this morning, French time, six o'clock Washington time, to accept, so hostilities ended at the hour set by Marshal Foch for a decision by Germany for peace or for the continuation of the war.

The momentous news that the armistice had been signed was a few minutes before it was given to the newspaper correspondents and telephoned to the White House for transmission to the President. Later it was said that there would be no statement from the White House at this time.

Revolution Sweeps Over Germany and Engulfs Hohlerzollern Regime

Red Flag of the Revolutionists is Flying From All Strategic Points Throughout Empire---Cannonading in Street.

OFFICERS DISARMED.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Severe fighting took place in Berlin between six and eight o'clock last night and a violent cannonading was heard from the heart of the city. The revolution is in full swing in Berlin, and the Red forces of Germany in possession of the German capital. Many persons were killed and wounded before the officers surrendered. The Red forces are in control and have restored order. Strong guards are marching through the streets. The Crown Prince's palace has been seized by the Revolutionists. People are shouting "Long live the Republic" and are singing the "Marseillaise."

Schleswig-Holstein, a Prussian province, which formerly belonged to Denmark, is proclaimed an independent Republic.

Leipsic, the largest city in Saxony, Stuttgart, the capital of Wurttemberg and Cologne and Frankfort has joined the Revolution. Soldiers' Councils at Stuttgart, Cologne and Frankfort have decided to proclaim a Republic.

Red Flag Hoisted on Ships in Hamburg.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 10.—The Soldiers' and Peasants' Council at Munich now controls the whole administration of Bavaria, it was reported here to-day. Kurt Eisnera, a Socialist newspaper man, has been made Premier and Foreign Minister.

The Cologne Gazette says the Workmen's and Soldiers' representatives in Hamburg have occupied the military headquarters, and posted the Red flag on the ships in the harbor. Similar events were reported at Cuxhaven and Rendesburg. Work stopped in all Berlin munition plants at 10 a.m. to-day in obedience to a declaration of a general strike.

German Socialist Is Now Recognized As the New Chancellor of Germany.

Special to The Examiner:

ZURICH, Switzerland, Nov. 10.—Because of troubles in the interior of Germany, Prince Maximilian of Baden and all the Bourgeoise Ministers have resigned, says a despatch from Berlin. Friedrich Ebert, the German Socialist, to-day has been definitely recognized as Chancellor.

Berlin was occupied by the forces of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils on Saturday afternoon, according to a Wolff Bureau report received here.

It is officially announced from Berlin that the War Ministry has placed itself at the disposal of Friedrich Ebert, the Socialist leader, whose appointment as Imperial Chancellor was forecasted yesterday by decree of Prince Maximilian. Friederich Ebert, the Socialist leader, has issued a proclamation, saying that he plans to form a People's Government, which will endeavor to bring about a speedy peace.

A Copenhagen message says six German battleships anchored outside Flensburg directed their cannon against the Revolutionaries, and that a bombardment is expected. The battleship Koenig, which refused to surrender, was taken after a hard fight. The Workmen's and Soldiers' Council to-day is complete master of Hamburg, and all civilians who are found in possession of a weapon are killed. Count Reventlow, a well-known member of the Holstein nobility, has fled to Denmark, and has declared to the "Politiken's" frontier correspondent that, in his opinion, the conditions will be much worse when the soldiers return from the front. A general anarchy can be expected. Several German ships have succeeded in escaping from the revolution, mostly schoolships. Three German destroyers have anchored outside Stockholm, and all guardships of the Baltic have joined the Revolutionary movement.

Strike Movement Spreading Over Whole of Germany.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(British Admiralty wireless).—An Amsterdam telegram stated that the strike movement is spreading over the whole of Germany. The Berlin stations are occupied by the military. All trains to Berlin are stopped, and the most drastic measures are being taken against possible agitation.

The Berlin official wire says that the Berlin garrison has joined the Revolutionists. A general strike has been proclaimed in the capital, and a proclamation issued stating: "Long live the Socialist Republic and the Soldiers' Council." Military revolutions are reported from all parts of the Empire.

Garrison of City of Frankfort Joins the Revolutionists.

THE BERLIN OFFICIAL WIRELESS REPORTS ABDICATION OF KAISER

(United Press Service)

(Received Saturday, 3 p.m.)

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The official Berlin wireless "states that the Kaiser has decided to abdicate and the Crown Prince to renounce the throne."

The British Admiralty wireless office confirmed the Berlin wireless report that the Kaiser had abdicated and published a circumstantial story of Chancellor Maximillian's announcement to the effect that the German Imperial Chancellor, Prince Max of Baden, had issued the following de-

VETERANS HONOR MEMORY OF NOBLE DEAD

Vestris Founders Near U. S. Coast

No Trace Is Found of 123 Persons Adrift In Small Open Boats

Several Canadians Are Reported Among Missing Passengers of Sunken Lamport and Holt Line, From New York To Barbados.

339 SOULS TAKE TO SMALL LIFEBOATS
MOST OF LFE BOATS HAVE BEEN PICKED UP

One Man Is Known To Be Dead; Mother and Child Are Found Floating in the Waves, and Other Deaths Are Probable.

NEW YORK, November 13 (Canadian Press). — One man was known to be dead, a mother and a child were floating in the waves, and other deaths were probable as reports from the rescue fleet off Virginia Capes pieced out a story of the sinking of the liner Vestris.

At noon, nearly a full day since the 339 passengers and crew fled from the doomed ship in rafts and lifeboats, only 203 had been definitely accounted for, and most of the lifeboats had been picked up. A dead man was found on wreckage where he had died from exposure. Another man picked up from the wreckage by the steamer Berlin, said he had seen a woman with a child in her arms floating near him.

Of the 129 passengers and crew of 209, who escaped from the foundering steamer Vestris in lifeboats and rafts yesterday, all but a few had been picked up by rescue ships today. A cording to radio reports picked up here and there by stations along the coast, only one life raft was still missing. It is not known how many persons were aboard it.

The Vestris, of the Lamport & Holt Line, was abandoned shortly after noon yesterday 240 miles off the Virginia coast. The first SOS from the doomed ship came about ten o'clock yesterday, and while rescue ships were going to the scene, the further message of the disaster went out at 1.23 p.m. The first rescue ships to reach the place named in the messages found nothing but wreckage, and cruised about for some hours before picking up any boats.

One Boat Missing.

Early this morning rescue ships reported that only one lifeboat and one raft were yet to be found, and some hours later a message was received from a foreign ship that a missing lifeboat had been found.

Survivors had the unpleasant experience of being tossed about like corks in the tiny craft, on a stormy sea beaten by heavy rains and cold winds, while the rescue ships searched for them in vain. Heavy fog made the finding of the boats impossible until morning.

Earlier messages had told of the ship's personnel taking to the boats, and officials of the line in New York expressed the conviction that these boats at once had headed for the nearest shore. As several hours had elapsed between the abandonment of the Vestris and the arrival of the first reporting craft, it was held at the line headquarters that the boats might well have been a score of miles away, despite the squally weather.

Another fact operating to discount anxiety was the proximity of the Japanese ship Ohio Maru, reported "alongside" the Vestris before the latter foundered. Transfer of personnel to the Ohio Maru, either from the sinking ships or after they had taken to the boats, was seen as a logical explanation of "no trace found" reports from later arriving ships.

Built in 1912.

The Vestris was built for the South American trade in 1912 at Belfast. She was the biggest vessel ever to be placed in service between New York and South American ports, 495 feet long, 10,494 gross tons, with a depth of 28 feet and a beam of 60 feet. She had special equipment for carrying Argentine meat, such a refrigerating system as had seldom been seen before.

And for 16 years she stayed in service, with but one small fire to mar her record, and that was extinguished without serious damage and with no injury to those aboard. Though

MANY ENJOY BAND CONCERT

Vocal Artists Assist in Armistice Program Given By Rangers Band.

PLEASING NUMBERS.

The Armistice Concert given in the Capitol Theatre on Sunday evening was a very successful wind-up to the day's celebration of the tenth Armistice anniversary. The Band of the Peterborough Rangers, led by Lieut. W. H. Peryer, bandmaster, gave a bright and very attractive program of music, assisted by Miss Doris Rathbone, soloist of Old St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, and several local vocalists, including Mrs. Grace Byers, Miss Jessie Pattison, Miss Emma Lou Chenhall, Miss Olive Cullen, Messrs. W. H. Grieves, John Anderson and George East. The program was long enough to be satisfactory and just short enough to make the audience wish for a little more, which is a very satisfactory achievement for any program to attain.

The band, in their bright scarlet uniforms, made a gay setting for the music of the evening. They played, in the melodious, rhythmic fashion which characterizes them, several much-applauded numbers. Opening the program was the band music of "The King's Body Guard," followed by the favorite overture, "Poet and Peasant." Later, they played the entertaining humorous number, "The Lightning Switch," a collection of Musical Memories which includes many of the old popular numbers, switching from one to another in snappy fashion and bringing with it many novelty effects. The concluding number on the program was the band's rendition of a "Descriptive Military Fantasia," picturing the experiences of a recruit from the time of enlisting to the moment of return to his home, after "war's alarms" are over. This was especially appropriate to the day and made a brilliant ending to a very fine performance.

Kipling's Recessional

The solo and quartette numbers were equally pleasing. Miss Doris Rathbone of Toronto sang Kipling's "Recessional" in full, deep, rich tones giving an encore in the selection, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings." Miss Rathbone's deep-toned, vibrant voice was very effective in both numbers.

The tenor solo, "The Call of the Roll on High," by W. H. Grieves, was a beautifully rendered number and had an accompaniment in the mixed Quartette from St. Paul's Church, with members in Mrs. G. Byers, Miss J. Pattison, Messrs. J. Anderson and G. East. As an encore, Mr. Grieves' sweet tenor was heard to much advantage in "The Boys of the Old Brigade."

A very sweet interpretation, given in pleasing, smooth-voiced style, of Mendelsohn's favorite composition, "O Rest in the Lord," was given by Miss Jessie Pattison, who was encored loudly.

Quartette Sings

St. Paul's Ladies' Quartette, with members in Mrs. Byers, Miss Pattison, Miss Emma Lou Chenhall and Miss Olive Cullen, sang Kipling's "Recessional" with splendid tonal effect, and John Anderson's solo number was "The Minstrel Boy," a very fine rendition in robust tenor tones of the grand old song. In response to applause, Mr. Anderson sang very effectively, "There is a Land." The final vocal number united members of the Ladies' Quartette and the Mixed Quartette, with

KIRKFIELD GIRL MISSING IN WOODS

Search Parties Scour Surrounding Country

Nineteen Year Old Gladys Brotherstone Disappeared From Home Friday Night Clad in Hunting Outfit and With .32 Rifle.

PART OF CANAL HAS BEEN DRAINED
BLOODHOUND TAKES UP TRAIL OF GIRL

KIRKFIELD, Ont., Nov. 13.—(Special to Examiner).—Refusing to believe 19-year-old Gladys Brotherstone dead, and confident to-day's search would be crowned with success so far denied search parties early to-day prepared to renew attempts to locate the girl who disappeared from her home here on Friday evening.

Clad in navy blue serge gymnasium bloomers and a pullover sweater, a flannel coat, an old pair of oxfords and a felt hat, she was well equipped to spend some time in the bush. She took with her a 32 rifle and nine rounds of ammunition when she disappeared about 9 o'clock Friday evening, after having been felt alone in the house by her father and sister. The family runs a boarding house for stone quarry employees near Kirkfield.

The pyjamas it first was thought the girl was wearing, have been found in the house.

Since that time the only definite information is that provided by a bloodhound which picked up her scent and followed it for only about 200 yards. A Peterborough fortune teller has assured the family the girl will turn up. "She is near water, alive; you will hear from her in four days by letter or telegraph" he told Miss Brotherstone's brother yesterday. Efforts to gain information from other fortune tellers have failed.

Canal Drained

Almost a mile of the canal near here has been drained without finding the body. Gangs of stone quarry employees and neighbors have searched the woods without a trace. No motive can be advanced to support a self destruction theory, for the missing girl was in the best of health and had no worries her family knew of, neither is there any suggestion of foul play, for when the father and sister returned on Friday night there were no signs of a struggle in the house.

Police and searchers have no theories to assist them, absence of any apparent motive makes the disappearance a complete mystery, a young man with whom Miss Brotherstone had been keeping company and who was working near Toronto at the time of disappearance returned to Kirkfield to assist in the search on Sunday. He was unable

ARMISTICE DESCRIBED AS PRESCRIPTION

Rev. C. V. McLean Discusses Points On Which Agreement Was Based.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Responsibility Should Not Be Left Entirely To Statesmen and Leaders.

Woodrow Wilson's famous 14 points on which the armistice agreement was based were described to the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day as a prescription, Rev. C. V. McLean of St. Andrew's Church using that term in an eloquent Armistice address in which he dealt with the conditions of the Armistice and their effect upon the peace of the world.

Supplying the proper atmosphere for Mr. McLean's address, President W. R. Morris quoted several of the most striking paragraphs of Sir Austen Chamberlain's Ottawa speech as containing an Armistice message that should be remembered.

Rev. Mr. McLean, who was neatly introduced by Rotarian Alex. Mowat, said that he did not propose to discuss the honors of the war, but rather the steps by which it was hoped to make future wars impossible. He briefly sketched the history of Wilson's presentation of his 14 points and the final acceptance of them as a basis for the Armistice. Going over the various points, the speaker asked his hearers to view them as a prescription which, if followed faithfully, would have the effect of bringing peace to the world. Some of the features they stressed, he pointed out, were light, that in the abolition of secret diplomacy, co-operation and justice, in so far as the rights of the minorities were concerned. Of most importance, he said, was the fourteenth, which recommended the formation of a League of Nations.

Discussing this point at some length, Rev. Mr. McLean showed that such a league was not a bolt from the blue. He traced some of the steps that had been taken as far back as the 30 years" war to bring peace among the nations, referring to the code of laws in regard to war and peace published in 1625, and the later development of the theory of the balance of power, by which nations were to be so leagued together that any

LAVA TORRENT IS DECREASING

FUND FOR NEEDY

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 13—(Canadian Press)—The speed of the lava streams flowing from Mount Etna decreased to-day. This and the optimistic view expressed by Prof. G. Ponte, director of the vulcanological Institute, that the eruption was entering its final phase brought joy to the population of the stricken region.

While awaiting the disposition of the relief fund of 1,800,000 Lire (about $50,000) voted by the council of Ministers, Signor Fronteri, prefect of the Department and Signor Coli, Bishop of Acirale, today consigned a sum of the money to Vincenzo Patane, Fascist Secretary of Nunziata, for the immediate relief of the neediest refugees.

People of all the towns in neighborhood were vieing with one another to bring aid and comfort to the homeless.

One pathetic sight was a poor family carrying a baby, who had just died, to Giarre for interment. All were weeping because they were unable to lay the little body in their family plot which was covered by the fiery torrent.

COUPLE HEAR FROM VETERAN AFTER 10 YEARS

Angus Ryckman, of Kingston, Receives Letter From Son, Who Is In Detroit.

BELIEVED DEAD.

Had Worked in Various Parts of United States For Ten Years.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 13 (Special to The Examiner).—Ten years ago on May 6, 1918, Angus Ryckman, of Mount Pleasant, Prince Edward County, received a letter from his son, Walter Ashton Ryckman, written in a hospital in France, where he was lying badly wounded. No further word was received and the parents mourned him as dead. On October 26 last, Mr. Ryckman received an eighteen-page letter from his son in Detroit, where he is employed as timekeeper with the Chrysler Company. He told of how he had returned from the war, written his parents, and received no answer, though his parents never received any; how he had gone to the Southern States and fired on a locomotive for three or four years; he was then driver for a year, and figured in a railway wreck, in which he was injured, and on his recovery came to Detroit. He is at present in good health and weighs 190 pounds. Mr. Ryckman has gone to Detroit to visit his son, and then on to see his daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Gaumont, Chicago, and his brother, Henry, Kibble, Michigan.

While at Halifax, in 1916, Walter was thrown from a horse and was in the hospital for several months. During active service, Walter was wounded in the arm and invalided for a short time. In a later conflict he suffered a lung wound, and was in a base hospital for months.

PRESENT FLAG.

Canadian Legion Is Given New Flag By Rev. Paul Costello.

Rev. Paul Costello, Dominion Chaplain of the Canadian Legion, presented a fine silken Union Jack to the Peterborough Branch of the Legion on Armistice Day. The presentation took place in front of the Cenotaph just before the ceremony commenced, and was made by the Dominion Chaplain to President Jas. Abraham.

Heroic Sacrifice Is Recalled In Great Memorial Service

Veterans and Citizens Join in Most Impressive Commemoration Service at Cenotaph and in Capitol Theatre on Tenth Anniversary of Armistice.

VISIBLE TRIBUTE IS PAID TO THE GALLANT SPIRITS WHO WERE FAITHFUL DURING WAR EVEN UNTO DEATH

In Pride and Gratitude Peterborough Citizens Honor Memory of Their Noble Dead—His Majesty Sends Message to People of City.

Surrounding the cenotaph the citizens of Peterborough, and the veterans of the Great War in particular, paid visible tribute Sunday afternoon to "the gallant spirits who were faithful even unto death" while in the service of their country during the Great War.

The veterans, drawn up in two long ranks facing the cenotaph, stood in impressive and solemn silence in homage to the memory of their fallen comrades. Shining medals, two, three and four in number, worn on their breasts gave significant testimony of their own brave service to their country. The citizens stood behind, and they, too, stood in silent respect to the glorious memory of loved ones who gave their lives in the hour of our country's need.

The Boy Scouts, representing the youth of Canada, were drawn up at one end of the veterans, and they were proof that young Canada appreciates full well the debt they owe those men who gave their lives in Flanders Fields, and revere their memory and their deeds.

It was a short, impressive ceremony, impressive in its simplicity, throbbing with silent eloquence of feeling, there enacted at the cenotaph. The Rangers' Band played hymns at the beginning, and then James Abraham, commander of the Peterborough branch of Canadian Legion, snapped out the order "Attention!" and the long lines of veterans sprang erect with the smartness gained ten long years and more ago. The "Last Post" rang out on the still air, sweet and sad, the Union Jack at the flag-staff was slowly lowered, the "Reveille" sent out its silvery call to action, and the flag was slowly raised, billowing in the wind.

Wreaths Are Placed.

The wreaths were then reverently and carefully placed in large numbers on the base of the cenotaph, completely covering its base. There were wreaths from many old comrades of the fallen, from many clubs, fraternal organizations, and from the city. Some of the wreaths bore the names of those who placed them there. They were from the Canadian Legion, Sons of England, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, Otonabee Chapter of the I.O.D.E., veterans of the Fire Brigade, Women's Liberal Club, the Women's Conservative Club, the 21st Battalion Club, the Knights of Columbus, the city of Peterborough, and the Fifth Peterborough Boy Scout Troop, and many others.

The veterans then paraded to the Capitol Theatre for the program there. The parade made an impressive appearance as it marched down George street. The Rangers' Band played the same stirring music that these men had marched to many years before, and they stepped out briskly, old soldiers all. Following the band marched representatives of the city. Then came two grizzled veterans of the war of 1866, Colonel J. W. Miller, marching briskly, who refused to ride in the car provided for him because he wanted to march with the boys. The veterans came swinging down the street with the same old rythm that carried them over the roads of France. A squad of veterans of the Fire Brigade made a snappy appearance in their smart blue uniforms. The Boy Scouts brought up the rear, showing their pride in every step at the opportunity to march with the men who had defended the Empire.

Spectators Stand at Attention.

Spectators stood at attention as the parade marched past and many removed their hats in token of their respect for these men who had fought for them and with them in France.

Hundreds of reverent citizens entered the Capitol Theatre with them to recall and pay tribute to the men who died for their country. The theatre was soon filled to capacity and the whole building was in the hush of memory. The Rangers' Band played "O Canada," the national anthem of Canada, and the piece of music never, perhaps, reacted with deeper feeling upon the audience. Then the "Last Post" resounded its high, sweet, silvery notes to (the) of the silent, deep-thinking audience. James Abraham, who presided, requested that the audience stand in two minutes of silence. The audience stood with bowed heads, each heart crowded with memories of the dead. The band played that plaintive hymn that men have listened to and sang in moments of great feeling down through the years, "Nearer My

ICY PAVEMENT IS DISASTROUS

Five Cars Reported To Have Overturned On Chemong Road Last Night.

NO SERIOUS INJURIES.

Motorists on the highways in the district surrounding the city encountered icy pavement for the first time last night—and in many cases, came out second best. No less than five cars are reported to have deserted their customary route of travel on the Chemong road for the less comely and well-defined ditches on either side, while the Peterborough-Port Hope highway provided equally undependable traction.

First to Come to Grief

George Doukas, driving a large sedan, was the first to come to grief. About one o'clock this morning, he was proceeding toward the city from Chemong when, about a mile from the suburbs, his car turned completely around and rolled into the east ditch. It rested on the top and the occupants climbed out, practically uninjured. This accident, indirectly led to the second serious one. A portion of the crowd from the Chemong Pavilion had stopped to view the wreck. Norman Lang, driving a big touring car, noticed the crowd, attempted to stop to investigate, and his car piled up in the same ditch, a complete wreck. The top was torn back, and the body was badly smashed, but to the relief of all, there was not a serious casualty. The Doukas car was only slightly damaged.

A third car, turned front first into the ditch near Kendry, on the Peterborough-Port Hope highway, was noticed by several Peterborough motorists, though no details of the accident were known to them.

RESIDENT CLAIMS NAME ON MEMORIAL

Street Man Went Over With First Contingent in 1914.

John M. Allen, 207 Lake Street, claims that his name is listed on the new memorial in Confederation Square among the names of those soldiers, who gave up their lives in the Great War. Sunday afternoon when drawn up in front of the cenotaph with the veterans to honour the memory of their comrades Mr. Allen called the representative of the Examiner over and said, "There have my name on the war memorial over there as dead, and here I am." Asked if there was any other John Allen, who had enlisted from Peterborough and who might have died in France, Mr. Allen replied, "No. There were a lot of Allens all right, Dan, Fred and Bill, but I was the only John, and they have me as dead."

Mr. Allen looked every inch the old soldier that he is standing there with the other veterans before the cenotaph. He enlisted the first night of the war and went overseas with the first contingent. He saw long years of active service in France and had many experiences that took him right into the jaws of death. But he was spared from making the supreme sacrifice and returned home to his wife and family in Peterborough.

(The Examiner will be glad to learn from relatives or friends of the John Allen named on the memorial)

LARGE CITY CONGREGATIONS OBSERVE ARMISTICE SERVICE

Memorial Messages Are Delivered in Local Churches On Sunday.

MEMORIES RECALLED.

People Are Urged To March Forward and Maintain Peace On Earth.

Thanksgiving, that institution which of late years has acquired the beautiful two-fold purpose of marking the close of a great world struggle, and of directing man's mind to a fuller realization and appreciation of God's goodness, was fittingly observed by large congregations in every city church on Sunday. Memories of fallen warriers mingled with song, prayer and sermon of gratitude on this tenth anniversary of the Armistice.

St. Peter's Cathedral

"The war settled nothing. Pray for France. Prayer will do much." Such were the words that Marshal Foch addressed to His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, on the occasion of the latter's visit to him in France, eight years ago.

The Bishop recalled these sentences during the course of his sermon at the late Mass of St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday morning, and recalled also the utterances of the Generalissimo of the Allied armies, Marshal Foch, when His Lordship asked him how he accomplished the ending of the war, and he said, pounding his chair in emphasis:

"I didn't do it. Almighty God did it."

Interrupting his discourse at the late Mass yesterday morning, His Lordship asked the congregation to kneel at eleven o'clock, to observe the two minutes of silence. Utter and complete quiet filled the large edifice

ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY RETIRES FROM ACTIVE SERVICE

Presented With Farewell Gift In Commemoration of Years of Service.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY.

Most Rev. Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang To Be Elected To Bishopric To-day.

LONDON, Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press Cable).—Last night, Most Rev. Thomas Randall Davidson, said "nunc dimittis" as Archbishop of Canterbury, which office he held for a quarter of a century.

Most Rev. Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of York and Archbishop-Designate of Canterbury, went last evening with Premier Stanley Baldwin, to Lambeth Palace to present the retiring Archbishop with a farewell gift, subscribed for by people of all creeds and no creeds, living the world over, in commemoration of his years of service which in all truth may be described as having been given to Christendom at large. The presentation proceedings were private in view of the many farewell meetings Dr. David... am is now attending.

The amount subscribed for the gift is not stated, but is believed in the neighborhood of $75,000. It has been impressed upon the retiring Archbishop that the greater part of the gift should be utilized towards the personal comfort of Mistress David... son and himself. The remainder will be used for the erection of a permanent memorial to his Episcopacy at Lambeth Palace. Archbishop Gordon Lang, as chairman of the subscription committee, read an address on behalf of the contributors and asked the aged primate to use the gift "to

Chicago Gangs Hang, Poison And Torture In Revival Of War Among Beer-Runners

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—The sawed-off shotgun, the machine gun and the automatic pistol apparently have been abandoned as death-dealing and terrorizing implements in Chicago gang warfare for the methods of the hangman, the Borgias and the Spanish Inquisition.

Death by hanging was a gang sentence imposed and executed, it was indicated to-day, when the body of a man was found beside the Soo Railroad tracks near Melrose Park, a Chicago suburb. Police expressed the belief he was the latest victim of the revival of the war between the Joe Saltis and "Spike" O'Donnell gangs for control of the beer trade on Chicago's South Side.

The victim of gangland's hangman was found with a noose around his neck so that he had strangled, while the other end was made fast to a post. The man's body was in a half sitting, half reclining position, his head held up by the rope looped about his neck. All identification marks had been removed from the clothing.

The Peterborough Hunt Club send reports from their hunting camp at Pakesley, in the Owen Sound district, of a very successful hunt. Four magnificent deer were shot by the party on the morning of November 8. Mark Bredin was the first to draw bead on a deer, and had the luck to bring down number one, a fine large buck. The weather in their district is fine and very suitable for the hunt, and the hunters predict that they will have a most successful hunting season.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

Rev. N. Clarke Wallace Delivers Memorial Day Oration To Veterans.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 13 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Citizens of Campbellford and visitors to the town Sunday afternoon witnessed the most impressive memorial service held here during the ten years since the cessation of hostilities. The service was under the direction of the Canadian Legion, the local branch, and much credit is due them and those who assisted for the most impressive manner in which they paid tribute to their fallen comrades. From the first step of the parade, to the last note of the Last Post, the service was one which will not soon be forgotten.

Headed by the Northumberland Regimental band in uniform, the Legionaires and other ex-service men marched from the armouries at 2.30 p.m. The route led across the bridge to Rear street, thence north of Market street. At this point the Girl Guides and High Schools Cadets in uniform joined the column. There was also a detachment of Boy Scouts. Marshalled by Captain T. R. Hyland, the column moved along Market to Front and back across the bride and to the memorial. There the units took up positions on all four sides of the memorial, and the service began.

Impressive Ceremony

The first order was the placing of wreaths. This is done by several societies and individuals as well. "O God, Our Help In Ages Past," was the first hymn, after which the Rev. L. M. Smith, Baptist minister, led in prayer. When The Lord's Prayer had been repeated in unison, Captain Purdy of the Salvation Army read the scripture lesson from the seventh chapter of the Book of Revelation, verses 9-17. The Rev. N. Clarke Wallace delivered the address, which was at once fitting and inspiring. He reminded those present that the names of the men who had fallen should never die, but that it remained with the living to make them immortal. His remarks were founded on two brief passages of scripture.

"Abide With Me," another of the hymns familiar to all, and more particularly so to the men from overseas, was the next order of the service, and was followed by a brief prayer by the Rev. R. C. Tait, St. John's United Church. To the Rev. W. H. Mark, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, was accorded the honor of pronouncing the Benediction. Two minutes' silence followed while men stood with bared heads, and those of the ladies present were bowed in silent prayer.

Sound Last Post

A quintette of trumpeters sounded The Last Post, the military tribute to the fallen, and as a mark of further tribute, three volleyes were fired by a firing party of twelve men under the command of C.S.M. Armstrong. But most impressive of all in the minds of many was "The Flowers of the Forest," played by the regimental band. As brass bands play The Dead March, so the Highland pipers lay their dead in the grave while the bagpipes play the Highland dirge, "The Flowers of the Forest." The National Anthem concluded the service.

Immediately the parade reformed and marched back to the respective starting points of the various units. Before dismissing the veterans, Major Bygott spoke a word of appreciation to those who had turned out for the occasion and particularly to the visitors from the neighboring towns who were present. He was of the opinion that the service, which was arranged by a committee from the local branch of the Legion, had been a great credit to the organization. It was their intention, he said, to make the memorial service an annual affair.

YOUNG COUPLE GIVEN SHOWER

LABOR LOSES IN FIRST VOTE

Government Has Majority of 170 in Reply To Speech From Throne.

LOSING OPPORTUNITIES.

LONDON, Nov. 13 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Labor party amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, censuring the Government for failure to grapple adequately with the unemployment problem, was defeated in the House of Commons yesterday. The vote was 321 to 151.

The debate on the amendment was resumed when the House met yesterday, and Rt. Hon. John Wheatley, who was Minister of Health in the Labor Government, termed the bulk of the Government's suggestions for alleviating unemployment as "humbug."

Hon. Edward A. Harney, Liberal, South Shields, who was a Senator in the Australian Parliament from 1901 to 1904, said that the reduction of fares to Canada and Australia was of no use to a man unable to find even five dollars. He expressed the opinion that the ideas of the British authorities and those of the authorities in the Dominions were in direct conflict.

"We thought it possible to cultivate their acres and import here their primary products for use to be the central manufacturing depot," he said, "but they wanted to be the manufacturers as well. The class of goods they least liked going in was the Britishers. The men who went out loitered round the towns and constituted half the population of five towns of Australia."

Morgan Jones, Labor, Caerphilly, repudiated a suggestion which he said had been made by Sir Austen Chamberlain, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, that Labor would "crab any migration proposals. He denied that Labor would make any such attempt so long as no kind of pressure was brought upon the men to leave their homes.

Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Labor Party, charged that the Government was losing opportunities to deal with unemployment. He supported the views expressed during the debate last week with regard to the opportunities in the Crown colonies as markets for British goods.

People who wish to cross the busy streets in Paris are to be provided at specified points with "lanes" marked out by two rows of brass studs. Motor-drivers must cross these lanes with care, as here the pedestrian has the first right.

TOWNSHIPS MEET IN ANNUAL SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Favorable Reports Are Made in All Departments of Work.

PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION

Important Address in Work of Schools Are Heard by Delegates.

(Examiner Correspondence)

DUNSFORD, Nov. 13—The annual Sunday School convention for the townships of Verulam and East Fenelon was held in Bobcaygeon on Thursday afternoon and evening. There was a good representative attendance at both sessions. The devotional exercises in the afternoon were conducted by Rev. S. H. Hill, pastor of the Bobcaygeon Presbyterian church who for a lesson read the twelfth chapter of Romans. Rev. M. L. Hinton, of the United Church in his very pleasing manner extended greetings to the members of the convention. J. J. Robertson, of the Scotch Line Baptist church, president of the township organization then gave a brief report of what had been undertaken and accomplished during the past year. The secretary and R. W. Gamble, of Fenelon Falls reported a balance on hand of $2.60 as against twelve cents a year ago.

This was followed by a report from the different township superintendents, the most glowing of which were those given by Miss Grace S. Robinson for the Missionary department and G. W. Scott for the temperance work. Miss Robinson had visited all the schools connected with the convention, 14 in number; she had been well received and had found a real live interest being taken in this work. Mr. Scott had visited only about fifty per cent of the schools but found in every instance renewed activity and a firm conviction that success in combating the liquor trafic lay in education which must be given in childhood in the home and Sunday School.

Practical Demonstration

Rev. J. F. Everson gave a practical demonstration of teaching a Sunday School class by use of the co-operative method which is the method recommended by L. A. Weigle in his unit on "The Teacher" which is the second unit in the standard teacher training course. The lesson taught was Romans, chapter twelve, on "Peace and Goodwill."

Rev. R. H. Rickard, of Pickering, Provincial Representative, by use of a wall chart demonstrated the way in which Sunday Schools were graded and in so doing explained the different phases of Sunday School work upon which emphasis is laid throughout the year.

The devotional period in the evening was in charge of Rev. D. Fraser, of the Bobcaygeon Baptist church. Mr. Fraser read a chapter from Paul's letter to Timothy which brought out the qualities essential to success in leadership in Christian work.

The newly appointed officers were installed by Mr. Rickard, who in a very brief way laid upon those before him a sense of their duty and responsibility. The sum of his message is contained in the following verse which was used to close the service:

Lord, speak to me, that I may speak
In living echoes of they tone;
As thou hast sought, so let me seek
Thy erring children lost and lone.

How to Read the Bible

Rev. W. G. Dryer, of the Bobcaygeon Anglican church gave an address on "How to read the Bible." He began by relating the story of a missionary who when he had reached his field fell down on his knees before God and said, "Now let me burn out for Christ." Following are the points emphasized by the speaker: "Secure a large typed good bible with ample margin. Have an up-to-date concordance so you can study every phase of meaning. Have a new topical text book. Read daily, the bible contains all that is necessary to salvation, it is not what the church teaches, nor what men teach but what God teaches that should interest us.

Have a definite hour to read the bible. The most profitable time is in the morning. Read and study consecutively. What you dislike most study the hardest. Ask yourself, what is the most important thing taught in each chapter. Read the whole bible. Read it comparatively. The best book to explain the bible is the bible. Read your bible topically. Read it thoughtfully, mark and inwardly digest it. Read it repeatedly, illumination will come through this. Have the revised version. Read your bible believingly, obediently and above all prayerfully.

POT OF WATER SCALDS BABY

Mother's Apron Is Believed To Have Caught in Handle of Vessel.

SITTING ON STOVE.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Nov. 13 (Examiner Correspondence). — What might have been a more serious accident occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Fee on Saturday, about noon, when their baby Donald, of ten months, was badly scalded about the head, face, neck and arm. At the noon hour, Mrs. Fee set the pot containing the potatoes on the damper of the stove, while she turned to get a vessel to strain the water in. The baby was at the other side of the kitchen, but on losing sight of his mother, hurriedly crept to the stove. It is thought that Mrs. Fee's apron caught on the handle of the utensil holding the potatoes, upsetting them over on the child on the floor. With great presence of mind the mother hurriedly removed the clothing from the child and after using home remedies, called to her husband who phoned for Dr. Turner of Millbrook, the latter reaching the scene in very short order, dressed the burns of the unfortunate child.

The baby yesterday was resting as comfortable as can be expected, and there was hope for a speedy decovery.

NAVY POLICY IS REVISED

Strength of United States' Fleet Will Be Second To None in World.

CIVIL AVIATION.

Old Cruisers Will Be Replaced By New 10,000 Tons Standard.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (Canadian Press).—On the heels of President Coolidge's declaration that this country needs additional cruisers, the navy department yesterday made public a re-statement of its policy to maintain a United States naval fleet second to none in the world.

The policy has been revised in many details for the first time since the Washington Arms Conference in 1923. Secretary Wilbur asserted, that the revision was only with respect to the elimination of obsolete projects and the expansion of the aviation branch of the service.

"The fundamental naval policy of the United States," the general board of the navy states, in making public the policy, "is that its navy should be maintained in sufficient strength to support United States policies and commerce, and to guard its continental and overseas possessions."

Conform With Treaties

It was pointed out that the naval policy necessarily must conform with treaties limiting naval armament. The board, however, said the building and maintenance policy is "to build and maintain an efficient well-balanced fleet in all classes of fighting ships in accordance with the capital ship ratios; and to preserve these ratios by building replacement ships and by disposing of old ships in accordance with a continuing program, to make superiority of armament in their class an end in view of the design of all fighting ships, and to provide great radius of action in all fighting ships."

Relative to cruisers the policy was outlined: "To support the fleet and protect our commerce, replace all old cruisers with modern cruisers of 10,000 standard tons displacement, carrying eight-inch guns and, in addition, to build similar cruisers at a rate that will maintain effect cruiser tonnage in conformity with the capital ship ratios as established by the Washington treaty limiting naval armament."

The small cruiser will not be included in the future naval policy, it was stated, in view of the fact that they are "of little value in the protection of our trans-oceanic trade and outlying possessions, due to their limited cruising radius and our lack of naval bases overseas."

Other factors in the policy sponsored encouragement to civil aviation, friendly and sympathetic relations with the world by foreign cruises and the support of American interests in the development and expansion of American foreign commerce and an American merchant marine.

Another principle in the policy expressed the need of maintenance of a marine corps of strength sufficient to support the navy by furnishing detachments to vessels of the fleet, guards for shore stations, garrisons for outlying positions, and troops ready for use as an expeditionary force.

ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY

secure in any way you think it fit the ease and comfort of yourself and Mistress Davidson."

Celebrates Wedding Anniversary

Acknowledging the surprise and bewilderment of himself and wife, who today celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, Archbishop Davidson returned profound thanks for this manifestation of affectionate esteem.

There will be a short interregnum in the Archibishopric. The Dean and Chapter of Canterbury have already received his Majesty's "conge delire" or mandate to elect a new bishop. They will assemble to-day and with grave formality will elect the Most Rev. Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang. This ceremony is an interesting survival of the days when the Cathedral Chapters were supposed to actually have the deciding vote in the election of bishops, although even in such days there is reason to believe it would have gone ill with any Chapter which was bold enough to reject the King's nominee.

The date of Doctor Lang's enthronement will probably be fixed today. The ceremony will be long and imposing, following the lines followed on such occasions 200 years ago. Early yesterday morning, with Mistress Long and a few others, Archbishop Lang attended Holy Communion at Lambeth Palace chapel.

Wednesday, as Baron Davidson, the retired Primate of the Church of England, will take his place in the House of Lords as a temporal peer. He will be introduced by Lords Stamfordham and Harris.

COLD RELIEVED INSTANTLY WAY DOCTORS NOW ADVISE

Tempting Taste! Instant Relief —Then Cold Just Disappears When Treated This Way

Neglecting autumn colds is sure to cause needless misery and may risk pneumonia. So doctors are now recommending a method that is giving quick, sure relief—not only in extreme hospital cases but in vast numbers of homes in Peterborough and vicinity.

Miss Edith Dennis, for example neglected her cold until her eyes became inflamed, her nose stopped up and congestion started spreading so bad she called her doctor who advised Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a hospital certified compound of wild cherry, terpin hydrate, etc.

With the first pleasant swallow she felt its comforting healing warmth. Relief began instantly and in an hour or so the medication was absorbed by her system, loosening up congestion in her nose passages and chest. When she awoke next morning there was practically no sign of the cold—and in another day or so congestion had disappeared entirely.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physicians.

This hospital certified medicine quickly penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the air passages. Absorbed by the system it helps get rid of congestion, reduces fever and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person to-morrow. At all druggists—60c and twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

God to Thee." The band then played that lament for the dead, "The Dead March in Saul."

Mr. Abraham then explained in a few simple sentences the great meaning of the service. "It is to revere our fallen comrades. 'Greater love hath no man than this, than a man lay down his life for a friend.' We are here also to commemorate the signing of the armistice, ten years ago to-day."

The band played, "Abide With Me," in quiet notes.

Honors the Returned.

Mayor Denne was the first called to speak. He opened his speech by paying honor to those who had returned from the war, and then read two telegrams, one from His Majesty the King, through the Armistice Ceremonial Committee of Canada, and the second was from the Consul-General, administering the general consulate of France, Armistice Ceremonial Committee of Canada.

The first one read as follows: "The Mayor, Peterborough, Ontario: Please have read at your memorial service following message from His Majesty the King: 'I have received with deep satisfaction the loyal and devoted message forwarded by you from all in Canada, who are uniting in the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the armistice on this solemn day. I join with my people in Canada and throughout the Empire in remembering with pride and thankfulness those who fought, suffered and gave their lives in the Great War. George R.' Armistice Ceremonial Committee of Canada."

The second read: "The Mayor of Peterborough, Ontario: The Government of the Republic has just learned through the Honorable Phillippe Roy of the formation of a Canadian committee organized for the celebration in Canada at the anniversary of the armistice ceremony in honor of the Canadian soldiers who died on the field of honor, and I am directed by the Government to inform you that it is happy to associate itself in the name of the whole of France to the manifestation proposed for the commemoration of Canadian heroes who fell on the soil of France, fighting side by side with their French brothers in arms. Consul-General, administering the general consulate of France. Armistice Ceremonial Committee of Canada."

Mayor Denne went on to say that as Mayor of Peterborough he had an interest in every organization in the city. There were about 3,000 returned men in Peterborough and only around 450 of these men belonged to the Canadian Legion, whereas nearly all of them should belong. The legion is not operating on a paying basis. Something must be done to remedy this and put it on its feet. The legion should be one of the strongest organizations in the city. If the officers of the legion will not call a meeting for reorganizing the legion and putting the hall on a first-class basis, then he will try and do it. It is up to the member to get members and everybody should do their best to help the legion.

Dominion Chaplain's Speech.

Rev. Paul Costello, Dominion chaplain of the Canadian Legion and a padre overseas, was the next speaker. "We are here to honor in a fitting manner our fallen comrades, and to thank God for the signing of the armistice ten years ago to-day," began the speaker. He pointed the deep significance of the tenth anniversary of the signing of the armistice as the first great milestone since that event. He recalled the deep feelings and memories of their comrades it brought to the minds of all veterans, and the scenes it called up of ten years ago when the Canadians advanced into Mons and freed those poor people of German rule. Rev. Costello also pointed out the necessity of remembering the dead because Greece, that great Empire of ancient times, failed because it forgot to remember its dead heroes.

"Statistics give the reason why we are here this afternoon," said Rev. Costello. He read out that 59,545 Canadian soldiers gave up their lives in the war, and the deaths among returned men during the past ten years have numbered 40,000. "We must honor those 40,000 soldiers, too, and keep the memory of their sacrifice and deeds ever before the children," urged the speaker.

Lieut.-Col. Ackerman next gave a short but impressive speech, which was greatly appreciated by the audience. He paid tribute to the returned men, and said that since Armistice Day, 1927, he had been interested in the requirements of the returned men in Canada, especially in Ontario. In the last ten years thousands of returned men have aged twenty years, physically, and unless ex-service men realize their responsibilities the problems of the returned men will be greater than at the present time. There are thousands of returned men in Ontario, and the work of the Canadian Legion is work that will assist in helping all ex-service men.

Poppy day was responsible for the cheering up of many returned men, especially the boys of Christie Street Hospital, when many of their comrades went to visit them. The returned men must be a united body so that they may help those men less fortunate than themselves, said Lieut.-Col. Ackerman in closing.

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., in a few fitting sentences expressed his sympathy for the returned men and his appreciation of their deeds. He hoped that they would combine to obtain mutual benefits that they have earned and needed.

Major Maurice Park sang a solo in fine voice and Lieut.-Col. Ackerman played the piano accompaniment.

Explains Memorial.

His Honor Judge Huycke gave a graphic and eloquent interpretation of the symbolism of the Peterborough War Memorial. He spoke of the difficulties the committee appointed for securing of a memorial suitable to commemorate the city's brave dead had met and overcome. He thought that the memorial to Peterborough's soldier dead would keep ever green the memory of their sacrifice.

Speaking of the design of fleur-de-lis carved on the base of the memorial, Judge Huycke said this drew attention to the fact that the war was fought in France and for France.

The crouching figure which surmounts the granite base at the western side symbolizes the defeated figure of the enemy, seething with rage, fury and disappointment. In his left hand, he carries the flambeau, or blazing torch, which was used to destroy the cities and farmsteads of France and Belgium.

At his left side and fallen at his feet is a broken sword. Cringing and cowering, he recoils from the erect figure that stands watching him. Why?

Because the figure which he faces, built in the same heroic mould as the figure of the defeated enemy, is tall and dignified and stands up straight and firm. While hate, fury and destruction animate the countenance of the defeated foe, kindness and good will and determination are the qualities which are written on the face of the other figure, representative of the knight of Chivalry

Used Only If Needed.

In the hand of this figure is held the sword, drawn but held downwards, to indicate the fact that the sword will be used only if needed, but is there for a certain purpose. The left hand is held upward, meaning: "You must go back. You have come this far. Come no farther." Before that upraised hand, the opposing figure reels back.

On the back of the Knight of Chivalry, we see a shield or buckler on which is emblazoned the cross. It is the cross of the White Christ and was used by the Crusaders of old to show that they fought under the standard of Christianity.

There is a wonderful expression on both faces. In the one, that of the Knight of Chivalry, is dignity, power and victory, and in the other, the face of the defeated enemy, in defeat, rage and despair.

The Knight of Chivalry stands for the Canadian soldier, the soldier of the Allies, and for the sentiment of those seven hundred and fifteen men from Peterborough and its district who gave up their lives in the Great War, that Christianity might be saved. This figure represents the heroic spirit of sacrifice which animated the sons of Peterborough.

Chivalry in the olden days meant helping the weak, defending the defenceless, protecting women and children. The ideal of chivalry in all ages has been the defeat of the bully and the redressing of the wrongs of those who cannot help themselves.

Judge Huycke spoke of the sacredness of the memorial itself and the deeds it commemorated. He begged that mothers should teach their children to approach the monument with fitting feeling of respect and gratitude.

The band played "Land of Hope and Glory" and then "God Save the King" and the great service to commemorate the tenth signing of the armistice was over.

ARRANGEMENTS ARE MADE FOR BAZAAR

Committees Are Appointed to Make Final Plans for Bazaar.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 13.—Mrs. John Armstrong, Eighth Line, Cavan, was hostess for the November meeting of the Woman's League of Grace Presbyterian church, this week, when over forty members and friends were in attendance and a very interesting gathering held.

The president, Mrs. Charles Thorndyke, was in the chair and the reports presented by both the treasurer, Mrs. J. R. Eakins, and the secretary, Mrs. T. Ingram, proved quite encouraging.

The special business before the meeting was the making of final arrangements for the annual bazaar, which will be held this year on Saturday, December first, the place to be announced later, though the Armouries is usually chosen for this sale. Committees were appointed and the various details given attention, so that things are well under way for an event which has always been one of the most successful, of this nature, held each fall in the village. The fowl supper, which has been a feature of the bazaar other years, was held separately this month, and with the play which followed, netted the Society considerably over $300.00.

Mrs. Armstrong served a delicious lunch, during the social hour, and the hearty thanks of the League were extended to the hostess for her gracious hospitality beofre the guests filled the waiting cars, and left for home.

Wide Awakes Meet.

The Wide Awakes group Canadian Girls in Training held its regular meeting on Wednesday evening, at the leader's home, with fourteen members in attendance, and with interest and enthusiasm manifested throughout.

The president, Miss Wilma Fallis, was in the chair, and the report from the treasurer, Miss Alvira Davis, showed an increasing balance in the bank, the public meeting the previous week having netted nearly $18.00, and the offerings at the regular meetings being particularly good.

The girls will sell poppies in the village on Saturday, the proceeds to go to the Christie Street hospital, Toronto, the secretary of the G.W.V.A. having secured the necessary supply of flowers.

Business items discussed included the matter of buying C.G.I.T. pins for each member and the repetition of the play, "Tired of Missions" in aid of the funds of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary.

The usual ritual opened the devotional period, and all present took part in the Bible reading which covered the main points in the life of Jacob, the leader's talk being on the subject, "Selling our Birthright," with special emphasis upon the fact that God may be depended upon to keep His word, and while He needs our co-operation, His will is never put forward by our doing evil that good may come.

Music and a social hour completed the evening. There will be no C.G.I.T. meeting on the regular date, Wednesday, November 14, as a special social evening, under the auspices of the Mission Circle, and taking in, by invitation, the young people of the church who are over eighteen years of age, and under twenty-five, will be held in the church parlors that night. A debate has been arranged for, and a speaker from Toronto, probably Rev. Mr. Williams, a returned missionary, will address the gathering previous to the games and contests which, with the service of refreshments, will complete the evening's program.

Ladies' Aid Meets.

Mrs. Fred Smith was hostess for the November meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the United Church, on Thursday afternoon, the vice-president, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, being in the chair, and the attendance being quite representative of the organization.

The treasurer, Miss May Duncan, had a detailed report of finances, and particularly the receipts from the fowl supper, showing that a substantial balance remains in the bank after all debts had been paid, the latter including the new tables which had been used for the first time at the supper on October 23, and also the new dishes and cutlery, with other supplies, which were bought for the same occasion.

The date for the annual bazaar was set for Saturday, December 8, and the vacant store on King street will be secured if possible. Committees were appointed to attend to all details, and a supper will be served. Mrs. Stuart Fallis and Mrs. Will Armstrong being in charge. The sale will be held on only one day this year, though the custom has been to have it both Friday and Saturday other seasons.

The purchase of fine table linen necessary for use at the church when the Lord's Supper is observed was left in the hands of a committee, and the matter of the sale of two of the long serving tables, owned by the Aid but not now in use since the new ones have been secured, and which a local Lodge wishes to buy, was left with two of the officers.

The convenors will call their committees together before the bazaar, for such final arrangements are found to be necessary, and provided the former Byam store can be secured, the place will be made ready in good time for the event.

The annual meeting of the Aid Society comes in December, the place of the gathering to be announced later. A pleasant social hour followed the formal meeting on Thursday.

TOWNSHIPS MEET

by the use of a picture of a peasant of Palestine teaching his son to plough. The speaker drew the attention of his audience to the characteristics of the boy as evident in the picture. The boy had a good face and a fine physique which showed a mother's interest and care—and gave the boy a good start which was a very important thing in life. It revealed the far reaching effect of influence on the part of one's ancestors. The boy was at that age which is a critical period in life. The look in his eyes showed that he was dreaming dreams. His position also revealed that he had his eye on a mark. He was now just at the age when he was learning to do things and was fortunate in having his father for his best friend and pal. The father was helping him but some day the lad would have to plough alone. Father and mother would be gone and the boy would have to on his own responsibility. Mr. Rickard toward the close of his address stressed the opportunity given Sunday School teachers and parents while working with the children in whose hands lay the destiny of youth. How the powers of adolescent years are used will determine whether character is made or marred. The powers of these years should be transformed into usefulness. This would be accomplished through education and training which was the real job of the Sunday School.

NEW MINISTER IS INDUCTED

Rev. W. H. Mark Is Inaugurated in Campbellford Presbyterian Church.

IMPORTANT CEREMONY.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 13.—After more than three months without a regular minister, St. Andrew's Presbyterian congregation met Friday afternoon at half past two for the purpose of being present at the induction of the Rev. W. H. Mark, late of New Westminster, B.C. At the close of the service, the members of the congregation and the visitors were introduced to Mr. Mark by the Rev. James Grier, former pastor of the church and J. A. Anderson, an elder. There was only one cloud on the horizon, the absence of Mrs. Mark. This was unavoidable, due to the recent death of her mother. It is expected that she will arrive in Campbellford during the next few days.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Hornsby of Port Hope, assisted by the Rev. D. A. Thompson, D.D., of Hastings. The lesson was read by the Rev. D. A. McKenzie, minister of the Burnbrae church. Selecting as his text, the sixteenth verse of the forty-ninth chapter of Isaah, Mr. Hornsby delivered a brief, though interesting and impressive sermon. Following the sermon, Mr. Grier led in prayer. Dr. Thompson officiated at the actual induction ceremony and extended an invitation to any ministers present in the congregation to come forward and extend the right hand of fellowship to Mr. Mark. The Rev. R. C. Tait, St. John's United church; the Rev. L. M. Smith, Baptist church, the Rev. Mr. MacTavish, of the Seymour charge and the other clergymen previously mentioned availed themselves of the opportunity of making the acquaintance of the latest arrival into the local clerical circle.

Addresses Minister.

To the Rev. Stewart Lennox of Havelock, was accorded the honor and duty of addressing the minister. He took as a basis for his remarks, a passage from the book of Philippians, "This is one thing I do." First he claimed, Mr. Mark would be well advised to adapt himself to his preser environment. He must get to know the members of his congregation and adapt his services to their particular spiritual needs. With a minister, just as with an every-day business man, there was always one one thing that he excelled in. Whatever that one thing was, it was always well to concentrate on it and develop it to its highest degree. There was always the spirit of optimism. Every man had his goal in life which he aimed to reach and he must direct his ambition along that particular line. In closing, Mr. Lennox wished Mr. Mark every success in his new charge.

Dr. Thompson delivered the address to the people. He did not intend to speak at any great length, he said, since the people of Campbellford had heard him on numerous occasions. He bespoke for Mr. Mark, the heartiest co-operation of the congregation. He likened the minister of a church to the fireman who was appealed to by a frantic mother to save her child from a high window in a burning buildingfi The ladder was run up and the fireman broke the glass of the window to gain entrance. But the flames and heat drove him back. He hesitated and it appeared that he would not go in. A bystander on the street called to the crowd to give him a cheer. A lusty cheer went up. The fireman plucked up new courage and savel the life. Thus a little encouragement had gone a long way, the same was true where a minister was concerned. Dr. Thompson also reminded the congregation that while Mr. Mark had been called, and would receive a salary, the same was not true of Mrs. Mark. She was not included in the official call and would receive no salary. Therefore, she could not be looked upon to take a more active interest in the work of the church than any other woman of the congregation. She would assist her husband in his work just as any other professional or business man's wife assisted her husband. Before concluding his remarks, he asked that Mr. Mark be given the undivided support of the congregation at all times in his work.

Before singing the doxology and closing the service, J. A. Anderson expressed the sincere gratitude of the congregation to the Rev. D. A. MacKenzie for the many times he has assisted the Campbellford church during the period they were without a minister in charge. He also thanked Dr. Thompson for the patience he had shown in dealing with the vacancy and for the excellent candidates and supply ministers he had secured each Sunday.

After the singing of the Doxology, the members of the congregation were received by Mr. Mark at the front of the church.

MISSION CIRCLE HOLDS MEETING

Subject, "Missionary News," is Discussed by Mrs. Proudlove and Mrs. Hammond.

(Examiner Correspondence).

BRIDGENORTH, Nov. 13. — The Women's Mission Circle of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church held their regular meeting on Tuesday, November 6, in the basement of the church. The subject for the meeting, "Missionary News," was taken by Mrs. Proudlove and Mrs. Hammond. Papers were also given by Mrs. J. Archer, Mrs. J. Mann, Miss Gladys Blewett, and Mrs. S. Blewett. The Scriptural text, Psalms 116, was read by Miss Gladys Blewett. The meeting was brought to a close with prayer by the president.

Personals.

Messrs. Harry Jackson and J. G. Mann motored to Brantford on Wednesday to attend the Ayrshire Breeders' sale.

an English ship, she carried American men and munitions during war, and ran the gauntlet of the submarine blockade time after time.

Appointed Commodore.

Captain Carey, a veteran skipper, was recently appointed commodore of the Lamport and Holt Line, and was making his last trip on the Vestris when it was stricken yesterday. His new ship was to be the Voltaire flagship of the line, a newer and larger craft than the old Vestris.

And Commodore Carey may conceivably step aboard his new command before he intended, for among the ships racing to the rescue of the Vestris' passengers and crew yesterday was the Voltaire, completing its last round trip between Buenos Aires and New York before taking on its new commander.

NEW READING COURSES.

The Peterborough Library has just received an interesting lot of reading courses from the American Library Association. The public is invited to examine them. They cover a wide range of subjects, science, philosophy, art, literature, history, drama, politics, etc. Nearly everyone will find here some subject in which he is especially interested, some hobby, perhaps, or a line of thought with which he has always wanted to acquaint himself. The courses offer an opportunity to realize latent ambitions and at the same time to find real enjoyment in profitable reading.

The series was started three years ago, and during that time half a million courses have been distributed throughout the country. People in every walk of life have written approvingly of them. They are neither for highbrows nor for lowbrows, but for anyone who wishes to spend his time profitably and to make his reading count. No red tape is involved in following the courses, according to Mr. F. M. DelaFosse, the librarian.

PETERBOROUGH'S GAS PLANT

This public utility which was taken over by the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario, is to be disposed of by the Commission as well as the other gas plants in the Province now owned and operated by them.

The local plant has been offered to the city at a price stated to be much below the cost of replacement. This offer to sell has not been accepted by the City and is now likely to be made to private interests, which we think is not desirable until the ratepayers themselves have had an opportunity of knowing all angles of the proposition.

The sale of the property carries with it an undetermined or perpetual franchise of our streets, full control of rates for the sale of gas and to a private corporation would appear to be a desirable asset and one that would lend itself very favorably to the promotion and sale of bonds and capital shares by such a private corporation.

In view of this situation it would seem advisable that the question of purchase or refusal to purchase by the City should be fully laid before the ratepayers for their consideration. They should have possession of facts and figures, so that they could deal intelligently with it.

Oshawa City Council, which finds itself similarly situated, has decided to submit the proposition to their ratepayers at their next municipal elections.

Since taking over the gas plant here the Commission claim they have made improvements and additions of over $200,000.00. The Commission is of necessity compelled to recover their capital investment if it is at all possible.

The citizens are not in possession of facts and figures pertaining to the investment, and it looks as if the recommendation of President Dutton of the Chamber of Commerce at the "Get-Together Dinner," to have the whole question thoroughly discussed by the electors and voted on by them at the next civic elections would be the most satisfactory way to handle the matter rather than to risk future opinion in the event of a sale to private interests without giving the ratepayers an opportunity to express their opinion.

TELLING THE PUBLIC.

The Bell Telephone Company is this week launching a new series of advertising designed to tell the people of Canada something about the telephone business and the men engaged in it.

The first of these is entitled, "He Works With Magic," and describes the construction of a telephone line through new country.

Other developments will be similarly treated, and as the advertisements continue it is expected that they will deal with a number of subjects of particular public interest, including the financial record and policy of the Bell Telephone Company, its relationship with the Northern Electric Company and with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The company is adopting a wise course in discussing such matters with the public.

Its relations with the two organizations named are indeed of great interest to the people of Canada, as the agitation aroused by certain legislation that was discussed in Parliament last session clearly showed.

Much is to be gained and little lost by laying cards on the table in enterprises of this kind, and the decision of the Bell Telephone Company to give the public information on such points will do it no harm.

GARBAGE COLLECTION.

The action of the City Council in enlarging the garbage collection routes to include streets that have not hitherto been served, calls attention to the fact that on the whole Peterborough has been given splendid service in this important branch of municipal activity.

With the new contract calling for all routes missed on account of a public holiday being covered the next day, there should be few complaints in regard to garbage collection next year.

With collections twice a week and the work done regularly and in good time, there has been, as a matter of fact, very little to find fault with so far as the work of the present contractors are concerned.

It seems to be the general opinion that their duties have been efficiently discharged.

The chief complaint in regard to the garbage collection does not concern the contractors, but the citizens themselves, and it is found in the disreputable layout of boxes and other containers that are made to serve as substitutes for proper garbage pails, and in many cases are left outside for hours to give a disorderly appearance to residential streets.

This condition, of course, is not peculiar to Peterborough, but it seems to be present in an aggravated form in this city, and there is no reason why with regular collection service there should not be a great improvement effected.

THE CANADIAN LEGION.

The appeal of President James Abraham of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League, to all returned soldiers to ally themselves with the legion, is one that should meet with a sympathetic response from the city's ex-service men.

Despite the fact that we have just celebrated the tenth anniversary of the end of the war, there are problems in regard to returned soldiers that require the attention of such an organization as the Canadian Legion.

Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Pensions and National Health, in his Armistice Day message to the Canadian people on Saturday, said: "There is still much to be done, but the continued and increased co-operation of those who have maintained their interest in the welfare of the returned soldier, I feel that the debt which Canada owes the men who stood in the breach when civilization was threatened will be paid in full."

There is no organization more interested in or more capable of co-operation in this respect than the Canadian Legion, and undoubtedly the linking up of the great majority of Canada's ex-service men with the legion would supply a driving power that should soon force the ironing out of those problems in regard to war veterans that still remain to be solved.

There will be work for the legion so long as a pension case remains unadjusted, so long as a war veteran is in want.

Surely there is a challenge in that fact for every ex-soldier.

AVIATION ADVANCE.

The pioneer flights of Alcock and Brown and of the crew of the NC-4 across the Atlantic did much to stir interest in commercial aviation. When Lindbergh followed them in a much more spectacular manner he did a great thing for aviation because his solo hop between the great cities of New York and Paris threw the spotlight of front page publicity on the business of aeronautics where previous flights had merely served to stimulate scientific interest. He made long distance flying casual where the others had made it a wonder. All these trans-Atlantic flights were fine things. But they were enough. It may be doubted if any subsequent airplane flights across the Atlantic have done enough good for aviation to offset the harm that has been done by the unsuccessful attempts.

One season's work by the Ontario Forestry Patrol; one expedition by the Western Canada's Airways or by the Northern Aerials Mineral Exploration Company; one extensive cruise by the Laurentide Company's Fairchild service does more good for commercial aviation than all the oceanic attempts, successful and unsuccessful, that date from Lindbergh. Aviation needs no stunts now, either to prove its place or to attract favorable public attention. Canada has played small part in front page airplane flying, but has given notable leadership in some phases of the sound business of flying. It is the better way.—Financial Post.

THE WORLD VIEW.

The point upon which British newspapers dwell in discussing the result of the presidential elections in the United States this week is one that also emphasizes itself in Canada. It is based on the unusual qualifications that Mr. Hoover possesses for the great task he has undertaken.

The London Daily Express, for instance, points out that Mr. Hoover will carry to the White House a first-hand acquaintance with Europe and its problems that has not been equalled by any previous chief executive. This acquaintance, Lord Beaverbrook's paper says, will not make the new President any less an American, but it is a guarantee that world political questions will be approached with at least a semi-international mind.

It will be remembered that in the nomination campaign that preceded the Kansas City convention when Mr. Hoover was named as the standard-bearer of the Republican party, a serious effort was made to discredit him on the ground that he had lived for so many years beyond the boundaries of the United States as to render him incapable of being, any longer, a "good American." There were stories that Mr. Hoover had voted in Great Britain on one occasion, and it was frequently said of him that he was pro-British. One prominent American public man even referred to the President-to-be as "Sir Herbert Hoover." This, of course, is amusing to the people of Canada, as it must be to the people of Great Britain, but no doubt a certain number of Americans were impressed. Some of them probably thought that if Mr. Hoover were sent to the White House the Republic would be rapidly dissolved and the nation and all its people and resources returned to British control. However, despite this petty silliness, Mr. Hoover won the nomination at Kansas City—the Republicans had no other candidate who was even to be considered in the same breath with him—and he has just emerged from the presidential campaign with the greatest popular and electoral college majority ever given a candidate for this, the world's greatest elective office.

As the London newspapers comment, Mr. Hoover has presidential qualifications not possessed by any one of the 29 men who have preceded him in the responsibilities he assumes next March. His outlook must, of necessity, be much wider than almost any of the Presidents. Mr. Hoover has not only travelled abroad, but he has lived abroad and figured prominently in some of the most stirring events of the world's history, including the Boxer uprising in China and the Great War, when he attempted and carried through to notable success the feeding of war-torn populations. His education and his career have been such as to give him a viewpoint that must be of the greatest value to the nation when Mr. Coolidge hands him the reins of office in the spring.

On this side of the line, there is naturally much speculation as to the effect of Mr. Hoover's election, from the standpoint of tariff changes affecting our national interests. The successful Republican candidate stressed the tariff during his campaign. This, however, is purely a fiscal matter and one with which Canada is entirely competent to deal. Of one thing we can be sure and that is Mr. Hoover's attitude toward this country, toward Great Britain and toward other nations in general, will be fair and friendly. He will protect American interests, of course, but there is every reason to believe that he will do so in a way that will make for the furtherance of international amity and accord. It is a matter of public record that Mr. Hoover endorsed the League of Nations. This, in itself, gives a clear index to his breadth of vision and his desire for the perpetuation of world peace.—Border Cities Star.

The Question Box

WESTERN UNIVERSITY.

Q.: Where is the Western University?

A.: The University of Western Ontario is situated in the City of London. It was established in 1878 by Bishop Hellmuth, of the Diocese of Huron. In 1903 it became undenominational and was placed under provincial, municipal and government control. Its enrolment is nearing the thousand mark in three faculties: Arts, Medicine and Public Health, and has five affiliated colleges: Huron, Assumption, Ursuline, Waterloo and Alma.

GOD'S MINUTE.

Let my mouth be filled with Thy praise—Ps. 71:8.

We thank Thee, O Lord, that Thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever Thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting Thou art God.

We thank Thee that the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth. We are grateful to Thee that He took upon Himself the form of a man like other men, and that He became obedient unto death—even death upon the cross—that we might have life, and have it more abundantly.

Grant, O Lord, that we, the children of men, through the power of Thy Holy Spirit, may become like the Son of Man in mind and heart and will. May we be brothers to the race. Enable us to toil patiently up the slopes of service. Teach us to be willing to forgive as He forgave. We pray for all the nations of the earth whom Thou hast made of one blood. Speed the coming of Thy Kingdom upon the earth, that nation may no longer make war against nation. Hasten the coming of the day when the knowledge of God shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea, and bring us all at last up to that city whose Maker and Builder is God. Amen.

A Thought

AS HELPLESS AS A TURTLE ON ITS BACK

No man will go far without a main motive, any more than an ocean liner will keep its course without its propeller in motion.

When the propeller of a ship stops, the rudder to that ship is as useless as a clock without wheels.

However brilliant your brain is, there must be that main motive, else you drift with the current of evetns. There must be that "motive power" behind your brain.

Our brains may be clothed with wonderful material, but, with all our marvelous mental faculties, we must have a main motive in life or somebody will come along and take us for a wax figure.

What is your main motive in life? Is it an ambition to achieve? Is it a desire to make much money? Is it a hope to pass out a part of your happiness to others? Is it your purpose to express in your life the highest and the best? Or is your main motive to keep clear of making a failure?

And now that you have named your "main motive," what will keep this main motive in action? I'll tell you: It is an intense individual interest in whatever your main motive may be.

Disinterest will put a padlock on any motive. If you lack individual interest, your jig is up.

Individual interest, intense interest, is absolutely necesary to-day. Without this brand of intense interest, we are as useless to ourselves or to society as perfumery to a litter of litle mud-plastered pigs.

Now just to make this article practical and worth while, again let me ask: What is your main motive in Life?

For, remember, my friend, without a main motive, one is as helpless as a turtle on its back and as hopeless as a fly in the ointment.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 13 (Canadian Press).—There was a good demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba wheat here Saturday and a fairly large volume of business was transacted by local exporters. There was no change in the condition of the local cash grain market, prices generally being steady with a moderate trade passing.

Little business was done in Spring and Winter wheat flour but values for all grades were steady.

A good trade was done in all lines of millfeed and values were unchanged. Standard grades of rooled oats were steady under a good demand.

A feature of the butter trade was the stronger feeling that developed and prices were marked up ¼ to ½c per lb. This was attributed to the small supplies coming forward, and the fact that stocks on spot are steadily decreasing. Receipts Saturday were 1,527 packages.

The local and foreign inquiry for cheese continued limited but prices showed no change. Receipts were 9,058 boxes.

The undertone to the egg market continued firm and the trade in fresh and storage grades was again active. Receipts were 1,179 cases.

An active business was done in potatoes and values were firm. New Brunswick Green Mountains sold at 65c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, and Prince Edward Island grades brought from 78 to 83c per bag.

Imported beans were steady at $5.25 per bushel, while Canadian grades sold at $4.85 to $4.90 per bushel, ex-store.

ADDRESS TO-DAY SMITH TO DELIVER

Former Governor's Message Will Be Broadcasted Over Nation-wide Hook-up.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (Canadian Press)—Governor Al. Smith will deliver a message to the American people over a nation-wide radio hook-up to-night (Tuesday).

Announcement of the address was made by the Democratic National headquarters, but no one professed to know what its nature would be. A statement the Governor made at Albany in conference with reporters, however, led many to believe that it would be non-partisan and made in an attempt to deal wounds left by the political campaign.

"Every man, when elected to office," the Governor said, "is entitled to a full, fair chance to make good, and Mr. Hoover should have every assistance from every citizen."

HEROIC SPIRIT OF SACRIFICE IS RECALLED

Impressive Commemoration Service Held at Alderville War Memorial.

FIGHT STILL ON.

Speakers Challenge Large Audience To Carry On the Torch and Wave It High.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Nov. 13.— All over Canada; over the British Empire; all over the civilized world— in every clime, in every country which had taken part in the Great War—in the great fight for liberty and justice and the ideals of our races and our creeds—Sunday was observed as the tenth anniversary of the Armistice, which had commenced at the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of the year 1918.

It was a day of remembrance for the heroic dead, who had paid the supreme sacrifice; as well as for those who, by the decree of destiny, had paid a lesser penalty. It was also a day of thanksgiving for the world peace which had at long last come to the war-wearied nations and the almost heart-broken and dejected subjects of the Allies, because of the terrible toll that from day to day was being exacted. At last came the news of "Peace and Victory," brought by the courage and bravery of our armies, as well as by the fervent prayers of mothers and fathers and brothers and sisters, all of whom were almost driven mad with worry for their loved ones; afraid of the very news the next mail might bring, or in fear that the dreaded telegram might arrive any minute! Over at the front the soldiers fought fiercely and fearlessly amid hardship and suffering which would baffle the most fluent pen or tongue to describe, while at home the stricken parents and relatives and friends worked, and prayed as they had never prayed before; utterly helpless in themselves to do anything, they threw themselves at the feet of Almighty God; and as the days of the war wore on, more and more men went to the front, more nations came into the fight, and more people humbly threw themselves at the feet of God—until at last came peace—peace with victory—so fiercely fought for, and so ardently prayed for. And what a real relief from the hellish business it brought to the boys at the front! And what a real relief to the terrible mental torture of those at home! Truly, we may well meet once a year to offer up thanks for what the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of the year 1918 brought to the Christian nations of the world, due to the bravery of our boys and the prayers of our people.

Church Is Crowded.

Perhaps nowhere in Canada was the occasion better solemnized or more seriously regarded than in the little Indian village of Alderville, where on Sunday afternoon the little church was crowded to the doors by Indians of the Reserve and others, to listen to the addresses by speakers, and to participate in the singing and prayers for the nine Indian braves who had paid the supreme sacrifice, as well as for others, and for the people of the nations as a whole.

Rev. Harold Wilding, B.A., pastor, acted as chairman, and addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Battisby, of Hastings, and Rev. F. H. Howard, of Warkworth. The duet, "Lest We Forget," by Rev. Mr. Battisby and daughter, with another daughter accompanying at the organ, was beautifully rendered.

Rev. F. H. Howard said that the end of strife had come at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month ten years ago, and referred to the great sacrifices which had been made. Flag-waving and recruiting was not proof of love and loyalty. Some had waved the flag and recruited to obscure the fact that they were dodging the Army and the fighting.

"Many a hero had fought ever since the first Armistice Day—not the German—but for breath or against weakness or economic difficulties, in the Christie Street Hospital or in their homes." He compared those who, dying on the field of honor, had lived on; with the pompous pets of pride and privilege, dying an ignoble death—died for ever.

Peace After Strife.

The speaker claimed that Armistice Day set before us the idea of peace after strife. The end of all our striving is intended to be peace, love, harmony. Are we making real what our soldier boys made possible? They sacrificed to preserve the good we had in nature and life and to make possible the good we are capable of attaining. Are we appreciating and appropriating, or do we count the blood of the boys an unholy thing as, through the ages, some have accounted the blood of Christ and continued to live selfishly for their own gratification? Every soldier, one would think, must understand and sympathize with Jesus. He served and sacrificed for many who never appreciated Him. Yet many have appropriated what He made possible, and in these He sees of the travail of His soul and does not regret His sacrifice. And so the soldier who lives to-day who served from love and loyalty may by faith now say to his comrades:

"Beloved now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be, but we know this, that when He shall appear we shall be like Him, for we shall see Him as He is."

Rev. Mr. Battisby, although hampered with a cold, gave a stirring address, filled with logic and every word convincing of the truth he was expounding. He paid tribute to the 58,000 Canadians, who had paid the supreme sacrifice, and threw out the challenge for those of us who are left to carry on what the soldiers had fought and died for—the spirit of brotherly love. Of fifty soldiers asked why they had gone to war, each replied, "To end war." If we are to end war, we must eliminate the war spirit in our public and private lives. We must so fill our homes, our communities, and our country with harmony so that he who suggests "war" will get in bad with everybody. How many were following the actions of the League of Nations? How many prayed for its welfare? Were we living up to the high ideals for which the great sacrifices had been made? Not only did those who served overseas deserve honor and credit, but also many of those who had stayed at home and worked, by knitting etc. No, not only men had paid the supreme sacrifice, but women and babes as well. And then he threw out the challenge to us to live up to the ideals for which so many had paid the supreme sacrifice—to eliminate from our lives hatred and ill-will, greed and selfishness and, like the comrades in the trenches, live to help each other at every opportunity, being governed by the spirit of brotherly love.

The service closed with "God Save the King," and the people flocked out of the little church; off in the distance one could see the memorial erected to the memory of those Indians who had paid the supreme sacrifice, stately standing as a mute reminder of all that had been said in the little church, holding aloft a hugh rock, symbolic of the ideals for which the soldiers had fought and died and which they who selpt in Flanders' Fields will not rest unless we who live carry on and ever endeavor to bring to a greater state of perfection than before. Day and night and winter and summer this moriument ever stands an eloquent reminder of our duty to our soldiers, our fellowmen, our King and Country, and our God.

Brotherly Love

The most pleasant features of the whole service on Armistice Day throughout the Dominion, was the fact that between the covers of the official program were the services in both the English language and the French, for the Protestant churches and the Roman Catholic churches. Thus carrying out the sporit of brotherly love —just as the comrades, French and English, Roman Catholic and Protestant, white man and Indian, had stood side by side in the great fight for Christianity. And so those of us who are left behind, carry the torch, yet but a spark, and ever hope and pray that each Armistice Day, as time goes on, will bring men of all races and all creeds nearer and nearer together, and that finally, from the bones of those who now sleep in Flanders Fields will rise such a spirit of good will to all and brotherly love, that the barriers of race and creed will be broken down, and mankind will rise to a higher peak than men hitherto had ever dared to dream—and He who was nailed to the Cross by the mob of men filled with hate and religious prejudice, will at last look down and smile the smile of happy satisfaction; while those who sleep in Flanders Fields, will rest happy and content, well satisfied and well repaid for the great sacrifices they have made.

Costly lotions not needed-now

It is so unnecessary to spend money on lotions to keep your hands smooth and lovely after dishwashing. There is a cheaper and better way. Use Lux in the dishwashing and banish that dishpan look — avoid the red rough appearance that spoils the natural beauty of your hands.

You will hardly notice the cost, for less than a cent's worth of Lux will do the whole day's dishwashing.

three were found drunk in a car after they had collided with another car at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer Streets early Sunday morning. Norman Watkins, a farmer of Otonabee, was found guilty of being intoxicated while driving a motor vehicle, and was sentenced to ten days in the common jail with hard labor. Some slight leniency was shown to Watkins, because it was his first offence and his fine standing in his community. Magistrate Langley remarked that the law provides no option but to sentence a person found guilty on the charge of being intoxicated while in charge of a motor vehicle, and in his court every man found guilty on this charge had been and would be sentenced to a terms in jail.

The two other men in the car pleaded guilty to being intoxicated while in a public place and were fined $15 and $10 and costs respectively. Two large bottles of some kind of home brew were found in the car and were exhibited to the court.

Emmett Sheehy appeared for the three accused.

BELL TELEPHONE WRITES ITS USERS

Company Seeks to Become Acquainted With the Public Which It Serves.

To-day, C. F. Sise, President of the Bell Telephone Company, is sending a personal letter to all telephone users, announcing a series of informative advertisements, the first of which will appear in The Peterborough Examiner this week.

W. C. Beamer, Manager of the company in Peterborough, explained to The Examiner that the purpose of the new advertisements is to assist in a better acquaintance between the public and the telephone system.

"We think we ought to be well acquainted," Mr. Beamer said, "because the telephone and the public are closely related and have mutual interests. On one hand we have the telephone company which consists of over 14,400 shareholders, of whom 95 per cent live in Canada. On the other hand, is the telephone system which is realla a great co-operative body of people who talk with each other through more than 700,000 telephones.

"I think most of us accept the telephone nowadays pretty much as a matter of course. We seldom think of the 15,000 trained men and women and the work they do behind the scenes. These are things w would like to have understood and we know of no better way to tell the story than through the newspapers."

The text of Mr. Sise's letter to telephone subscribers is as follows:—

In this week's newspapers you may see an advertisement entitled "He Works With Magic."

It tells about putting a telephone line through new country and is the first of a number of advertisements in which we shall try to tell you something of the telephone business and the people in it.

We are doing this because we have found that the workings of the telephone system are not well understood. We think this is not a good situation, either for you or for us, because the telephone system and the public have a mutual dependence on each other and are equally concerned in the growth of the country.

As the advertisements continue we shall also deal with certain subjects of particular public interest, including the financial record and policy of our company, its relationship with the Northern Electric Company, and its relationship with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

I am writing you in the hope that because you are in daily contact with the telephone system, you will be interested in reading our advertisements.

Teeth Grow Whiter

When film is removed this way

Now special film-removing dentifrice whitens amazingly when ordinary methods fail.

SCIENCE has discovered the chief source of common tooth and gum disorders and of dull, ugly teeth. It is a film that forms on teeth and clings so stubbornly brushing cannot remove it successfully.

You can feel film with your tongue—a slippery, sticky coating. It clings to teeth and gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs stains from food and smoking. Germs by millions breed in it, and they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

To remove film, dentists prescribe the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

In a few days teeth grow whiter and begin to sparkle. Get Pepsodent at any drug counter or write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 191 George St., Toronto 2, Ont., Canada.

...s men, women and children knelt in remembrance of the dead.

The Bishop spoke eloquently, basing his address on the duty owed to country.

"To-day," he said, "we are celebrating the tenth anniversary of the conclusion of the most terrible, ruinous war that this world ever witnessed. The older ones among us can remember the agony we suffered during those days of conflict, the terror with which we awaited the publishing of those long lists of names of the dead, and the happiness with which we greeted the signing of the Armistice. We should never forget to be grateful to Almight God for the day which brought an end to a war imposed on the world through the machinations and perversity of men who, finally, seemed unable to bring to a conclusion the terrible holocaust they had started.

"Let us respect the men who went over there and fought for us. Let us be thankful to them for the part they played in preserving the liberty of the world. And, hand in hand with our gratitude to God and to those men who fought for us, should go the desire to discharge our duty to our country.

Loyal Service First Duty

"And our first duty to our country is to give it our loyal service. Loyalty does not consist in waving the flag and in singing 'God Save the King' (and I must say that we sing it much oftener here than they do in England), but rather in paying respect to lawful authority. St. Paul says that all authority comes from God. Our first duty is to our King, then to our country, and to the institutions of our land.

"There is an obligation incumbent upon us to be good citizens. In Canada, we have one of the finest countries in the world. While other lands are still suffering from the effects of the war, we are going forward to prosperity. But we cannot expect to give nothing in return for something. We must be willing to work for a living.

"A worldly estimate considers a good citizen as one who has amassed much wealth. But there is something higher and better than that. Let us not find fault with our country. Let us take an example from the citizens of the United States, who refuse to recognize any fault in their native land. Let us also be boosters for Canada. Let us take an interest in its politics, whether municipal, provincial or federal. Let us take our part in making ourselves the best possible kind of citizens.

"To be good citizens, we must be industrious and honest. The good employer is the one who pays an honest, proper day's wage for an honest day's work, and the good employee is the one who makes a return in the same honest labor. And in order to give an honest day's work, it should be prepared for properly. It cannot be done by staying up half the night, and flying around here and there in search of amusement.

"We should also try to use our spare time to the best advantage by improving our minds and broadening our education.

"And we should try to save money. The young man or young woman who goes along, day by day, and does not save a cent, is light-minded. A certain amount of pleasure and recreation is necessary, but we should try to avoid the attitude of 'keeping up with the Joneses' and spending a great deal of money on unnecessary and expensive clothing.

"Stay in your own country and do not imagine you can improve your position by running off somewhere else. This is a wonderful land of opportunity. Let us try to develop in ourselves the civic as well as the supernatural virtues, and realize that, as our citizenship comes from God, so we should do everything possible to develop it and ourselves."

George Street United

Preaching at George Street Church to a large congregation Sunday morning Rev. J. E. Todd forcefully urged a return to the splendid principle of the individual sacrificing his interests for the good of the community, which was so prevalent during the war from that of the selfish motives of individualism that has grown up since the war.

The large congregation were all in their pews well before eleven o'clock. Sharp at the hour all stood with bowed heads in silent prayer in memory for those who died in the Great War.

Mr. Todd read his lesson from Paul's Epistle to the Romans, Chapter 12 and he asked the congregation to pay special heed to the words:

"All days are not like this day. This day is different from any of the other 365 days of the year," said the speaker. Ten years ago last night we went to bed with world in the grip of a great war and we awoke on a new world of peace and glad rejoicing, he continued. All our minds are delving into the pigeonholes of memory this morning and it is well to remember.

It is well to remember that our soldiers were untrained civilians, each working at his job; but when the call came they were idealists and left to fight in the war to end war. They did not fight for the love to kill but because they believed it a war to end war. They were adventurers true, adventurers sired by adventurers down through ages, men who loved adventure but more than all they were idealists.

"It was a great day that first Armistice Day," said the speaker, "It is good to refresh the memory with those who came back home. They are not the same and perhaps never will be the same as a result, crippled and maimed, in that war to end war. We forget the resolves of war time and what an easy task it was to make great sacrifices then. All men knew what common interests were and made sacrifices of their own selfish interest for the good of the community. To-day the speaker showed the change that has taken place, people clamoring for their own wishes and shouting for the right of the individual. The speaker said that he was not in favour of anything that was going to weaken morale of the people or spoil their efficiency. It is now personal liberty against prohibition, and the speaker remarked that there has been prohibition in some form or other ever since the sense of right developed in man. "What was good for the greatest number during war time why can it not be maintained now" asked Mr. Todd.

"The desire for peace that has come after every war is still abroad in the world and it is stronger ten years after the war than it was ever before," Mr. Todd declared. He pointed out that previously the church sanctioned war and gave it the blessing of the church but now the church has utterly divorced war and looks upon it as thing to be prevented.

In closing Mr. Todd urged that all reconsecrate themselves in the cause of peace and then what a monument they would be to those who died with the idea that they were fighting in a war to end war.

ST. JAMES' UNITED.

The Thanksgiving services in St. James' United Church were in charge of the pastor, Rev. J. H. Dudgeon. The morning service was fittingly begun by the observing of the two minutes of silence in memory of our fallen soldiers. The music, under the direction of F. Stevens, was all of a patriotic trend, especially a splendid anthem by the choir, "O King of Kings," in which Mrs. E. Kitney took the solo part. Miss Aileen Rose sang sweetly "Only Believe."

The text was taken from the 46th Psalm, 9th verse, "He maketh war to cease with the end of the earth." In this text may be found the only solution for war.

"Many of the modern inventions, such as the radio and the airplane, may be used for good purposes or they may be used as a means of destruction of mankind. People may denounce war and the Kaiser or ruler who brings it out; but how many really search for methods to put down war. How many have the manly strength to carry out these methods, should they be found? Will this be the case always, or will the time come when "there shall be war no more?"

"God alone can make wars to cease. We should encourage every effort toward peace, but without God these efforts are doomed to failure. Legislation or science cannot bring about peace. Only love will do it. Commerce cannot; education cannot, for often the most highly educated nations are the most military. Progress and civilization will not end war, for it does not make men unselfish."

Found in Human Nature.

"The source of war is not an outward thing, but is found in human nature, especially in the lust for vengeance. No power on earth can subdue these lust; but the power of God alone can do this. God could do this by a miracle, but that is not always his way. The roots of war must be plucked out and war, which begins in the human heart, must cease. When all kingdoms of the earth become those of God and Christ, war will cease."

Must Accept Christ."

"We might ask then, why does war continue? Men will not have God's remedy — the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. As long as men do not accept Christ and be at peace with God, they cannot be at peace among themselves.

"If all men become loving, righteous, wise and unselfish it will be impossible to have war. Truth of God should be taken as our charter of life. Things impossible to man are possible to God, with whom all things are possible.

God has promised that Jesus Shall reign over all the earth. The "Prince of Peace" is the noblest title given Him.

"Righteousness must come first, then peace will follow. What are you doing to bring about peace in the world? Each of us can do something in the re-dedication of our lives to Him. Then surely He will make wars to cease unto the ends of the earth."

The communion service and reception of new members followed.

In the evening, Mr. Dudgeon took for his subject, "Thanksgiving," speaking on that text found in 2 Corinthians, 9:15. He referred first to our national Thanksgiving and the reasons for it. Then for our blessings as a community and lastly the blessings we receive as individuals. We should count our personal blessings and give thanks for them. James says, "Every good and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the father." The Bible is one of those gifts, but James probably refers to God's great gift to us—that of His only Son, Christ. For that gift we should give our greatest thanks.

A junior choir was in attendance at this service and the choir beautifully rendered the two anthems, "I Will Find My Flock," and "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land," the solo parts being taken by Mrs. Monks and Mr. Siddall. Mrs. Elmer Frost also sang a very appropriate solo number, "Beside the Still Waters."

Murray Street

"The finest tribute that we can pay to those who made the greatest sacrifice for us in the Great War and whose memory we are commemorating to-day is 'to determine within our souls that war shall be no more'," declared Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe in Murray street Baptist church on Sunday morning.

The two minutes silence which was very impressively observed was preceded by the text, "I am the resurrection and the life," — with this let us hallow this silence knowing that He is with us." This was followed with a solo by Dr. S. J. Graham, "There Is No Death There."

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe stressed the fact that war must be abolished. The Great War made it very clear that peace in the world must be kept—otherwise we perish. Another war would be disastrous to mankind, taking into consideration the great strides which have been made in the making of ammunition, guns, bombs, gasses, and airplanes. War shall cease when the Price of Peace comes, when Jesus Christ comes into the hearts of men. If war is to be abolished, men through Jesus Christ can do it. No more war or complete annihilation. Jesus' whole life was opposed to war, He did not tell us to fight, but He knew the hearts of men, and knew that we would. One text we read is He who taketh up the sword shall perish with the sword." The minister's final plea was that Jesus Christ be taken into our hearts, and believe in him in the spirit and the truth.

"God of Our Fathers," most fitting for the occasion was beautifully sung by the choir, while the pastor's choir sang, "Stand up, Stand up for Jesus." The memorials were beautifully draped with Union Jacks and large baskets of poppies were placed beneath.

MARK STREET UNITED.

In a very fitting manner, Mark Street United Church solemnized the tenth Armistice day. Using the same form of service except for the few minutes dedicated to the thoughts of Armistice. The services was in the hands of their former pastor, the Rev. Mr. Whattam. At one minute to eleven the two minute silence was observed and was followed by the sermon. The pastor took his text from the 107th and 108th Psalms, "Oh that men may praise the Lord for His goodness," explaining the wonderful things the Lord has done for us in the past year and also in former years, he said everybody should work together for the good of those who have forgotten the Lord. The feeling of war has not been good for anyone and so the world leaders are striving to remedy this. "After the war the world went back again into sin. Men speak lightly of the church these days, but during the war they could not do without the church. People should not forget the church after the storms are over," said the minister in closing.

SACRED HEART CHURCH.

Rev. C. Maloney preached eloquently at the Sacred Heart Church on Sunday morning, basing his sermon on the anniversary commemorated that day and drawing from Scripture for references in regard to it.

"In the Old Law," said the reverend speaker, "the Jews offered Thanksgiving after victory. When Joshue triumphed over the Amalacites, Moses built an altar in thanksgiving, and called it 'The altar of my Exaltation.' So we of to-day, in the sacrifice of the Mass, of which the sacrifice of the Old Law was but a symbol and a sign, offer thanksgiving to Almighty God. This is the sacrifice spoken of by Malachias when he spoke of the 'clean oblation' and it is offered in Catholic churches, the world over, from the rising of the sun to the going down thereof."

When Judas Machabeus had won a great victory over the enemy, he sent 12,000 drachmas of silver to Jerusalem for a sacrifice to be offered up for the sins of the dead, saying, "It is a holy and wholesome thought to pray for the dead, that they may be loosed from their sins." In like manner, the sacrifice of the Mass is offered up for this purpose.

The returning soldiers were welcomed back with great acclaim after their victory, and on anniversaries such as this, wreaths of remembrance from a grateful people are laid on their monuments. But the Catholic Church can do more. Its members can pray for the souls of the unreturning brave, that they may be loosed from their sins. For this reason, Father Maloney announced the celebration on Monday morning of a Mass at seven o'clock, offered up for the souls of the dead soldiers.

He went on further to speak of the Christmas message of the angels of Bethlehem, in the words, "Peace on earth to men of good will," and said that the nations, having learned in the school of war the futility of striving to settle differences by bloodshed and slaughter, may in time come to a realization of the fact that victory is not really victory when it means the wholesale sacrifice of human lives. The true lesson of the war is the nation-wide wish for a lasting peace to the world.

During the consecration of the sacred elements yesterday at the Church of the Sacred Heart, the congregations were asked to observe the two minutes of remembrance of the souls of those who had died for their country, and to petition Almighty God for a lasting peace, while thanking Him for the blessings already enjoyed.

ST. GEORGE'S ANGLICAN

The thought of armtistice prevailed throughout the service held in St. George's Church on Sunday morning. At 10.30 the service of Morning Prayer was preceded by the singing of the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past." Psalm 23 was sung as a special psalm, and the special lessons were from Isaiah 11, 1-9, and Revelation 21, 1-5. The end of the third collect was reached just at 11 o'clock, when the congregation then stood for the two minutes' silence. After the silence prayers were offered for those who had given their lives during the Great War, and the hymn, "God of the Living in Whose Eyes," was sung. Other special prayers offered included, prayer for the Peace of the World, for the League of Nations, for All who are still suffering by reason of the War, and thanksgiving for God's mercies to our Dominion and Empire.

The rector, Rev. J. L. Hughes, preached an earnest and thoughtful sermon from the text, "And after the fire a sound of gentle stillness" (1 Kings 19,12; R.V.).

The speaker briefly reviewed the incident in the life of Elijah. The prophet was forced in and back upon himself, and was called to pause and think. It was one of those rare occasions in Old Testament pages, one of those moments in the life of Old Testament Saints when the true nature and character of God is grasped, as revealed later in the fulness in Jesus Christ. Summed up it is that "God is love"; love that is patient to win men even unto death, the death of the Cross.

As armistice comes round we try to remember what was aimed at, fought for, and wrought for; but above all that we might in the silence receive a clearer vision and understanding of God's great purpose for all men. The minutes of silence,—the sound of gentle stillness,—would remind us of the need of thought and prayer behind and around all new efforts for peace, and that there lies with each one of us a responsibility for the making of "Peace on earth, good will among men." It is through the unconquerable force of love that God's purpose for mankind and the world shall be manifest, and that responsibility requires our answer of acceptance. Before the impact of that love whatever is cowardly, revengeful, self seeking, and hatred, would go down, and mercy and truth, righteousness and peace, would prevail.

Other hymns used were: "Praise to our God Whose Bounteous Hand," and "Lord of Heaven and Earth and Ocean." The National Anthem was sung after the Benediction.

The Sunday School Scholars with their teachers attended service in a body. The flowers on the altar were placed there by Mr. and Mrs. A. Sims, in memory of Pte. W. Sims, who was killed in action on November 14, 1917.

PARK STREET BAPTIST.

The special Armistice Day services were both well attended The choir, junior and senior, under the direction of their leader, Cecil Lapp, rendered special music.

The pastor, Rev. J. L. Harton, occupied the pulpit, both morning and evening.

The morning theme was 'The Meaning of the Armistice,' and the whole service was fitting to the observance of Armistice Day, the congregation assembling a few minutes before eleven o'clock, and then at the hour rising to their feet for the two minutes' silence.

The topic chosen for the Sunday evening service was 'The Message of Peterborough's Cenotaph,' and the pastor took as his text the words of Moses found in Exodus, 13th chapter and 3rd verse: "Remember this day." Mr. Harton went on to say that the message of Peterborough's Cenotaph could be summed up into just those three words, Remember this Day, but that to fully understand and to appreciate the meaning we must also remember the events preceding the day. The hardships and the sacrifices made prior to it.

Vividly portraying some of the things that might have been ours to suffer now had not our boys made such a noble sacrifice, Mr. Horton said that there should never be the need to proclaim from our pulpits or from the press asking people to "Remember the Day," but, sad to relate, there seem to be many people who find it very easy to forget, like the people of Israel to whom Moses spoke; they forget that they have been brought from the house of bondage, which might have been theirs, but for the noble sacrifices made in France and Flanders by some of our boys.

In closing, Mr. Harton said that just as we should remember the day, and the sacrifice of recent years in the Great war, so we should Remember the Day, 1,900 years ago, when the greatest sacrifice of all was made on Calvary, that all those who will believe on Him, might be freed from the bondage of sin, and live for ever with Him.

Immaculate Conception

To commemorate the tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, a general Communion of Thanksgiving was offered on Sunday at the Church of The Immaculate Conception. A sermon on the text of the day was preached by Rev. Father Carroll. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Dean Frank O'Sullivan, who is ill in St. Joseph's Hospital at present, referred to Armistice Sunday and its commemoration at the services on the preceding Sunday.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The service in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning was called for a quarter to eleven and at this hour a splendid congregation had gathered for the Thanksgiving and Armistice observance.

The usual order of service, opening on this occasion with the National Anthem, was followed prior to eleven o'clock, when Rev. William Allan, the pastor, called upon his hearers to silently bow in prayer for the prescribed two minutes. This period was very impressive — one could almost hear the supplications from every heart, for those who had lost loved ones on the battle fronts or in other zones of war activity during 1914-1918. Grief, reverence and pride mingled in memory of the fallen.

This concluded, the balance of the morning's worship was continued. Rev. Mr. Allan preached a short but pointed sermon, "A Woman and a Memorial.' ' The theme was centred around the incident of Mary washing the Saviour's feet and anointing His head, and this task was to be as a memorial of her.

The choir rendered the "Te Deum" (Dykes), and a quintette sang "The Call of the Roll on High."

The Evening Music.

At the evening sederunt Rev. Mr. Allan again preached to a large congregation, delivering a stirring appeal to his hearers, on 'The Silence of Eternity."

The musical program by the choir of sixty voices was splendidly sung, the anthems being unaccompanied—"O Love the Lord," "Through the Day Thy Love Has Spared Us," and "Judge Me, O God." These numbers were the test pieces which won for St. Paul's Church choir the three silver shields at the Made-in-Canada Fair a few weeks ago. Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., conducted the choristers.

The Roll Call.

Ere the benediction was pronounced Rev. Mr. Allan read the names, inscribed on the brass tables at each side of the pulpit, of those men of the congregation who had gone to fight for King and Country, and never returned—thirty-one in all. During this ceremony, the congregation remained standing.

The Ladies' Aid had charge of the decoration of the choir loft with the Union Jack, flowers, and emblems of the harvest field, and these added much to the attractive and memorable Thanksgiving services in St. Paul's Church on the tenth anniversary of the Armistice.

"At the going down of the run,
We shall remember them."

Everything seemed a Burden

"I feel I must write and tell you of the great benefit I have derived from Kruschen Salts. For three years I suffered from constipation, depression and nerves which made everything seem a burden.

"After attending doctors on and off for this period, I commenced to take Kruschen and from then I gradually got back to my usual state of health. I have now resumed my duties and work is once more a pleasure.

"I am continuing with Kruschen Salts and after being back at business nearly six weeks am maintaining the 'Kruschen feeling' and recommend the public to take the 'little daily dose,' and keep themselves fit these hustling days.

"I shall always be pleased to answer any enquiries in praise of Kruschen Salts." D. C.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

CHINESE ENVOY VISITS TORONTO.

China as Canada's greatest wheat customer, is seen by Dr. Chao Chu Wu, former Foreign Minister, and at presen special envoy of the Chinese Government to the foreign powers, who is travelling through Canada. Wherever he visits occasions extraordinary demonstrations among his compatriots. In No. 1 is shown a little girl, Mary Lee, who presented flowers, the gift of the Nationalist party to Dr. and Mrs. Wu; No. 2 is Dr. and Mrs. Wu in Toronto. Dr. Wu is one of the most accomplished statesmen of the new regime in China. He is a Nationalist in his own country, but in many a foreign land he is known as a great internationalist. He has held office with both the northern and southern factions of the Chinese imbroglio, but since his conversion to the cause of Nationalism he has been one of its most ardent supporters. His father was the well-known diplomat, Dr. Wu Ting Fang, at one time representative of China in the United States and envoy of the old empire and the new republic in many western countries. Dr. Wu attended high school in Washington and Atlantic City and went to Cambridge University, afterwards graduating with first-class honors in law from the Inns of the Court and London University.

More time to play

You can always find people to tell you that the country is going to the dogs because we're doing so much playing.

"When did your grandmother find any time to play? There was a woman for you!"

No doubt.

Just the same, we'd like to have given her a vacuum cleaner, a washing machine, electric lights, running hot water, a telephone, baker's bread, delicious canned foods, an automobile and a set of golf clubs.

Can you picture grandfather's face? . . . "Gone to the country club. Look in the ice-box."

Through advertising, science is giving us more and more time to play. Advertising is knocking minutes off every phase of household work from cooking to shopping, to give us leisure hours.

. . . and we're just using them as grandmother would have if she'd had the chance.

Read the advertising here in your paper.
It will bring you more time to play.

MILLBROOK WOMAN FRACTURES ARM

Miss Etta Needler Receives Injuries As Result of Fall.

MILLBROOK, November 13.— Miss Etta Needler had the misfortune to fracture her left arm just above the wrist, the result of a fall while going down town on a business errand on Friday evening. The iron cellar doors in the pavement on the east side of the Millbrook Creamery (formerly the Dominion Hotel) were apparently the cause of the accident, Miss Needler catching the toe of her shoe in the uneven surafce where one door projects a little above the other, and being thrown forward on her face with the resulting injury to her arm.

When the building was used for a hotel these doors were to give access to the cellar, it would appear, and are really now a danger spot, the surface being especially slippery when a light covering of either ice or snow makes treacherous footing. More than one person has had a fall at this spot, but because no serious injury resulted until the accident on Friday evening, formal complaint has not been laid; it is expected, however, that immediate action will be taken to remove the cause of trouble and make walking safer in this section of the pavement.

Dr. H. A. Turner gave the necessary medical attention after Miss Needler's accident, and progress toward recovery is as satisfactory as could be expected.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

This is read by astrologers as rather a threatening planetary government, peculiarly menacing to financial matters.

It is a day in which to avoid speculation of any sort, even though great temptations may offer.

Again the seers foretell the invention or the discovery of new fuels which may complement or even replace oil products.

The year 1929 is to develop many remarkable commercial methods and to increase American wealth, it is prognosticated.

This is a day that may be of special interest to farmers, who should be discouraged if relief appears far off.

It is wise to plan rather than to put into operation big enterprises where international relations are concerned.

Persistently the readers of the stars foretell perils in China and the Near East.

Women should not find that the planets are helpful in social matters of every sort. The winter is to be marked by unusual gayety.

New dancers are to mean much that is prophetic to those who understand symbolism and there will be unusual extravagance in entertaining.

According to ancient lore this should be an auspicious rule for outlining the winter's program of work or play, but not a satisfactory one for consulting bankers.

One of the foreign astrologers predicts that the scion of an American family which has been prominent in politics will marry into a royal family.

All the signs appear to indicate that the United States is to make amazing progress in art and music as well as in material things, so that Europeans will make pilgrimages to American picture galleries and muscums.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid hypocrisy in the coming year when there may be temptation to pretend to wealth and to knowledge.

Children born on this day probably will be of serious trend of mind. Boys may have a desire to become churchmen and girls are likely to be interested in philanthropies. These subjects of Scorpio are dependable and reliable.

Young's Point

YOUNG'S POINT, Nov. 13 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Russel Lane took place from his father's house on Friday afternoon, when the Rev. S. A. Keup and R. J. B. McCormack, both of Lakefield, conducted the funeral service.

The floral tributes were many and showed the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The pall-bearers weer all first cousins of the deceased, namely: Hilliard Dunford, Cecil Darling, Glen Crowe, Cecil Northey, Gordon Bowen, and Royden Grey.

Besides the sorrowing young wife and parents, he leaves to mourn his death five sisters, Mrs. William Tully of Lakefield; Eva, Mattie, Mary and Kathleen, all at home; also a little cousin, Alice Crowe, who is one of the family.

Interment took place in Lakefield cemetery.

Some of those from a distance who attended the funeral were his aged grandmother, Mrs. Lane; Mr. T. H. Lane, Miss Barbara and Master Lionel Lane of Toronto; Misses Eva Crowe, Laura Bowen, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. H. Jones, Peteborough; Mrs. J. Spencer, Peterborough; Mr. George Nichols, Peterborough; Mrs. Percy Stenner, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Usher, Toronto.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CLAPPER'S CLIP

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily and the Clapper were going along together looking for an adventure. Uncle Wiggily was a rabbit gentleman who lived in a hollow stump bungalow, as perhaps you remember. The Clapper was the long piece of iron, like a tongue, which hung in the bell on the Hollow Stump School.

You might think it queer for a rabbit gentleman to go adventuring with the clapper of the school bell. But this is the way it happened. As Uncle Wiggily was leaving the school where Dazie, the Woggle jig girl, had danced and kicked two of her wooden legs in the eyes of the staring wolf, the bunny heard a voice speaking.

It was the Clapper of the bell up on the roof of the school. The Clapper said he was tired of staying up there, where it was so cold, and all of a sudden, giving himself a swing and clanging the bell, down fell the Clapper.

"Take me with you!" he begged Uncle Wiggily. "It will warm me up to go adventuring with you."

"But," said the rabbit gentleman as he hopped along with the Clapper,

"Take me with you," he begged Uncle Wiggily

"I should think staying up in the bell, which is like a little house over you, and tapping out ding-dong strokes, would keep you warm enough."

"It doesn't," answered the Clapper. "You see, the school bell only rings a few times a day. Between rings I get cold. If the school bell were in a clock so it rang every hour or half hour I would be kept busy clipping away and I should be warm. But as it is, I am tired of being cold. So I'm coming with you."

"You may not like my adventures," said the rabbit. "Sometimes I meet the bad chaps."

"I am not afraid of them," clanged the Bell Clapper. "If we meet the Fox, Wolf or Bob Cat I'll give them such a clip 'as never was'."

"What do you mean by a clip?" asked the rabbit.

"A clip is like a clap—see here," spoke the Clapper. And, being a nimble fellow, he sprang up in the air and came down on a flat stone, hitting it a hard blow and making a dent. "That's a clip," said the Clapper. "It's what I'd give a Bad Chap if we met one."

"I'm glad to have you with me," said Uncle Wiggily with a laugh. "But, I say! Look here! With you out of the bell, how is it going to ring and call the animal children to school so they won't be late? How about it?"

"That's all right," laughed the Clapper. "Tomorrow will be Saturday and there will be no school, so there will be no need for the bell to ring. By Monday I may be hanging back in my place to help make ding-dongs."

"All right," said Uncle Wiggily, "as long as the children aren't late for school. Come along!"

So the bunny rabbit and the Bell Clapper went over the fields and through the woods. Once Uncle Wiggily jumped a fence and the Clapper was not far behind him.

"My! You are a lively fellow!" said the rabbit.

"Oh, that's nothing! I'm used to being up high," said the other. "I've been in that bell on the roof a great many years," which was true enough. And as the Clapper leaped the fence he hit the top rail.

"Hey! Look out what you're doing!" called the fence rail.

"Oh, excuse me. I didn't mean to clip you!" said the Clapper. "I guess I thought you were a Bad Chap."

"Well, I'm not," grumbled the rail, "and you have made a dent in me. It doesn't look stylish."

"Oh, I think it does," said Uncle Wiggily, turning back. "It is very stylish to be dented."

"Well, perhaps it is," said the rail. "Good luck to you!"

So Uncle Wiggily and the Clapper hurried along, and, all of a sudden, in the woods they met the Bob Cat.

"Ho! Ho!" howled the Bad Chap, with his silly little tail. "I have been looking for you, Uncle Wiggily. And I have caught you all alone," for the Bob Cat did not think the Clapper was anybody.

"What are you going to do to me?" asked the rabbit.

"Nibble you!" howled the Bob Cat.

"Oh, are you?" clanged the Clapper, and with that he bounced up and gave the Bob Cat such a clip on his head that the Bad Chap howled and yowled, and, tucking as well as he could his silly little tail between his legs, away he ran.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I'm glad you came adventuring with me, Bell Clapper!" That night the Clapper stayed in the rabbit's bungalow and was nice and warm.

LYRICS OF LIFE

COMING HOME

I can't quite tell him, strange to say,
How much it means at close of day
To hear a husband's step once more,
To catch the opening of the door,
And note its closing, knowing then
That here we are, both home again,
The only place, as evening nears,
We've ever wanted all these years.

I can't quite tell him. Maybe he
Has feelings he can't quite tell me—
How much it means to turn his feet
Around one corner, up one street,
And know his eyes shall see a light,
Not now, not then, but every night—
True to his trust, will see it shine
And know that I am true to mine.

I can't quite tell him, strange to say,
But thought upon my wedding day
That nothing I might ever miss
Could be as vital as just this:
That I should be there when he came.
I think perhaps he thought the same;
That nothing else, no task, no sum—
Could be as vital as to come.

Bright Children

Are those who are Properly Fed

CHILDREN who are brightest at school are those who are properly fed. The body must be nourished and full of energy if the brain is to be alert. Breakfast is the child's most important meal. It is the meal which starts bodily and mental activity for the day.

Physicians, educators and public men are calling for better breakfasts for the children. They know that during the four morning hours body and mind are most heavily taxed with work or play.

Don't handicap your children by improper or insufficient morning meals. Give them a sustaining breakfast. Serve Quick Quaker Oats every morning.

Be sure always to get Quick Quaker. Each package contains a coupon with which you can secure useful household and personal articles of genuine value. The figure of the Quaker is on each big family package and the small ten cent size. Both are wrapped and sealed.

Correct Balance of Food Elements

Quick Quaker contains 16% protein, which builds tissue and stamina; carbohydrates, 63%, supply energy and keep the mind alert; minerals to tone the blood and build bone; roughage, a natural laxative, and the important vitamin B, which aids the assimilation of all food.

A Story of Revenged Love, by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER XXX.

THE STORY THUS FAR:

GILES CHITTENHAM returns to London from the United States, where he has contracted a secret and unfortunate marriage, to help wind up the affairs of his younger half brother, RODNEY, who has recently killed himself for love of the notorious flirt, JULIE FARROW. In Switzerland he meets Julie Farrow, through his friend, LOMBARD, and makes love to her with the intention of spurning her in revenge for her treatment of Rodney. But, after he realizes that he really loves her, he finds out that she is a cousin of the Julie Farrow whom his brother loved. He tells her the truth—of his mistake, and that, because of his marriage, he cannot marry her. He meets her later to find that she is leading a wild, gay life, and is apparently heartless. A rich, recently widowed older man, named SCHOFIELD, wants to marry her. Chittenham hears that SADIE his wife, is in London. Then he meets the other [illegible] who tells him she is ill and cannot live long. Soon she leaves England. Chittenham goes to see his Julie.

For a moment Julie struggled hard for self-control, then she was erect once more and facing him defiantly.

"You said when I came in that this must stop. Well, I agree, and so we'll just settle it now, once and for all. Will you please understand, Mr. Chittenham, that you and I are nothing whatever to one another, and never have been? If you want to hear the truth, I even rather dislike you. However foolish you once thought me—Oh, I'm not shirking the memory, if you are," she broke out as he would have spoken. "I am quite willing to admit that for one night—just for a few hours—I let you think I rather liked you. Don't blame me for that. It was the snow and the wind, and being up there so far away from everyone. In the morning it had all gone, and, as I said then, we had come back to earth again." Her voice was studiously cold and quiet, almost expressionless. "It's not very polite of you to remind me of my foolishness. I am not very proud of it, even if you are."

"I would give everything I possess to wipe it out."

"I am sure you would." Julie smiled, a pale ghost of a smile, and with sudden bravado she even held out her hand to him. "Let's cry pax, shall we—and agree to forget it? I shall go my own way—"

"And is what I saw last night your 'own way'?" Giles asked bitterly. "And if so, how long do you think you can stand it? You will ruin your health—"

"I rather think that is my own concern."

"You will make your name a byword, even amongst these—these ridiculous people you call your friends."

"And that of course, will break my heart, if it is not already broken," Julie sneered. "It matters so much what people like Doris Gardener and Sadie Barrow say! They haven't any vices themselves, have they?"

"At least Sadie does not drink," Chittenham interrupted unthinkingly. He saw the sudden look of angry surprise that flashed into Julie's eyes.

"You seem to have found out a great deal about Sadie in a short time," she said sharply.

"One does not have to be either very quick or very inquisitive to find out such a thing," Giles answered. "As a matter of fact I find her very charming," he added with an almost childish desire to sting her.

But Julie calmly agreed.

"So do I. She and I have a great deal in common. Chiefly our dislike of your noble sex."

"Schofield always excepted, I suppose?"

Julie laughed.

"Lawrence Schofield certainly excepted. He is a great friend of mine—he is rich, and, moreover, he is anxious to marry me."

"You don't care two straws about the man."

"On the contrary I care a great many straws. Not that it is any business of yours—"

"I shall make it my business."

Julie shrugged her shoulders.

"I was right when I said you had mistaken your vocation and that you ought to have been a parson. You have all a parson's love of interfering in things that don't concern you."

"It does concern me when the woman I love talks of rushing into a ridiculous marriage."

"The woman you love!" Julie's face flamed. "How infinitely touching—and what a pity you are not free to marry me yourself! Think of the divine bliss we should experience—think of the happy-ever-after ending—"

"I have offered to marry you."

"Offered!"

A tragic silence followed Julie's eloquent repetition of the unluckily chosen word, and she turned very white. "I think if you have no further insults for me you had better go," she said quietly.

"I have not insulted you. You deliberately misconstrue what I say. You know nothing would give me greater happiness than the freedom to make you my wife. You know, if you wish it—"

Julie slipped past him, and opened the door.

"Please go," she said.

"Julie, for God's sake—"

Julie looked him straight in the eyes.

"Please go," she said again.

Bim spoke from the narrow hall rather nervously.

"Julie, dear, Mr. Schofield has just driven up."

"I'm coming at once."

Julie went to her room, put on her hat and coat and, without another word to either Bim or Chittenham, walked out of the flat. There was an eloquent silence after the door had slammed behind her; then Bim half shrugged her shoulders and went into the sitting-room, where Giles stood staring out of the window.

"Don't be too angry with her, Mr. Chittenham," she said.

He turned round.

"I beg your pardon. How do you do?" He hardly knew what he was saying. "I'm sorry. It's all my fault. I made her angry. I didn't mean to—she deliberately misunderstands everything I say. I beg your pardon. All this is of no interest to you."

"It's of great interest to me. I dare say you only said all the things that I have said to her for weeks past. She won't listen to either of us, that's the trouble. This morning I offered to leave her—"

"No, no," said Giles hurriedly. "Don't do that!"

"I don't want to, but what can I do? She never wants me with her—we disagree about everything. She turns night into day—she is ill and unhappy—"

"I know."

"When she came home last night—" Bim said, and stopped.

"I know. She was at my mother's house," Chittenham answered in a hard voice.

"I am so sorry, so dreadfully sorry," Bim said.

He turned and looked at her.

"It's all my fault," he broke out agitatedly. "And there's nothing I can do to put it right—nothing."

The telephone rang suddenly and Bim went across the room to answer it.

"Yes? No, Bim Lennox speaking. Oh, yes, Miss Barrow! No, she's just gone out. Can I give her a message? Oh—yes, very well—tomorrow afternoon at four—I will tell her. No, I don't think I shall come. That sort of thing doesn't appeal to me. Thank you—good-bye."

Bim hung up the receiver and turned. There was a little angry frown between her level brows.

"Do you believe in spiritualism, Mr. Chittenham?" she asked.

"No."

"Nor do I, but it seems all the fashion just now. There is to be a seance, or whatever you call it, at your mother's house tomorrow afternoon."

Giles flushed.

"I shall not allow it," he said hotly.

Bim smiled and shook her head.

"Perhaps I should not have told you. That was Miss Barrow phoning. She's an ardent believer—"

"She never used—" Giles began, then stopped.

"It's all nonsense," he protested angrily. "A pack of charlatans duping a lot of silly women!"

"Julie is going too. They have got hold of some wonderful new medium." Bim's voice was quietly sarcastic. "They have invited me, but it's not the sort of thing I care about."

Chittenham frowned.

"It's not the sort of thing any healthy-minded person would care about, and, anyway—" He paused. It was impossible to tell Bim that his mother had declared she would not have Julie in her house again. "I hope you will try to dissuade Miss Farrow from going," he added.

Bim shrugged her shoulders.

"You might as well ask me to try to stop Niagara," she said hopelessly. "Once Julie has made up her mind nothing will change it." She hesitated, then added impulsively: "Oh, Mr. Chittenham, she used to be the dearest—sweetest—"

Giles moved restlessly. Did he not know how dear and sweet she could be? Had he not proved it in those few short hours which now seemed so far away that sometimes he believed he had only dreamed of them?

He broke the following silence hoarsely. "Well, I think I'll be getting along."

Bim went with him to the door, but after they had said goodbye he hesitated and came back.

"Miss Lennox, don't leave her if you can help it!"

"No."

"You see—" He flushed, and stopped, only to flounder on again. "You see, it's all my fault—all my cursed stupidity."

"I know. Julie told me."

"She told you?"

"Yes."

"And I suppose you think—what do you think?"

Bim smiled.

"It would be so easy for me to say that I think you behaved like a knave—so easy to rail at you—but I don't want to. I think life is so tragic—nothing ever seems to go quite right for any of us, does it? At least, that is my experience. We can only just go on—hoping that something will turn up to straighten things out, and it so seldom does. I wonder often if it isn't because we lack courage."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean courage to face facts and see things as they really are." She looked away from him. "Mr. Chittenham, you know Julie doesn't really—hate you." She laughed rather sadly. "I suppose I ought not to have told you that, but I can't bear to see her as she is now, so reckless, so broken—" She stopped, afraid that she had said too much, and for a moment there was a profound silence; then Chittenham held out his hand again.

"Thank you," he said.

PERSONALITY AND ACTION

Personality, once a matter of chance development, is now an art cultivated to some extent by the flappers and sheiks from all ages between six and sixty. Much of our success in the world depends upon our ability to make others like us. This force of character has been given the term of "personality" and consists of a combination of many qualities such as physical appearance, education, tone and modulation of the voice, spirit, human interests, neatness, gestures, attitudes, friendliness, cheerfulness, etc.

Fortunately, everyone's personality is capable of improvement. One should be able to examine himself or herself critically and note shortcomings and strive to improve these. When there is some handicap which cannot be overcome, such as shortness of stature, other qualities should be developed which will make one liked in spite of the defect.

It is well known that some of the greatest men in history were short men and some of the most liked and charming women are not beautiful to look at. But when these people, with personality, begin to move and speak, their blemishes disappear. They appear beautiful, personified with life.

Everybody likes to be liked. Therefore, one of the first secrets of a successful personality is to see the favorable qualities in other people's characters. Cultivate an interest in the best, both in books and friends.

The framework upon which your personality is built is health, and the life of your personality is controlled and directed energy. Health and knowledge of eating, sleeping and exercising are indispensable.

To those who do not have confidence in themselves I would like to quote this old saying, fraught with meaning: "If you do a thing, you will have the power." When a desire is strong enough to stimulate the body to activity, one seems to find strength for its accomplishment. This power comes from some other source than mere food and drink. A man may live a humdrum life for years, and then suddenly he develops some overwhelming ambition; he will find in himself more power than he ever before suspected.

This is also true after a prolonged illness when the body's forces are so low that conditions seem hopeless. If some strong stimulation comes in, such as the return of a loved one or the discovery of some problem that the patient wishes to accomplish, recovery often takes place in an almost miraculous manner.

Under the influence of hypnosis, subjects have been known to do things which they would never have believed possible in their waking hours. An insane man has been known to overpower several much stronger men than himself. Why can we not liberate these powers for everyday use? There seems to be only one obstacle. We do not have the confidence in our own capacities.

Energy seems to be omnipresent an all that is necessary to obtain it in any desired quantity is to remove the barriers of our conflicting ideas by the cultivation of helpful, constructive suggestions to our subconscious mind.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Grapejuice for High Blood Pressure.

Question: Mrs. A. M. writes: "I read with much interest your daily articles, and would like to know if grapejuice is harmful to people having high blood pressure. I am very fond of it, but having high blood pressure would like to be sure whether or not I should drink it."

Answer: Grapejuice is an excellent drink and when used should be taken in place of a meal or between meals. It is not to be added on to an ordinary meal. [illegible] tendency to high blood pressure should use the grapejuice to which no sugar has been added.

Strengthening the Heart.

Question: F. J. writes: "My age is twenty. How can I strengthen my heart?"

Answer: The heart may be strengthened through systematic physical culture and by living on a careful diet. Only a small amount of the right kind of food should be used and care must be observed in avoiding all inharmonious mixtures of food which produce excessive stomach or intestinal gas.

Abnormal Sleepiness.

Question: F. Z. writes: "I am a man of 70 years of age, have always had good health, but have always been abnormally sleepy, and as I grow older it becomes worse.

Answer: The most important cause of abnormal sleepiness is from overeating. Even though you are a hard worker you probably eat more food than your body requires. The large amount of energy which you use in digesting this food takes away vital force from other parts of your body, including the brain. Try cutting down the amount of food you have been using to about one half and see if I am not right.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE USE SLANG

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

"Baloney" is the latest popular slang word for the older "tommyrot." It replaces "applesauce."

There are fads and fashions even in slang. The insatiable human thirst for the new and strange finds expression in every department of our existence. It is the "kick" we are after. And the staid bookishlanguage does not afford it.

Slang words are usually short and snappy. They are also colorful. Frequently they have sound value as well. One can guess the meaning by the tone and color of the word without knowing the language. This appeals to the primitive and childish in us. It imitates the "bow wow" and the "chu chu" language of the baby.

To the extent that it cuts red tape in expressing an idea and introduces variety slang is refreshing. But like all novelties it soon loses its flavor, or else becomes so commonplace that the writers of our huge dictionaries are reluctantly forced to admit the upstart among the respectable family of words. "Ain't" had a hard struggle, but has finally crashed the gate of the social elete among words. Theoretically it is no longer confined to people coming from the "sticks."

The slang expression does for words what the nickname does for names. It is a parody, a caricature. We usually enjoy it as we enjoy comedy of the cheaper sort. Those who pride themselves on their meticulous choice of words are shocked by slang, and look upon it as the ear mark of vulgarity and illiteracy. These are the same people who have no use for jazz music.

The real objection to slang is that it impoverishes the user in the expression of the more delicate and exact mechanisms of his thought. "Dope" for example may mean anything from a narcotic drug to insight, information, skill, etc., as illustrated by the expression "Get the dope on this" or "What's the dope?"

Carelessness and slovenly habits should not be omitted as motives for the use of slang. Perhaps some who refrain from slang are careful to avoid a reputation for being slip-shod.

The illiterate person uses slang because he doesn't know better. Some cultured people have a horror for slang and never use it. The great majority of us get a little relaxation and kick from slang because of its novelty, directness, colorfulness and force. But we soon tire of it as we do of jazz.

Why do you do what you do. Ask Dr. Thomson. Write care of this paper, and send, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Monday, November the 12th, was the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Youngs at their home at 167 Aylmer Street. Mr. Young was married to Miss Annie Loomis, of Brighton, fifty years ago, the Rev. Amos Campbell officiating. Mrs. William German of Warkworth, a sister of Mrs. Young, was the only guest who had been present at their wedding. The pretty rooms were bright with shaded lamps and bronze 'mums in tall vases. The table was made very attractive with wide bands of gold ribbon, ornamented at each corner with a golden rose. Tall vases of 'mums were also used here, and the wedding cake formed the centre-piece. The cake was beautifully trimmed in gold over the white icing, with the dates, 1878-1928, in relief. Mrs. Young received her guests in a lovely gown of black lace over a mauve satin slip. Many and beautiful were the gifts received from friends and children. One of the gifts was a basket of fifty baby 'mums. Both Mr. and Mrs. Young are in the best of health, and made a very youthful appearance for a bride and bridegroom of fifty years. The children present at this celebration were: Mr. and Mrs. P. Christie and two daughters, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Bull and family, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt and children, of Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs G. H. Cutmore and children, of Peterborough. Mr. and Mrs. Young are the proud possessors of twelve grandchildren. The good wishes of a host of friends were received, making of the day a true Thanksgiving.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

Corresponding seems to be a rather difficult task for many of us, one which we sometimes put off as long as possible—I mean, of course, personal letters, for the office ones have to be answered almost immediately

One lady said that such was her case until she supplied herself with the necessary and proper facilities—a lovely desk set for her bedroom—and after that letter writing seemed to be much more enjoyable and consequently was attended to more regularly.

For the apartment there are some lovely desks shown just now in the furniture stores in the city. They are all in the new finishes which will be sure to correspond with the other pieces of furniture. The pigeon holes and small drawers in the upper section give ample accommodation for all the necessities pertaining to letter writing.

If the house is big enough, there should be a desk of some nature in every bedroom

• • •

For the young girl there are some being shown in a more feminine design, and look very attractive when touched with a desk set in shades to match the color scheme and a convenient lamp, clock and, of course, a photo-

We must not, of course, forget the man of the house, he would be most pleased, I am sure, if he possessed a convenient desk for his room. An attractive one noticed recently which would please the heart of ANY man who desires the utmost in convenience and simplicity—and the most of them do, don't they? It is on a double nature, having a bookshelf at each side of a sufficiently large desk to hold all the necessary requirements of writing

He shouldn't grumble then, should he? If any papers are not to be found tell him where to look, and he might find them in the desk, whereas if he hasn't a desk of his very own, you may possibly be the one to blame—in his ideas anyway—if papers are mislaid.

You've heard other men besides the ones in your family calling something like this just as you are ready to don your hat: "Oh, I say, did you see my socks, mother did you not wash my shirt to-day?'

It gets to be sort of a habit—they just have it out when you heard them say, "Oh never mind, I've got it." But they probably get you up and to the foot of the stairs before you were informed of the fact that the missing article had been lying under their nose, all nicely done up, ready waiting their hasty grab for it

These kind of people are getting in a sort of a rut aren't they?

If you are in a nice, comfortable rut, don't slump down in it. A one-track mind will not make you interesting to your associates, and unless you keep alert and 'up-an-coming' you will soon become a drug-on-the-market.

No matter how tired you are at night when you come home from the factory or office, (I've said this a few times before) or how unnecessary it seems to clean up for the evening meal when you are just staying at home—do it anyway.

It has a psychological effect on your spirits and intellect and will really brighten both—and often times they need it.

Then, again, we often just keep in the same old rut in the business world—it's almost impossible to keep in the same rut in running a women's page, because you confront so many different things

Try to tackle something new once in a while, it doesn't do to stick always to the same old job. Enter a new field of activity; branch out and meet new people—no matter how shy or backward you feel to be—try it anyway. Learn to play new games; do something different.

It requires some nerve and stamina to refuse to 'stay put,' but it pays rich dividends in happiness and fulness of life. It may even pay dividends for it is by growing and improving and learning new things that new opportunities come to us.

By this time you will have scanned the Armistice Number from beginning to end—the whole 52 pages. What did you think of it? Was it worth waiting another day for? I hope so, I hope it has shown at least a little of the appreciation which we were trying to show in memory of those of our fellowmen who are not with us now to help celebrate the glorious event—glorious to some, yet not to many.

But even though many of our dear boys who are not with us in flesh, were, I am sure in constant touch with us throughout the week-end. Something of this was, I think, suggested in one of the letters about Armistice which came in for the page.

Do not let us forget them to-morrow, but remember day and every day throughout the day—they are remembered every day and every hour in the day by their mothers, so let us remember them throughout the year until nextArmistice in 1929.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

Thinking that women, at times, like to browse among quotations by those famous ones who have been touched with the divine fire, especially if their writings have some application to their daily thoughts and musings, the column today is taken up with such random gleanings.

"Let us endeavor so to live that when we come to die even the undertaker will be sorry."—Mark Twain.

• • •

"We are told of the Chinese sage Mengtsen, that when he was a child, his mother's home was near a slaughter-house, and that she instantly left her home when she saw the child watching with indifference the pain inflicted upon animals. Her second home was near a graveyard, and again she left when she saw the boy imitating at his play the rites of superstition."—Dean Farrar.

"In supplying the men for the carnage of a battlefield, women have not merely lost actually more blood, and gone through a more acute anguish and weariness, in the months of bearing and in the final agony of child-birth, than has been experienced by the men who cover it; but, in the months of rearing that follow, the women of the race go through a long, patiently endured strain which no knapsacked soldier on his longest march has ever more than equalled; while, even in the matter of death, in all civilized societies, the probability that the average woman will die in child-birth is immeasurably greater than the probability that the average male will die in battle.

"There is, perhaps, no woman, whether she has borne children, or be merely potentially a child-bearer, who could look down upon a battlefield covered with slain, but the thought would rise in her, 'So many mothers' sons! So many young bodies brought into the world to lie there! So many months of weariness and pain while bones and muscles were shaped within! So many hours of anguish and struggle that breath might be! All this, that men might lie with glazed eyeballs, and swollen faces, and fixed, blue, unclosed mouths, and great limbs tossed—this, that an acre of ground might be manured with human flesh, that next year's grasses or poppies or karoo bushes may spring up greener and redder, where they have lain, or that the sand of a plain may have the glint of white bones!'

"And we cry, 'Without an inexorable cause, this must not be!' No woman who is a woman says of a human body, 'It is nothing!'"—Olive Schreiner.

"We are foolish, and without excuse foolish, in speaking of the superiority of one sex to the other, as if they could be compared in similar things! Each has what the other has not; each completes the other; they are in nothing alike; and the happiness and perfection of both depend on each asking and receiving from the other what the other only can give."—John Ruskin.

"Josephine was dead. The fall of the Emperor, her hero, her Cid, had bewildered and unnerved her. Frightened at the din of war that shook the whole realm, she had lived in terror at Malmaison. The allied kings paid her every attention, and in showing the King of Prussia over her lovely grounds when she was ill, broken out with an eruption, she had, it is said, brought on a fatal relapse. Murmuring the words 'Elba'—'Bonaparte'—she died, while her hero was yet in exile.

"It is a revelation of his true character that before setting out on his last campaign he should claim one day out of the few Fate gave him, and devote it to memories, to regrets, to recollections of the frail, but tender-hearted woman who had warmed to him when all the world was growing cold. He went to Malmaison, almost alone, and, with Hortense, walked over the grounds, seeing the old familiar places, and thinking of the 'old familiar faces.' He lingered in the garden he himself had made, and in which he used to love to work when he was First Consul, surrounded by trees and flowers, and inhaling the breath of nature. He used to say that he could work better there than anywhere else. He wandered through the park, looking out on the trees he had planted in those brilliant days long ago. Every spot had its silent reminder of glories that were gone, of friends he would see no more.

"He asked to be told everything about Josephine—her last days, her sickness, her dying hours; no details were too trivial to escape him. And as they told the story he would break in with exclamations of interest, of fondness, of sorrow. On this visit to the chateau he wanted to see everything that could remind him of her, and of their old life together—the death-chamber at the last. Here he would have no companion. 'My daughter, let me go in here alone!' and he put Hortense back, entered, and closed the door. He remained a long while, and when he came out his eyes showed that he had been weeping."—Thomas E. Watson.

200 YEARS OF EXCELLENCE

For 200 years Fry's has been highly valued for children

FROM the far off days of George II, and on through the reigns of George III, George IV, William IV, Victoria, Edward VII and our present sovereign, George V, the cocoa (or chocolate) made by this historic House has ever been given a high place as an article of diet for children.

Little ones were thriving on this famous food beverage for nearly 140 years before Canadian confederation.

And FRY'S is still the choice of mothers throughout Canada and the world who wish their children to grow bonny and strong. The experience of 200 years makes it supreme for quality and for taste-tempting flavour. Have you a tin of FRY'S in your home today?

"A delicate subject —but these girls must be told"

—a dean of women says

Unfortunately this delicate subject is seldom discussed. Now, a new patented process deodorizes this scientific sanitary pad completely

EVEN among girls who are very frank with each other, there is a question of daintiness, of fastidious personal care that is unfortunately seldom mentioned. Yet many women are unconsciously guilty. At certain times they are seriously offensive to others. With realization comes constant fear and worry.

Today these fears are ended. Science has discovered a way to counteract this offense.

Kotex now completely deodorizes

Kotex has brought a new idea of feminine hygiene to women all over the world. In the past ten years they have learned new comfort, new ease of mind through this sanitary protection. Now, after years of work, a process has been perfected that completely, amazingly ends all odors. In Kotex laboratories the one remaining problem in connection with sanitary pads is solved.

Shaped to fit, too

Because corners of the pad are rounded and tapered, it may be worn without evidence under the most clinging gown. There is none of that conspicuous bulkiness so often associated with old-fashioned methods. And you can adjust the filler, make it thinner, thicker, narrower—to suit your own special needs. It is easily disposed of, no laundering is necessary. A new process makes it softer than ever before.

Buy a box today... 60c for twelve. On sale at all drug, dry goods and departmental stores.

Deodorizes . . . and 4 other important features:

1—Softer gauze ends chafing; pliable filler absorbs as no other substance can;

2—Corners are rounded and tapered; no evidence of sanitary protection under any gown;

3—Deodorizes—safely, thoroughly, by a new and exclusive patented process;

4—Adjust it to your needs; filler may be made thinner, thicker, narrower as required;

and

5—It is easily disposed of; no unpleasant laundry.

KOTEX

The New Sanitary Pad which deodorizes

An ELIZABETH ARDEN Treatment is based on three fundamental steps

CLEANSING · TONING · NOURISHING

The cleansing—with Venetian Cleansing Cream—rids the pores of all impurities which cause blackheads and coarseness. The Toning—with Ardena Skin Tonic and Special Astringent—clarifies the skin and firms the contours. The Nourishing—with Orange Skin Food or the delicate Velva Cream—rounds out lines and wrinkles. These three steps, which supply every need of the skin to keep it naturally clear and lovely, should be a part of your daily care of your skin at home.

ERNIE COX IS AWARDED CUP

Hamilton Player is Winner of Jeff Russell For 1928.

VETERAN IN GAME.

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 13—Rugby followers here are deeply gratified in the selection of Ernie Cox, veteran snap, as the recipient of the Jeff Russell Trophy for 1928. Announcement of the award was made yesterday morning by the secretary of the Interprovincial Union, the Tiger star being selected by the Big Four board of governors and referees over Charlie Lynch, Ottawa quarter, and others who had been nominated by their team-mates.

Cox and Denman had been named by the Jungle Kings, and the choice of either would have been popular here, but with Cox it is particularly so. The veteran has long been a standout at his position and has enjoyed a reputation for years of not only being the best snap in the business, but one of the greatest defensive men in history. His ability to make holes and break up line attacks from the opposition has gone unrecognized to a large extent, for the same reason that the work of so many valuable linemen seems to be hidden from public view.

That has team-mates fully appreciate the capabilities of Cox is the greatest tribute that could be paid a player. Cox qualifies for the trophy in every regard, being a star player in every sense of the word, clean and conscientious and one of the most willing of players.

THREE TEAMS TIE WITH SARNIA WIN

Kitchener Beaten in Kicking Duel To End Group Schedule in Deadlock.

SARNIA, Ont., Nov. 13 (Canadian Press).—Three teams now have a chance to win the Western Senior O.R.F.U. group as a result of Sarnia's 5 to 3 victory over the Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers here on Saturday afternoon. Varsity Orphans, Kitchener and Sarnia have each won two and lost two contests, and the play-offs will be held this week.

There was little to choose between the Sarnia and Imperial on Saturday. In fact, the difference in score about signifies the margin of play. A drizzling rain fell for nearly all of the sixty minutes of play. The ball was slippery and the catching uncertain. The field was wet but not muddy. Over three thousand witnessed the game. Extension plays netted Sarnia the most yardage, but were not productive of a touchdown. Kitchener, on the other hand, had more success with line plunges. The punting of Captain McPherson of the Sarnia Imperials was the factor which gave Sarnia a victory. He was responsible for all of the points, booting the oval across in every quarter and twice in the second period. The Panthers netted their first score in the third period when they trapped McPherson trying to run out a punt from behind his own line and forced him back over for a safety touch. Their third and final tally came in the final chapter when Raynor booted one from Sarnia's 25-yard line. Beauchamp thought it bounced out of bounds and let it roll by. Perry retrieved the ball behind the goal line was was nailed before he could run it out.

Raynor Outpunted.

Hill turned in the best performance on the Kitchener backfield but Raynor, who did the bulk of the kicking, was outpunted by McPherson. Perry and Manore worked a clever combination on end runs, and they made yards for Sarnia on five occasions, aided by good line interference. Tackling was hard on both squads, with the visitors having an edge.

A BEAR OF A STORY

NITTANY, Pa., Nov. 13.—Guyer Grove is one mountain trapper whose curiosity has been satisfied forever. He crawled into a hole in a mountain ledge to see what was inside. His nose touched another—the property of a black bear. Grove was scared stiff, but the bear was frightened into action—so far as is known bruin is still going.

MOUSE IS MUMMIFIED

LONDON, Nov. 13.—A mouse, dead for at least 30 years, was found in a perfect state of preservation, when a gas pipe was replaced in Birmingham recently. It had apparently crawled into the opening just before final connections were made at the time the building was erected.

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention. It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

HAMILTON TIGERS SMOTHER SENATORS

Jungle Kings Defeat Ottawa Team 34-1 at Mountain City.

HAMILTON, November 13 (Canadian Press). — When the Montreal Winged Wheelers played in Hamilton three weeks ago, local rugby fans marvelled at their daring passing game, but on Saturday afternoon the Jungle Kings' display in smothering Ottawa Senators under a 34 to 1 count, was far and above anything offered by the M.A.A.A. squad, and it convinced Hamiltonians that Tigers need not rely entirely on their "Tanks" to push them to victory in the Dominion final scheduled in two weeks' time. Tigers were reinforced by the presence of Frank "Pep" Leadley, and they went on a scoring spree and spiked the belief that they lacked point getting strength on the rear-guard. The champions piled up scores almost at will, and it was not until the dying stages of the game that the Senators managed to score a single point and save themselves from a whitewash.

Tigers ran in two touchdowns in the first quarter and added six more points to be leading 16 to 0. Then the rest period arrived. In the third quarter they scored five points and thirteen added in the last fifteen minutes of play.

The teams:

Tigers — Flying wing, Small; backs Leadley, Gibb and Welch; quarter, Walker; snap, Cox; inside wings, Denman and Elford; middle wings, Timmin and Baker; outside wings, Wright and Simpson; spares, Broadway, Fear, Fitzpatrick, Chappell, Wright, Inksetter, Crawford and Murphy.

Ottawa — Flying wing, Connel; backs, Tubman, Starr and Brassingbar; quarter, Lynch; snap, Bruce inside wings, Keeley and Clark; middle wings, Stanyar and James; outside, Mayotte and Herberts; spares, Cote, Burnett, Sinclair, Paget, Lagrove, Irwin and Hutchingame.

Referee—Hal. Degruchy.

Umpire—Tommy Burton.

"The Foreign Legion"

With two evening shows supplementing the matinee performance on the holiday, the Capitol Theatre had a splendid patronage yesterday. The feature picture, "The Foreign Legion," was preceded by the usual short News Reels and a very funny comedy that was a real laugh-getter. In this, Jimmie Adams is the hero of "Slippery Heels," a picture of the cheque of a thousand adventures.

As an added attraction, there is Stewart Widdess' Silver Slipper Orchestra on the stage. Seven youths in good-looking evening attire play

FOX NEWS - COMEDY
The Regent Orchestra of Seven Pieces have prepared a Special Musical Programme.

snappy, vivacious music that is popular and up to date but decidedly not of the rough jazz variety Their playing of syncopated melodies is characterized by a smooth, finished tone, splendid rhythm and a quality of finish that makes it likeable and attractive in the extreme. There was plenty of sincere, enthusiastic applause, long repeated, for the music of this smooth septette, who played, among other numbers, "Sweet Sue", Nobody's Sweetheart" "Silver Moon" and "Somebody Stole My Gal", with violin obbligato by the leader, Stewart Widdess.

The feature picture is a romantic affair which centers about the Foreign Legion in Algiers. The hero is Norman Kerry, with Lewis Stone as the Colonel of the Legionnaires. Mary Nolan, a lady with a very innocuous name, is the 'vamp' of the picture, Sylvia, who throws Richard Farquhar (Norman Kerry) over for Herbert Markoff, and then tires of her bargain and seeks to return to her earlier love. The ingenue of the picture is Gabrielle, Sylvia's sister, a part taken by June Marlowe.

Seeking to shield Sylvia from the consequences of her husband's villainy, Richard takes upon himself the blame for rifling of a despatch box of important papers. He is asked to resign from his regiment and goes to Algiers to join the Foreign Legion. Later, Markoff and his wife come to Algiers and the former is made a captain of the Legion. Through jealousy of Sylvia, the two men become bitter enemies, and then Sylvia, during her husband's absence, turns to the Colonel of the regiment, Jean Destinn (Lewis Stone) for further excitement.

Complications ensue when the men are sent out on dangerous desert expedition. The melodrama piles itself up to a swift ending, with Farquhar as the victimized hero throughout. By a curious twist of fate, Destinn is really the father of Richard, having gone away from England years before, to bury himself in the Foreign Legion. This fact divulged toward the end of the story, when Richard, who has accepted the leadership of a desert mutiny, is up for court martial and his father is about to pronounce sentence upon him.

The picture, which appears to slide perilously to a tragic ending, does an 'about face' during its last moments and ends happily, after all.

BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF NEW DAVIES COMEDY

"American girl upsets Romance."

"Tennis champ saved from Siren's clutches."

"Monte Carlo laughs at greatest comedy."

No, not newspaper headlines, just a birds-eye review of Marion Davies' most daring comedy, "The Cardboard Lover," which opened yesterday at the Regent Theatre.

Miss Davies, of course, is the American girl—and what a girl. Nils Asther is the tenins champion—his first comedy role in American pictures, and he makes the most of it. Jetta Goudal is the siren. Clad in a Paris wardrobe that would make Worth and Paquin green with envy, she also plays in the first comedy role since she has appeared on the screne.

It is as if the three of them conspired with Director Robert Z. Leonard to turn out a laugh fest they had been chuckling over for years. The result is a comedy that is ultra-modern; the latest in sets, the latest in clothes, and the latest in laughs—and staged in the most beautiful and interesting spot in the world, the pleasure ground of Monte Carlo.

Sally Baxter, the American girl, arrives at Monte Carlo, with a personally conducted party. She sees and admires the handsome champion who is held fast in the clutches of the vampire. While trying to get him to sign her autograph book, she innocently loses 10,000 francs to him at baccarat. As she can't pay, he makes her pose as his cardboard lover, to aid him in keeping the siren at a distance.

Then the fun begins. Carey Wilson, who adapted the story from the famous stage play of the same name, and Director Leonard have turned out a story so amazingly funny that it can never be told in mere words. Suffice it to say that the audiences laugh until they are in need of silencers. If this was a talking picture, everyone would be laughing so hard they would never hear the words.

Miss Davies does super-excellent work as might be expected, while the rest of the cast, Asther, Miss Goudal, Andres de Segurola and Tenen Holtz, keep pace with the fast comedy she starts.

It is a great picture.

He works with MAGIC

THIS MAN is putting up telephone poles. Early in the morning he is out making a way for the wire that is to come. At night when the gang gets back to camp he is tired.

But he likes it. There is zest in the work he is doing, for he is in new country. There have never been telephones here before.

He is blazing the trail. After him will come families and homes and stores and factories to make another city. Over the wires on the poles he plants there will be voices and laughter, business will hum, all the world will draw closer.

He works with magic. The wire transforms time and distance. Today you can lift the telephone at your elbow and within seven minutes hear the voice of your friend in England say: "Are you there?"

* * * *

THIS MAGIC in the telephone has not come in a day. It has come with year after year of experiment and improvement. The telephone of today is no more like the first telephone than a machine gun is like a bow-and-arrow.

And the telephone of tomorrow will surpass the telephone of today. Tomorrow perhaps, this telephone at your elbow will bring you the face of the person you talk with, will hold new magic we now do not dream of.

THIS IS the urge to improve — to seek and to find something always better—which has been the definite policy of the telephone business since the first crude instrument reproduced the voice of its inventor fifty-odd years ago.

By no other policy could the telephone have kept pace with this country or contributed to its progress as it has done in reducing Canada's wide distances and differences of geography.

And by no other policy can the telephone now meet the responsibility of serving Canada's future.

CANADA'S FUTURE is at least twenty years of unprecedented growth and prosperity. All the signs and barometers of business point to it. All the shrewdest prophets of business predict it.

The signs and the prophets are so sure, and the future is so unmistakable, that within the next five years more money will be needed for extension of the telephone system in Ontario and Quebec than was spent by the business in all its first forty years.

THE MAN pushing poles and wire into new country and the foresight which now is planning over one hundred million dollars of new plant to meet the needs of the next five years come from the same policy and the same purpose — to give Canadians facilities of communication worthy of their country and its future.

Published by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada to tell you something about the telephone business and the people in it.

P. C. I. RUGBY TEAMS WIN AND LOSE

SENIORS ELIMINATE OSHAWA TO WIN GROUG CHAMPIONSHIP

Beat Motor City Squad 6-5 in Latter's Mode of Play.

PUT UP GAME FIGHT.

Meet Albert College in First Round of Interscholastic Play-offs.

In a game that sizzled, fraught with hard, close playing, Coach Browne's P.C.I. seniors defeated Oshawa Collegiate Institute team 6 to 5 on the grounds of Trinity College School, Port Hope, Saturday afternoon. The victory earned P.C.I. the championship of the Central Ontario group and the right to meet Albert College in the first rounds of the Interscholastic O.R.F.U. play-offs.

The game was played on a wet, slippery gridiron, treacherous to any fast running and quick turning. The condition of the field prevented P.C.I. from opening up the game with their usual style of passing play with fast runs around the ends, instead they had to settle down and meet the heavier Oshawa twelve at their own mode of play, line bucks and plunges, and they did and beat them, but only after a tremendous fight that swung to and fro with neither team making any big gains.

Oshawa scored in the first quarter when Henry, their speedy outside, got away around the end for a thirty-yard run, the biggest gain of the game and was only hauled down two yards out from the P.C.I. touchline. He went over on the next play.

P.C.I. evened the score shortly after the beginning of the second quarter when Gemmel and Hewitt combined for a long gain on an extend to place the ball on the Oshawa two-yard line. Hewitt hit the line hard on the next play but the Oshawa line were massed to receive him and he went over the line in the air, barely over, in a scramble of players.

The score remained tied until the last quarter when after a succession of gains by Wiman, Hewitt, Gemmel and Cuthbertson, Gemmel hoisted a punt over the Oshawa line for a rouge, and the winning point.

The whole P.C.I. line starred in their fine work in opening holes in the Oshawa line to let the ball carrier through. It was no easy task and it took the whole line working in unison to do it. Then the way the line got down under the heavy line-smashing bucks of Cutler, the heavy Oshawa bucker, was pretty to see. They had Cutler, who did the brunt of the work for Oshawa, stopped dead toward the close of the game. Magee made some perfect tackles and on secondary defence seemed to sense where the play was coming through and was there to stop the man. Hewitt, Cuthbertson, Gemmel and Johnson hit the line hard for repeated gains. The flying brigade of tacklers, Glover, Westbrook and Magee were down fast on every kick and did not fail to get their man. Preston, at centre, snapped the greasy ball well and was through to break up the plays.

Cutler, the big, husky inside on the Oshawa team, was their greatest and most consistent line gainer. Crothers and Cornwall ran and tackled well and Crothers, kicking for Oshawa, was one of their most useful players. He sent up some long punts and he narrowly missed winning the game for them when he tried a drop-kick with the heavy ball from well out and it just went under the bar by a foot.

The Play.

P.C.I. kicked off to Oshawa's 40-yard line. Oshawa made a big gain when Evans skirted the end on an extend for thirty yards. Evans added five more and then Oshawa lost a down on an offside and had to kick. Gemmel got the kick on his own 8-yard line. P.C.I. made no gains and kicked to their 40-yard line. Oshawa was taking charge of the game and Crothers just missed a field goal. Cuthbertson ran the ball out fifteen yards. Armstrong went through for seven and Johnson the same. Gemmel kicked to P.C.I. 40-yard line. Henry got clean away for the longest run of the game and on the next play went over for a touchdown. O.C.I., 5.

After the kick off play remained at midfield, each team taking two bucks and a kick. Magee and Hewitt gained yards for P.C.I. and they broke through and blocked an Oshawa kick gaining possession on Oshawa 30-yard line.

Second Quarter.

Magee and Johnson ripped through for gains and Gemmel and Hewitt combined on a passing play for fifteen yards. Hewitt went over for a touchdown. P.C.I., 5.

There were several exchanges of kicks and neither team made gains. Oshawa lost the ball when they failed to make yards on their own 40-yard line. Magee and Hewitt made gains and Gemmel kicked to Oshawa 10-yard line, Cuthbertson making a beautiful tackle to bring down the catcher. Oshawa gained yards and then lost the ball for their failure to make yards. Magee, Cuthbertson, and Johnson made gains for P.C.I. and play ended on Oshawa 30-yard line.

Third Quarter.

Oshawa tried a short kick off and Gemmel got the ball near centre. Gemmel's kick was blocked but P.C.I. retrieved the ball. Cuthbertson made a nice gain but the game was settling down to two bucks and a kick with neither team gaining much. Cuthbertson took a long pass from Gemmel and ran twelve yards, only to have P.C.I. lose ten yards on an offside play. Oshawa was keeping the play pretty well in the P.C.I. half of the field.

Fourth Quarter.

Gemmel, Wiman, Hewitt and Cuthbertson made big gains for P.C.I. and put Gemmel in kicking distance and he booted over the line for a rouge. P.C.I., 6.

Oshawa pressed and forced the play into P.C.I. territory. Gemmel upset the Oshawa play when he returned the Oshawa kick. P.C.I. got possession at the Oshawa 40-yard line on a fumble and Gemmel kicked to Oshawa 10-yard line. Oshawa could not gain and again Gemmel returned the Oshawa kick on his catch and Oshawa had possession on their 1-yard line. Cotler gained yards and Oshawa was out of danger when they gained on an extend. Gemmel grabbed an Oshawa attempted onside kick and ran to Oshawa's 10-yard line before he was downed. Oshawa's bucks were not gaining them anything and Gemmel was returning their kicks keeping them bottled up near their touch line until the game was over.

The line-ups were:

Oshawa Collegiate Institute—Snap, Smith; insides, Cutler and Bondurant; middles, Hele and Henry; outsides, Daniels and Henry; halves, Evans and Cornwall; flying wings, Crothers and Irwin; quarter, Carver; subs, McIntosh, Hicks, Corrin and Mundy.

Peterborough Collegiate Institute—Snap, Preston; insides, Wiman and Hall; middles, Johnson and Armstrong; outsides, Glover and Westbrook; halves, Hewitt and Cuthbertson; flying wings, Dunkerly and Magee; quarter, Gemmel; subs, Green, Lord, Dearborn and Reynolds.

Referee: Jack Armstrong; Umpire: L. Wallace (both of Toronto).

Summary:

First Quarter.

Oshawa—Henry's touchdown, 5.

Second Quarter.

P.C.I.—Hewitt's touchdown, 5.

Third Quarter.

No score.

Fourth Quarter.

P.C.I.—Gemmel's rouge, 1.

Total—P.C.I. 6, Oshawa C.I. 5.

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent. and now it is sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from McDermid & Jury, or Bond's Drug Store to-day. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you, or costs you nothing.

Monarch A. C. Captures Road Running Honors

VIEWS ON SPORT

The P.C.I. teams battled themselves groggy at Port Hope on Saturday, and both teams deserve the highest honor.

The P.C.I. school spirit was in wide evidence at Port Hope on Saturday, both on and off the field. The teams played against odds that would have disheartened nay outfit not borne up on that fountain of extra effort called school spirit. This is the very thing that is found nowhere else but in college and high school games, and that raises their play so much above the usual club or city competitions. It was for the honor of their school that they played with that "never say die" spirit that gave them that extra pep and fight that won them the game."

* * * * * * *

The Intermediates, too, showed that same quality of never admitting defeat, and they pushed the heavy Bowmanville squad right down in the shadow of their goal posts in the final minute, and then lost the game because of their inexperience. They sent thrust after thrust into the centre of the heavy Bowmanville centre in their excitement and anxiety about the time when an end run would have won them the game.

* * * * * *

Many of their young supporters having no visible way of getting to the game began to walk, trusting to luck that they might get a lift. Another squad took their bicycles and wheeled the whole distance down and back—all imbued with enthusiasm to be there to cheer their team while playing.

* * * * * * *

The McGill victory over Varsity brings the championship of the Intercollegiate Union to Montreal after nine years of fruitless playing. The McGill students staged a stupendous scene of jubilation after the game. It is too bad that McGill has chosen to side-step the play-offs for the Eastern title.

The local hockey players will have their weekly work-out at the "Y" gym. to-morrow night. Every player that hopes to make the team should plan to be on hand so that he will be in shape when the season opens.

SLIPPERY FIELD IS HANDICAP TO INTERMEDIATES

Wet Gridiron Spoils Effectiveness of P.C.I. Fast-Running Plays.

WIN BY 5-2 SCORE.

Losers Come Within Inch of Scoring in Final Rounds of Play.

Playing on a slippery, greasy gridiron that prevented any fast running the P.C.I. Intermediates lost the championship of the group in the playoff game when Bowmanville H.S. defeated them 5 to 2 on Trinity College grounds, Port Hope, on Saturday. The slippery nature of the field aided the heavy line-plunging game of the Bowmanville team while it slowed up and spoilt the effectiveness of the P.C.I. fast running plays.

The P.C.I. team were out-lucked and out-weighed the Bowmanville twelve being heavier by easily twenty pounds on every position. Even at that Coach Legon's team came within an inch of winning the game when they had the ball one yard out from the Bowmanville touchline in the final minute and could not buck it over against their heavy opponents.

It was a heart breaking play that gave Bowmanville their touchdown and the victory. Play was at midfield when Bowmanville kicked to the P.C.I. twenty yard line. P.C.I. lost ten yards on a forward pass and then failed to make yards and the ball went to Bowmanville on the P.C.I. twenty-five yard line. Bowmanville failed to advance the ball but James, their kicker, booted a long punt over the P.C.I. touchline and Young, who caught it returned a short boot to Bowmanville just outside the line. On the next play Bowmanville with only a few yards to go sent Colemore, their big half, around and over for the score.

P.C.I. scored the first point in the second quarter when they worked the ball down and Mackay kicked over for a rouge. In the fourth quarter P.C.I. got their other point when Mackay again booted for a rouge. In the final minutes of the game P.C.I. had a lovely chance to win the game when they had the Bowmanville team backed up on their own fifteen yard line and on a Bowmanville fumble obtained the ball. P.C.I. advanced the ball for yards on gains by Hamilton and Dinesen and were three yards out from the touchline with three downs to do the distance in. They were playing against time with the whistle ready to be blown any moment and the youngsters sent three bucks one after another into the centre of the heavy Bowmanville team and made slight gains. The whistle blew with Bowmanville in possession one yard out from the touchline.

The whole P.C.I. team worked hard trying to make openings in the Bowmanville line and they all did trojan service. Clayton and Doukas stopped many a Bowmanville buck and the tackling of the former and the line plunging of the latter were bright spots in the game. Best and Dinesen made big gains repeatedly and Mackay, the little quarter, handled his team well and booted nicely.

James for the winners made some good gains and his spiral kicks troubled the P.C.I. catchers considerably. Devitt, Colemore and Candler were their best ball carriers.

The line-ups were:

Snap, Mitchell; insides, Greenway and Vanstone; middles, Gunn and Minore; outsides, Cameron and Slemon; halves, Devitt, Colemere and Candler; flying wing, Adams; quarter, James; subs, Cowan, Kent, Canterman, and H. Colmere.

Peterborough Collegiate Intermediates—Snap, McWilliams; insides, Waddell and Chandler; middles, Fraser and Doukas; outsides, Ward and Wagar; halves, Young and Dinesen; flying wings, Clayton and Hamilton; quarter, Mackay; subs, Braund, Best, Gaul, Barnes.

Referee—Jack Armstrong, umpire, L. Wallace.

Summary:

First Quarter.

No score.

Second Quarters

P.C.I.—Mackay's rouge.

Third Quarter

Bowmanville H.S. — Colemore's touchdown, 5.

Fourth Quarters.

P.C.I.—Mackay's rouge, 1

DELORO DEFEAT BELLEVILLE 1-0

Smelters Obtain Only Counter of Game in Last Moments of Play.

POSTPONED FIXTURE.

MARMORA, Nov. 13 (Examiner Correspondence). — Deloro football team journeyed to Belleville on Saturday to play their postponed game with the Canadian Legion team of that city and won by the only goal obtained during the game. In each half Deloro did most of the pressing but though Brooks and E. Brown came near to scoring in the first half, half time came with both goalies unbeaten. Belleville also had been trying good defensive tactics. When the opposing forwards became dangerous the homesters would pack their goal. Just when a goalless draw seemed imminent W. Brown scored with a nice shot. The game was marked with good refereeing. Deloro was representing by the following team:

Goal, Regan; backs, Murray and Nicholson; half backs, Kelly, Sanderson and Hart; forwards, Savage, E. Brown, Brooks, W. Brown and Cousins.

TAKE THREE OF FOUR EVENTS IN THANKSGIVING DAY PROGRAM

Lindsay Teams Win the Senior and Junior Relay Races.

SMOKE RETAINS HONORS.

Goheen Saves the Day For the Local "Y" By Winning the Junior Event.

Runners wearing the Lindsay colors nearly made a clean sweep of the Harrier Road Races held from the "Y" yesterday morning when they won three of the four events. The Monarch A.C. team of Lindsay won the Senior Ten-mile Relay and the Lindsay Collegiate Institute team just managed to beat out DeLaval team in a very close finish in the junior relay. Albert Smoke, the Indian runner, who was famous in the long races a few years ago, came out of retirement and ran under the Monarch Club's colors to just nose out Willoughby, of All Saints' in the senior three mile event. Arthur Goheen saved the day for the Y.M.C.A. when he ran a splendid race to win the junior event.

Took Early Lead

The Monarch A.C. took an early lead in the senior relay when Strickland did the first lap in 14 minutes and 14 seconds. The "Y" team with John Ward as their runner was second for the start of the second round. Dicky Bates carrying the baton for the C.G.E. did a speedy lap and brought his team into second place close up on leading Monarch A.C. runner. Freeman for the C.G.E. lost a little ground running Brandon the smart Lindsay runner. When Smoke took the baton, Lindsay had nice lead of 31 seconds. Tranter however doing the two and a half miles in the best time of the day, 13 minutes and 27 seconds, and nearly caught Smoke before he reached the tape. There were four teams and they finished (1) Monarch A.C., (2) C.G.E., (3) Y.M.C.A., (4) Harrison's team. The time for the winners was 58 minutes, 17 seconds and for the C.G.E. team 58 minutes and 28 seconds.

The runners for the teams were: Monarch A.C.—Strickland, Perry, Brandon, and Smoke; C.G.E.—Palmer, Bates, Freeman and Tranter; Y.M.C.A.—Ward, McLeod, Grosse and Trottier; Harrison's—Dorrington, Smith, H. Vinette, and Ira Dundas.

Junior Relay

There were two teams from Lindday in the Junior relay, the Monarchs and the Collegiate. The Lindsay teams took the lead in the first lap with the DeLaval and T.O.B. Square of George Street Church in close pursuit. The same positions continued with the two Lindsay teams in front until the last lap when Dallin running for the DeLaval passed the Monarch runner and was closing fast on the Lindsay Collegiate boy at the finish. The time of the Lindsay Collegiate was 20 minutes and 38 seconds and the DeLaval two seconds behind with 20 minutes and 40 seconds.

The teams and runners were:—Delaval—Bailey, Hope, Art. Smith, and B. D. Allin; T.O.B. Square, Rutter, Tuck, Payne and Best; Y.M.C.A. (Intermediates)— Stranger Caravaggi, Wright, McBain; Y.M.C.A. (Intermediates) — Mitchell, Brinson, Donough, and Todd; Lindsay Collegiate—Maidens, McLean, Groves, Prousse; Lindsay Monarch Club—Smith, Lee, Cayley and Spratt.

Senior Three Mile

The senior three-mile race was close all the way with Smoke, Willoughby and Strickland, of the Lindsay Monarch Club bunched in the front for the first two miles. Laderach and Bates were next. In the last mile the leaders, Smoke and Willoughby, drew away from the rest of the field and sprinted toward the finish neck and neck. Smoke just managed to finish a few strides ahead of Willoughby, who ran a perfect race throughout and matched the wily Indian stride for stride. Smoke's time was clocked at 16 minutes and Willoughby was less than a second behind him. Strickland was third and Otto Laderach and Dicky Bates followed in order.

Junior Event

The Junior race had the most entries with six from the Monarch A.C. and Arthur Goheen and "Bud" Frost for the "Y". This was a close race during the first part with four of the runners all bunched and fighting to get out in front. In the second lap Goheen took the leadership and crossed the tape well in advance of R. Lee of the Monarch Club and "Bud" Frost, the other Peterborough boy was close on the Lindsay runner's heels. The time for Arthur Goheen was 10 minutes and 57 seconds; Lee's time was 11 minutes and 4 seconds and "Bud" Frost finished in 11 minutes and 25 seconds.

The races were run in weather that was not suited to the breaking of any records. The pavement was wet and slippery and a cold blast carrying a misty rain made it very uncomfortable for the runners. However the races were all run in very good time and the competition was keen in every event.

DE LAVAL WINS FROM COONEYS

Carters Gain On Industrials' Lead in the Final Inning.

AT LAKEFIELD.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 13 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Friday evening the De Laval team won from Cooney's in one of the closest games of the series. The game was, until the end of the eighth like a big victory for the De Laval, as the score was 12 to 6, but the opposition in the last innings got five runs which made a great difference. Both sides had good support from the fans and the good humored rallery exchanged made plenty of fun. Both sides played hard, but in a friendly fashion, which made the game a nice one to watch. Joe Cooper did some good work in the field, catching some high ones. The Dyer brothers' battery was hard to put anything over. Nicholls replaced Delahaye as pitcher for Cooney's in the fourth innings and held De Laval to two runs in the remaining six innings. Ward made a home run in the eighth for Cooney's.

The De Laval line-up was: Pitcher, F. Dyer; catcher, R. Dyer; 1st base, Fowler; short stops, Woodhouse (right, Jones (left); 2nd base, Stanley; 3rd base, Evans; field, Cooper and K. Miller; sub. Griffin.

Cooney's line - up was: Pitcher, Nicholls; catcher, J. Ward; 1st base, Maudsley; r.s.s., Frick; l.s.s., Hartley; 2nd base, Baird; 3rd base, Weese; field, Delahaye and McGee.

Umpires—Plate, C. Chittick; bases, W. Eliott.

Score by innings:

De Laval .. ..056000101—13
Cooney's. .. ..000121025—11

Victory for Harrison's

The second game was not so snappy and resulted in a landslide victory for Harrison's. Harrison's were out in full strength with a good strong team, when the Cement aggregation were minus several of their trusty players. Owing to the fact that the night was cold and the victory was a certainty, the umpire called the game at the end of the first section of the eighth. The Cement team were game to the end and wanted to play it out, but Harrison's were not eager to do so.

Green made the sole run for the Cement team and Montgomery of Harrison's made a home run in the sixth. W. Elliott guarded the plate and C. Chittick the bases.

Harrison's line-up was: Pitcher, Dundas; catcher, Dobson; 1st base, Smith; r. short stop, Calladine; l. short stop, Green; 2nd base, Ross; 3rd base, Dorrington; field, Clarke and Vinnett; subs., Dallin and Montgomery.

C.C.C.—Pitcher, Green; catcher, Wingett; 1st base, Maracle; r. short stop, J. Sabatino; l. short stop, Hill; 2nd base, Junkin; 3rd base, Douglas; field, Edwards and Deitor.

The score by innings:

C. C. C... .. ..00100000— 1
Harrison's. .. ..5833352x—28

On Friday evening, November 16, the Cubs and Bridgenorth play, and the High School and De Laval.

P.C.I. TEAMS PLAY AGAINST ODDS

(By F. D. C.)

Take your hats off to a couple of game teams—the P.C.I. senior and intermediate football squads—who on Saturday fought two grim battles against great odds in their groups play-offs at Port Hope against the Oshawa and Bowmanville school teams, respectively. The senior team battled through to a glorious victory, defeating Oshawa 6 to 5; the intermediates struggling until the last ditch and, behind 5 points to 2, fought their way to Bowmanville's two-yard line, only to fail to go over as the final whistle sounded.

In both games, a field that was slippery as a newly-polished floor and had the consistency of freshly poured cement, made the conditions a terrible handicap to the light P.C.I. teams who, depending upon their speed and shiftiness, found themselves in both cases matched against teams who towered above them in height and bulk.

In the intermediate battle Bowmanville outweighed the P.C.I. twenty pounds a man on the average and looked big enough to march down the field any time they felt like it. But even with their speed advantages taken away by the slippery going the Peterborough kids put up a terrific fight and would have won had not a couple of tough breaks, the result of inexperience, decided the issue against them. An attempt to return a kick from behind their own line, when wisdom dictated playing safe, made Bowmanville's touchdown, their only score of the game, possible, and in the last minute of the game when the Petes hurled their plunges at the big Bowmanville line and failed to go over an end run would have probably given them a touchdown and victory. How they battled, those tack weights, against that heavy Bowmanville squad! In that last period, when they nearly pulled the game out of the fire, the youngsters hurled themselves into the play with every ounce they had and when the final whistle sounded and they realized that they were beaten it was a half dazed lot of weary kids who walked off the field, tears on more than one boyish countenance making a channel through the mud that half encased their features. Every boy out there contributed all he had but Doukas, Clayton and Best were particularly outstanding for their smashes at the Bowmanville line and their great defensive work.

Same In Senior Game.

The senior game was a repetition so far as the conditions went. Oshawa's heavy line outweighed P.C.I. from end to end and with trick plays and end runs uncertain, because of the bad footing, the odds were all in favor of the bigger team. To make matters worse P.C.I. had to defend the muddiest end of the field in the first quarter and when they were driven back on the defensive found it a tough job to work out of danger. Oshawa had the edge in those first few minutes, scoring a touchdown and coming within a foot of a goal from the field, but the P.C.I. youngsters set themselves grimly to work to stop the tanks and did so splendidly and then at the beginning of the second period they uncorked an extension run that carried them within striking distance and enabled Hewitt to plunge over for the tiing touchdown. Then there was a grim battle, with the heavy Oshawa crew crashing into the Petes with all their weight, only to have the light Peterborough line hold like whalebone. The heavy Oshawa line plungers would roll into the P.C.I. line and then go down with two or three garnet and gray youngsters clinging like limpets to their bigger adversaries. Magee and Hewitt were particularly prominent in this hamstringing of the Oshawa attack, and time after time stopped the ball-carrier in his track, but the whole P.C.I. team showed utter fearlessness in diving low to stop the Oshawa line plunging, and they did it so effectively that the losers never were within striking distance of the P.C.I. goal line after the first period. P.C.I. did not find ground gaining very easy either, but a couple of smart plays carried them deep into Oshawa territory in the last period and Gemmell punted far over the goal line for the million dollar point that meant the group championship.

P.C.I. did some great tackling. The flying squadron was down under every kick and flopped the Oshawa backs with consistent regularity. Gemmell played a smart, effective game at quarter and he and Cuthbertson handled the Oshawa kicks in great style. And the rest of the gang gave a plucky exhibition of how a good little team sometimes beats a good big team, even when the odds are all against them.

McGILL WINS INTERCOLLEGIATE TITLE

DEFEAT VARSITY BY 13-7 COUNT

Toronto Squad Unable To Down McGill After Hard Fought Battle.

BRILLIANT DISPLAY.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 13.—(Canadian Press).—The slogan, "This is McGill's year", has at last been materially effected. The big red team swept to a 13 to 7 victory over University of Toronto at the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium here Saturday, in the last scheduled intercollegiate game of the season, thus capturing their first senior football title since 1918.

A senior football crowd record witnessed the fray, 15,148 fans jamming their way into the stadium to witness the long-awaited triumph of the local collegians. As all great battles of the gridiron, it was a good game to win, and hard game to loose. It was a stirring battle, and although McGill led throughout, the final issue was always in doubt, with the visiting blue-clad squad fighting for points until the final whistle.

Gallant Fighting Display

The Toronto collegians gave a gallant fighting display, and only McGill's tight defensive ability in the pinches, and the missing of several field goals by Captain Snyder kept the visitors on the short end of the count. They got off to a bad start, when McGill scored a try in the first minute of play as a result of Hallam's fumble on his five-yard line. From then on, although their front rank outplayed the local line by a wide margin in the open field area the McGill defensive system showed enough fight in the pinches to overcome Varsity's advantage in midfield. Snyder, the Varsity captain, attempted three field goals, but connected with only one. Had these other two attempts been successful and had Hallam not fumbled, his only misplay of the game, in the early moments of the first quarter, the result might have been different. It is poor policy, however, to fumble when playing against McGill. The Red players are regular ball hawks, and in Saturday's game, much of their success came as a result of their ability to follow the ball.

McGill will not takes its place in the Canadian championship elimination series as the Intercollegiate representatives, and concluded its season yesterday afternoon with the city championship game against the Montreal big four squad, runner-up team for the interprovincial title ..

ORPHANS WIN BY LONE TALLY

Sinclair's Kick For Rouge Only Point of Grim. Struggle.

: UPSETS RUGBY WORLD.

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—One solitary point scored on a rouge in the third period of a gruelling, grimy game yesterday afternoon in the drizzling rain at Varsity Stadium, caused the biggest upset of Eastern Canada football, lifted the despised Lost Legion of the Toronto University to giddy heights and toppled in defeat Balmy Beach from the throne of Dominion champions. The score, hoisted from the tricky toe of Jack Sinclair, into the arms of Alex McKenzie, who was downed behind his own line by Gordon Knowles and Art Snider, was the only count of the game, but it sounded the requiem of the Purple Pack on the same rain-soaked field, where last year they vaulted to the pinnacle of the rugby world. The students played as though inspired against a grim fighting team through sixty tense minutes of rugby before a scattered crowd that was held in a spell of excitement.

From the first to final whistle the battle was so close that it was evident, breaks would decide it and that is just what happened, for the Beachers committed three fumbles in succession to put the Orphans in position and Sinclair drove the fatal punt. But brains, just as much as breaks, played an important part, the Students taking full advantage of every opportunity and they made the best of their only chance for the single score, which was big enough for victory. Thus the champions of Canadian rugby, who sacrificed their chance for a fifth successive appearance in the Senior O.R.F.U. finals, were mired on a detour on which they had no real need to travel. The Beachers won their section of the Provincial schedule and qualified for the finals, but when the other group ended in a triple tie, they volunteered to take on one of the deadlocked dozen, the Varsity Orphans, to facilitate the play-off problem and so risked and lost their chance for another crown.

Probably the elements stopped the mighty steam-roller from the Eastend, which has crushed all opposition in two years, but rugby is played in all kinds of weather and Varsity Orphans were the better on that slippery, slimy field. The Beach tanks were anchored in the quagmire, unable to gain the needed speed for success, which gave the deadly tackling student staff the advantage. The Beachers tried at all times, but it was in vain against a force that played super football. It was the same old story of an underrated sub stepping into a star role, for Varsity Orphans, forgotten in the supposed fame and glory of the Intercollegiate team, formed only as a trial horse for the Big Blue to play with, rose with a vengeance that could not be denied in its determination.

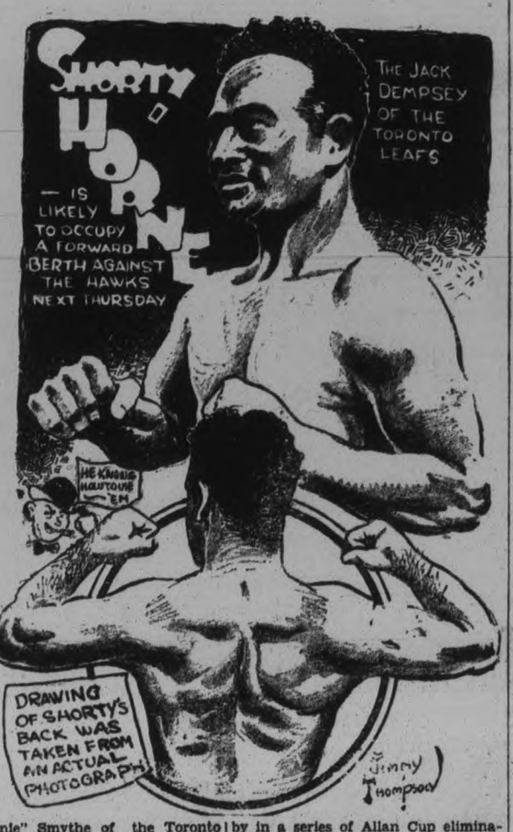
Balmy Beach Eliminated From Rugby Race

A BIG BOY TO BUCK



"Connie" Smythe of the Toronto Leafs has secured a new forward player whose physical build would put that of many a leatherpusher to shame. His back and shoulders are surely the personification of power.

Newcomer he is to the ranks of pro. hockey, yet not unknown to the fans. For this stalky forward is none other than "Shorty" Horne, who played many great games in the Queen City as an amateur.

Horne is an Ontario product, hailing originally from Sudbury. He started on the rough, hard road to fame as a junior at North Bay, then starred as an intermediate at Grimsby in a series of Allan Cup eliminations against the Soo Greyhounds, which literally hypnotized the Ontario hockey world. Next he broke into "Big Company," the Montreal Maroons, but through ill-health failed to impress the boys. He is now 24, and weighs 173 pounds. Last season he ranked third in the goal-getters' race, being headed only by Joe Primeau of the Leafs, and Vic Ripley of the London Millionaires. When "Shorty" signed up with the Leafs, Smythe was greatly impressed with his fine condition, and during the recent training season he has been nick-named the Jack Dempsey of the Leaf clan.

CARNEGIE LEADS IN EAST SECTION

Army, Georgetown, Vanderbilt and Utah Go Down To Defeat On Saturday.

NOTRE DAME VICTORS.

By ALAN J. GOULD,
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(A.P.)—It doesn't take long to-day to call the roll of the unbeaten in college gridiron ranks, to line up the select coterie of teams that has escaped either defeat or tie in one of the wildest and most acrobatic campaigns the game has ever known.

After checking off the Army, Georgetown, Vanderbilt and Utah, among the few shot down or checked up Saturday's upheavals look over this small but noteworthy vanguard of the victorious as it bivoucks along the line to-day.

1—Nebraska and the University of Iowa in the middle west, prospective champions of the Big Six and Big Ten, with Ohio-Wesleyan and the University of Detroit a trifle in the offing but nevertheless bidding for recognition.

2—Carnegie in the east, outstanding now among the major elevens, but with Boston College just a step or so away in the general rating.

3—Georgie Tech, Florida and Tennessee, now the "Big Three" of the south, with Tech's Tornado ripping along at as fast a pace as any eleven in the entire country.

These are the major teams with spotless records in the tussle for national, as well as section honors.

Many Upsets.

It is doubtful whether any Saturday so far has accomplished as many upsets or form reversals as Saturday. They echoed from the Yankee Stadium, where the Army's high hopes went crashing down before 16,000 spectators, out to the plains of Nebraska, where the powerful and hitherto all-conquering University of Utah eleven was held to a tie by little Creighton. Yale and Harvard were among the other victims.

The Army's Lousiana Lightning, otherwise known as Red Eagle, illuminated the gridiron, but it wasn't sufficient to strike down the persistent, relentless charges of Knute Rockne's rejuvenated Notre Dame team. Playing with a dash, skill and confidence that belied previous setbacks at the hands of Wisconsin and Georgia Tech, this Hoosier brigade ripped and tore into the Cadets from the start.

Only Cagle's individual exploits, leading to one touch-down and nearly another, saved the Army from a rout. The Soldiers were badly beaten, even though they had the courage to come back in the closing moment of the game, with a great thrust that fall short, a yard from the goal, as the final whistle stopped their last charge.

Carnegie Head Parade.

As a result of Army's defeat, Carnegie's Tartans now head the eastern parade through their decisive conquest of the only other unbeaten menace, Georgetown, the conquercr of New York University, Boston College still boasts a spotless slate but it isn't quite as bright as Carnegie's which embraces victories over Washington and Jefferson, Pittsburgh and Georgetoyn in succession.

It is necessary to scan the south and middlewest for the other teams that now dominate the gridiron. While Iowa moved out into the undisputed possession of the "Big Ten" lead by beating Ohio State, Nebraska's powerful Corn Huskers galloped roughshod over Oklahoma to remove any lingering doubt of their 'Big Six' supremacy.

California's victory over Washington in the major Pacific coast tilt keeps the Golden Bears up in front, along with Southern California.

Southern Methodist retains the south-western conference lead, despite a 19-19 tie with Texas Aggies, but this race is still fairly wide open.

LONDON BEATEN DESPITE RALLY

Score Tie in Last Second But Fail To Convert.

OSHAWA WINS BY ONE.

OSHAWA, November 13. — In the best game of rugby ever seen in Oshawa, the local Blue Devils defeated the London Gas House Gang here at Alexandra Park on Saturday afternoon by a 7 to 6 score. A touchdown by London after the final whistle had been blown, although the play had started before the end of the sixty minutes, provided the grand climax to the game, although an anti-climax came when London failed to convert the touchdown, thereby falling by the necessary one point to tie the score and make an overtime period necessary.

A more evenly contested game could not have been played Besides the teams being so nearly matched, according to the final score, they were tied at 1 all at the end of the first half and were without a count in the opening quarter.

Oshawa — Flying wing, Boultbee; halves, Hubbell, Rowden and Gummow; quarter, Park; snap, Gray; insides, Logan and Wilson; middles, Moore and King; outsides, Norse and Johnston.

London — Flying wing, Churchill; halves, Bonk, Heaman and Martin; quarter, Cook; snap, Rourke; insides, W. Gillespie and Little; outsides, Haynes and Bice; subs., Ardiel, Cliff, Malloy, Fitzmaurice, Chapman, Carswell, Main, and Hayes.

Referee — Harold Bailey.

Umpire—Alex. Sinclair, both of Toronto.

FAMOUS CANADIAN RUGBY GAMES, PLAYS AND PLAYERS

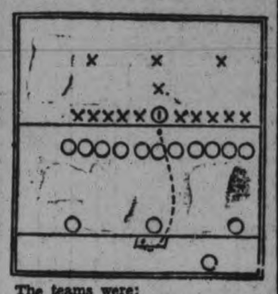
By NICK BAWLF— Former star football, lacrosse and hockey player, now coach at Cornell

We saw how the formidable Argonauts defeated Ottawa 2 to 1 for the O.R.F.U. honors. Now we will see them in action against Ottawa college for the championship of Canada. These two team met on the M.A.A. grounds November 23. The score at the end of full time stood 12-12. "Pud" Kent, the Argonaut captain, was satisfied to let the game stand a tie.

The game was a battle of giants. The Toronto team was stronger on the line, but Ottawa college had the great Eddie Gleeson at centre half. The game was very clean. Each team scored two tries and three rouges and one touch in goal. "Puss" Darling's son is now starring for Varsity.

The same teams were ordered to play off the tie the following Saturday on the same M.A.A. grounds, Montreal. Again Gleesons' football judgment and generalship was outstanding. His work was marvelous. His team defeated the Argonauts 18 to 3. His two drop kicks broke the Double Blue's morale.

His first five points was the result of quick thinking. Gleeson—No. 1 in the diagram—was given a free kick. The score was 2-0 for Argos. In those days the ball simply had to be kicked; there was no specific distance it had to traverse, as there is now. The Argos lined up five yards behind the given point. Gleeson waved his line back. Then stooping he touched the ball to his toe, thereby taking his free kick and then drop-kicked it over the bar for five poitns. The second half was just started when Gleeson again sent another drop kick over the bar. A blocked kick gave College her first touchdown and a brilliant 50-yard run by Filiatrault ended in a touchdown.



The teams were:

Argos—Halfbacks, Ardagh, Hardisty, Darling, Henderson; scrimmages, Joe Wright, Boyd, Russell; insides, Langton, Kent (capt.); middles, Wilson, Parmenter; flying wing, Grant; outsides, Hill, Chadwick.

Ottawa College—Halfbacks, Gleeson, O'Brien, Richards, Callaghan; scrimmages, Cox, Harrington, Boucher; insides, Walters, McCredie; middles, Corbett, Filiatrault; flying wing, Devlin; outsides, French, Lafleur.

Referee, J. Savage; Umpire, Hart McDougall.

To-morrow we will look at the great Hamilton victory over Ottawa at Kingston in 1908.

INTERMEDIATE TITLE TO LOYOLA

Easterners Score Double Triumph in Series With St. Michael's.

SUPERIOR SQUAD.

Loyola added its share to Montreal's collection of rugby spoils by beating St. Michael's College, Saturday afternoon, for the Intermediate Intercollegiate championship. The Easterners scored a twin triumph in the home-and-home series, winning the first game 15 to 3, while they completed the conquest with a 16-to-6 win Saturday to take the round 31 to 9. Loyola's margin on the play was just as big as on the score board, for the local Irishmen faced a superior squad that looked as powerful as any to take the title in many years. Coached by the wily veteran, Frank Shaughnessy, who had his own son in harness as a middle wing, Loyola was too much for the Saints, although it was not until the last half of the game that the outcome was certain.

St. Michael's put up a stubborn struggle and at the start of the game seemed on the road to success, for they cut their twelve-point deficit in half soon after play started and threatened to overcome the Loyola lead, but they faded under their own terrific pace and the extra weight of the Easterners. Savard, the Loyola punter, had a decided advantage in the aerial exchanges, while his partner, McAlear, displayed the fleetest pair of feet to travel a local field this season, his 70-yard run through a flock of tacklers being the feature of the game. The slippery field hindered the Saints, for all their plays depend on speed and they could not work many of their various tricks.

Loyola—Flying wing, McCarrey; halves, McAlear, Savard and Gorman; quarter, Haynes; insides, Pigeon and Power; snap, Cogan; middles, O'Connor and Shaughnessy; outsides, Munich and Timmins; subs., Mullaly, O'Brien, Slattery, Beaubien, Cummins, George Byrne and Walsh.

St. Michael's—Flying wing, Kehoe; halves, Burns; Quinn and Young; quarter, McGahey; insides, Haffey and Hyde; snap, Flahiff; middles, Sammons and Sheehan; outsides, Mogan and Whitelaw; subs., Huessey, Flick, Martin, Cameron, Culligan, McGraw and Robbins.

Not Enter Play-offs

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press).—Loyola College, Canadian Intercollegiate Intermediate champions, are following in the footsteps of McGill, and like the senior titleholders of 1928, will not go on to the Dominion play-downs in their division.

Loyola College authorities decline to play for the same reason that kept McGill out of the play-offs. The College officials feel that if the intermediate college champions went on to the finals which will not be completed before December 1. too much time would be lost from studies.

The fact that Quebec swimmers have beaten Sherbrooke and entitled them to challenge for the provincial intermediate title has also prolonged tht local play-offs one week. The swimmers will meet Canadian National next Saturday and the winner was scheduled to meet Loyola on November 24. Should Loyola be successful in qualifying as Eastern representatives they would then have to travel to Sarnia December 1 to play the winners of the intermediate O. R.F.U. The trip to Sarnia alone would cause the Loyola footballers to lose three days from their studies and the college authorities have decided against further participation in gridiron activities this year.

BUFFALO ENTRY START PRACTICE

"Babe" Bogardis, Former Peterborough Senior O.H.A. Player On Team.

CHANGES IN SCHEDULE.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 13 (Canadian Press).—Buffalo, newest entrant in the Canadian Professional Hockey League, has begun practice for the opening of the season, confident that it will have a group of players up to the standard, if not better than the rest of the teams in the circuit.

Among those who reported for the first practice in the Niagara Falls, Ont., arena were Bill Taugher, goalie, Hamilton "Bord" Norfolk, goalie, Stratford; "Gamey" Lederman, defence, Hamilton; "Rusty" Hughes, defence, Niagara Falls; "Roter" Roth, centre, Hamilton; Gordie Brydson, centre, Hamilton; Jimmy Smith, right wing, Hamilton; "Babe" Bogardis, left wing, Hamilton, and Harry Lott, left wing, Hamilton.

Mike Neville, eleventh member of the squad, who played with Stratford last year, did not work out in the first practice session.

The team has been working out daily. For most of the players the practice work is the first in which they have indulged since last spring, when the championship season ended with Stratford the winner. Workouts will be continued on the Falls' rink. The Bisons will open in London on November 19. The first home game is on November 24 with Niagara Falls on the new ice at Fort Erie.

To avoid conflicting with other sports events here, Manager-Coach Percy Leseur has announced the following changes of schedule for home games:

Dec. 8, instead of 10, London; Dec 15, instead of 14, Toronto; Dec. 5, instead of Dec. 27, Windsor; Jan. 10, instead of 11, Kitchener; Jan. 18, instead of 19, Hamilton; Feb. 7, instead of 8, Windsor; March 2, instead of 1 Niagara Falls; March 4, instead of 2 Kitchener, and March 16, instead of 15, Hamilton.

SO long as you neglect to combat the disease of neglect (Pyorrhea) health is jeopardized.

This grim foe which ignores the teeth and attacks the gums takes as its victims 4 out of 5 after forty and thousands younger.

Take this precaution: See your dentist every six months. And start using Forhan's for the Gums, today.

As a dentifrice alone, you would prefer it. Without the use of harsh abrasives, it helps to keep teeth clean and restore their natural whiteness. Also it protects them against acids which cause decay.

But Forhan's is more than an ordinary dentifrice. If used regularly and in time, it helps to firm gums and keep them sound and healthy. And Pyorrhea seldom attacks healthy gums.

Get a tube of Forhan's today! Use this dentifrice every morning and night. Massage your gums daily with it, following directions in booklet that comes with tube. This good habit is health insurance. Two sizes—35c and 60c.

Formula of R. J. Forhan, D.D.S.

MORE THAN A TOOTH PASTE...IT CHECKS PYORRHEA

Our Boarding House - - - - - - - - - By Ahern

"THAT lovely music!" says Mr. Snicksnack, having just eaten a "King's Choice" Chocolate Bar and settled down to a quiet evening of enjoyment. But Little Jimmy Snicksnack doesn't share his parent's bliss. He doesn't see why he should be denied the chocolate bar that makes the other members of the family so happy. Poor Little Jimmy! But wait till he grows up!

KING'S CHOICE Chocolate Bars are made of fresh pineapple and fresh cocoanut, dipped in butterscotch and coated with milk chocolate.

GIVEN
Every contestant who qualifies WILL BE GIVEN samples of our merchandise valued from 50c. to $2.00.

How to Win

Two of the dogs pictured above are exactly alike. HANDSOME is one of them. The puzzle is to find his twin—the dog marked exactly the same as Handsome. Six of the dogs have different markings; one of them, Handsome (the big dog in the middle) and One Other Dog are marked exactly the same. Look for markings only on Ears, Eyes, Crown of Head, Tail and Front Legs.

Nothing to Sell

YOU WILL POSITIVELY NOT BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING FOR US in order to win any of the Big Cash Prizes offered above. When we receive your entry, we will advise you of the number of points you have gained and ask you to make a small purchase from our catalog to qualify. YOU DO NOT OBLIGATE YOURSELF TO DO ANYTHING FOR US BY SENDING IN AN ANSWER TO THIS PUZZLE.

Rules of Contest

1. Use sharp lead pencil. Write the name of the dog you think is Handsome's twin in the proper place on the coupon.
2. Write your name and address in lead pencil on the coupon. Say if Mr., Mrs. or Miss.
3. Cut advertisement out on dotted line and send it to us.
4. Be neat; remember, in case of a tie, neatness will be considered in awarding prizes.
5. Employees of Atlantic Mills and their relatives are barred from this Contest.
6. Only one entry will be accepted from a household.
7. Address entries to The Puzzle Man, Atlantic Mills, 145 Wellington St. W., Toronto 2, Ont.

ASPIRIN

You doubtless depend on Aspirin to make short work of headaches, but remember that it's just as dependable an antidote for many other pains! Neuralgia? Many have found real relief in an Aspirin tablet. Or for toothache; an effective way to relieve it, and the one thing doctors are willing you should give a child— of any age. Whether to break up a cold, or relieve the serious pain from neuritis or deep-seated rheumatism, there's nothing quite like Aspirin. Just make certain it's genuine; it must have Bayer on the box and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

Chicago Wheat Values Gain After Setback

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (Canadian Press).—Influenced by Argentine despatches telling of the fear of rust damage, wheat values here developed firmness early to-day. Previously, however, the wheat market was easy owing more or less to bearish estimates of the Canadian crop. Starting at ⅛ off to ⅛ up, Chicago wheat underwent a slight sag all-around, and then scored general gains. Corn, oats and provisions averaged lower, with corn starting at ⅝ decline to ⅛ advance and subsequently holding near to initial limits.

Opening prices were: Wheat, Dec. 114, March 119⅛. Corn. Dec. 83⅝, March 86¾. Oats, Dec. 44½, March 45c.

Leaders Register Gains On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Nov. 13 (Canadian Press).—Heavy buying featured the opening of the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, with the leading stocks registering gains but they failed to hold the advantage, however, and slackened off in the middle session but around noon again began to show further strength.

Massey Harris led the buying in the listed section. It opened at 70½ and at noon showed a net advance of 4¼ points.

International Nickel showed more activity than usual, advancing five to 194. It opened at 198. Cockshutt Plow in active trading gained ⅞ to close at 34⅛.

The oil stocks were well to the front in activity and showed some good gains. Imperial Oil sold as high as 97 and at the close was selling at 96½, a net advance of 1¾ points. British American Oil showed considerable strength, gaining 1¼ to 43¼.

DeForest Crosley, although not actively traded in, advanced six to 51. Northern Bakeries registered a gain of 1½ to 50½ and International Nickel New was fractionally firmer at 33⅞.

Noranda and Towagamac Show Profits On Market

TORONTO, Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press.) — Several changes featured this morning's trading on the standard stock and mining exchange. Noranda went to 55.80, but at noon had dropped back to 54.25, for a net gain of 25 cents. Towagmac was particularly active and gained 42 cents to 3.10 with 12,050 sales. Coast copper went up forty cents to 53.50. Bathurst was easier and sold at 36 ¼, down 1¼ and Hollinger dropped to 8.90 for a loss of ten cents. Sherritt-Gordon advanced ten to 6.95, while Sudbury Basin fell back a similar amount to 7.65. Siscoe gained 5 to 70 and Teck Hughes lost 5 to 8.80.

Barry-Hollinger was at 36, a net loss of 4. Abana went up ten to 3.70. Capitol Rouyn one to 16 and Mint Ore one to 20, while Pend Oreille dropped seventy to 10.05. Big Missouri one to 61.

"Hoover Market" Shaky Trading Below Record

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (Canadian Press).—The "Hoover market" which has been creating new altitude records almost daily for the last week, threatened to go into a nose dive today when squalls of selling swept through the list, but was pulled up again by a brisk demand for United States Steel Common which was marked up more than three points to a new high record at 168. Trading fell below yesterday's record, breaking the volume of transactions although the ticker again fell forty minutes behind the market by early afternoon.

A series of selling attacks around mid-day undermined a number of high-priced specialties. National Tea broke twenty points, Radio 12¾, Wright Aero 10 and Mexican Seaboard, American Express, Adams Express, Vanadium Steel, International Nickel, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, Packard Motors, Chrysler, Barnsdall, Eastman Kodak and Canadian Pacific toppled four to seven points before sufficient buying support was forthcoming. All made partial recovery in the early afternoon rally.

Call money renewed at six per cent. as against 6½ yesterday, and appeared to be in a plentiful supply.

Greene Cananea was well bought, rising six points on a large volume of trading. Sears Roebuck ran up six points to 177¾, dropped to a half and then ran up to a new high at 179¼. Montgomery Ward advanced 5½ points to 398½, and then fell back to 387. Timken Roller Bearing advanced four points on reports of increased earnings.

about were very vague in the telegram.

Mr. Newall was born and spent his youth in this city and he left some fifteen years ago for the coast. He has lived there ever since working on the coastal steamers, similar to the one on which his sudden death occurred.

The telegram received by Mrs. Buller was sent to her by her brother-in-law, A. Fletcher, who resides in Vancouver. Mr. Fred Plummer, formerly of this city, now living in Vancouver, was a sister to the deceased.

SEARCH PARTIES

to give Provincial Police Constables Weatherall and Porter, in charge of the investigation, any additional information. From the appearance of the house police have been able to reconstruct what happened Friday night up to a certain point, then they run up against a stone wall.

Undressed Upstairs Room

Soon after her father and sister had left the girl apparently decided to retire, she went to her room undressed and went to bed. The clothes she had been wearing were found beside the bed which had been occupied, then a few minutes after retiring she arose, slipped on a woollen sports coat, her shoes and stockings and, carrying a pair of blue serge gymnasium bloomers and the 32 rifle, she left the house.

There was no indication there had been visitors after Miss Brotherstone had been left alone. When the family returned and discovered her absence, a search party was organized at once, employees of the stone quarry offered their help and since Friday night parties have been out continuously. An appeal was made to the Provincial Police for their assistance.

When it was discovered that the 32 calibre rifle had been taken it was believed Miss Brotherstone had decided to do some night shooting but the attire worn when she left the house made this theory improbable. Police have not been able to learn that she purchased any other clothes which she may have had hidden outside the house.

Many Searchers.

To aid searching parties, provincial police officers, fortune tellers, palmists and bloodhounds have been used in an effort to locate the missing girl, who mysteriously vanished like a phantom in the night from her home on Friday. There had been no misunderstandings, no suspicious circumstances, no reason at all or motive for her disappearance.

The Trent Valley Canal from Kirkfield lift lock to the stone crusher where the girl lived has been drained almost dry and the surrounding neighborhood has been combed for three days by searching parties.

Madame Nevada, a palmist of Oshawa, who has been working in Lindsay, was consulted by a brother of Miss Brotherstone. The palmist claims the girl is still alive. A fortune teller at Havelock was consulted and she, too, says the girl is still living.

Provincial Constable Weatherall, of Lindsay, who has been working and organizing, has found no motive nor clue but is of the opinion that the girl is dead.

After letting the water out of the canal for a distance of one mile, the water as far as Mitchell's Lake was dragged. Search parties swarmed the surrounding swales and swamps.

Constable Weatherall and Officer Porter also got in touch with the girl's man friend, L. Currie, a chauffeur in the employ of S. L. Adams of York Mills. Currie formerly lived at Victoria Road, not far from the stone crushing plant.

Young Currie arrived Sunday and produced a letter from Gladys written on Wednesday last, the contents of which threw no light on the mysterious disappearance.

A young pup bloodhound owned by a Mr. Anderson of Cannington, was also secured but was found to be untrained. It led the searchers in the direction of a nearby swale.

Growing Organization Needs More Salesmen Salary and Bonus

Last January Purina Mills, a 35-year-old, Eleven Million Dollar Corporation, opened its first plant in Woodstock, Ontario.

Already this plant has been enlarged and our Canadian organization has grown from nothing to 30 salesmen and 150 carload dealers.

Additional territories now being opened offer a few men an unusual opportunity to grow with a large, progressive and fast-growing organization.

To qualify you must have unquestioned character and industry, previous sales experience, and an Agricultural College education or its equivalent. Age 25 to 35.

Give previous record of employment and enclose a recent photo or snapshot in first letter. A personal interview will shortly be granted to those possessing above qualifications.

Chest Colds Need Direct Treatment

It is an obstinate cold indeed that can resist the direct double action of Vicks. Rubbed on the chest, it acts 2 ways at once:

(1) Direct to air passages with its healing vapors released by body heat;

(2) Direct, like a poultice, it "draws out" the soreness.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

MAN IS KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK

Two Others Injured As Result Of Derailment of Freight Train.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Nov. 13. — (Canadian Press).—One man is dead and two others are in the hospital as a result of the derailment of a freight train near Kipp, on the C. P.R. last night. Sixteen cars were thrown off the track. James Thomas, British harvester, is dead and Edward Fagg and Ralph Berg are injured.

The Capitol Theatre was filled to capacity for the occasion, and each number received well-merited and appreciative applause.

ARMISTICE IS

one combination would be afraid to strike Then came the American Revolution, in which the thirteen states really formed a league among themselves, and then Joseph Chamberlain's conception of the British Empire as a league. Finally there was the formatio nof the present League of Nations, in connection with which there was a tendency, the speaker noted, of allowing others to take the prescription. The task of making that League effective against war was not merely the task of statesmen and legislation: it was the responsibility of the individual citizens of the various countries, and it was to that angle of the question that the speaker directed the attention of his hearers as an Armistice Day thought.

The thanks of the Club were expressed to Mr. McLean by Rotarians S. R. Armstrong and Rev. Father Paul Costello.

President Morris announced that the Belleville Club had been successful in launching a Rotary Club in Campbellford, and asked for a delegation to represent the Peterborough Club on Friday night. Rotarians A. L. Killaly and J. H. Seals are in charge of the arrangements.

Rotarian Rev. Father Paul Costello thought the congratulations of the Club should be extended to The Examiner for the excellence of its Armistice number, which he felt sure was equal to any such edition produced anywhere in Canada. President Morris also voiced appreciation of The Examiner's effort.

Kiwanian Martin Chenhall was guest pianist to-day, and the singing was in charge of Rotarian Jim Matthews.

While she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall aways keep.
Days of sadness oft come over us;
Tears of sorrow often flow.
Memory keeps our loved one near us,
Who God claimed a few years ago.

A. RINGER WINS THE BIG TURKEY

Goose in Mahood's Guessing Contest Awarded To Mrs. E. Smith.

At ten o'clock on Saturday night when Mayor Denne weighed the big turkey on which the customers of S. E. Mahood had been estimating the weight for the past seven days, the splendid bird was found to weigh 20 lbs., 2 oz. On going through the box of estimates, two were found giving the exact weight, and as there were two prizes, the two tickets were put in a hat, shaken up by Herb McCannan, and one picked out, by Mayor Denne, which proved to be that of A. Ringer, 261 Sherbrooke, who was declared winner of the turkey. The other ticket was filled out by Mrs E. Smith, 479 Bonaccord street, who was awarded a fine goose, and as the lady was right on hand, she took her prize home with her.

Obituary

George Havery, a former resident of this city, died at his home in Hailey, Idaho, U.S.A. on Sunday, November 11. Mr. Havery was seventy-four years of age and he moved from this city, the home of his youth, forty-five years ago. The deceased was a long standing member of the Oddfellows Lodge and a member of the United Church of Canada.

The burial will take place from Belleghem's Funeral Home. Funeral announcements will be made later.

MRS. JOHANNA REDMOND

An old and well-known resident of Peterborough, in the person of Mrs. Johanna Redmond, passed away at the House of Providence on Saturday evening. The deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Foley, and emigrated to Canada with them over seventy years ago. Coming to Otonabee, she lived near Keene for several years, before becoming a resident of Peterborough.

In 1894 she married the late Joseph Redmond, who predeceased her thirty-one years ago.

In the early days of St. Peter's Parish, she was an indefatigable worker in every enterprise connected with the church, and was also noted for her charity to those in need or distress.

Her funeral took place from the House of Providence, to St. Peter's Cathedral, where Requiem High Mass was sung by the Rev. Father Lynch, a number of relatives and friends attending.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. J. Redmond, S. Redmond, T. Turcotte, B. Ryan, J. Ryan, and O. Kenneally.

Left to mourn her loss are her wards, Sister M. Estelle of St. Joseph's Community, Peterborough, and W. J. Hattrick, barrister, of Easthampton, New York, also her step sons, Samuel, Joseph, and Richard Redmond of Otonabee, and two nieces, Mrs. LaFountain of Tweed, and Miss Julia McCabe of Neola, Iowa.

MRS. AMBROSE DORIS

Mrs. Ambrose Doris of this city died yesterday afternoon in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, after a short illness. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and two small children; her mother, Mrs. B. O'Brien, two sisters, Mrs. H. Donovan of this city and Miss Ada O'Brien of Toronto. Also one brother, Melville, at home.

The funeral will take place on Thursday morning from the family residence, 160 Aylmer street, leaving the house at 8.30 o'clock, and arriving at St. Peter's Cathedral, at 9 o'clock. Interment will take place in St. Peter's cemetery.

ROBERT H. LITTLE

Robert H. Little passed away at his home in Douro this morning after an illness of several months. Mr. Little was born in the Township of Dummer over sixty years ago, but for many years he has resided at Pine Grove Cheese Factory and was closely identfied with the village and district. He was a member of the Regent Street United Church, Lakefield, and was a popular member of hunting and fishing clubs. Always ready to do a kind act for friend or stranger, Mr. Little made many friends, who regret his passing.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. George Spence of Lakefield, Miss Myrtle Little at home; one brother, David Little, of Dummer; and four sisters, Mrs. Nathan Payne, of Lakefield, Mrs. Luther Payne of Roseneath, Mrs. William Carveth and Mrs. Richard Thompson, both of Warsaw. The funeral arrangeemtns will be announced later.

WEDDING BELLS

BRECKENRIDGE—KEISLER

Married in Elyria, Ohio, on Nov. 2, by Rev. A. C. Corfman, Miss Zella Eloise Keisler, R.N., to Dr. Robert A. Breckenridge, resident surgeon of Akron City Hospital.

Dr. Breckenridge is a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario, and is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Breckenridge of this city.

WHITE—BROPHEY

The marriage took place quietly in Toronto on Saturday, of Bernice Isabella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Brophey of 80 Forest Hill road, Toronto, and Dr. C. Cockburn White of Windsor, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. White of Frederick avenue. The marriage service was read by the Rev. Dr. MacNeill, pastor of Walmer Road Baptist Church, Toronto.

Dr. and Mrs. White will live in Windsor.

CROSS—DOIG.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at eight o'clock on Monday morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart, when Rev. C. Maloney solemnized the Nuptial Mass and performed the ceremony which united in the holy bonds of matrimony Geraldine, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Doig of this city, and John Cross, eldest son of Mrs. John Cross, of Peterborough, and the late John Cross.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a dress of white georgette with veil and wreath and white hose and slippers. She carried a bouquet of Madam Butterfly roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Marie Rene, wore coral georgette, with black satin slippers and flesh-colored hose. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses.

The dainty little flower girl, Audrey Doig, was in a frock of poudre blue georgette with trimming of gold and carried a silver basket filled with white and pink carnations.

Mr. Frank Doig acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the evening was spent in the enjoyment of games and dancing, with music supplied by Nokes' Orchestra.

Mr. Cross and his bride left on the noon train for a honeymoon trip to western points, after which they will live in Peterborough.

ROBERTSON—COOPER.

The marriage was solemnized quietly at St. Andrew's Manse on Saturday, of Phyllis A., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Cooper, and Hugh Carlyle Robertson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robertson, both of Peterborough. The service was read by the Rev Chas. V. McLean.

Attendants were Mrs. I. Smallwood and Mr. H. Yelland.

After a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Robertson will live in Peterborough.

YEAMAN—REYNOLDS.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Andrew's manse on Friday evening at 7 p.m., when Olga Vivian Reynolds, fourth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Reynolds, of 863 Water street, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. John Yeaman, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Yeaman, of Moncton, N.B. The Rev. C. V. McLean officiated.

The bride looked charming in a white crepe de chine dress with hose to match and black satin shoes. Later, a reception was held at the home of the bride. The young people received many beautiful and useful gifts. Among the many gifts, the bride received from the Auburn Woollen Mills a pyrex casserole and pie plate set in silver and the groom received a leather club bag from the Bonner-Worth Woollen Mills.

The evening was spent in dancing. The bride and groom left on Saturday evening for their new home in Moncton, N.B., where they will reside.

Lack of Experience In Handling Boats Causes Loss of Life

One of Oldest Sea Laws Is Obeyed at Sinking of Vestris; Survivors Arrive at New York On Rescue Ships.

CHANCELLOR OF ARGENTINA CONSULATE TELLS HIS EXPERIENCE OF GREAT SEA TRAGEDY

Men and Women Occupying Lifeboats Were Forced To Jump Into Water; Captain Carey, of Sunken Ship, Receives Severe Criticism From Passengers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—(Canadian Press).—One of the oldest laws of the sea, women and children first, was obeyed at the sinking of steamer Vestris off the Virginia Capes, survivors arriving on the German rescue ship reported today.

Wearing borrowed clothes, worn and bedraggled, twenty-three of 220 survivors of disaster arrived on the Berlin almost at the same time as 125 others came in on the American shipper.

Opinions as to the cause of the catastrophe differed. Some thought the shifting of cargo caused the leak, others believed a small leak developed for no apparent reason and enlarged. There were reports that the pumps did not work well when the hold began to fill.

All agreed therew as no panic and that women and children were given preference in the lifeboats.

"My impression of the Vestris tragedy is that it was due to lack of experience, or excess of optimism, or both" said Carlos Queros, Chancellor for the Argentina Consulate in New York and a passenger on the Vestris.

"Starting Friday we met a light storm resulting in the right side list which gradually accentuating until it was 30 degrees. At that time any person of common sense could realize the impossibility of avoiding disaster. I would like to know what time the S.O.S. order was given. The Berlin got it 150 miles off Nantucket. Due to the Berlin's distance from the wreck it lost time.

Jumped Into Water

"The survivors got a hearty reception from Capt. Von Thuelen of the Berlin and his crew, who deserve all the praise. The Vestris crew was fine. The captain, with worried expression, was calm in giving orders from the hurricane deck. Impress on everybody that the only trouble was inexperience in handling the boats. Some were too crowded. Men and women occuying them were compelled to jump into the water, for the crew was unable to release them from the davits.

"The second steward went into the water advising what should be done, a thing that was very praiseworthy.

"My opinion is that after a certain number of years every boat should carry certificates giving the opinion of uninterested humanitarian experts that the passengers could be removed.

The passengers of the Vestris were fine, not realizing the seriousness of the situation until they were in water. Then women were crying and their faces showed terror and sorrow for ones that passed away."

Criticize Captain.

Some of the 125 survivors of the Vestris disaster who reached here on the American Shipper were severe in the criticism of Captain Carey, of the Vestris. They said he should have sent out S.O.S. sooner, and delayed too long in giving the order to put out the life-boats.

The passengers also complained of the defective life-boats. One had a hole in it which had to be covered with a plank before launching, it was said.

Pitiful tales of hardship and death were recounted. Mrs. Earl Devore told of seeing a boat in which her husband, an automobile racer, was sitting, go down. The negro crew in her own boat turned a deaf ear to her plea to assist those struggling in the water. There was room for no more in the boat.

Goes Down With Ship.

The rescue ship Berlin brought definite word of the death of Captain William J. Carey, master of the ill-fated Vestris. Alfred Duncan, second steward, said he and Carey were standing on the deck a minute before the Vestris sank. Carey had no life-belt.

"Get your life-belt on. Pay no attention to me," Carey ordered.

"I jumped, but the captain did not jump with me," Duncan said. "The ship flopped over on its side, lay there a minute, then slowly disappeared."

80 in Boats

The steamer Vestris sank when only about eighty of 328 passengers and crew had been launched in the boats, after two boatloads of women and children had been hurled into seas, most of them to die, and while rest were leaping from the ships' [illegible] for their lives.

ESKIMO BOYS ARE BECOMING APT STUDENTS

Ben Audlamak is the Son of Great Chief in Far Northland.

WANTS SON EDUCATED.

Boys Say They Are Happy and Enjoy Surroundings at the Grove School.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LAKEFIELD, Ont., Nov. 14.—Ben and Sam, the two small Eskimo boys who were brought down to Lakefield Preparatory School by Rev. F. P. Gibbs, a northern missionary, under the auspices of Rev. A. L. Fleming, Archdeacon of the Arctic, are making fair progress in their new surroundings and are adapting themselves to the white man's ways in a manner that is at once ready and reserved, but in spite of a month's training. Benjamin Audlanak and Samuel Pudlutt have not shaken off their native conversational reticence. Ben, who is the son of one of the greatest Eskimo Chiefs in the Arctic district, displays probably more intellectual alertness than his companion. The story as told by the missionaries of the north is that Ben's father, realizing that the Eskimo's star was on the wane, notified the Archdeacon Fleming that he wanted his son to be given a chance in the white man's world. As some suitable companion was necessary to accompany the Chief's son into the great beyond, Samuel Pudlutt of Lake Harbor, Baffin's Land, was chosen to accompany him.

Doing Splendidly.

"They are doing splendidly, are well behaved and do not wish to go back," Rev. Mr. Mackenzie said. Archdeacon Fleming, who has now returned to his sphere of work called into the Lakefield school a week ago to interview his proteges. He spoke to Ben and Sam in their own

STUDENT FLIER BREAKS RECORD

Safe Landing Is Made in Hamilton When Engine Goes Dead.

UP 7,500 FEET.

HAMILTON, Nov. 14—Attaining an altitude of 175,000 feet, William Van Gorder, 87 Wexford avenue, established a new Canadian record here yesterday. Van Gorder flew a Moth plane of the Hamilton Aero Club, of which he is a member. The machine was 1 hour and 45 minues in the air and when the peak was reached the gas supply was exhausted. Skilfully guiding his plane, Van Gorder descended to the club's field with a dead engine, making an excellent landing.

The flier has been taking instructions since July 1 and is now ready to try for his private pilot's certificate. Club machines have flown 485 hours since the organization was formed, officials stated last night.

NEW PRESIDENT OCCUPIES CHAIR AT CONVENTION

V. R. Henry, M.A., Delivers Interesting Address on Science at Closing Meeting.

R. F. DOWNEY SPEAKS

Engineering Has Contributed Its Share to Onward Movement, Declares Speaker.

The final session of the Teachers' Convention met in the Assembly Hall of the new school and was presided over by V. R. Henry, M.A., the president.

Mr. Henry, in presenting his address, thanked the Institute for the honor conferred on him and on the Collegiate Institute by his election to the president's chair. He said it was difficult to select a suitable subject for an address, but he wished to tell of some of the latest advances in science. They were not mentioned in the text-books, because they were so recent, and information about them was to be had mostly in magazine articles. No age had advanced as rapidly as the last ten years. It is easy to get into a rut in science or to be out-of-date, as progress is so rapid.

He first dealt with facts about astronomy. Early scientists considered the earth as the centre of the solar system; then the sun became the centre. Now we know that there are several solar systems, where planets are probably revolving around suns. The unit of distance in astronomy is the light year measuring the distance travelled by light in one year. Light travels at the rate of 186,000 miles per second and reaches us from the sun in eight minutes. Yet it takes four years to come from the nearest fixed star, and it requires forty-four years to come from some stars. The end is not yet. There are stars not yet discovered by the telescope but which the spectroscope detects. The diameter of the universe so far known is calculated to be 1,000,000 light years.

Einstein claimed that light does not always travel in straight lines, that its direction is changed near great lights as the sun. The truth of this theory, which was doubted by scientists, could only be ascertained during a total eclipse of the sun. This led to a great interest in eclipses and so astronomers, largely to combat the theory, went to lands where eclipses could be seen, such as Australia, and took photographs. These photographs proved that Einstein's theory was correct, as certain stars seemed pushed out of their positions.

Advances Made

Important advances have been made in medicine in the last few years. Serums of great value have been discovered and often at great risk to those making the experiments.

Civil engineering has contributed its share to the onward movement of science. The Panama Canal was built only after the mosquitoes which carry the malaria fever had been destroyed by the use of drainage, and of oil on the waters. The Quebec and Windsor bridges are wonderful structures, the latter having the longest single span of any bridge in the world. One engineer has proposed to change a large area of Africa now a desert to a fertile region by obtaining moisture from a canal to be dug out to the ocean.

Mining engineering in Canada has become very important. One of the chief uses of nickel was to make armament. After the war was over, it fell in price. An effort was made to discoverer new uses, and now production is as great as it ever was. It is being used largely as an alloy.

The airplane may be said to be a recent device that has made great advances. It is now used in many special ways. It enables men to reach almost inaccessible places, as far-way mines. In some localities it has been used to fight insect pests. Poison is dusted on orchards and forests. It has proved very serviceable in forest fire prevention. One German, by taking advantage of air currents, remained in the air for over three hours without using his engine.

Theories Cast Aside

The old molecular and atomic theories have had to be practically cast aside. The atom was considered the ultimate division but now, through advances in chemical engineering, an atom is said to consist of electrons and protons. The former are negative charges of electricity grouped around the latter which is its nucleus. Hydrogen contains one of each in every atom. Radium is so active because it throws off electrons. Helium is simply groups of two atoms of hydrogen united togetner. The union of other atoms in varying numbers produces silicon, iron, etc. Many elements are changed to others by the loss of electrons.

Icebergs are now destroyed by chemicals. Chromium plating is gradually replacing nickel. It is very hard and does not tarnish. Color photography is now in use. Machinery is taking the place of many oper-

Story of Mistake In Memorial List Exploded; John Allen, Born Here, Was Killed in Palestine

The story that the John Allen named on Peterborough's War Memorial is still alive and residing in the city was to-day exploded when J. W. Allen, 520 Cambridge street, responded to The Examiner's invitation to send information. It was asserted on Sunday by John M. Allen, 267 Lake street that it is his name that is wrongly included among the names of Peterborough's war dead.

The John Allen reported killed was brought up in Peterborough and went to Australia a year before the beginning of the war, where he enlisted with the Imperial forces in the Fourth Light Horse. He served in Palestine and was killed at Ef Salt. His brother, J. W. Allen, resides in the city, as does his mother, Mrs. Susan J. Smith, 214 Munro avenue, widow of Henry Smith who was killed in action after serving with a draft from the 93rd Battalion.

SIXTEEN YEAR OLD MARY BAILEY IS MISSING FROM HER HOME

Girl Leaves House in Evening and Has Not Been Seen Since.

DRESSED CAREFULLY.

Had Worked in Albion Knitting Company Factory On Park Street.

Waiting expectantly for four long weeks for some news of their daughter, Mary, who mysteriously disappeared after leaving her home the night of October 16, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bailey are beginning to fear that they may never see her again.

During the four weeks since her disappearance the mother and father have hoped and prayed that each day might bring some letter or word from their daughter, Mary, aged sixteen. Every day Mrs. Bailey walks to the post office from her home on Kenneth avenue, in the suburbs of the city in the hope that there will be a letter from her missing daughter.

On the night of her disappearance the girl having curled her hair and dressed herself carefully in her best dress, coat and hat left her home about eight o'clock in the evening in her usual manner. She did not tell her mother where she was going, but Mrs. Bailey saw nothing unusual in that because of late the girl had very frequently gone out in the evening and omitted to tell her parents where she was going. Since she left home that Tuesday evening four weeks ago she has not been seen. Her parents have not received any word or message of where she is or what has happened to her.

Police Notified

The police were notified soon after the girl's disappearance, but so far their efforts have been fruitless.

The girl, when she left her home, was dressed in a wine-colored coat with fur collar and cuffs. She wore a red hat with a V-shaped brooch in the front and a dark brown velvet dress, flesh-colored hose and black, high-heeled shoes. Her complexion is dark with sparkling black eyes, and she has black, curly bobbed hair. She is about five feet four in height and her weight was 120 pounds.

She had worked at the Albion Knitting Company on Park street until about a week previous to her disappearance, when she left her position and had not secured another.

Any knowledge as to the girl's whereabouts ought to be sent to Mr. Edward Bailey, General Delivery Peterborough.

KILLED IN CYCLONE.

Heavy Loss of Life and Property Damage Reported From Argentina.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, November 14 (Canadian Press). — Heavy loss of life and damage are reported from the region of Villa Maria, struck by a cyclone yesterday. In Villa Maria, eighteen persons are known to be dead and the number killed in neighboring towns is undetermined. Property loss is estimated at $1,500,000. Not a single house in the city remains intact.

Japan Celebrating Thanksgiving Day

KYOTO, Japan, November 14 (Canadian Press).— Daijo Sai, or "Great Thanksgiving," always celebrated after the enthronement of the Emperor, began today at dusk. Throughout the night, the newly crowned Emperor Hirohito, as 124th ruler in the heavenly line of the Sun Dynasty, will observe solemn and lawful rites of the primaeval religion of Jupan, acting as High Priest of the nation in communion with the gods who gave birth to his Empire.

TAX REDUCTION IS LOOKED FOR Customs Receipts Show a Decided Increase For October.

EXCISE TAXES DOWN.

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—(Special to Examiner).—Prospects for further tax reductions next year are said to be improving with the increased receipt of revenue collected by the Department of National Revenue. In September the customs receipts showed an increase of more than $2,000,000 over September 1927. In October the customs receipts are said to be up by $3,500,000.

The collections in seven months from customs are up by over $17,250,000 despite tariff reductions in the last budget. A percentage of the increase is due to the biggest percentage of collections of money due and a curbing of customs dodging.

The October excise collection will when published, show an increase of $7,550,000 over October, 1927. The excise taxes are down about $50,000 but this is credited to the substantial reductions in the tax itself, which this year amounted to 25 percent. The net increase for the seven months, however, is nearly $3,750,000.

All government departments are said to have been instructed to prepare their estimates carefully, and this is now being done so that with an increase in the revenue even under reduced taxation and a decrease in the expenditure, further tax reductions will be included in the 1929 budget.

CLOSING CAMPAIGNS.

MELBOURNE, Australia, November 14 (Canadian Press). — Premier Stanley Bruce and James Scullin Labor leader, are closing strenuous campaigns for the general election to be held on Saturday.

Vagrant Outran Constable Year Ago; Now Finds Himself In Toils of Law

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 14—Early in September, 1927, George Bowerman, Norfolk County resident, outran Constable Ney Chute across a cornfield near Aylmer. Now, as the result of his trial here recently, he was sentenced in the Elgin County jail on a charge of escaping from custody.

The conviction came because Bowerman was under arrest when he ran that footrace with the veteran constable. The police sought Bowerman for months, then they located him in the Brant county jail where he was reported to be doing time for running over a child with his automobile. The Elgin police planned to nab Bowerman when he was released from the Brantford institution, but they failed to arrive in time and so the search continued for several more weeks, then Bowerman visited Aylmer, and Constable Chute was there to welcome him.

ANGLO-FRENCH PACT UPHELD IN COMMONS

Liberal Amendment To Address Is Defeated By 326 To 163.

LLOYD GEORGE REPROVED.

Premier Censures Liberal Leader in Strong Defence of Treaty.

LONDON, Nov. 14. — (Canadian Press Cable.)— The Liberal amendment to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, declaring that the Franco-British naval compromise "endangered the prospects of peace in Europe and good relations with the United States, was defeated in the House of Commons late yesterday. The vote was 326 to 163.

The amendment was moved by Right Hon. David Lloyd George, Leader of the Liberal party, who engaged in a sharp debate with Premier Stanley Baldwin.

The Anglo-French naval compromise was the subject of a Liberal amendment to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, moved in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon by Right Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal Leader.

This the second amendment to the Address (the first, a Labor resolution on unemployment, was defeated 321-151) would declare the naval compromise "endangered the prospects of peace in Europe and good relations with the United States." It also urges that the basis of naval disarmament should be extension of the successful Washington Treaty to all classes of warships. Further it urges that military reservists should be included in computations of military strength; and the basis of foreign policy of Britain should be promotion of friendship and co-operation between all nations on the lines of the League of Nations Covenant and the anti-war pact.

Mr. Lloyd George said he advised everybody doubting whether the compromise had aroused suspicion in the United States to read President Coolidge's Armistice Day speech, in which there were no threats, but an indication of America's resolve to build 15 cruisers, in the face of Europe's attitude toward disarmament.

"There is no doubt that French public opinon thinks we are bound by the principles of the pact, and the intentions of the Government regarding this should be made clear," Mr. Lloyd George continued.

LOCAL MEN IN CAR CRASH

Party Were Returning Home From Thanksgiving Holiday Spent in Detroit.

HAPPENED NEAR CHATHAM.

Four local men were in a motor accident on the Windsor highway near Chatham yesterday evening. Victor Minicola, Tom Cupoli, his brother, and Donald Whatley left this city in a large car for a trip to Detroit over the Thanksgiving holiday. The boys reached Detroit and had their visit with friends in that city, and they were on their way home when the accident occurred. A telegram reached D. M. Minicola last evening advising him of the accident, but the details were very meagre. Mr. Minicola left for Chatham last night.

ASK RELIEF OF FERGUSON

Deputation From North Bay District Seek Assistance For Flood Sufferers.

SOME ARRANGEMENTS MADE

TORONTO, Nov. 14 (Canadian Press).—Requesting Government assistance for the people of Northern Ontario who suffered from the floods, a deputation from North Bay and district to-day waited on Premier Ferguson. The Premier said arrangements had been made with Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway to purchase ties from the settlers and that other forms of relief would be considered.

Council Will Seek Final Price From Hydro Commission

Aldermen Meet in Committee of Whole and Discuss Further Negotiations in Regards to Purchase of Gas Plant For City of Peteborough.

QUESTION WILL NOT BE PUT TO A VOTE UNLESS COUNCIL IS ABLE TO ENDORSE PROPOSITION

Canadian General Electric Company Receives Permission To Build a New Railway Siding Across Park Street Into Its Factory.

Meeting as a Committee of the Whole, the city council last evening discussed, in round table fashion, the proposed purchase from the Hydro Electric Power Commission, of the local gas plant—a matter which is arousing considerable interest throughout the city and which is likely to be put to a vote of the people provided that present negotiations with the Commission prove satisfactory. From the spirit of last night's meeting, it was evident that the aldermen seek to arrange a proposition to which they may feel justified in giving their unqualified support on recommending it to the people whom they represent.

Since negotiations are still open, there was nothing definite relative to offers either from or to the Commission. Alderman Greene voiced the main thought of all present when he said "I think we should not put the matter to a vote of the people unless we are prepared to recommend it" and Mayor Denne, when he declared "that since we are the people's representatives and it is up to us to reach a stand from which we may advise them. We should be able to say why we think the plant should be purchased." On motion of Aldermen Greene and Cotton, a committee to interview the Hydro Commission was appointed comprising the Mayor, chairmen of the Finance and Manufacturers' Committees, and Alderman Stocker. This committee will seek a final offer and will endeavor to close negotiations. Aldermen Stocker and Phelan moved that a by-law be prepared accordingly. Both motions passed.

To Alter Sidings

Seeking the Council's approval in the form of a by-law to be submitted to the Railway Board, E. G. Patterson, Superintendent of the Canadian General Electric was present at the meeting. With him he had brought plans of a new siding which his company proposes to build. The council's approval is required by the Board.

The tracks of the new siding will cross Park street, north of the present ones which it will replace and pursue a different route, on the C. G.E. property. City Engineer Parsons voiced his approval and on motion of Aldermen Cotton and Stocker, the plans were approved, a by-law to be drawn up accordingly.

A communication from the manager of the Auburn Mills pointed out that the foot path on the C.P.R. bridge is in need of repair, being dangerous to the many employees of the mills who use the path. The matter was referred to the chairman of the Board of Works and the City Engineer to take action to remedy the trouble.

FRESH TRACKS AIDS SEARCH FOR LOST GIRL

Provincial Government is Requested to Send Police and Airplane.

BLOODHOUND USED.

Trail is Followed to Clump of Cedar Bushes and Gravel Pit.

KIRKFIELD, Ont., Nov. 14 (Special to The Examiner).—Hope that Gladys Brotherston, 19-year-old girl, missing from her home near Kirkfield since Friday night, may be still wandering within the confines of the stone quarry settlement, where she lived, to-day concentrated in the searchers on the most definite trail which so far has come to light. A request has been made to Thomas Stinson, K.C., M.P. for Haliburton and Victoria, by members of the family and the friends that he ask the Provincial Government for further assistance in the search. It is suggested that special constables from Toronto and an aeroplane from Camp Borden be sent here to continue a thorough exploration of the outlying districts.

Charles Brotherston, the girl's brother, found faint tracks which agreed exactly with the size of the girl's shoes in the swampy ground about half a mile north-east of the house, and, returning to-day to follow them up, found fresh tracks of identical size which apparently had been made overnight. From the tracks it was evident the person who made them had been walking slowly with frequent pauses. They followed a wire fence and crossed it, leading to a clump of cedar bushes in which it was apparent some one had laid down to rest. This, it was pointed out by Mr. Brotherston, is in agreement with what Mrs. Booth, a Havelock woman, told the girl's brother.

From the clump of cedar bushes the trail went to an old gravel pit and skirted its edge. This is the trail the bloodhound from Cannington is following to-day.

Previous attempts to trail the girl with the dog failed and to-day the hound appeared to have picked up a stronger scent and at noon was making good progress in the van of the searchers.

The family still holds the belief that the girl disappeared because of distress over a scar on her upper lip caused in using carbolic acid to remove superfluous hair.

Faith in Psychologic Sphere

Mrs. Brotherston maintained her faith in the psychologic sphere to aid in the return of her daughter. Richard, an elder brother, had been to see a clairvoyant at Havelock and gazing into the crystal, believed he saw his sister rise up from behind some rocks. Look both ways and then run away and hide. Charles, another brother, also inclined to the mystic art, had been to see a medium at Lindsay. There he was informed his call was over trouble about a dark girl who had disappeared. "I don't believe much in that sort of thing," Charles said, "but when they can tell you things like that, it makes you think." After dinner last night, Charles and Mrs. Brotherton talked over the views of the clairvoyant and decided to call on a third one in the Oshawa-Whitby district, whom they had heard was helpful in other mysterious disappearances.

DIES OF INJURIES.

HAMILTON, Ont., November 14 (Canadian Press). — B. A. Howie, of Toronto, injured in a motor crash at Grimsby on Thursday night died in St. Joseph's Hospital here to-day without regaining consciousness.

THE WEATHER

While the weather continues quite mild as yet, I have glanced over conditions as existed last year about this date. On November 9th we had our first snow, one-quarter of an inch. On the 18th one inch fell. On the 24th, three and one-half inches. Snow fell at intervals until December 15th, when there was a fall of four inches. On the 17th December, there was fair sleighing, which continued until December 28th. While not directly connected with the weather it is quite possible there may be an unusually brilliant display of meteors or falling stars, on some evening this week—most likely on Thursday night. If the night should be cloudless, the reader is advised to keep watch. Every year at this date, there are more than the usual number of these "falling stars," and at intervals of 33 years, the display is unusually brilliant. The earth in its travels around the sun through space, comes at certain times in proximity to the remnants of a defunct comet, and the force of gravitation attracts them to the earth. They fall, but the friction engendered when passing through our atmosphere, ignites them, and is practically all cases they are entirely consumed before reaching the earth's surface. While there may possibly be no unusual display, some of the leading astronomers say the chances are good.—W.P.

GOVERNMENT BEATEN.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Nov. 14 (Canadian Press).—Early returns in the general election indicated that the Government of Premier K. J. Coats had suffered a severe set-back to-day. A number of the Ministers are defeated and the Opposition made great gains.

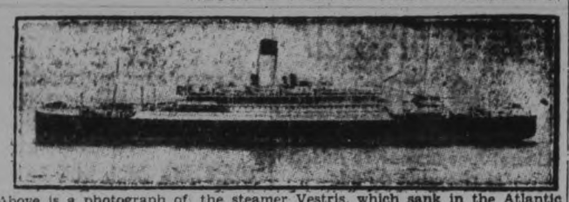
Destroyers Comb Seas In Great Search For Survivors of Wreck

Hope Dwindles As Darkness Falls Second Night Since Vestris Foundered — 210 Survivors Are Picked Up From Rafts and Lifeboats By Passing Steamers.

U. S. MERCHANT LINER SAVES 125—RESCUED TELL OF GREAT HARDSHIPS



Above is a photograph of the steamer Vestris, which sank in the Atlantic Monday, while en route to South America. The majority of its passengers and crew have been picked up by rescue ships, and it is hoped that the rest may be found. The photograph above is supplied by S. J. Sharpe and Sons, Toronto agents for the Lamport-Holt shipping line, to which the Vestris belonged.

NEW YORK, November 14.—Battling angry seas and the lashing of a 45-mile-an-hour wind, rescue ships picked up 210 survivors of the sunken Lamport & Holt liner Vestris and six bodies yesterday around the spot, 240 miles off Virginia Capes, where the vessel went to the bottom on Monday afternoon, after the 337 passengers and crew had taken off in eight lifeboats and an improvised raft.

With the fate of the 121 persons unaccounted for grimly uncertain, the Navy Department at Washington ordered the U.S.S. Wyoming to continue with a coastguard cutter and four coastguard destroyers their combing of the seas in the teeth of the high winds in the hope of effecting further rescues late yesterday and last night.

Meanwhile three other ships, which, in accordance with the gallant code of the sea, had promptly responded when the Vestris first flashed the dread SOS call at 10.45 a.m. on Monday, were steaming toward New York with their precious human cargo that had been retrieved from the angry Atlantic.

Ship Saves 125.

These ships are the U.S. merchant liner American Shipper, with 125 survivors; the French tanker Myriam, with 54, and the North German Lloyd steamer Berlin with 23 and one who died after being rescued.

In addition to these, the battleship Wyoming, commanded by Vice-Admiral Taylor, commanded of the scouting fleet, had eight survivors aboard those whose lifeboat had capsized. The coastguard vessel Porter reported last night the recovery of one body, and the coastguard vessel Manning reported the recovery of four bodies.

Vice-Admiral Taylor recommended to the Navy officials in Washington yesterday that his ship leave the scene at nightfall and return to Norfolk, but in reply he was ordered to continue the patrol. Admiral Taylor's message indicated that there was little prospect of finding any more survivors, as he explained that all of the eight lifeboats were accounted for, and that the frail makeshift raft evidently had been broken up under the relentless pounding of the heavy seas.

Although original reports stated that there were 339 persons on the Vestris when she steamed out of New York last Saturday for Barbados and South America, of whom 219 were officers and men of the crew, officials of the Lamport & Holt Line in New York said yesterday that a check-up showed that the total of men, women, and children was 337, comprising 128 passengers and a crew of 209.

Cause Unknown.

The exact cause of the foundering of the vessel has not been determined. Officials of the line here denied last night printed reports that Captain Carey had sent them wireless messages blaming the shifting of the cargo for the listing and subsequent sinking of the ship.

Reports of the various rescues were meagre, but behind the matter-of-fact accounts were new chapters of the heroism of those who go down to the sea in ships. The rescue work began about 4 o'clock yesterday morning, more than 14 hours after the passengers and crew had been buffeted about helplessly since leaving the Vestris. The American Shipper sighted a flare cutting the darkness at 3.25 a.m., and from then on lifeboat after lifeboat was sighted.

Shortly after noon, according to The Associated Press, the Radio-Marine Corporation received a report which had previously been picked up by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology station at South Dartmouth, Mass., but which was slightly different in form.

The earlier report was that a man picked from the water by the Wyoming had told of seeing a woman and child drifting near him. The Radio-Marine version was that he said he had seen a woman with two children, and that the Berlin had put about to look for them. According to

COMMISSION TO BE ELECTED

Lindsay Has Purchased Electric Plant for Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

REEVE RETIRING

LINDSAY, Nov. 14.—The municipal election pot is commencing to simmer in Lindsay. With nomination date less than two weeks away, the citizens are discussing the personnal of next year's municipal government.

Mayor R. I. Moore, who has already served a term, and who is entitled by precedent to another term, will again be in the field. Rumor has it that friends of Dr. White, who has served in the council for the past three years, would like to see him contest the mayoralty. Reeve J. O'Reilly, who has served the municipality in varied capacities for over a quarter of a century, will, it is reported, retire from municipal life. The electors will be called upon this year to elect an electric utilities commission, the municipality having purchased the local plant from the Hydro Commission during the past year.

MR. AND MRS. H. J. ABERNETHY CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Couple Has Spent Entire Married Life in Town of Campbellford.

60 GUESTS PRESENT.

Many Experiences Are Recalled By Bride and Groom of Fifty Years Ago.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 14 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—It is fifty years ago since Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Abernethy stood before the minister and assumed the obligations of the holy bonds of matrimony. For all of the fifty years, Mr. and Mrs. Abernethy have resided in Campbellford and enjoyed the respect of every citizen of the town. Monday, November 12th, was the milestone which marked the termination of the happy period and the occasion on which the family and friends to the number of sixty, gathered at the home of the elderly couple and wished them all the enjoyment which life might have to offer them. The celebration took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abernethy and their son, W. J. Abernethy, who with his wife, occupy the same residence on Sebastapol Street. W. J. Abernethy made the address of presentation when Miss Clyta Abernethy handed her grandfather a purse of gold, the gift of the family and friends assembled. Miss Verna Abernethy presented her grandmother with a bouquet of roses.

In the front rooms of the large house were set eleven tables to accommodate the sixty guests. In the centre was one large table for Mr. and Mrs. Abernethy and their immediate family. Arranged around this were ten smaller tables to seat the third generation and the friends of the family. Several toasts were drunk and the master for the occasion was J. J. Mason of Stratford, who was groomsman for Mr. Abernethy fifty years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Abernethy were deeply touched by the ceremony which marked the termination of fifty years of wedded happiness. The rooms were decorated with ferns, flowers and white streamers, making a pleasing effect with the candles lighting the tables.

Married at Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Abernethy were married fifty years ago in the village of Hastings by the Reverend Woodsworth, then minister of the Methodist Church there. It is also of interest to note that the eldest son, William, was married in the same village. In both cases the newly married couples came at once to take up their residence in Campbellford. Mr. Abernethy has been a member of the Methodist and now United Church during his life-time. Mrs. Abernethy was, until her late 'teens, a member of the Church of England, but shortly after arriving in this country, began attending the Methodist Church and later became a member. She was also a member of the choir of that church for a number of years. It was while singing in the choir that she saw and met her husband. Mrs. Abernethy was born in London, England, and came to this

MISSING GIRL.

Gladys Brotherstone, 19-year-old girl of Kirkfield, in central Ontario, whose disappearance last Friday has started a search in which hundreds are engaged. Part of the Trent canal was drained without finding any clue. It was reported that she left her home in the dead of night, armed with a gun. Acting on the story that she had been clad only in pyjamas, police scoured the area for traces of this feminine clothing. Later developments showed, however, that she had dressed herself before setting out on her strange journey.

GROVE BOYS HOLD RE-UNION

Many Old Scholars Return To Lakefield School For Week-end.

RUGBY GAME.

LAKEFIELD, Nov 14.—The annual Thanksgiving re-union of Lakefield school old boys took place at Lakefield over the last week-end Twenty five old boys went back again to their school, to take part in the yearly festivities. These consist of a dance on the Saturday night, given by the school, the memorial service on Armistice (Sunday) evening, and the Old Boys rugby game on the Monday morning. As well as the old boys present, there were over fifty parents for the week-end, who stayed at the Lakefield Inn.

The old boys rugby team proved too strong for the school, having such stalwarts as "Windy" Smith, coach of Upper Canada; Harry Griffith, quarter for Ridley College, as well as four R.M.C. players, Fred Hudson, of McGill Intermediates, E. Boultbee, of Oshawa's crack intermediate team, in toto, sufficient to defeat the school 15.8.

After a Thanksgiving dinner on Monday at noon, the Old Boys returned again to their various labours.

MOTORIST HITS BUGGY

Driver is Thrown Out and Pinned Under Automobile at Stirling.

NEIGHBORS HELP

(Examiner Correspondence)

STIRLING, Nov. 14.—An exciting time occurred about six o'clock on Saturday evening at the east end of the village. Robert Lanigan, of the Ridge road, was on his way to Stirling station to meet his daughter, Mrs. Blair, of Toronto, who is spending the holiday with her father and brother's family. At the entrance to the village Mr. Lanigan saw a car coming and at once got out of the road to the right. As the car came near it veered across the road and crashed into his horse, throwing it to the ditch and pitching him out of the buggy under the colliding car, which was forced to stop in its wild career. The driver, Phil McEvoy, although considerably frightened, dislodged Mr. Lanigan from his cramped position and was pleased to find that he was not seriously hurt. A number of the immediate residents were near and gave aid in getting the mare to its feet and it was discovered that a fractured front leg was the result of the collision, and was so serious that the animal was destroyed. Mr. Lanigan is very thankful to have escaped without serious injury but very sorry at the loss of the horse which he prized very highly.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Montgomery and family, of Toronto, are visiting the former's parents.

Mrs. Turner Sine is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Sine.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Anderson were called to London on account of the serious illness of the former's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper Rollins and Mr. Robert Rollins were week-end visitors of Rev. and Mrs. Robert Simpson, Woodville, Ont. Miss Christie Simpson, who is teaching at Bancroft, accompanied them as a visitor to her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Graine and son were visitors in town over the week-end.

Messrs. Clarence and Charlie McGee, of Peterborough, visited their mother, Mrs. Jane McGee, Gore street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Matthews, of Hillier, are spending the holiday with their parents here.

Mr. Allen Melklejohn, student of Queen's, was home for the holiday.

Miss Phyllis Sine, of Gananoque, who is teaching near Bancroft, visited relatives at Anson and Stirling over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Craighead, of Trenton, are spending the week-end with the former's mother and brother, Belleville Road.

Miss Nellie Tulloch of Belleville General Hospital spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tulloch.

Miss Ruth Gibson, student at Peterborough Normal School, was home over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Williams went to Lansdowne for their Thanksgiving dinner.

Mr. Bert Conley, manager of the Bell Telephone at Oshawa spent the holiday with his mother, Mrs. Conley, Henry street.

DISTRICT CHURCHES CELEBRATE ARMISTICE DAY

ST. PAUL'S, MARMORA

Distinctively in keeping with the spirit of Armistice Day was the largely attended morning service at St. Paul's, held ten minutes earlier than the usual time, to permit uninterruptedly the two minutes' silence.

The service wsa taken by the rector, Rev. A. B. Caldwell and the lessons were read by Rev. J. S. Harrington, L.Th., of Toronto, who also was the preacher. "Brightly gleams our banner" was the processional hymn and the National Anthem served as recessional. The other hymns were most appropriate, "O God, our help in ages past" and "God of our fathers, known of old." Commencing an eloquent sermon on the text "Where there is no vision, the people perish," Prov. 29: 18, Rev. Harrington said, "A true anniversary brings a backward and a forward look. This one will be a retrospect over ten years or over a longer period, say fourteen, in order that with a clear eye we may look into the years to come. The years that have passed, ten of peace and four of war, should give us a vision of the future that will make it helpful to us. A vision has always been the inspiring power of great movements and activities. It was a vision of righteousness that sustained those who fought through those dark years. It is a vision which has brought us together this morning for, after all, it is true 'Where there is no vision, save that visible to the natural eye, the people perish.' The one who used first the words of the text was a king who had a vision of peace and righteousness, yet if we look back over his life we see that he lost that vision entirely so that his life ended in the darkness of sin. Looking back to-day in order that we might clarify the vision of the future we may look into four pages of Bible history." The preacher then in striking language portrayed the rise and fall of Egypt, Assyria, Babylon and Rome, showing that in each case that which was counted insignificant by these powers, worked their undoing. Having repeated the substance of Kipling's poem on the wolf which cursed Sussex in bygone days, the preacher said, "The ugly things which roam our land, selfishness and the like, can only be overcome when we make a sacrifice. No lesson today is greater after all. No nation which is not prepared to make sacrifice can reach true greatness. There must be a vision of sacrifice in order that peace and righteousness are ensured. There are children in this country now approaching their 'teens who have grown up since those days of war. It is our primary duty that the vision of sacrifice should be kept before them. Sacrifice will always be necessary and never will it be absent from true progress. The spirit of sacrifice is the spirit of Christ who made the supreme sacrifice for us." In closing, Rev. Harrington quoted words of Premier Baldwin and Archbishop Lang concerning the Bible, among the former's words being these—"The circulation of the Scriptures has grown side by side with the growth of Empire. The Bible is a high explosive and works in strange ways."

BETHANY UNITED

Armistice services were observed in the United church on Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. McNeeley of Keene, being the preacher. His subject was, "The voice of Armistice." Miss Helen Byers sang Kipling's recessional hymn "Lest we Forget," and two minutes' silence was observed at 11 o'clock, followed by the Lord's Prayer, led by the preacher.

In the evening, at St. Paul's Church, Rev. G. E. Fierheller preached an Armistice sermon, his text being, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friend." The anthem by the choir was "Perfect Peace" with choruses "Praise God" and "God Save the King," which were sung by the entire congregation at the request of the rector, Rev. Mr. Fierheller.

DUNSFORD CHURCHES

Special Armistice Day services were held in the local churches here on Sunday, by Rev. C. E. Dryer, of the Anglican Church and Rev. J. F. Everson, of the United Church. Both clergymen emphasized the theme of a lasting peace which was so to the forefront ten years ago when hostilities ceased, also stating that men in their dealings with one another must be trained in the art of concession and co-operation, in order that the difficulties contained in the desires and policies of nations, new and old, great and small, which are so opposed to each other may be solved, and stated that it is equally necessary that men to-day should be as loyal to church and state in meeting and solving problems, as were our soldiers on the battle field to the cause for which they fought, and the work they had undertaken to do.

MADOC PRESBYTERIAN

At St. Peter's Presbyterian Church it was Anniversary Sunday, to be followed by an Anniversary Supper and entertainment on Monday evening. Sunday school at 10 a.m. preceded the morning service.

The auditorium of the church was beautifully decorated with mauve and yellow chrysanthemums, autumn fruits, and late sheaves of corn.

Rev. T. G. Marshall, the pastor, conducted an Armistice and Thanksgiving service. The pastor, who is a returned soldier, took as his theme, "In Flanders' Fields." The two minutes' silence was fittingly observed at eleven o'clock. Special music was prepared by the choir.

In the evening Rev. D. A. McKenzie, of Burnbrae, was the special preacher and was assisted by the pastor, Rev. T. G. Marshall and Rev. G. W. Rivers, of Trinity Church. The evening services of Trinity United Church were withdrawn and minister and congregation united with St. Peter's congregation for their anniversary services for the evening.

A ten-minute hearty song service was a beautiful preface to a most splendid service, which was opened by the Doxology and prayer by the pastor.

The opening hymn, "O Give Thanks" was followed by scriptural reading, Psalm 76 by Rev. Mr. McKenzie and prayer by Rev. G. W. Rivers.

A solo, "Grateful, O Lord, to Thee," was sung by F. Gillespie, after which was sung the harvest home hymn, "We plough the fields and scatter," and a beautiful anthem by the choir, "O be joyful in the Lord, All Ye Lands," with Mrs. Bedford taking the soprano solo part.

The message by Rev. Mr. McKenzie was from Micah 4:3—"They shall beat their swords into plough shares, and their spears into pruning hooks."

Rev. Mr. McKenzie gave a stirring message, quoting from many of the great speakers of the times, he said "The signing of the Armistice meant everything to civilization and the railway car, now in Paris, in which the Armistice was signed, is historic. The Premiers of the British Empire in consultation declared that the basis of all civilization must be the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. Thomas Marshall, ex Vice-President of the United States, said civilization must be based on the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule, and the teachings of Jesus Christ. Continuing, he said, "it would not be achievements of science or of philosophy, or of literature, or of speculative theory that will bring civilization, but the gospel of Jesus Christ, reckoned in the lives of the nations of the world. The great object of life is to touch the spear-point of evil and turn them into blessings of peace. Lloyd George says what the world needs most of all is—God. We give thanks for ten years of peace following war and for more than one hundred years of peace between Canada and the United States. With over three thousand five hundred miles of boundary line without forts or guns or patrolling soldiers, we are an example for the world.

The greatness of a nation depends on its character—not on its material wealth, for its power and its glory. It is the duty of our people to establish His Kingdom, to lay now a foundation deep, true and strong. Canada wants big men—big in heart, thought and soul. Our Great Chief—the Prince of Peace, at God's right hand, is looking on to see that we do our duty. Thank God for Armistice and all spiritual blessings."

A duet was well sung by Mr. and Mrs. Bedford, entitled "I have heard of a land," and the closing hymn most heartily sung—"Come, ye thankful people, come," was followed by the Benediction by Rev. Mr. McKenzie.

ROSENEATH UNITED

The Anniversary services at the United Church on Sunday morning were of a memorable character Armistice Day and Thanksgiving.

The large congregations had with them for the first time, Rev. Professor A. J. Johnston, M.A., D.D., of Victoria University, Toronto, who was the special speaker of the day. A delightful autumn day added to the success of this special occasion and extra large congregations attended the services, the capacity of the church auditorium being over-taxed at night.

For the morning service, the first Scripture lesson, Psalm 147 was read by Rev. M. R. Brown, followed by an anthem by the choir, "The Harvest Call."

Prof. Johnston read Revelations 7, this lesson being chosen for Armistice Day throughout the Dominion.

Rev. Mr. Brown gave a forceful and earnest prayer by thanking God for the past ten years that has passed and peace we have enjoyed saying, "There is a presence that evades all mankind and may the spirit of Christ be with us to make us more kind, more thoughtful; try to illustrate Jesus' life; try to walk in the path with him; Christ is a life of beauty, may we adopt that life and be an example to others; do our duty. He, the Great Physician is forever near to help our wounded hearts, to give us strength to guide us through life and later we may gain victory into everlasting life."

At this period the two minutes' silence at 11 a.m., was observed after which a suitable prayer was offered by Prof. Johnston, who afterwards delivered an excellent sermon, taking his text from Psalm 100, "Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands." He spoke briefly on Armistice Day—of the ten years we enjoyed peace and said to spend more time in meditation with God and remember the ones who fought and fell to save our country to give us freedom.

The anniversary for your church is another remembrance—its significance, its place, is evidence of its success, therefore let us offer ourselves for faithful service. How selfish we are liable to become. Ingratitude is the sin of our age. We have much to enjoy but we live like pampered children. We take the provisions but we forget to thank the Provider. Do we sufficiently recognize each other as we should? Children forget their parents and what has been done for them, and aften a boy or girl shows ungratefulness to their parents or older people. Why? Not because they're bad, but thoughtless and indifferent. Many a mistake is made by indifference. The people of today are living like lords to what our grandfathers did in years gone by. Should we not treasure the memory of these noble men. Then the great author of life, who gives us food, clothes and luxuries—all perfect gifts come from God, therefore let us live our thanksgiving and show our gratitude to God.

Evening Service.

In the evening Dr. Johnston took for his subject, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased, hear ye him." Matthew 17. His discourse was listened to with strict and alert attention to hear him cypher the three attitudes taken in the Lord Jesus. These are admiration, explanation and obedience.

Dr. Johnston began his address by saying, "Let us take these three roads to the heart of our Lord Jesus, His beauty of character, dignity of manner, a volume of testimony is coming up as a test to those who love Jesus. Those who believe, like the great artists Renan and Pappini, who described the life of Jesus, speaks of His charm, His admiration. Teachers and great artists have Jesus for their central plans. We cannot draw from Him if we do not admire Him. We must know about Jesus if we want to know Him. To approach Jesus is a problem, He is a problem to every one.

Who is this man? Is He man? Is He God? For 1900 years Jesus has been a problem. Who is Jesus? Where did He come from? What's His relation to God? What is His relation to man. The more Christian we are the more necessary it is for us to find Him.

How to explain Jesus is not enough. The way to the heart of our Lord is not the theologian at all.

The way to the heart of Jesus is the way of obedience. Gradually he begins to lay His claims upon us, He dominates our lives. He has authority over us, precocious. You are not right down to true secret of Jesus, with your life and mine. Some theologians these days urge us to rest. Therefore on this particular day may we try to be like Jesus. A man among men, that the Lord will be pleased with our harvest.

"This is my beloved son in whom I am well pleased. Hear ye him'."

There was special music at both services, in addition to the selections given by the choir. At the morning service Mrs. C. W. Varcoe and Mrs. (Rev.) M. R. Brown sang that beautiful duet, "The Lord is My Shepherd" and in the evening Mrs. Albert Nill sang swith Mrs. Brown a duet, "Forever with the Lord."

Collections for the day amounted to $450.00.

ROSLIN UNITED

Roslin United Church had their anniversary on Sunday with morning and evening services, which were well attended. The Rev. Dr. Baker of Belleville, and the pastor, Rev. W. Flatt took charge of both services.

A mixed choir of singers from the Roslin Presbyterian and United Church furnished special music and led the singing.

The church was prettily decorated and the offering was $87.00.

MILLBROOK UNITED

The special Armistice Day Thanksgiving service, held in the United Church on Sunday morning, was in charge of the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, B.A., B.D., assisted by Rev. Joseph Wilks, and with a large congregation in attendance.

Following the two minutes' silence observed at 11 o'clock, the hymn, "O God our Help in Ages Past," was sung, and Miss Bertha Lang recited Kipling's 'Recessional,' the choir immediately afterward giving this in song, W. H. Coombe taking the tenor obligato. Representing the local Cadet Corps, Jack Stinson recited, "In Flander's Fields," and Rev. Mr. Jones preached briefly upon "The Light of the Cross."

Contrasting the red light of Mars, and what it stands for of cruelty, destruction, and devastation, with the light that falls from Calvary, the speaker showed that the Prince of Peace, through His kingdom, stands for love of justice, good will, brotherly love, and self sacrifice. Eventually these will wipe out the greed of gain, envy, oppression, hypocrisy, hate, revenge, and waste which are the motives actuated by the god of war.

"The methods of the Prince of Peace are right, and the methods of Mars are wrong, and to attempt to settle the grievances and disputes of nations by destructive warfare is foolish. It is really world peace, or world destruction. Because of the Light of the Cross we have pure homes, schools, churches, law courts, national honor and racial brotherhood. No one can tell of the sacrifice made for the freedom of the world by the thousands who died in the great war, and by the thousands who suffer in silence and for whom there is no armistice.

"The price paid for freedom was incalculable, and what is the gain? No one can say, but it is nevertheless very tangible. 'It is God who giveth the victory, and maketh wars to cease unto the ends of the earth.' Let us talk peace, practice peace, work for peace, and thus make for the strengthening of an enduring brotherhood."

Immediately after the benediction the choir sang softly, "Give Peace in the World Alway," and adjournment was made to the Soldiers' Memorial in the Town Hall square, where an impressive service was held, the handsome wreath, purchased by the church, being deposited at the base of the Cenotaph by Lieutenant Walter Leigh Rayfield, V. C., of Pontypool, who was present by request to perform this ceremony. With the other veterans, who had gathered on the green with the pastor, and the members of the church session, Lieutenant Rayfield stood at salute after placing the wreath in position, paying silent tribute to those whom it commemorated as having paid the supreme sacrifice overseas; the hymn, "Rock of Ages" was sung, followed by prayer by Rev. Mr. Jones, the large gathering joining in repeating the Lord's Prayer. G.E. Burnham sounded the 'Last Post,' and the benediction was pronounced.

A wreath, provided by the Women's Institute, had been placed in position in front of the Cenotaph previous to the service on Sunday morning, and wreaths of evergreen, intertwined with red poppies, also gave evidence of loving interest by some who have friends listed on its 'honor roll.'

Lieutenant Rayfield, who deposited the wreath for the church on Sunday morning, won his Victoria Cross at the battle of Arras, in 1918; and it probably came as a surprise to many of those present that Durham County has the high honor of having one of the eleven soldiers in all Canada who have the distinction of having earned this coveted decoration during the great war.

TRENT RIVER UNITED

Rev. W. R. Archer conducted the Thanksgiving services at the United Church on Sunday, November 11. Previous to the sermon, Rev. Mr. Archer requested that the hymn, "Unto the hills around, do I lift up" be sung. Psalms 124 and 125 were read in concert, after which the pastor spoke a few words to the boys and girls, of incidents relating to pre-war days, afterwards choosing his text from Luke 16: 4, "How much owest thou." The first Thanksgiving Day has never gone out of fashion, the genesis of institutions or old things are interesting to us. The minister referred to the large crowd in Mexico watching an ox team, the same as a large crowd watching a ball game. Things out-of-date are superceded by things up-to-date. Long ago people used hieroglyphics for writing. The Chinese of to-day use some forms of the crude drawings. Jesus lives in men's hearts and homes just as He did in olden times. We should count our blessings one by one, note the wonderful things that have happened—in chemistry for instance—If it wasn't for the abundant harvest what would we do? It becomes us to realize as we look about that God, in His wisdom, is doing wonderful things for us—Canada, with all its privileges, people, life, health and strength—we ought to feel thankful. Are we grateful to Almighty God for health and happiness? We should show forth in every way all the gratitude we can. Our spirituality is not what it ought to be. Our dear ones are with us still, but are we thankful for it? The minister closed with the remarks, "I will repay my vow to the Lord." It's quite easy, under circumstances to make vows. We should look at ourselves and ask "Are we paying our vows," particularly when we sit down to our Thanksgiving Day dinner. We must not forget our Silent Partner who has contributed to these things. In referring to Armistice Day the ministerspoke of what a debt we owe to those who gave their lives for us. We have lost ground spiritually in the first decade after the war.

OMEMEE UNITED

Trinity United Church was filled almost to capacity on Sunday morning when along with a Special Thanksgiving service, the Anglican and Presbyterian congregations joined with the United in commemorating the tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, the great war veterans paraded in a body and occupied the centre front pews. The church was fittingly decorated with flags, poppies and chrysanthemums. The service commenced at the usual hour of 10.30 o'clock, and was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard, assisted by Rev. Mr. Wilkie, of Toronto, who was filling the pulpit in the Pre byterian church. After the opening hymn, "O God, our help in ages past," and the responsive psalm followed by the "Gloria" prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Wilkie. An appropriate anthem for the national holiday was given by the choir entitled "Lord, God, we worship Thee," with bowed heads the congregation stood and observed the two minutes' silence, which was followed by a fitting prayer by the pastor, and a short talk on the significance of the two minutes' silence and brief reference to the sacrifice of the glorious dead. He then called upon Mr. P. Skitch, who gave Kipling's Recessional, "Lest we Forget."

Taking his text from John 12:24, "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit," the Rev. Mr. Blanchard, delivered an excellent address.

At the evening service, the attendance was almost as large. Two anthems entitled, "O, For a Thousand Tongues to Sing" and "Praise the Lord" were given by the choir, also a vocal selection "The Broken Pinion" was well given by Miss Mary Lowe and "Give Thanks to God" by Mr. Skitch. The theme for the evening service was taken from Ecclesiastes 11, 1—"Cast thy bread upon the waters for thou shalt find it after many days," and was well received.

HOLY TRINITY (ANGLICAN) CHURCH
Haultain.

The services held at the Holy Trinity Church, Haultain, on Sunday, November 11, was of a special nature, the service being a memorial in character Flowers on the altar were donated in loving memory of Lang Thompson.

In his address, Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly took as his text, "John 15: 13, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

The speaker said, "Our thoughts to-day are focused on the signing of the Armistice. It is impossible not to take into consideration the war with its horrors, its countless examples of heroism and the voluntary laying down of life on behalf of mankind. After ten years of peace we must not forget the sacrifices made, while we must strive to forgive. Forgiveness is one foundation upon which may be based the hope for international peace. Why were the sacrifices made? There were three reasons which prompted the young men to offer themselves.

First, they gave their lives to maintain justice. Human justice had been violated, and the question arose, 'Were the nations of the world to live peaceably, or under the rule of a ruthless tyrant'? So our loved ones left to fight for the principle of justice, and as a result to find as their final resting place, a hallowed stretch of ground in a foreign land.

Men flew to the colours for love of King and country. They were imbued with a deep sense of patriotism. The safety and welfare of the British Empire hung in the balance.

They died for peace. They hoped that their sacrifice would result in an everlasting peace among the nations. Man is a peace-loving being. He knows that war does not bring advance, but rather causes detraction.

Our duty as those left behind is to grasp the torch handed to us by the flower of our young manhood, and do our little bit for the ideals and principles for which they died.

MARMORA UNITED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Nov. 14.—Stewardship, and not mere service, was the keynote of the sermon preached in Marmora United Church on Sunday evening, by the Rev. J. S. Harrington, of Toronto, secretary of the Upper Canada Bible Society. A large congregation listened attentively to his stirring appeal for consideration of the work of the Society. His text was 1 Cor. 4: 1—"Let a man so account of us as of the ministers of Christ and stewards of the mysteries of God."

Early in his sermon Rev. Harrington showed through the parable of the talents that the unfaithful servant was condemned, not because of his service, but rather because of his neglect of stewardship. We are not owners, he pointed out, of the things God has given us, but stewards. We have felt we were servants of God, but we have never felt our stewardship to the same extent. We have not finished the edifice of Christian living if we stopped at service. Having laid the foundation on Christ Jesus the question was 'How far have we built upon it'? The Bible Society gives us the chance to be stewards of the mysteries of God. After showing the possibility which lay before everyone to do missionary work in a land they may never visit and among people whom they consequently would never see by sending the Scriptures to them in their own language. Rev. Harrington drew two pictures for his hearers. He spoke of seeing the monument in London, England to William Tyndall, who caused the first Bible to be translated into English. This translation was not printed on English soil, but on what is now a part of Germany. When put to death because of his work, he prayed that the Lord might open the King of England's eyes. No prayer was more answered for that same king issued a declaration that in every church a Bible translated in the English tongue be chained to the lectern.

"There is nothing which takes the place of the Bible in other than Christian races or has been so widely distributed," declared the preacher. In presenting the second picture, Rev. Harrington told of visiting a Portugese colony in Southern China which is named Macau. Here a great fort was erected as a Portugese outpost. Macau however has an interesting cemetery which was for the burial of Christian people who died in China. At the back of the cemetery there is a certain flat stone beneath which lies all that is mortal of Robert Morrison. Nearby a similar stone marks the burial place of Morrison's wife, while their child is also buried near. Morrison commenced the translation of the Bible into Chinese, the task being completed by another named Millen. "We may do for other people what William Tyndall did for us and as is suggested by the verse following the text, "It is required in stewards that a man be found faithful." was the concluding reminder of a well-pointed sermon. In the afternoon, Rev. Harrington preached also in the interests of the Society at Holy Trinity Church, basing his remarks on Paul's words to Timothy, "The word of God is not bound."

TRINITY UNITED, MADOC

Armistice Day services were held in Trinity United Church on Sunday morning, with the Sunday school assembling a little earlier than usual in order to dismiss earlier.

Beginning five minutes earlier, the morning service began with "O Canada," followed by the two minutes' silence at eleven o'clock, after which the Memorial Prayer was joined in with full hearts. The hymn, "O God of Bethel, by Whose Hands," and Psalm 147 responsively was followed by a reading from Rev. 22, of the "Multitude which no man can number" and the Armistice Day prayer.

Mrs. Bert Bailey, as soloist sang very effectively and appropriately, "O What Would I do with My Sorrow?" The Thanksgiving hymn, "We plough the field and scatter" followed, after which Rev. G. W. Rivers took as his text, Matt. 10:39—and the theme, "Remembrance, Rejoicing and Patriotism—remembring the glorious dead; rejoicing that we have peace within our borders, and for the Pact of Paris as a wonderful development from the reaction of the war; patriotism, in supporting the aim and work of the League of Nations, and the Pact of Paris, in which Canada joins."

Rev. Mr. Rivers gave much of the preamble of the Pact of Paris and asked the congregation to join by standing, and give silent assent to the terms of the Pact.

The hymn, Kipling's Recessional, "Lest we forget" followed by the National Anthem and the Benediction, brought the beautifully solemn service to a close.

MILLBROOK UNITED

Rev. Dr. George Pringle, who has spent the past eight years as a marine missionary, visiting the lumber camps on the many islands along the Pacific coast of British Columbia, gave a very interesting address in the United Church on Sunday evening, the large congregation being both inspired and instructed by the information supplied, and the informal but heart to heart manner in which it was given.

Dr. Pringle stated that he is on a "get-acquainted" trip, while on this vacation from his missionary labors in the far west, his address on Sunday evening being the third for that day: Brighton in the morning, and Garden Hill in the afternoon, having been the two other congregations visited. He was, however, deriving great pleasure in meeting the ministers and church workers in Ontario.

Coming east this fall, the doctor had made his first train journey in eight years, since all his missionary work is done by boat, and his "parish" is the 7,000 miles of crooked coast line, with from 45 to 75 points of call among the 50,000 islands in this long stretch from Vancouver Island north to Alaska; "There is nothing like it anywhere else in the world."

After paying a sincere tribute to Rev. Joseph Wilks, " a saint of God who lifted us by his prayer until we sat together in heavenly places with Christ Jesus," the speaker went on to give a brief outline of his life, claiming that he is a "true blue" Presbyterian, since his ancestry in Scotland, running back for three hundred and fifty years, have always been of that faith, and one Pringle in the early days of the family history had died a martyr's death for his fidelity to his religious belief.

Dr. Pringle is the youngest of a family of ten children, his eldest brother, Dr. John Pringle, being well known for the fine service he has rendered in the cause of Christ's Kingdom in Canada. He paid a fine tribute to the debt owed to his mother for her splendid teaching and example, and also referred to the devotion to Christ exemplified in the lives of two of his sisters, one of whom is the wife of a missionary in China; and the other a worker in the far north, near the head of the Yukon River.

Went to Yukon

It is twenty-eight years since Dr. Pringle left Ontario, going first to the Yukon, in the days of the gold rush, and spending nine years there as a missionary among the miners travelling by dog train along the creeks and valleys and holding services in the log cabins, or whatever buildings the country afforded in these isolated districts. "There is no sacrifice; the way to get the most zest out of life is by following the teachings of Jesus, giving of yourself for your fellowmen; you get more real value right now, reaping a thousandfold here and hereafter."

After serving overseas, enlisting in the first place with the Cameron Highlanders, and remaining on active service until the close of the war, Dr. Pringle was demobilized in Edinburgh, and later offered the post of missionary in the Presbyterian Loggers' Mission along the Pacific coast. In a little three-roomed house on one of the islands, his wife and family live. Dr. Pringle himself having to be absent much of the year on his boat trips, visiting his scattered flock. A strong plea was made for better homes for the missionaries' wives, the speaker stating that his wife is a considerable distance from a neighbor; has no conveniences in her house; no doctor nor nurse within many miles; no opportunity for the cultural advantages of music, books, or art, except in the very limited manner in which these latter may be brought into the little home.

At first the doctor encountered considerable opposition from the loggers who would not come to hear him, and had really put up an intangible, but very real sign, "No ministers wanted"; he was indeed about ready to quit, and in discouragement had actually written out his resignation, when at one point of call, after an address when he told a Yukon experience, the word went round, "He isn't a bit like a preacher, better come out and hear him"; from that time a change was manifested and he has continued in the work ever since. A smile went round the congregation on Sunday evening as he told of tearing up the letter with his resignation. "three-cent stamp and all-Scotch, you know" —and his insistent declaration that "God has no use for a quitter."

Five Boats

There are five boats, and three hospitals now maintained by the United Church Marine Mission, and Dr. Pringle said he has 66 free lending libraries, with 7,000 books in them; he has also 500 children on "an unorthodox cradle roll"; when the children are five years old they give them a book on the Bible, and to the boys a box of crayons; the girls used to get a yard of hair ribbon, but since the "bobbing" craze has struck there, too, they now give them handkerchiefs instead. Sunday School papers are sent by post from Vancouver, "for one way of winning entrance to the parents' hearts is by means of the children. The congregations of Old Ontario are the backbone of this whole work."

A solo, "Grateful, O Lord," was sung by Mrs. G. W. Sayles previous to the sermon, and the closing hymn was one of consecration, "Take My Life and Let It Be"; Dr. Pringle pronouncing the Benediction.

WARSAW, Nov. 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Sunday, Rev. S. S. Weaver gave an earnest sermon on "The half was not told me," 1 Kings 10, 7. His plea was all for Jesus, that people should dedicate their lives to Him. No good in mere good works, mere religion, wealth or anything or anyone, except Jesus.

Three young girls sang "Can a Little Child," and Pastor Eikaner assisted at the service.

The Baptist and Anglican congregations gathered a few minutes before eleven on Sunday morning and observed the two minutes' silence. The Presbyterian and United Church Sunday schools, each pupil carrying a maple leaf, marched to the monument shortly before eleven o'clock; the former led by Dr. Munro and the latter by James Hawthorne and Robert Somers. The two schools met just before the monument. The National Anthem was sung and the two minutes' silence was observed, after which Dr. Munro gave a short address, reminding those present that man's greed or selfishness was the cause of the war, and giving honor to those who had given their lives for us. He then pronounced the Benediction, and all paraded around the monument, each one in passing dropping a maple leaf.

Armistice Program Given

On Friday, the pupils in Warsaw school had an Armistice Day program. The two minutes' silence was observed by the pupils, and Dr. Munro gave a talk to the pupils, emphasizing the great evils of selfishness and jealousy, showing them that the petty acts of selfishness in home and school were of the same spirit as those which caused the Great War, which has really done no good.

The pupils sang "The Maple Leaf" and other patriotic songs, and gave some recitations; among them was one by Mrs. Calder, a former resident of Warsaw.

AT LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—Armistice Day in Lakefield was marked by a dignified celebration, as a commemoration of those whose lives paid the price of victory and more especially the group who called Lakefield "home." This is the second year that the Legion have arranged a celebration, and in both occasions they received hearty support from the citizens.

The weather which had been cloudy and threatening, cleared and through the clouds the bright sunshine which lasted throughout the afternoon just as the dawn of peace brought light to the war-darkened world.

The parade formed on the public school grounds and proceeded to the village square, going north on Chippewa avenue to Strickland street, and then west to Queen street and down to the Square. The line of march was lined with scores of cars and hundreds of people, who in an orderly reverent manner paid silent tribute to the deathless memory of the battle glory of Lakefield. There are occasions when silence is more impressive than speech, and this was one of those occasions.

At the head of the parade marched Comrade Thomas Cunningham carrying the Union Jack, the flag for which more than thirty of Lakefield's sons gave up their lives, and nearly one hundred and fifty risked their all in France and Flanders.

The Citizens' Band followed the flag, wearing their trim uniforms and playing with deep feeling suitable music. Then came the Guard of Honor in charge of Comrade Lawrence J. Charlton, and consisting of Comrades W. Adamson, A. Barker, D. Sullivan and E. Tighe. Then the members of Lakefield Post No. 77 of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, headed by the president, Comrade M. P. Kennedy. Then a detachment of little girls of the public school, followed by the boys of the public school. Even the tiny tots whose fifth birthday is a recent memory marched like veterans, proudly conscious of a personal part in a great service of commemoration. Then the high school Cadet Corps, about forty strong, very smart in their neat uniforms, under Cadet Officers Harry Sherin, Wallace Hendren, Jack Nicholls, Ronald Kemp and Harold Schwark. Then came about fifty boys of The Grove School. The procession marched to the Square, where the temporary cenotaph was set and where the service of commemoration was held. As the program had been printed in the local papers no announcements were made and the schedule was strictly followed, even to the arrival at the cenotaph at the exact time announced.

A hollow square was formed around the cenotaph, with the veterans, the Cadets, The Grove and the public school children. Chair were placed at the east side of the enclosure for the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion, and for the next of kin of the dead soldiers.

The band played "The Maple Leaf" which was followed by the reading of the names on the roll of honor by the secretary, Comrade Kenneth A. Mackenzie, as follows:

Arthur Alred, Frank Armstrong, Dalling Barlee, Edward Bloomfield, Herbert Calberry, Roland Carter, Keith Cumberland, Bruce Edwards, Arthur Frankish, John Halifax, Geoffrey Hilliard, Isaac Hampton, Wilfrid Hull, Maxwell Johnson, Theodore Johnson, Joseph Jamieson, Stanley Kidd, Percy Lemay, Noble Milburn, Johnathan Morris, Sherman Mahood, Herbert Nicholls, Phillip Pattrick, George Rowe, Howard Rowe, William Rowe, Joseph Sabatino, Ira Snelgrove, Herbert J. Stuart, George R. Strickland, R. D. Strickland, C. R. White, Roydon Wilson, Leonard Wingett.

Immediately after the reading of the honor roll, the band played two verses of "Nearer My God to Thee," and as the strains of that beautiful hymn, which is familiar to all, were wafted to the sunlit air and it seemed as if all hearts must be lifted to a higher and nobler service and truly nearer to spiritual things.

The Last Post was sounded by Comrade Allan H. Clark and wreaths were laid upon the cenotaph. Dr. Kennedy deposited the Legion wreath, Mrs. Herbert Stuart that of the Ladies' Auxiliary, and Mrs. W. M. Graham and Mrs. C. L. Harrison the wreath from the Lakefield branch of the Woman's Institute.

Then came the two minutes' silence, fraught with memories of brave men and anxious days and of thanksgiving to God Almighty for peace.

The Reveille was sounded by Comrade Clark and the band played the National Anthem, and the procession re-formed and marched off the Square.

The service was a strong silent argument for the need of a permanent cenotaph, one which will be a perpetual memorial to Lakefield's soldier dead and to the service of the men who returned and are now numbered among our useful citizens. This should be a matter of personal responsibility to each and every citizen, not only of the village, but of the district, for neither of our neighboring townships have commemorated their dead and the responsibility is one which could be shared by all three and with results which would remain for all time a memorial in keeping with our honorable history.

The omission of the name of Osborne Montgomery from the bronze tablet in the Hall is regrettable, but entirely inadvertent and a mistake which can and must be rectified in the event of a proper memorial being erected. Osborne Montgomery enlisted in Lakefield in 1914, and went overseas with the 2nd Battalion, 1st Canadian Division. He was reported missing after the Battle of St. Julien, in April, 1915, and was later reported killed in action.

The public school contingent was in charge of Comrade Charles G. Stenner of the original Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, one of the few survivors of the famous corps, which is justly famous in the annals of Canada's war history.

Among the interested spectators were Ben Audlanak and Sam Pudlutta, the two little Eskimo boys who are being educated at The Grove. Observant and orderly, the two little fellows apparently enjoyed the spectacle immensely.

AT STIRLING

STIRLING, Nov. 14 (Examiner Correspondence).—The committee in charge of the development of what has become a beauty spot in the centre of the village, having completed their work, inaugurated a new service on Sunday at noon, when several hundred people assembled at the plot where the cenotaph stands and listened to an interesting program in which the different clergymen of the village had a part. Thomas Montgomery, reeve of the village, called the meeting to order and announced the following program: Prayer, by Rev. Mr. Rowland of St. Paul's United Church; address by Rev. Father Farrell, St. James' Roman Catholic Church; hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," announced by Rev. A. N. Reid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, the singing of which was accompanied by the Stirling band; prayer by Rev. Mr. Byers, of St. John's Anglican Church; silence for two minutes; sounding of the Last Post by Ned Potts; placing of a large wreath at the foot of the cenotaph by Mrs. Bissonnette and Mrs. George Whitty, two of the mothers of sons who made the supreme sacrifice; Benediction by Rev. Mr. Byers; National Anthem by the band finished the interesting solemn service.

on

THURSDAY EVENING NOV. 15TH

At 8.15 P.M.

Jeannette Christine (Soprano)

Glanville Davies (Baritone)

Seldom does such a group of finished artists visit Peterborough. The four Cambrian Concert Co. headliners are known on two continents, and present one of their charming concerts in St. Paul's Church, under the auspices of the Choir.

Undoubtedly one of the finest aggregations of musicians to visit this city in many years, past or to come. The church is not nearly large enough to contain the crowd that should greet these accomplished artists.

JEANNETTE CHRISTINE

COMMUNITY MUSEUMS.

The gift by Sir Robert Borden of the house in which his father was born at Grand Pre to serve as a museum is commended by the Brockville Recorder and Times as one which might well be duplicated in other parts of the Dominion which have historical associations.

This brings to mind the fact that Peterborough's museum was once housed in a historic building in Inverlea Park that was finally torn down, and the museum is now located in the Public Library, where it is visited by only a very small percentage of the city's population.

Whether its original site was not the most suitable location for such an institution is a question that need not be raised now, but Sir Robert Borden's gift and the interest it has created in the subject of community museums should serve to concentrate more attention upon the local museum and its contents.

There is much of interest on display there; many reminders of the early history of this district and of Canada generally, and it seems a pity that the museum is not more often visited.

The Brockville Recorder and Times declares that such institutions are a necessity, but there is probably a surprisingly percentage of Peterborough people who will learn for the first time from this article that this city possesses a museum.

THE NAMES ON THE MEMORIAL.

It is possible that mistakes have occurred in the preparation of the honor roll of the war dead of the city and county appearing on the newly erected war memorial, although every effort was exerted by the committee to have the list as complete and accurate as possible.

Such mistakes—if there have been any—cannot with fairness be charged against the committee.

The list was published half a dozen times by The Examiner, and the request was repeatedly made that friends and relatives of Peterborough soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice should report at once any omissions or errors noticed in the list.

Many citizens responded to the appeal, and the list was revised several times in accordance with the information received.

If at this late date and in spite of the frequent opportunities that were given of having corrections made it is discovered that there are still some errors in the list, the committee cannot be blamed.

The great difficulty of arriving at a complete and fully accurate honor roll can be appreciated by the public when it is recalled that numerous soldiers who had lived in Peterborough and enlisted here had no relatives in this country and consequently no one here was officially notified of their death in action.

NOT A ONE-DAY DUTY.

It is well to remember as Armistice Day of 1928 drops back into the past that our debt to the men who fought is not discharged by the mere exchanging of a coin for a symbolic poppy and the wearing of the latter for a few hours.

The war is not yet over for some of the ex-service men, who are still suffering because of their experiences.

There is much that has yet to be adjusted; there are cases of distress that must be relieved; there are injustices in regard to pensions that must be corrected; there is not in all cases that consideration for war veterans that should be freely given them.

We can best honor the memory of the dead by caring for their comrades who were spared to come back, and many of whom have found the struggle for existence in the land for which they fought almost as bitter as their war service.

What we owe to the men of Canada's army cannot be paid by a little sentiment on Armistice Day and neglect during the rest of the year.

Only by extending a helping hand wherever possible, by standing behind such organization as the Canadian Legion, and by insisting upon justice for returned men, can we begin to repay them for their war-time suffering.

THE WOLF MENACE.

Hunters returning from the Apsley district confirm the stories of the activities of wolves among the deer, and declare that if steps are not taken to destroy the wolf pack that section of Ontario will soon be hopeless as a deer-hunting country.

According to local men who have been investigating the conditions, the deer are being constantly harried by the wolves.

At present they can escape by taking to the water, but soon the lakes will be frozen and the snow deep in the woods, and then the pack will have their quarry at their mercy.

The operations of the wolves extend almost into the village of Apsley itself, and the four-legged hunters seem unusually numerous and audacious.

The feeling among residents of the district, as well as among city sportsmen who have been hunting there, is that the time has arrived for the Provincial Department of Game and Fisheries to come to the assistance of the people of the Apsley district in exterminating this menace, which threatens to destroy completely the hunting possibilities of that region.

In fact, The Examiner understands that a petition is being prepared to be forwarded to the department pointing out the conditions and appealing for assistance.

A wolf hunt on a large scale would seem to be a necessity if the supply of deer and the farmers' flocks are to be preserved.

ARMS AND THE POLICE.

Chief Justice Meredith's strictures on the use of firearms by the police in stopping criminals has created a good deal of comment, some for and some against.

The legal position seems to be quite clear. A policeman has no right to shoot a man unless in danger of his own life at the hands of the criminal.

One of the difficulties of the problem is that when a police officer has an encounter with a burglar in the dark, it is hard to tell when his life is threatened or not. A mere gesure on the part of a man caught robbing a house might be mistaken for an attempt to draw a gun, and a policeman would be absolved from blame if he stated that he thought the criminal meant to shoot.

In nearly every country in the world the police carry swords or firearms. Probably only in Great Britain are the police unarmed. The only weapon they carry is a "truncheon," or a "billy," which can only be used at close quarters to deal a recalcitrant prisoner a thump on the head to keep him in subjection.

The result of that is that armed criminals are rare in Great Britain. There are not only fewer criminals, but fewer policemen are injured in the course of their duty than anywhere else. When a policeman surprises a wrongdoer he does not expect to have to face a gun, but merely to be prepared to engage in a foot race with the fugitive.

On this side of the Atlantic the gun is too much in common use for policemen to be without one. Gun begets gun, and the result of an armed criminality is armed defence force.

Unless a disarmament conference could be held between the gunmen and the police, unless they agreed to a permanent truce, the shooting of policemen, the shooting of burglars and holdup men and shooting of innocent citizens seems inevitable.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

CANADA AND CANADIANS.

Although Viscount Willingdon was speaking jocularly, there is real food for thought in His Excellency's suggestion that Canadians should know a great deal more about their own country than they do. Canada is a land of enormous distances, it is true. Travelling accommodations, however, are of the best, whether one goes by steamer, train, automobile or airplane. Every Canadian who can, should visit all parts of his country. The more he travels, the greater will be his national pride.

There is one important thing that we must do in order to encourage Canadian travel by Canadians and that is to build a modern highway from Halifax to Vancouver. This project has been discussed for several years and is to be brought up in Parliament at the next session, having been favorably passed upon at the recent convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association. In Ontario and Quebec, of course, and to a certain extent, elsewhere, much of the proposed trans-continental highway is already in operation. The task would be that of hooking up the present links, and then throwing this super-road across the prairies and mountain country. It can be done; there isn't any doubt about that. And when it is done, Canada will have an asset that will pay for itself many times over, not only through the enormous additional attraction it will provide for tourists, but as a means of making Canadians better acquainted with their own wonderful land.

It seems a pity that such a comparatively small percentage of the population has the opportunity, financial and otherwise, of inspecting the broad reaches of the Dominion, the great centres of the East and the fine cities of the West; of inspecting the mines of Northern Ontario and Northern Quebec; the fruit orchards of British Columbia, the grain fields of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and the riches and the gorgeous scenery of the Provinces down by the Atlantic. Even in Ontario, many thousands of Ontario dwellers have not had the opportunity of viewing their Federal capital, with all its impressive features.

In many cases, too, this failure to view the widespread glories of Canada is not based upon lack of funds, but on lack of interest. To many persons it has probably never occurred that there are scores of things in their own land eminently worth while seeing. Niagara Falls is a case in point. It is one of the greater wonders of the earth. People of every race travel thousands of miles to watch the tumbling waters of the cataract. What percentage of Canadians have seen it? The answer might be interesting.

The Star would like to see the Canadian Government carry on a definite campaign for the purpose of making Canada better known to Canadians. The railways and the steamship companies will naturally be delighted to co-operate; they have already done much in this way on their own account. Special excursions should be run to Ottawa from various parts of the country. Ontario people should be induced to visit Quebec and the Maritimes one year and Manitoba and Saskatchewan another, with Alberta and British Columbia for a third outing. The same idea could be applied to other parts of the country, with suitable variations.

One of the most important results that would follow a movement of this kind would be found in the better understanding created. Get to know the other man and your prejudices usually disappear. Let all parts of Canada get to know each other better.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

We are ready and waiting for announcements from municipal candidates.

Balmy Beach football club have doubtless been puzzled ever since Monday to think of some reason why they should be thankful.

Peterborough ex-service men can do much to help comrades who may be in distress by giving their support to the Canadian Legion.

President-elect Hoover is to pay a visit to South America, which, it must be admitted, is a better method of cultivating friendship there than sending the marines.

A Detroit slayer has been sentenced to life imprisonment within forty-eight hours of his arrest. It is tough to be broke.

As the Toronto Star will undoubtedly remark, those power exportation charges need Sifton.

In commemoration of Armistice Day The Peterborough Examiner on Saturday issued an excellently gotten up and handsomely illustrated 48-page edition. Some 16 pages were devoted to pictures of Peterborough's young soldiers who served in the Great War, and stories of the fateful four years of fighting, with messages from those prominent in patriotic work, make the issue a valuable souvenir. The Examiner is to be congratulated on its enterprise.—The Globe.

LETTER OF THANKS

I beg to tender sincere thanks on behalf of the Officers and Members of Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion; to the Officer Commanding Peterborough Rangers, Bandmaster and Members of the Band; also the Mayor and Aldermen and Civic bodies; to The Examiner for their splendid Armistice Number; the Police and Fire Department; Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion, Chapters of the I.O.D.E., Women's Council, the churches and the speakers, Major Park, soloist, the Male Voice Choir, All Saints' Choir, all returned men and ex-service men and militia who paraded, the Scout Masters and Boy Scouts, and all fraternal organization; all who contributed to make the 10th anniversary of the Armistice a day fitting for the occasion. Yours very sincerely, J. ABRAHAM, President Branch 52, Canadian Legion.

The Question Box

BOY IMMIGRATION

Q. What type of boy immigration is planned for Canada?

A. What is expected to be one of the most constructive of modern land settlement schemes is embodied in an agreement for the settlement of British boys on the land in Canada, concluded between the British and Canadian governments under the Empire Settlement Act of 1922. The scheme is a further development of the farm training centres for British boys which have already been established under the auspices of several of the provincial governments. Under this scheme, the British and Canadian governments propose jointly to expend a total sum of $5,000,000 over a period of ten years, in the form of recoverable advances, to assist suitable British Youths to take up farming in Canada on their own account.

ASBESTOS.

W. S. J.—Q. What is asbestos?

A. Asbestos is one of the most remarkable minerals known to science and has been known since the earliest time for many thousands of years. The asbestos-producing region of Canada, world-famous because of the quality and quantity of the asbestos it produces, is centred in the Eastern Townships of the Province of Quebec. Within the section there are six producing centres, and in each of these one or more mines are being operated on a considerable scale. This section furnishes about 90 per cent of the world's supply the balance coming from Siberia, Italy, Australia, and Rhodesia, S.A.

A Thought

CHOOSING FRIENDS.

No thoughtful person who has lived to mid-life can ever fail to note the effect upon the character and career of young men or the young women whom they chose as their early companions. Many young men of large promise, of good abilities, or earnest aspirations of generous impulses, have been turned aside from their career, their ardor quenched, their aspirations shorn of wings, their impulses chilled to death by the young women whom they chose to make their companions and friends.

On the other hand, many young men of plain and ordinary gifts, of common earnestness have been led to higher excellence, to nobler manliness, to success of the truest kind by the young women whom they chose as their friends. Young men should know that the whole matter of their success or failure in life, the making of something worthy out of themselves, or the wrecking of al, depends far more than they can know or dream upon the women they chose in early life as their companions, and then upon the woman they take from among these for the inner, sacred, holy place of wife.

COWARD.

Any coward can fight a battle when he's sure of winning; but give me the man who has pluck to fight when he's sure of losing.—George Eliot.

GOD'S MINUTE.

It is good to sing praises unto our God.—Ps. 147:1.

Our Father, for such Thou hast taught us to call Thee, we thank Thee that we may be brought into Thy family through living, loving faith in Jesus Christ, Thy Son and our Elder Brother. And we thank Thee for all that may mean to us. We thank Thee for a Father's love. Keep us ever we pray Thee, within the circle of that love. We thank Thee for the oversight and protection that Thou dost give us day by day. As we go out from the home, go Thou with us, and when we return at eventide may we bring Thee with us to be with us in the breaking of bread and through all the hours of darkness, until morning break and the shadows flee away. Draw all members of the family circle into real fellowship with Thy Son, that we may be cleansed from all sin and may we keep by His power from falling, and may be presented at last faultless before Thy presence with exceeding great joy. Make us to be more tender and thoughtful one of another, and of all our companions. Forgive all display of temper and hasty speech, give us the love that suffereth long and is kind. Bless with us all the needy and distressed. Bless all mankind. Redeem the world lying in sin, and hasten the coming of Thy Kingdom, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Nov. 14.—Trade on butchers is moving briskly with prospects of a good clean-up. Choice cattle on all classes are a full 25c cwt. higher. Cows are stronger and some heiferish types have sold 50c over last week.

Choice butcher heifers were sold at $9 to $9.50 and an odd fancy weighed up at $10. The best butcher steers brought $9.50 to $10. Medium and common classes are selling well to a good demand.

Choice butcher cows are being sold higher at $7.50 to $8.25, with an odd one at $8.50. Canners and cutters are tending toward higher levels at $4 to $5.

Stockers and feeders also show a good feeling. Stockers are selling from $8 to $8.50, with some better quality higher.

Calves hold steady at $14 to $15 for tops. Grassers sell at $7 to $8. Few finished veal of good weights are in the run.

Lambs are unsettled. Salesmen asking $11.50 for choice and buyers holding out for $11.25. The receipts are not heavy, so the prospects of a better price than last week's close is possible.

Yesterday's hogs sold at $9 f.o.b. selects, with packers bidding $8.75 for yesterday's loadings.

Receipts—Cattle 4,984; calves, 402; hogs, 834; sheep, 3,549.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—(Associated Press).—Argentine reports of probable crop damage by rust did a good deal to hoist the wheat market yesterday. Besides, for the first time in weeks, the United States wheat visible supply showed a decrease. There was also wheat buying to anticipate possibility that the Canadian government crop report last evening would prove bullish.

Final quotations on wheat were firm, ¾c to ⅞c a bushel net higher, with corn ⅝ to ½c to ⅞c up; oats at ¼ to ⅜c to ⅝c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 1⅞c.

Upturns in wheat prices here came after a wavering start that was associated with uncertainty about current unofficial crop estimates from Canada. Then came news from Buenos Aires that too much rain was prevalent in northern Argentina, where cutting of new wheat is almost ready to commence. The Argentine advices were apprehensive that rust would cause crop injury, and meanwhile there were famine reports from Russia which also tended to induce buying. On the other hand, export business yesterday of wheat from North America was of only limited volume, 400,000 bushels.

Highest prices of the day in wheat were reached after announcement that the domestic visible supply of wheat showed a decrease of 323,000 bushels, whereas another increase had been looked for. However, the total is yet 133,921,000 bushels against 90,783,000 bushels last year. Meanwhile, strength displayed by the Winnipeg market gave countenance to reports circulated in some quarters that the official estimate of 1928 wheat production in Canada would favor the bull side of the market. Largely as a consequence, the close here was at almost the day's top level.

Stubborn commission house demand in the face of selling to realize profits carried corn up to the highest prices which March and May deliveries have reached yet this season. Earlier favorable weather throughout the corn belt and liberal arrivals of corn here yesterday had a bearish effect. Country offerings though, were small, and late advices said exporters were bidding direct to country dealers for Illinois corn. Oats followed other cereals upgrade.

Scattered buying of provisions more than offset the influence of lower quotations on hogs.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 14—(Canadian Press)—A feature of the spot cash grain trade here yesterday was the demand for Canadian Western oats and sales of 50,000 bushels were made of No. 2 feed at four cents per bushel over the Winnipeg November option, C.I.F. Montreal, and some feed barley. In addition there was a steady demand from the country for car lots of grain and a fair amount of business was done at firm prices.

The trade in spring and winter wheat flour continued fair and values were unchanged.

There was some demand from the United States for Manitoba bran today and sales of a few cars were made at $37.00 per ton, delivered at Boston. The local trade was active and firm. The inquiry for standard grades of rolled oats was moderate and prices were unchanged.

Theb utter trade was moderately active and values were well maintained. Receipts were 279 packages.

The local and foreign demand for cheese showed a decided improvement and a large volume of business was transacted. Receipts were 3,527 boxes.

An active business was done in eggs and prices for fresh and storage grades were firm. Receipts were 1,092 cases.

Imported beans were steady at $5.25 per bushel, and Canadian beans were quoted at $4.85 to $4.90 per bushel, ex-store.

A good trade was done in potatoes and values were firm. New Brunswick green mountains sold at 65c per bag of 90 lbs., in bulk, and Prince Edward Island grades from 78 to 83c in bags.

BUTTER AND EGGS

TORONTO, Nov. 14.—Prices for finest creamery butter on the local market yesterday were steady and unchanged. Jobbers reported the market acting quietly and suffering from lack of demands. Post-holiday trading had, therefore, nothing much to offer in the way of new features, except that the market at the moment appears to be steadily extricating itself from the depression of the last few weeks. A small amount of business was transacted on spot for immediate requirements when trading resumed yesterday morning after the long holiday at a price range of from 40½c to 40¾c per lb., with undergrades moving slowly at 1c a pound less.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL MEETS

Lots on Cameron Street Are Set Aside as Township Property.

The North Monaghan council held their regular monthly meeting at the Court House, Peterborough on Monday, November 12, all the members of the council being present. The clerk was instructed to write the Dominion Road Machinery Company and ask what it can give the township by way of an extension for the present eight foot blade for power grader for cutting the comb off the outer side of the road, also what it has by way of a ten foot mould board and blade and what the cost of these blades and extensions would be. The treasurer was instructed to pay the William Hamilton Company the sum of $34.40 for changes and repairs to power grader authorized by the Dominion Road Machinery Company and chargeable against the balance due by the township to the said company. A resolution was passed that the three lots with a frontage of one hundred and seventeen feet on Cameron street being part of lot seventeen, plan forty, be retained by the township for township purposes. That a building be erected there on for storing the power grader. That a building be erected thereon containing a concrete base, a wooden frame and corrugated galvanised iron siding and roof, the building to be approximately 20' x 25' and 10' high.

A communication was read from the city of Peterborough stating that the board of works had given instructions to have the Park street drain south of Lansdowne street cleaned out as it was blocking the drain in the city. A letter was read from William Hopkins, Alexander Avenue, asking whether the clerk had received any reply from the Municipal Railway Board, Toronto, regarding a petition sent in by the residences of the Avenue to have the said Avenue taken over as a public highway. No reply has been received. The clerk was instructed to notify Arthur Reid to remove his garage and boathouse from the public highway or to pay to the township $5.00 a year the annual rent demanded by them. A letter was read from H. M. Robbins Deputy Provincial Secretary, re Mrs. Alice Olliver who has been transferred from the House of Refuge, Lakefield, to the Ontario Hospital, Whitby This matter was referred to Mr. Peck. The treasurer was instructed to pay over to the Peterborough War Memorial Fund the sum of $250.00, being the township grant to the said fund. The following bills were passed for payment: Municipal World, supplies, $1.11; Harry Fowler, 25 yard of gravel, $3.75; Wm. Dunlop, cedar timber, $7.50; Breadsmere, 6 yards gravel, 90c; Wm. Patterson, 6 yards gravel, 90c; Wm. Hamilton Co., rod for grader blade, $4.94; Dawe-Pearson Co., Tax bill, $15.46; Thos. A. Rehill, cement, $1.60; Andrew Kent Padlock, $1.00; Roy Emery, 1 day, damp ground, $3.00; W. D. Wilson, 1 day, team damp ground, $6.00.—Total $46.16.

The meeting then adjourned. The next regular meeting will be held at the Court House Peterborough on Saturday, December 15, at 2.00 o'clock.

SUNSHINE AND SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY.

With the days getting colder, and with the holiday adventurer hankering for a change, glorious tropical Florida and the Gulf Coast offer untold havens of rest. For there is warm sunshine with stretches and stretches of beautiful beaches. It is indeed a paradise where you can fish, hunt, ride, golf and play tennis, and if you like the sparkling waters of the ocean you will bathe, sail and yacht to you heart's content. Florida, too, is the home of music and art where the finest examples of theatres and art galleries abound. There are countless resorts and wonder spots where the tired business man can gain a real recuperation, and if he has never danced before he will learn with zest under the shade of the sheltering palm trees.

BAKER'S COCONUT

COUPLE CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

country when a girl of fifteen. That was fifty-eight years ago. She came directly to this community and has resided here permanently since that time. Three sister and two brothers of Mrs. Abernethy are also resident in Canada. Of these, there were three present: J. J. Mason of Stratford, George Mason of town, and Mrs. John Harris of Toronto. Mrs. E. Boyle of Winnipeg and Mrs. J. White of Stratford were not able to attend.

Mr. Abernethy Born in District.

Mr. Abernethy has one brother and one sister both of town, S. J. Abernethy and Mrs. William Runnels. Mr. Abernethy was born in this district, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Abernethy. In his younger days he worked as a farm laborer, but later took up his residence in town, where his father held the contract for this work, and at the present time, William, his oldest son, is similarly engaged.

Mrs. Abernethy is still enjoying her excellent health and her cheerful disposition seems to reflect wherever she goes. Mr. Abernethy has not been actively engaged for the past few years. Rheumatism has made it necessary for him to lead a quiet life. But his recollections of early days in Campbellford are most interesting. The church where he met Mrs. Abernethy was on the same site as the present United Church. But the former building, while built of brick, was much smaller than the present building. The flood of 1870 was also vividly stamped on his memory. His father at one time had owned and operated a sawmill at Middle Falls. The building was completely wiped out by the swollen river. Incidentally, Middle Falls has also become a thing of the past. They were at a point on the river approximately where the municipal power house and dam stand now. But the Trent waterway development changed the order of things.

Recall Wooden Bridge.

He could not remember when there was no bridge at all across the Trent River at Campbellford, but he was able to recall the old wooden structure which was the first to span the river. Even then, it was not uncommon to see vehicles negotiate a crossing at the ford which was about midway between the town power plant and the Hydro plant just north of the town. In the spring of 1870, the river rose to a dangerous height. There was much property damage, and it was feared that the wooden bridge would be carried away. Men worked desperately against the threatening satastrophe, loading the timbers with tons of stone. Their efforts saved the structure from being completely demolished.

Where the Douglas Garage now stands, was once a prosperous hotel, the Dominion House. The St. Lawrence was then the Phoenix Hotel. At one time there was a hotel where the Bank of Montreal now stands. The days before the coming of the railroad were also fresh in Mr. Abernethy's memory. The old stone school house which stood "about where" the present Public Schools are, was also one of his memories. The building, he said, was somewhat of the same design as the one which at present serves as Town Hall and Gaol. A few board sidewalks in the centre of the village were scarcely sufficient to keep pedestrians from collecting considerable mud or dust on their footwear. There was no bank. "We didn't need one then, because no one had any money," said Mr. Abernethy, with a twinkle in his eye. He also recalled several private enterprises of former days, known to few of the local residents of to-day. Among them were the tin shop owned and operated by the late Mr. Hawley, and the blacksmith shop owned and operated by the late Robert Linton.

Oxen were not strangers to the elderly gentleman who willingly recalled the times gone by. He had driven them himself. There were no buggies and few horses. Ox carts and democrats were the fashionable mode of travel then. Another point of interest was the present fire fighting apparatus. Mr. Abernethy recalled the great Front Street fire that occurred in 1873. At that time practically every building, places of business and private dwellings were of wooden construction. The fire swept through about thirty of these, demolishing everything in its path. It was a proud day for the settlement when "Old Britannia," the hand-operated fire pump, was purchased, and made its appearance in town. Its red and gold paint made it the pride of every citizen, and men were eager to be the ones who operated the long handles on either side of the engine.

Events of Gathering.

Of the direct family of Mr. and Mrs. Abernethy there are ten children and seventeen grandchildren. Of the eight sons, three served overseas during the Great War. One is now deceased. Of the family, there were present at the golden anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Abernethy, town; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Abernethy, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Abernethy, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Abernethy, town; Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Abernethey, town; Miss Clyta Abernethey, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Rowe, Guelph; Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Abernethy of Killam, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Abernethy also of Alberta and Mrs. J. W. Hoig of East Aurora, N.Y., were not able to attend. One son, Carmen, is deceased.

Among the friends who were guests from town were: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Davidson; Mr. and Mrs. George Mason; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Joyce; Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Sherwin; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bonnie; Mr. and Mrs. James Mtson; Mr. and Mrs. William O'Connor; rs James O'Connor; Mr. John Beatty; Mr. and Mrs. William Jordan; Miss Lena Jordan; Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Varcoe; Mrs. Peter Shaper and Miss Ada Shaper; the Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Tait; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Frederick; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palliser; Mr. and Mrs. William Runnels; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bibby.

ations in the production of cars, so that they will likely be much cheaper sometime in the future.

Methods of controlling the direction of radio have been found out, and these radio beams are now in use between Canada and Britain and between Britain and Australia. From two hundred to three hundred words a minute can be sent. They are directed for part of the day over Europe and Asia and for the remainder across America, because darkness is better than light for broadcasting.

Radio telephony and television are now in process of development. Motion picture broadcasting may begin at no distant date.

Advances have been made in other sciences, such as biology, also The pineapple growers of Hawaii have discovered that they can stimulate plant growth by placing paper over the young plants. Black has been found to be more serviceable than white.

Sick Stomach Teaches Her a Good Lesson

Miss Jeanne Ginsberg, Bronx, N. Y., writes: "I had become accustomed to arising each day with a heavy head, dizzy and a bad taste in my mouth. My bowels were frequently clogged and constipated. I feel greatly relieved since taking your purely vegetable laxative."

Compliments City.

Mr. J. M. Bennet, M.A., Inspector of Separate Schools, gave an inspiring address. He first complimented the city on the excellence of its schools. He said that he had travelled widely throughout Ontario, and especially in the northern and newer parts where one had various experiences especially with people of many nationalities. Teaching, he declared was the noblest of all the professions in the service of the State and the Lord. It was the chief aid of the Church and State in training citizens. The world does not appreciate the teacher sufficiently. People in commercial life are apt to value others from a purely money standard, which is not the truest or the best one. Teachers are people of ideals higher than those of industrial or business life.

The world at large is changing rapidly politically. Bolshevism and Communism have spread over much of Europe and Asia. Dictators have increased in numbers. Cabinets rule rather than Parliaments. Material progress is great also, but industrialism has destroyed much of the freedom and initiative of the individual. All these things affect the schools. There is too much standardizing in education. Clever pupils are brought to the level of others. Too much conformity to standards has a trend towards mediocrity. It is difficult to provide schools for the many needs of to-day. Let us mould unselfishly and heroically the children to meet the new conditions. Let us improve ourselves to meet these new conditions.

Needs Enthusiasm.

A teacher must have enthusiasm and personality. Enthusiasm is a driving force and no one will grow old who continues to possess it. Teachers with good personality will be good disciplinarians. These different qualities will enthuse children.

According to some worthy critics oral reading, writing, and English are not up to former standards. Let us introduce the children's minds to the best in thought. Too great a proportion of our intellectual food comes from the United States, judging by the magazines for sale in any book store. Canada seems economically a part of the United States. Let us teach Canadian ideals, literature, and history.

Have Pet Theories.

There are too many men who call themselves educationalists, who have pet theories of their own. They have never taught, but they criticize teachers who differ from them in opinions. They would like to direct education. Teachers should use common sense regarding theories. 'Extremes are hateful" in the sight of God. Analyze the theories thrown at us.

Some teachers are merely instructors. Often they work hard, but pupils must be trained as citizens and require training of mind. Schools are for the purpose of training in imagination, thought, and memory. Children must be trained to form opinions and use their own heads. Endeavor to develop their wills, minds, and capacities.

For a nation to exist the people must be free. Propaganda is so much used by selfish interests to sway public opinion. Pupils must, therefore, be trained in judgment and in qualities of self-knowledge, self-reverence, and self-control, which are the basis of character. Train the will to seek the good, the infinite good. A proper training of the will is a moral training. Religion is the greatest factor in the production of character.

The adolescent period is one of the most critical periods. Everything is changing and plastic. The youth must develop self-discipline, self-control, and obedience. He must be dealt with kindly but firmly to guide him to the highest being. Teachers must do their best, inspire to high ideals, and pave the way to the greatness of those who will follow when we are gone.

Mr. Downey Speaks.

R. F. Downey, B.A., gave a paper on "Estimating the Teacher's Work." Mr. Downey said that there were different types of inspectors, but the best type was the one who could mould the poorer sort of teacher and make him efficient. It was quite clear that everyone could not teach school and some who were attempting it would be well advised to seek some other profession. The good teacher presents no problem to an inspector but he is at his wit's end to know what to do with the teacher whose class room presents a scene of disorder and untidiness. Most teachers are of the average kind and so a measuring stick of some kind should be used to check them up. The academic education and professional training are no guarantee that a teacher will be a success in the actual practice of teaching.

The principal of a school should be the real head or centre around which things revolve. He must lead his staff, try to make the weak strong, and be a good guide and example. He shoud have the loyalty of his staff. Incidentally he shoudl be a real citizen of the community and be interested in all matters of public benefit. This should also apply to members of the staff. Each one should be a teacher and a citizen of value to society.

Many Things Responsible.

There are so many things that enter in to make a good teacher. He must have personality which will require good health, physical fitness, a pleasing appearance and an attractive manner. His management will be evidenced in the order and neatness of his room. He must see to the comfort of pupils, arrange good seat work, be tactful, and have ability to make suggestions that will lead to a healthy mental growth. His discipline must not be a repression, but rather a wise leadership. His teaching ability must indicate knowledge of his subject matter, keen interest, and strong desire for progress. By his sympathy he must be able to inspire children to be something worth while. These are some of the more outstanding qualities necessary.

Teachers must remember that they exist for the sake of the children, so in the words of Kipling, "Stand to your work and be wise."

Impressions of Paris."

It is quite impossible to give the public an idea of the charm of Miss M. J. Montgomery's talk on "Impressions of Paris." She spent a large part of last summer in that city and had an excellent opportunity to see Paris. It is a city of lights, with numerous splendid specimens of architecture, long avenues of trees, beautiful parks and boulevards, magnificent churches, wonderful squares, superb statuary, and handsome bridges. It has to be seen to be properly appreciated.

It is a great centre of attraction for all nationalities. It is noted for pleasures of all kinds. The people live chiefly in apartments, but spent much of their time out of doors enjoying the brilliance and beauty. They are very fond of going to cafes, where they smoke, read and sip beverages. The theatres are a great attraction to many. On Sundays all places of amusement are open. The traffic is great night and day. The taxis speed along the crowded streets sometimes to the alarm of their passengers. The people seem to be crowding as much of all kinds of pleasure into their lives as possible and ample facilities are given for this.

Miss Montgomery spoke of visiting a British cemetery. The stately marble stones, the abundance of English roses, the rural surroundings, the peacefulness and quiet, all make it seem such a fitting resting place for the soldiers buried there.

DRINK HOT WATER TO END INDIGESTION

INSTANT RELIEF.

Thousands of unfortunate people suffer almost daily from stomach acidity, gas, sourness and indigestion after eating. If they would start the agreeable practice of taking a glass of hot water containing a teaspoonful or four tables of pure Bisurated Magnesia, they would soon find their stomach so strengthened and improved that they could eat the richest and most satisfying meals without the least symptom of indigestion.

Nearly all digestive troubles are caused by an excess of acid and an insufficient blood supply in the stomach. Food ferments and sours before digestion can take place. A glass of hot water draws the blood to the stomach and Bisurated Magnesia neutralizes the stomach acids and keeps the stomach normal, sweet and healthy and promotes normal painless digestion. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, eas yto take, and can be obtained from any well stocked druggist in either powder or tablet form. Try this today and enjoy your meals in Baker, another amateur who played duty: T. J. Burns, Chaplain, and J. peace.

DESTROYERS COMB SEAS

this later report, the man said that he had been clinging to a timber, and had drifted past a raft which the woman and children were clinging to. He said that the timber moved faster than the raft, and that he passed and lost sight of them.

Story of Suffering.

Another report said that the Wyoming had taken a dead man from a raft, but a later report said that after he was taken aboard the Wyoming's medical staff discovered that his heart was beating faintly.

The complete story of the hardships which the rescued must have endured before they were saved cannot yet be told, for the air and all available radio facilities have been few bits have come through to indicate the sort of thing that must have been general.

One man pulled from a beam to which he was clinging for his life told of floating past a raft on which a woman—and she must have been drenched, for the waves were running high—sat with two children. Search was begun for them but no report of them being found came in.

A message to the Associated Press from Captain Von Thalen of the Berlin told how Carl Schmidt, a third-class passenger from Chicago, was saved after 22 hours in the water, sustained only by a lifebelt in the tossing waves. And yet Schmidt was included in the 23 persons saved by the Berlin of whom Captain Von Thalen reported "all safe and sound."

As the rescue fleet still patrolled the waters off the Virginia coast yesterday in hope of finding more of the castaways, the Navy ordered the dirigible Los Angeles to fly to the scene to offer what assistance it might. The dirigible was being overhauled in its hangar at Lakehurst, N.J., but officers estimated that it ought to be able to reach the position of the Vestris by some time early to-day.

What lingering hope there was that those unrescued yesterday could survive another night was lessened by reports of the weather. Captain Von Thalen radioed the Canadian Press that there were very strong northerly winds with high seas, no sort of weather for men and women and children already weakened by a day and a half in small boats or clinging to wave-washed rafts.

Are you lashed to the wheel of Nervousness?

STOP drinking mealtime beverages which contain two drug-stimulants: tannin and caffeine. Or be ready to pay the price in restlessness, fitful sleep, irritability and taut nerves. Often these afflictions become habitual. Particularly if you are lashed to the wheel of nervousness so relentlessly driven by those powerful drug-stimulants—tannin and caffeine.

Tannin and caffeine are harmful. With you these agents may work fast or slow. But, sooner or later, their poisonous effects are certain, sure!

Drink Postum. There isn't a taut nerve, sleepless hour or headache in it, because Postum is free from all drug-stimulants. A hot mealtime drink, appetizing and full-bodied. Your family will enjoy it regularly every day in the year. Instantly made in the cup, at a cost of about half a cent. There's Postum Cereal, too, made by boiling or percolating twenty minutes. At all grocers', restaurants, your club or on the train. Read Carrie Blanchard's splendid free offer. Mail the coupon.

SCOTCH LINE BAPTIST.

(Examiner Correspondence)

DUNSFORD, Nov. 14.—Rev. C. M. Carew of the regular Baptist Church, of Fenelon Falls, conducted anniversary services in the Scotch Line Baptist Church on Sunday. The front of the church was beautifully decorated with house plants. The local choir, with Mrs. Hazel Thurston as organist, rendered several special selections, which added greatly to the services. Rev. Mr. Fraser, pastor of the Scotch Line Baptist Church, preached in Fenelon Falls in the morning, but was present with Mr. Carew for the [illegible] service.

Young's Point

(Examiner Correspondence)

YOUNG'S POINT, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Parker, of the Lakeview House, is on a visit to Montreal.

Mr. Roland Northey, who was called home owing to the death of his brother, the late Lorne Northey, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Harry Hockaday.

The double funeral of the late Russel Lane and the late Lorne Northey was the largest seen in this district, one hundred and twenty-five automobiles passing through Lakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Boyd, Miss Boyd, Messrs. Robert and Frank Burbidge and Miss Mabel Burbidge, all of Toronto, were the guests of Rev. R. T. C. and Mrs. Dwelly over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Stenner and baby, Douglas, were guests at the home of the latter's parents over the holiday.

Mrs. William Gray, of Lakefield, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lane on Sunday.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WILL PRESENT PLAY

Two Interesting Papers on Thanksgiving Are Heard at Meeting.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Nov. 14.—(Examiner Correspondence)—Mrs. Thomas Graham entertained the members of the Mount Pleasant branch of the Women's Institute at her home on Wednesday afternoon.

The vice-president was in the chair and, by request, conducted the meeting, which opened with the institute ode.

Eight members answered the roll-call, each giving suggestions and demonstration of Christmas gifts, including the giving of a good book and the making of useful articles to the housewife.

During the business hour a discussion was held regarding the preparing of a play to be given in the near future. It was decided to write away for copies, and chose a play. The committee in charge of this are: Mrs. Garnet Shield, Mrs. Ira Lowe and Mrs. George Jamieson.

It was also decided to hold an oyster banquet, the date yet to be decided. Committees in charge of the arrangements of same were: Mrs. Henry Lowes, Miss Finley, and Mrs. H. Gardiner (program), and Mrs. T. Graham, Mrs. G. Shield, and Mrs. G. Jamieson (lunch).

A communication from Dr. Turner, Medical Health Officer, who had inspected the water in town well and found it unfit for use, was given by Mrs. Lowe, asking if the Women's Institute couldn't take some action in the way of having the water in the town well purified and fit for use by the use of new cement cribbing and top. This being a good community work, after some discussion, it was decided to refer the matter to the trustees of the school, that they be asked to give this consideration.

A letter was read from the Department announcing the date of the Central Ontario convention to be held November 27th-29th.

A very interesting program was given. Mrs. Joshua Eggleston gave a very interesting paper on "Thanksgiving."

Miss Finley also gave a splendid paper on "Thanksgiving." Mrs. Henry Lowes gave an interesting idea—how to spend the evenings in the home, and read a paper entitled "Reading Maketh a Full Man."

Mrs. H. Gardiner gave a reading, "Growing Older." Mrs. G. Shields gave an outline of a motor trip from Hamilton to Buffalo.

At the conclusion of the program and before the meeting adjourned, it was decided to commence the meetings at two o'clock owing to the short evenings coming dark so early.

Mrs. Norman Fee and Mrs. Hubert Gardiner assisted the hostess in serving refreshments, at which a social half-hour was spent.

Those present included: Mrs. Hubert Gardiner and Ronald, Mrs. Garnet Shield, Mrs. Rosenburg, Miss Finley, Mrs. Howse, Miss Parrington, Mrs. Richard James, Mrs. Henry Lowes, Mrs. Jennie Best, Mrs. A. E. Best, Mrs. Joshua Eggleston, Mrs. Harry Jamieson, Mrs. T. C. Morden, Mrs. George Jamieson, Mrs. Norman Fee, Mrs. G. McLean, Mrs. T. Graham, Mrs. Frank Fee, and Reginald, Mrs. Ira Lowe.

The two papers given on "Thanksgiving" are as follows:

Thanksgiving.

Miss Finly, in her address, said: "Thanksgiving is the act of expressing our gratitude for favor and mercies, that is, we have received something we did not deserve or merit. When we think of our unworthiness for the many blessings that we have received, we cannot be expressed in words. The poet says:

"Words are poor tools for those who feel
Erring and inexact
They only half express and steal
The lustre from the fact.
We only speak the smallest part
But there will always be
Vast treasures locked within the heart
A vault without a key.

"It is the grand object in life that we cannot know the depth of each other's feelings because we would then lose our individuality. In nature there are no two flowers just alike, even of the same species, so are there no two people exactly alike, but yet all fit in to make the vast whole or unit. Sometimes we get out of sorts and quite wrongly with others because they do not think as we.

"The nation thought well to set apart a day for general Thanksgiving, the time of year chosen being very appropriate. When we look out on the fields in November we cannot help but feel that nature is resting after giving us abundance for our labors. We, who live on the farm, should be very thankful for our position or lot, although we do grumble sometimes. We are a vast body working in co-operation with God. We sow the seed, as you know. He completes it—we reap the benefits and that cannot be calculated because they lead down so many avenues. He expects and wants thankful hearts in return. He was very careful to tell us what he meant, not only to express it to him but be kind and grateful to our neighbor or fellowman. At a harvest Thanksgiving in a city church, where there were sheaves of grain and other farm produce, the clergyman tried to show them how thoughtless and unkind they were and without any sympathy whatever towards the farmer who toiled to give them the necessaries for which they were giving thanks, so in reality there was no thanksgiving, or at least not what it should have been. We can all take the lesson—we forget those on whom we are dependent. Since Armistice day has been associated with Thanksgiving, we feel to a greater extent the significance of it. It has been said, 'One man and God makes an army,' and that is what it was when we think of the hordes of regiments of well-trained men moving in one solid mass — It has been likened to large fields of grain waving by the wind: they were abundantly equipped—spies almost as thick as flies in every disguise going through the different countries.

Encountered Difficulties.

"Just think what those noble men had to encounter that we might have liberty. The stained windows, the monuments, or cenotaphs, in memory of the fallen, make us think only occasionally of the great sacrifice. But there are men and women who are steadily working and planning and praying that nations will have more kindly feeling towards each other and settle disputes in a more civilized and Christian manner. Was this Canada of ours sufficiently great for the terrible sacrifice? It must have been; therefore, great things are expected of us, and especially Thanksgiving, and that must extend to the whole wide world. We know the material greatness, such as the grain fields, the asbestos and nickle, etc., but that is not all—it proved to the world what we are made of—our loyalty to the British Empire and true to the words, 'We'll never let the old Flag fall.'

"In harmony with all this, there must have been humble and contrite hearts, and we still ask,

"Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet.
Lest we forget, Lest we forget."

Mrs. J. Eggleston in her address said "It is nearly three hundred years since the first Thanksgiving Day. Though we have more to be grateful for I think that there are not many of us who feel quite so thankful, as the little handful of people who set apart the first Thanksgiving Day.

"There were not very many of them, just one little village in a big forest land, and by the edge of a great ocean, it is on the North-eastern shores of the United States and is called Plymouth. The people I am telling you about gave it that name when they came to it, nearly two years before they had their first Thanksgiving Day. It was the name of the last town they had seen in England. So you see what a long trip they had in their little vessel called the May-Flower to their new home. You still wonder why they travelled so far, to make new homes for themselves. It was because they wanted to worship God in their own way, that they left England. They were not afraid of the long voyage and all its hardships, for they felt sure they were doing as God wished them to do. They arrived safely too, and built their little village by the sea—the new Plymouth. One of the first buildings they put up was a little log church. The first year was very hard for everybody. The winter was colder than any they had ever known in England, and their houses were small and poorly built. They could not get any letters or news from their friends in England for many months. Food was not scarce, for there was always plenty of game and fish. But it was such a change from their old way of living that many people became ill and in the spring, there were many graves. But the worst thing about the new land was the Indians. These English people were afraid of them and with good reason, too, for they were very fierce and sometimes very cruel. They tried not to let the Indians know how few they were, and even planted grain about the graves in the church yard so that the Indians could not count how many had died. But one of the Indian chiefs was very friendly to the English and kept the other tribes from making war on them, and the second summer they had a great harvest and everything was more comfortable. It was in that autumn just after the grain was gathered that the minister spoke to them one Sunday about having a Thanksgiving Day. 'It seemeth right,' he said, God has granted us peace and plenty. He has blessed us with a dwelling place of peace. He has held back the savage red man from bringing harm to us. Therefore let us appoint a day of Thanksgiving.' After that all the people, even the boys and girls were busy getting ready. The men took their guns and fishing rods and went into the forest and brought home fowl, fish and deer, and perhaps bear meat as well. The boys and girls gathered wild plums and grapes and corn and brought in pumpkins from the gardens, and the women made pies, puddings, cakes and bread and baked the meat and the corn. They had great piles of cakes and rows and rows of pies and loaves of bread and platters of meat, for they all expected company. They had sent word to the Indians near to come and spend Thanksgiving Day with them.

"The Home Makers' Thanksgiving."

"Thanksgiving day, as all true home-makers know, is the official day on which they give thanks to a kind Providence, for blessings temporal and spiritual that they have received during the year. Summer is slowly but surely dying, the evidence is everywhere; trees are dressing themselves in a last blaze of color, the leaves finally dropping, waving as they go a last good bye, gardens, lovely a short while ago, lie prostrate and drooped, mornings waken with cold grey frosts and chilly winds, sunsets are uncertain. A sort of depression takes hold of everything. The harvest carries for us rural people a wealth of thanksgiving for such temporal things as pumpkin pies, jellies, and plump roast chickens served with true country hospitality and especially warm fire-sides by which we can sit, muse and read our papers and for such spiritual things as that peace and contentment which usually fill the farmer's heart, as he is welcomed by a cheery home-maker, who doesn't mind if he hangs his hat under the couch and his boots on the hook. He finds his home a refuge from care and his greatest pleasure with in its walls. This sentiment lodges in the heart of every true home-loving person. Most of us live in a small world; our homes, our neighbors and our farms constitute the universe for us, but in reality our world is just as large as we wish it to be. The duties of home-makers are many and varied. They wash and mend and babies tend and darn and knit for days on end and yet with gay and smiling face their work they do with gentle grace. They consider their work a blessing and greet the labors of each day with cheerfulness that gladdens every one with whom they come in contact. All good home-makers admit they are truly thankful for their full, busy lives and pledge themselves each new Thanksgiving Day to strive even harder in the making of happier and better homes. Thanksgiving Day holds gifts in store."

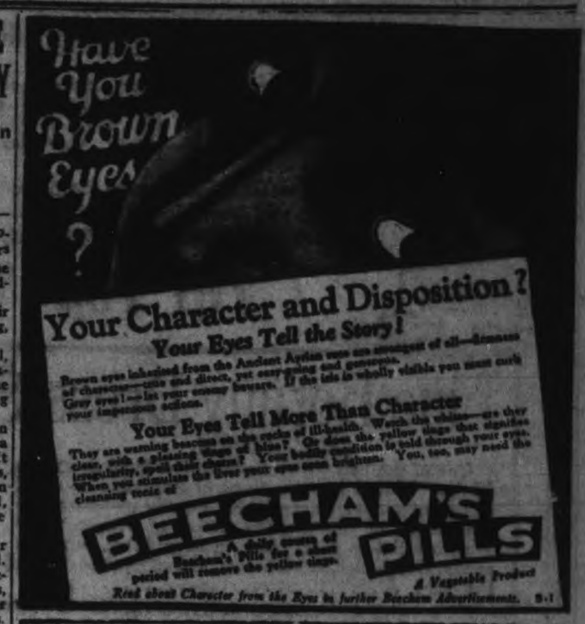
CITY LOSES HUNTER

NEW YORK, Nov. 14—Reuben Lounes has gone back to South Carolina, because they wouldn't let him hunt in Central Park. Only one casualty was reported before police stopped the shooting. A man was treated for a flesh wound in the neck.



Life looks rosy for him

Health worth more than fortune

THE baby to be envied is the one who is born with an inheritance of perfect health, to begin with. And who's lucky enough to have a mother who knows how to build up this fortune.

"Perhaps I'm old-fashioned," she'll say to the doctor who pronounces her child physically 100% at a baby show, "but this health certificate means more to me than all the stock certificates in the world. If my baby grows up strong and well, I'm willing to leave it to him to make a career and fortune for himself.

"Already I'm teaching him the value of regular habits. Regular sleep, regular meals, regular functions. He's never once been off schedule, not even when he was cutting teeth or traveling to the country. I make sure of that by giving him Nujol regularly."

Nujol works so easily and naturally that it won't upset a baby under any conditions. It keeps everything functioning properly. It not only prevents any excess of body poisons (we all have them) from forming but aids in their removal. It is safe and sure. Nujol was perfected by the Nujol Laboratories, 26 Broadway, New York.

Heir to millions

Just try Nujol for your baby. Give it to him regularly for the next three months. See if it doesn't make things much easier for both of you. Certainly it could do no harm — for Nujol contains no drugs or medicine. Your druggist carries it. Be sure you get the genuine. Sold only in sealed packages.

BROKEN

CHAPTER XXXI.

As Chittenham walked away from the flat he made up his mind to one thing. He would ask Sadie to divorce him.

Since the first few days of their marriage it had been a farce. Sadie had no love for him, and he knew that he had never loved her. He would ask her to divorce him, and then, when he was free— He dared think no farther along those lines.

Fortunately he was a wealthy man, and even if Sadie had had no money of her own he could give her everything she wanted in that direction. He did not for one moment believe she would object. She had shown him plainly that she no longer wanted him. Divorce was easily arranged in America, he knew, and he could go back there if it were necessary.

If Julie still loved him . . . In his heart he was sure that she did, and nothing else mattered.

He had promised to lunch with his mother, but in his eagerness he forgot about it, and went straight to the hotel where Sadie was staying.

She was out, and they did not know when she would be back.

Giles left a message asking her to ring him up. Now he had made up his mind to what course he would take he was all eagerness to start upon it. He went back to his rooms to find his mother on the telephone, tearful and pathetic at his neglect.

"Giles, how could you? Your own mother, too! I've been waiting for nearly an hour, and I've got my new frock on, the one I showed you yesterday."

"I'm sorry, dear. I've been worried. I clean forgot."

"Giles, how could you? I suppose you get your absent-mindedness from your father. He was always late when we were going out anywhere! I haven't had any lunch, and I'm famished."

"I'll get a taxi and come round at once."

"If it's boring you—if it's too much trouble—"

"I'll come at once. I can get to you in five minutes." He hung up the receiver to avoid further argument and turned away. "Damn the woman!" he muttered, then was ashamed.

After all, it was his own fault. He was to blame for everything. He had promised to take her out to lunch, and it was unpardonable to have forgotten. He stopped on his way to the house and bought the largest box of his mother's favorite chocolates that he could find.

"It's no use being cross with me," he said as he kissed her. "I said I was sorry, and I am. Smile, and come along. I'm hungry, too. Where would you like to go?"

Mrs. Ardron smiled and sighed together.

"I know it's no use being cross with you. That's how I always felt about your father. I used to make up my mind to be really angry with him, and then he would come in just like you did just now, and I used to let him kiss me instead."

Giles said grimly. "You're sure it was my father and not Rodney's?" He was only teasing her, but she took it seriously.

"I really can't be quite sure! My memory is so bad just lately. But at any rate it was one of them. Giles' you haven't said how you like my new frock."

"Topping!" Giles answered absently. He always thought of his mother as a child—a spoiled, rather sweet child. "You don't look a day over five-and-twenty," he declared not very truthfully. But Mrs. Ardron was pleased; she promptly forgot all about her little vexation and prepared to enjoy herself.

"And tomorrow, I'm giving another little party," she told him delightedly over the luncheon table. "Nothing you would like, but something that is very fashionable just now."

"I know," Giles said bluntly. "You're giving a tea-party to the spooks, aren't you?"

Mrs. Ardron looked suitably shocked. "My darling boy!"

"Well, it's the truth," he insisted. "I can't understand how you women can be so foolish."

"But it's not only us women. There will be men as well."

"The fat Essen, I suppose."

Mrs. Ardron flushed and bit her lip. "And your friend Lombard, and Lawrence Schofield—"

"Then they're all bigger fools than I took them to be," Giles said bluntly.

His mother shivered daintily.

"Sometimes you are positively coarse, Giles," she protested.

"Sometimes it's necessary to call a spade what the navvy called it." Chittenham said gruffly.

Mrs. Ardron sighed and stirred her coffee.

"I don't know what the navvy did call the spade," she said pensively. "But from the tone of your voice I am sure it must have been something perfectly horrid."

Giles laughed.

"Well, never mind! Tell me who else will be at the party."

Mrs. Ardron hesitated.

"Just the usual people—Doris and her friends, and that nice little American, Sadie Barrow."

Her son flushed.

"Oh, so you like her do you?"

"I think she is so original," Mrs. Ardron answered. "I love her cute little way of talking, and her laugh—"

Giles frowned. Sadie's laugh was the one thing that had always got badly on his nerves.

"Doris tells me she is quite rich!" his mother went on. "But then all Americans are rich, aren't they?"

"So tradition tells us."

She leaned over and touched his arm.

"Giles, why don't you get married?"

"Married! Good Lord!"

"Oh, I know you pretend to dislike women, but that's all nonsense. Think how much happier you would be with a wife and a home of your own."

"Good heavens, mother—"

"I should so love a daughter-in-law," Mrs. Ardron went on eagerly, as if she were asking him to buy her a diamond bracelet. "I'm sure we should be the greatest of friends, and, Giles, think how wonderful it would be if you had a son!"

Giles laughed mirthlessly.

"I thought families were out of fashion," he said hardly, and he remembered how plainly Sadie had laid down the law on such matters.

"Besides," he added with an effort, "I can hardly imagine you as a grandmother!"

Mrs. Ardron shivered.

"But we're not called grandmothers nowadays," she said quickly. "I was only thinking last night how I should love to be photographed with a child of yours. There was a photograph in one of the papers yesterday of Mrs. St. Claire Louden and her twin granddaughters."

"Really, mother!" Giles hardly knew whether to laugh or be angry. "It's rather beyond a joke if you seriously suggest that I should get married merely so that you can be photographed with a grandchild! Perhaps you've already decided whom I shall ask to be my wife?"

Mrs. Ardron nodded eagerly. "I thought perhaps—Sadie! I'm sure she likes you. I noticed yesterday how often she looked at you."

"Oh, good Lord!" Giles said again helplessly.

His mother went on eagerly:

"Anglo-American alliances are so fashionable nowadays, and she has money—"

"Which would not interest me in the slightest."

Mrs. Ardron sighed.

"You are quite incorrigible! There is something so thrilling about an engagement. Oh, by the way—you know that Miss Farrow is engaged to Mr. Schofield?"

"Nonsense!"

Mrs. Ardron looked pained.

"You're so brusque, Giles dear! It's perfectly true. I had heard rumors, of course, but only this morning Marco told me that it was all fixed up, and that they are to be married immediately."

There was a little silence. Giles was staring down at his plate.

"You're not very interested," his mother complained.

He roused himself with a start.

"Oh, I am—enormously! Where's that waiter? I want the bill!"

He might have know it, he told himself, as he waited impatiently for his change. It was just the kind of thing Julie would do to show how little she cared. And he was powerless to stop her! She would never listen to him. Nothing he could do or say would be of the least avail.

"I've spoken to you twice, and you haven't answered," his mother complained. "Giles, dear, what is the matter?"

"Nothing. I was thinking. Are you ready?"

Outside the restaurant he put her into a taxi and left her.

"I've got an appointment. I'll ring you in the morning. No, of course there is nothing the matter."

He was impatient to get away; he went back to his hotel because he did not know what else to do; he felt as if the solid earth had suddenly given way beneath his feet, leaving him in chaos. If Julie married Schofield he knew that his whole life would be ruined. Even granted that what his mother had told him was just idle gossip he knew there was foundation for it. Julie herself had said that Schofield was anxious to marry her.

He waited till six o'clock and rang up Julie's flat.

Bim Lennox answered the telephone.

"No, Julie is not in. She rang just now to say she was dining out and not coming home to change. I think she is with Mr. Schofield still."

"You don't know where they are going?"

"I have no idea. I am going out of town myself this evening. Yes, I know I promised you tostay, but I have had a wire from a friend—it's very urgent, or I would not go. I shall come back as soon as possible. I'm so sorry, but I have to catch a train—do please excuse me—" and she was gone.

GREAT CANADIAN MUSICIAN ADDRESSES LOCAL MUSIC CLUB

Dr. MacMillan Discusses Amateur and Professional Points of View in Music.

GIVES ILLUSTRATIONS.

Wide Field of Choice in Matter of Interpretation of Classics, Says Speaker.

"I am often asked by amateurs whether I really think I get more enjoyment out of music than they do. At first sight it would seem one of the most difficult things to answer, but I might venture in reply to ask if a mother thinks anyone else gets more enjoyment out of her children than she does. She has more trouble with them than anyone else; they annoy her more frequently and persistently than they annoy anyone else; if she is reasonably intelligent, she is more alive to their faults than anyone else—but just ask her the question, and see what she says. G. K. Chesterton once remarked that the expression, 'My country, right or wrong' was practically equivalent to saying 'My mother, drunk or sober.' The more we care about a person, the more disturbed we are about his or her faults, and the same thing may be applied to music. There are some things, indeed, which we simply do not trouble to criticize, because they leave us entirely indifferent. But that is not so with the things we love. And the professional musician must never cease to be an amateur, or his critical faculties, far from being sharpened, will be seriously impaired."

The above sentences formed a portion of the address delivered yesterday afternoon in the hall of the Conservatory of Music to the members of the Women's Music Club, by Dr. Ernest MacMillan, principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, speaking on "Amateur and Professional Points of View in Music."

Dr. MacMillan's address was extremely interesting. Speaking with the certainty of a recognized authority, coloring his remarks with little bits of Chesterfieldian humor and using the rather dry, unmodulated tone of voice which seems to be a characteristic of speakers who insert sudden, sly motifs of fun in their serious addresses, he was listened to with intense appreciation by a large audience of women and several men. It was a sincere and whole-hearted expression of pleasure that brought the audience to their feet in a standing vote of thanks at the conclusion of the address.

"I Know What I Like."

Referring to an amateur in music as one who loves music and to the professional as a practitioner of the art, Dr. MacMillan said that " a mere love of music, indulged in without a serious effort to understand something of its true nature, is apt to lead to a vague emotionalism only, while an exclusive interest in the intellectual aspects of the art leads to academicism in its worst sense: the body is all skeleton, shapely, perhaps, but dead.

"There are those who, like the famous Zuleika Dobson of Max Beerbohm, are content with saying: 'I don't know much about music, really, but I know what I like.' I wonder if they do. Far be it from me to minimize the importance of one's instinctive likes and dislikes. But the judgment of a man who can stand before a Bellini Madonna and assert that he prefers Harrison Fisher is a judgment on himself, and does not affect the position of Bellini. The man whose comment on a Beethoven Symphony is that 'it has no tune to it' tells us much about himself, but nothing about Beethoven.

"What is the principle that gives life to a work of art? For my part, I think the indispensable condition is that its creator shall have fallen in love. 'From the heart it has come; to the heart it shall penetrate,' said Beethoven, and this is no maudlin sentimentalizing, but the conviction of a composer who put more real, hard work into the expression of his ideas than perhaps any other. Most composers have been forced, at one time or another, to write what must be frankly regarded as mere pot-boilers; such a practise does a composer little harm, nor does it harm his admirers so long as they are not hypnotized by the great man's name into believing them to be great works of art."

Dr. MacMillan here illustrated his idea of pot-boilers by playing some of the banal music of Beethoven's Variation on "God Save the King." Later, his idea of the "shop ballad" was illustrated by Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, who sang a few lines of a ballad of this type composed by himself and another musician, and based on the theme of "Love Me and the World is Mine."

The "Shop Ballad."

The "shop ballad," declared the speaker, could easily be recognized by rhyming of such sentences as "skies of blue" and "all for you," or "Heaven above" and "die for love," these sentiments being very conspicuous in its composition.

"It denotes a strange confusion of mind that people should ask why jazz cannot be regarded as the modern equivalent of old folk-songs. The truth is that they have scarcely anything at all in common. What merits jazz may have are the results of professional skill, that is to say, skill of the type which such work demands. Its composers show the same skill in mixing ingredients in different proportions as the American bar-tender of olden times used in mixing cocktails—and the result is equally stimulating—up to a point. Beyond that point, the faculties become numbed, and the final result may be a splitting headache. I am not a teetoller where jazz is concerned—on the contrary, I have come across specimens that have greatly entertained me by their cleverness—but jazz is no more nourishing musically than are cocktails dietetically.

"Let us consider the academic type of professionalism. I sometimes wonder whether the average non-professional music-lover realizes to how great an extent the professional musician's habits of mind are affected by the critical attitude which he must constantly maintain during his working hours? Without wishing to unduly exalt the perceptive faculties of the professional musician, I must emphasize the face that in listening to music the practised ear is of immense advantage. When matter of workmanship are involved, the professional should be so and not otherwise, and, musician knows that certain things other things being equal, the greater his range of experience, the more valuable will be his opinion.

"There is, for instance, a wide field of choice in the matter of interpretation of the classics, but, while recognizing that the letter killeth and the spirit maketh alive, we must not forget that it is possible so to violate the expressed intentions of a composer as to make our performance a travesty of the original."

Dr. MacMillan illustrated this point by playing the opening bars of Beethoven's "Appassionata" Sonata, as played by a pupil whose performance showed marked inaccuracy in note values.

"But while the professional musician, in his academic aspect, is to some extent a recording machine for minutiae, he would be in a sad state if he stopped there. He is only doing a fraction of his duty if he fails to grasp the broader aspects of a work or its performance. There are, I am afraid, some musicians who cannot see the wood for the trees, and they are greatly to be pitied. The habit of mind which regards criticism as mere microscopical analysis is one of the primary dangers that the music teacher runs, and is one of the reasons why so many professional musicians have little real love for music. It takes a fine performance of a fine work to rouse to enthusiasm a man whose every working hour is spent in cold criticism."

Dr. MacMillan went on to speak of the antagonism often exhibited between great musicians, instancing the case of Tschaikowski, who could not abide the works of Brahms, although he was fully alive to the latter's technical mastery.

A "High Brow" Defined.

When a musician has reached the stage with regard to any composer when he "can see the works" behind the composition, "he must not be contemptuous of the music-lover whose love of the composer still burns at fever-heat, let him rather encourage the amateur to listen more and more, and perhaps the latter will end by demanding stronger fare. If he does not, there is no harm done, whereas the most pestiferous thing on earth is the amateur, or the professional, who pretends a contempt for what he secretly likes, in order to seem superior. It is surely the aesthetic hypocrite who is responsible for the contemptuous tone with which some people use the term 'high brow.' Apart from the presence of such hypocrites, I can see no earthly reason why anyone should be ashamed to prefer the pleasures of civilized men to the amusements of stable-boys. It was, I think, Sir William Hadon who remarked that after all, a 'high brow' was only one who had the brow of a man rather than that of a monkey; let those who boast of their 'low brow' tastes reflect upon this.

"You cannot explain music, however much you talk about it. The value of music consists precisely in this: that it can convey to the minds of those who can respond to it, ideas which words cannot reproduce. But when I speak of 'responding' to music, I mean emotional response, rather than grammatical understanding. Music can intensify words and emotions, but cannot limit them in point of time and space. It can convey the idea of joy, but if the composer wishes to distinguish between the joy of one who is re-united to his loved ones after a long absence, or the joy of a loving nephew whose rich aunt has just died and remembered him in her will, then he must resort to words to tell us so. Music can convey the idea of grief, but if the grief is to be particularized, if, for instance, it denotes the pangs of despised love or the pangs of indigestion, we can only know if we are told so in so many words."

Dr. MacMillan concluded his address with an adjuration to his listeners to listen to all the good music possible, "at concerts, from the gramaphone, the radio, and, best of all, through your own performances. But, if you are not very sure of your own performance, do not inflict too much of it upon your friends."

A vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Mrs. J. F. Allan and seconded by Mrs. W. Blackwell. It was presented to the speaker by the president, Miss Mabel Clarry, and responded to by the audience with a standing vote of appreciation.

Afternoon tea was served at the conclusion of the address.

language. They said they were happy, enjoyed their surroundings and did not wish to return to the north. The Archdeacon wrote the word "God" on a slip of paper. "God," declared Ben and Sam simultaneously.

When the reporters saw Ben and Sam on Thanksgiving Day they were very flashy looking Eskimos. Both wore tweed suits, Eton collars and the inevitable grin. "Hello how are you?"

"Fine, thank you," they both retorted and relapsed into giggles.

"Do you like playing football?" Sam was asked.

"Yes," he said laconically.

Did they know the alphabet? They certainly did.

Both gave an exhibition of it. When asked to spell a word such as "cat" or "car" Ben and Sam would take a good grip on their pencils and show a conception of the subject in hand with a sketch—spelling being something entirely beneath their notice. The matron, Miss Perry stated that if all the boys washed as well as Ben and Sam she would have no trouble at all

LYTLE INQUEST THIS AFTERNOON

Authorities Investigating Death of Youth Killed While On Deer Hunt.

HELD AT BUCKHORN.

The inquest into the death of Ross Lytle, eighteen-year-old youth who was fatally shot while on a bear hunt near Buckhorn, Harvey Township, on November 4, is being held at Buckhorn this afternoon, Provincial Constable Thompson, Crown Attorney Hatton and other officials from Peterborough having left by motor shortly after the noon hour.

Young Lytle, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Lytle, had gone hunting on the Oregon Trail early on the Sunday morning, in company with four brothers named Ireland. The five had discovered the tracks of a bear which they traced to a swale, and there they had proceeded to close in. Two shots were fired, and Lytle was later found, fatally wounded. From investigation, Officer Thompson had discovered that one of the hunters, the bear and Lytle had accidentally come into line, thus causing the fatality.

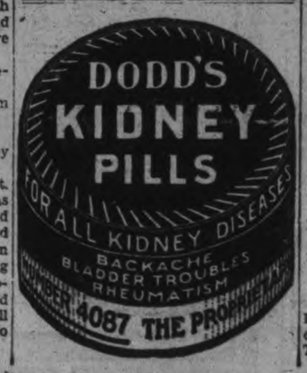
Obituary

REV. JOHN GILMOUR LEWIS

VANCOUVER, Nov. 14.—Stricken with a heart attack as he was preparing to take part in the Sunday Church, Rev. John Gilmour Lewis, morning service in Chown United 59, formerly of Peterborough, Ontario, associate pastor of the church died Sunday night.

Mr. Lewis was the second clergyman to be stricken in Chown Church on two successive Sundays. Last Sunday morning Rev. A. McDonnell, of West Vanocuver, died in the vestry just prior to the commencement of the morning service, at which he was to officiate.

The late Mr. Lewis was born in Norwood, Ont., and before coming to British Columbia in 1919 held a number of pastorates in the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist Church. He was at one time pastor of Mark Street Church, Peterborough.



LARGE CITY CONGREGATIONS OBSERVE ARMISTICE SERVICE

ST. ANDREW'S UNITED

Armistice services were conducted in St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday morning by the Rev. C. V. McLean, minister. Appropriate music was rendered by the choir under the direction of John Crane. The anthem sung was Kipling's "Recessional," the solo part being sung by E. Humpage.

The solo, "There is No Death," was sung very effectively by Mrs. H. F. Doig.

On the stroke of eleven, two minutes' silent prayer was observed, after which the choir sang Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," to music arranged by Mr. Frederick Mann, organist of St. John's Church.

Mr. McLean chose as his text, Amos 5, 19, "As if a man did flee from a lion and a bear met him; or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him."

Mr. McLean said that we are celebrating the ten years of peace and that probably sufficient time has elapsed since the armistice was signed to see the effect of the war in truer perspective than could be seen before. "The text is a portion of an armistice address given by Amos to a people who had come through a war just about ten years before."

Mr. McLean said that Amos, who had been accustomed to life in the lonely desert and who had therefore a realization of the force of unseen things, had followed the multitudes up to Bethel, where great crowds had assembled to celebrate the coming once again of peace.

The army of Assyria had swept over the country, but owing to pressure from another quarter the Assyrians were forced to withdraw. The people were rejoicing that besides being at peace the locusts, which had often caused such devastation, had not appeared for a number of years. They had not been so troubled with drought either. They also had things pretty well repaired after the last earthquake. So they began to say to themselves, "We can see our way now to great prosperity."

Then Amos arose and told them that an unseen force had delivered them from the lions and bears, but warned them that they must beware of the serpents. They had been delivered from four enemies, but they must not run into other dangers. Pride was the first serpent referred to. God's plans are greater than just those which include your nation.

Needed Larger Vision

Amos reminded them that they needed a larger vision. Mr. McLean said that if Amos could see our great tides of immigration, he would probably say, "Behold the great plan of God." Amos reminded them of their divisions, and told them they needed a larger vision.

Mr. McLean asked if pride is one of the serpents lurking in our midst, as a serpent in an empty house.

The second danger Amos reminded the people of was greed. He told them of their defiled and corrupt courts in which a man might be sold into slavery for a pair of shoes. Mr. McLean said we had another Amos in John Bright who was the champion of the poor man. Bright saw that the corrupt corn laws were responsible for much of the apparent disloyalty.

The third serpent Amos referred to was bravado. He told them they needed spiritual revelation and that they must get right with God.

Mr. McLean here referred to Christopher Wren, who obstructed the plan to rebuild London after the great fire just as it had been before. He wanted to improve and build better than before, and the city around St. Paul's Cathedral is a monument to his memory.

Materialism was the fourth and last serpent mentioned by Amos. He told them they had been building houses, not homes; and that they had become irreverent.

Mr. McLean asked if we, too, are appraising the material things of life too hightly. If we are, we shall be disgraced. "Is materialism a serpent?"

"Pride, Greed, Bravado, and Materialism did not sign the armistice, but are now dangers into which we must be careful not to permit ourselves to fall.

Mr. McLean concluded by quoting the words of our Lord when He said: "Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear him which is able to destroy both soul and body in hell."

KNOX UNITED.

Rev. S. A. Kemp, of Lakefield, proved an ideal Armistice Day speaked when he addressed morning and evening congregations at Knox United Church on Sunday, for in addition to keeping his address relevant to the spirit of Armistice during the morning, he voiced an eloquent message of Thanksgiving in the evening. In his first address, he touched on the significance of the poppy and all that it stood for in the minds and lives of the people of to-day, and then hearkening back to Biblical references, spoke of the lilies of the field, their lesson to the peoples of this era.

The services in Knox Church were beautifully in keeping with Armistice and Thanksgiving, both as regards special music by the choir under the leadership of R. J. Devey, the observance of the customary two minutes of silence, and messages of gratitude. Following was the program adhered to throughout the morning:

Memorial service at 10.45 a.m.

"Funeral March," Chopin.

"There Is No Death,' solo by Mr. H. Hughes.

"Last Post," from the organ.

Anthem, "What Are These," Stainer.

Postlude, "Adagio," Beethoven.

Thanksgiving service at 7 p.m.—Festival Harvest March, H. Smart.

Solo, "The Everlasting Love," Brahe—Mrs. T. E. Curvin.

Anthem, "All Thy Works Shall Praise Thee," Harkness.

Postlude, "Now Thank Thee," Bennett.

ST. LUKE'S ANGLICAN.

Father and son preached at St. Luke's Church on Thanksgiving Sunday, when special Armistice and Thanksgiving services provided food for serious thought on the part of large congregations that gathered in both morning and evening.

"Ten Years of Retrospect" was the subject of the morning address, delivered by the Rev. G. Bousfield, Sr., formerly of Ottawa. Turning back the years to the close of the war, he spoke of the ambitions of peoples and nations toward improved living—and turning again to the present day, he suggested for thought the good or ill that had come of those ambitions. Had definite followers of Christ endeavored to apply Christ-like principles, and how had the world improved since the war?

The choir, under the leadership of W. C. Thompson, organist and choirmaster, was heard to special advantage in their anthem. "Send Out Thy Light" (Gounod), which was repeated in the evening. Two minues of silence witnessed every head bowed in memory of the soldier dead. Holy Communion was administered at 8 o'clock and again at 11 a.m.

In the evening, the Rev. G. J. Bousfield, B.A., son of the morning speaker and rector of St. Luke's, was heard in an effective address on Thanksgiving.

ST. JOHN'S ANGLICAN.

Thanksgiving Sunday services began in St. John's Anglican church with Holy Communion at 8.30 and with a service beginning at 10.45 that faithfully bore out the title of "Armistice: A Memory and a Motive." There was the beautiful observance of two minutes of silence with the large congregation kneeling, just prior to the reading of the first Lesson, a most opportune coincidence, and the choir's beautiful rendition of Tennyson's "In Memoriam" without accompanment. Frederick G. Mann, organist and choirmaster, had made special preparation and there were two hymns particularly appropriate, "O, God Our Help in Ages Past" and "Lest We Forget."

"Remember all the way the Lord thy God to thee," a portion of Deuteronomy 8:2, was the text taken by the Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., vicar, whose sermon was a plea for a consistent interpretation of the experience of the War. Dr. Blagrave emphasized the value of memory that we ourselves should not forget the great glory and great sorrow of those war days. "Our memory must help us to resolves to prevent war unless it be logically necessary," said he, going on to point out that in this world, as in science, all things are possible, and therefore war is still possible.

"Elements in Thanksgiving" were carefully defined as the subject for the evening sermon, delivered by the Rev. G. Bousfield, Sr., while the choir sang the anthem, "O Lord How Manifold" (Barnby)

ALL SAINTS' ANGLICAN

The Armistice Day services in All Saints' Church were well attended and the presence of the 5th (All Saints' Peterborough Troop of Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs who dipped their flags during the two minute silence helped to make the service most impressive.

The Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs paraded at 10.30, and were reviewed at the flag staff by Captain J. Abraham, President of the Canadian Legion. Preceded by the Union Jack and troop flags they marched into church and occupied the front pews. After the singing of the opening hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past," the service proceeded as usual to the reading of the first lesson—the fourth chapter of the Book Ecclesiasticus. When the rector came to the last verse, "Their bodies are buried in peace, but their name liveth for evermore. The people will tell of their wisdom and the congregation will shew forth their praise," it was exactly eleven o'clock, and the whole congregation stood for the two minute silence; then softly the choir took up the anthem, "O Valiant Hearts." The sympathetic rendering of this now famous hymn, so carefully led by Mr. Chandler and Mrs. Logan at the organ, was just the right note to bring into a service of this kind, and without unnatural emotionalism it reached the heart of every devout worshipper. The rector preached especially to the children, reminding the older people that they should not forget their own experiences of years gone by. The service from beginning to end was most helpful, and the large congregation who were present must have felt that they had an inspiration which will not soon be forgotten.

Trinity United

Special Armistice and Thanksgiving services at Trinity United church indelibly impressed themselves in the hearts and on the minds of large congregations which gathered both at 10:45 on Sunday morning and at 7 o'clock in the evening—a triumph for minister, choir and director of music, and all responsible in any way.

While the morning service was distinctly in keeping with the spirit of Armistice, that of the evening was more generally a thanksgiving one, with the Rev. David Wren, M.A., B.D., taking as his subject, "The Faith of Three Adventurers." Mrs. Hohner was the special soloist of the evening.

The Armistice service was rich in its majestic touch of the Military service though distinctly one of peaceful thanksgiving. At 10:45 Miss Mabel Clarry, Director of Music began a brief period of organ music, and then entered the choir singing "O Canada". Briefly descriptive was the program:

Memorial Prayer—Rev. Mr. Wren.

Lesson reading—Revelations: 7:9-17.

Choir Sentence "The Lord is in His Holy Temple, Let all the Earth Keep Silence before Him."

Two minutes of silence.

International Prayer.

Solo—The Phantom Legions (Ward Stephens) by Mr. Maurice Park.

Hymn—"For All the Saints who from their Labors Rest."

Address—Renunciation of War.

The Peace Pact — By the Rev. David Wren.

"Praise od From Whom All Blessings Flow."

Last Post.

Reveille— By bandsman William McLarnon of the Peterborough Rangers, a 1914 Star man of the Imperial Army.

God Save the King,

Benediction.

CITY HALL DOINGS.

DR. T. W. H. YOUNG

"There is not a placard up in the whole city," declared Dr. T. W. H. Young, City Officer of Health, to The Examiner this morning. "Of course, this record is not likely to last, but health officials locally are certainly pleased to have it that way," he concluded.

MAYOR ROLAND DENNE

"Well, we're going to have a meeting next Monday night to discuss Peterborough's Old Boys' and Girls' Reunion of 1929, and by the looks of things now, it's going to be a great event in the history of Peterborough. We want every citizen out at that meeting, too."

SUDDEN ILLNESS

His interest in the city's business kept City Clerk S. A. Armstrong in attendance at last night's Council committee meeting until illness, which had been bothering him throughout the day, caused him to finally admit defeat. He was driven to his home, and this morning was reported to be feeling much better, with every intention of returning to his office this afternoon.

ARMISTICE COPIES MAY BE SECURED

The Examiner Has Left a Number of Saturday's Armistice Edition.

The Examiner has on hand still some copies of the Armistice edition printed on Saturday.

It has received very favorable comment in the city and in the district, and those who desire to get extra copies for sending away should secure them at once.

SALE CROWDS QUITE ORDERLY

W. H. Meredith's fine old established men's wear shop at 404 George street, is the scene of crowded action and it must be said that while there is considerable hustle and bustle the crowds have been more than orderly. Overcoats, suits, hats, caps, underwear and general men's needs are being sold at sensational prices and to-morrow the store will be all re-arranged to still further facilitate the rapid selling. It is indeed many a year since such a shake-up of such country wide interest has taken place and men from every district are advised to get in on it. The sale will last but a short time and many of the best bargains will be sold out quickly. In justice to yourself and your bank roll you cannot really afford to stay away. To-morrow (Thursday) will be a specially big day for fellows who want to save money.

The Greene Christmas Radio Club

Has gone over so big that we are nearly swamped with orders. We appropriated 30 Rogers Batteryless Sets for our Club and arranged to have that number supplied from the factory, and this reservation is going to be taken up very soon—in fact, they are selling faster than we can get delivery from the manufacturers. In Monday's Globe the Rogers people announce da phenomenal demand, totalling sales of half a million dollars worth in October alone. At present they are 2,000 outfits behind in their orders. It's a triumph for a purely Canadian product — conceived, developed and perfected in Canada, and sold nowhere else.

Orders for Rogers Sets will be filled as received in the order in which they were taken.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief as effectively as the messy old mustard plaster.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, methol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

What did the readers think of the Armistice Number? I think it was a splendid edition and will certainly help to keep alive the memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice. The letters, so kindly contributed for the women's page, made it very interesting indeed.

Everyone will be getting ready for Christmas and this week's help is Christmas Gift Suggestions. These helps will not be ready until the end of the week, but do not, because of this, hesitate to send in the coupon early.

Have you ever been conscious of the atmospheric conditions of different houses where you visit? Children, in many cases, notice this more quickly than adults do.

In some houses you enter, there seems to be an undesirable atmosphere, where you do not like to linger. You sometimes feel uncomfortable, uneasy and perhaps stifled. The funny part about this is that you cannot say just why it is.

And the unfortunate part about this is that we are not capable of judging the atmosphere of our own house. If we could do this, as we do other people's houses, no doubt we would try to find some way to change it.

We seem to become imbued with it as people do with the perfume they use, and consequently the atmosphere seems quite normal to those living in the house. Yet the lives of those who live in the house, may be influenced by it.

Those historical old houses we see generally have a musty atmosphere, which to some, does not seem unpleasant. Perhaps they associate it with old houses, furnished lavishly with old furniture. This mustiness is really present because of dampness, and some kinds of mold caused by dampness. I do not think this musty atmosphere would be present if there were more ventilation in the house.

• • •

Then sometimes we notice that the odor of cooking is very prevalent in the atmosphere. The aroma of last week's cooking mingles with this week's cooking and baking.

And then you have visited in homes where the atmosphere was as if you were visiting in a hospital, so strongly does the air seem laden with the odor of strong disinfectants.

And it is far from being pleasant—the atmosphere of a house where all the rooms smell of perfume and other cosmetics. Tobacco smoke is also very unpleasant in the atmosphere and the odor of polish and oil gives the suggestion of an over-conscientious housewife.

Anyone of the atmospheric odors which I have mentioned may be removed if the houses are well ventilated. The most pleasant odor of which any house can smell, is the odor of bright sunshine, which is free to everyone.

Hard boiled eggs are used attractively as a garnish in many ways, and though many housewives think of them as being merely a decoration, they also add nourishment to many dishes.

Some housewives think that eggs, cooked for ten minutes or perhaps a little longer, are not digested easily. I have read that the egg which is just hard has this drawback. The best way to cook eggs for this purpose is in water kept just below the bubbling point for about ten minutes.

Many children who do not like soft-cooked eggs, like eggs when they are cooked hard and sliced and served with a white sauce.

• • •

Here is another dish whichchildren like and which is easily made. Thicken hot milk slightly—just to form a thin gruel and serve with crumbled eggs and a little paprika on top.

WOMEN HEAR FINE ADDRESS

Regular Monthly Meeting of George Street Missionary Society is Held.

EXCELLENT REPORTS.

The regular monthly meeting of George Street United Church Woman's Missionary Society was held in the board room, Nov. 13, with the president, Mrs. Coon, presiding.

Mrs. Hetherington conducted the devotional exercises; Mrs. Latimer reading the Thanksgiving Psalm 103, and Mrs. J. E. Todd and Mrs. A. I. Brown leading in prayer. The treasurer's report gave encouragement along the financial line. Reports were received from the corresponding secretary, Miss E. Might, and the finacial secretary, Mrs. Wood. Encouraging reports were also received from the Y.W.A. by Mrs. W. Knox, Circle, Mrs. W. H. Morton, and Band, Mrs. A. I. Brown.

A nominating committee was appointed consisting of Mesdames Walker, Armstrong, Rowe, Brown, and Stinson.

A report on the temperance work was given by Mrs. Stinson.

Mrs. Harvey then gave an excellent talk on the first of the new study book, "Drums in Darkness," taking her audience on an imaginary trip, by means of the map, to Africa, a land, parts of which we so often read of in the Bible. She gave a synopsis of the physical features, produce and people. Those who did not attend this meeting missed the beginning of a very interesting book. Mrs. McHoul assisted Mrs. Harvey by telling of the coming to Africa of the Portuguese, Dutch, British and French, while Mrs. Wood told of the interests of these; also what we owe to each of them.

Mrs. Knox reported for the Watch Towers, on Korea. During the meeting a vocal solo, "He Shall Feed His Flock," from "The Messiah," was delightfully rendered by Mrs. Froggatt.

DOTTED PEPPERMINT

A peppermint green chiffon frock has polka dots of silver. They are of infinitesimal size in the bodice, larger over the hips and from the hem depth of the full skirt they grow to coin dots.

SLICED MELON

Slices of melon are excellent served with cold boiled ham, the way tomatoes are often used. Melon makes a piquant dessert sliced and served with whipped cream.

Assam, the native home of the tea bush, produces teas which are famed the world over for their strength, richness and flavor.

The superior and distinctive quality of Red Rose Orange Pekoe is largely due to these fine quality Assam teas, of which it is chiefly composed. Every package guaranteed. 7-8

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

An up-to-date touch is achieved on this brown broadcloth frock by the pleating made of picoted bands of the material.

The fashions of every season are to some extent echoes of seasons gone before. In furniture we like to have the period kept as pure as possible—but in matters of dress a mere suggestion is enough. A taffeta evening frock has widespread, bouffant skirt and we call it after the name of Velasquez or the Second Empire. A coat or frock is cut to suggest a high waist line and we call it Directoire. Simple, freely hanging drapery without much ornament we call classic, a rather scant gown that conforms to the figure in a certain way we speak of as Mediaeval or Moyen Age. The actual ensemble possessing these details or characteristics may have very little in common with the costume of the period indicated. But we like these echoes from the past and make the most of them.

Efforts lately to revive some one single period of the past have not met with much success. Bouffant evening skirts suggested a possible Second Empire revival, while the appearance of bustle-like drapery at the back of a number of frocks suggested the possibil- of a revival of the 1880 silhouette. But there really was no real revival of any sort and just at present it is only in the merest suggestion that historical periods appear.

The sketch shows a new broadcloth frock with edging of narrow box pleating of the material, and this in a measure suggests the fashions of 1880, because similar pleated edgings were used at that time. And yet by no stretch of the imagination could this bustleless, short-skirted frock with its loosely fitting bodice suggest the fashions followed fifty years ago.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

PLUM PUDDING

(Contributed by Mrs. D.M., Warsaw.)

1 pound good raisins, stoned
1 pound French plums, minced fine
1 pound good beef suet which must be minced fine
1 pound bread crumbs (or 1½)
½ pound flour

Mix all these together. Beat six eggs well, and add to them a half a pint of milk. Pour this into the first mixture and mix well, having added a teaspoon of salt. Then stir in a quarter of a pound of orange, citron, and lemon peel which have been cut very fine. A few bitter almonds, a quarter of an ounce of ground cinnamon, or a little ground ginger, a large glass of best brandy, and half a cup of sugar. Stir all of these well together. Butter and flour the pudding cloth, place in a basin, put pudding in cloth and tie.

This pudding will take six hours to boil, and must be put into boiling water. As the water boils away, more boiling water must be added. Sweet almonds peeled and cut into long slices are stuck on the pudding when served.

Sauce—brandy, sugar and butter. Lemon juice and a glass of sherry, put into pudding improves it.

CREAM SALMON

(Contributed, by Scotty, Lakefield.)

1 can salmon with bones removed and minced up fine
½ teaspoon salt, and a dash of pepper.

To 1 tablespoon of melted butter, add 1 tablespoon flour and 1 cup scalded milk, and boil 2 minutes then add the salmon and let boil. Serve on fingers of toast.

LACE JABOTS

A black velvet afternoon frock has a collarless neck that fastens at the left side, from which point a lovely lace jabot falls. The skirt's yoke fastens the same way and has a similar lace jabot, only longer and fuller.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion, at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion:

As I have got so many useful helps from your page, I thought, as it is coming time for baby robes and white furs, I would like to send a little help in cleaning them, as I have just done my fur carriage cover.

Two cups of rice flour and add gasoline enough to make a thick paste about like a pie crust. Rub this well into the fur with finger tips and then shake and beat well. Hang it on the line to air.

Sincerely,
W. R. B."

Your help is very timely indeed, "W. R. B." I am sure that, just at this time; many mothers will appreciate it. Thank you.

"Dear Marion:

I am sending for this week's helps, also the autumn hat and baby jacket, if I am not too late. How very wonderful it is to be able to get so many good helps just for the asking, thanks a lot for many helpful hints and good recipes taken from your page, which I am sure is of great interest to all that read it.

I am sending my recipe for ginger snaps which I hope some of the neighbors will try as they are really good. And by the way, how many of you know that a cupful of mashed or riced potatoes added to your doughnuts greatly improves them, helping to keep them lovely and moist when they are cold?

When cutting a pie that has a white of egg meringue first dip your knife in hot water and see how much better it cuts. It does not stick to the knife as when it is dry.

Wishing your page every success and hoping I shall be able to help a little some other time.

Yours sincerely,
Dot."

These are splendid hints, "Dot," for which the neighbors say 'Thank you.' The ginger snap recipe seems real good. I'll be looking for the other helps you mention.

"Dear Marion:

Will you please send me the instructions of wool flowers, and new crush collar. These will be a real help to me. Thanking you in anticipation. We all think your household help corner very beneficial and helpful, and a decided addition to The Examiner paper.

Once more thanking you, I remain,
Yours truly,
Mrs. H.B."

Thanks for your good opinion, "Mrs. H.B." We are glad to help.

"Dear Marion:

This is my first letter to you and I think your Women's Page is wonderful. I work out and can hardly wait till I get home at 5:30 to read it. I am sending you a recipe for Burnt Leather Cake. I am also sending in the coupon for household helps and any others you have on hand.

Mrs. F. G. W."

Your letter is very encouraging, Mrs. F. G. W., and much appreciated. Thanks for the recipe.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THINK TWICE

Before you say some word unkind,
Think twice, and you'll not say it.
Before you tell some tale you find,
Let love and justice weigh it.
Think twice before you wound a friend,
And few the folks that you'll offend,
Think twice before you wrong a foe,
And few the wrongs you'll ever know.

Before you venture into sin,
WThink twice, and you'll not do it.
hatever trouble you are in,
Think twice, and you'll come through it.
Before you whimper or complain,
Think twice, of blessings that remain.
Before you say it can't be done,
Think twice, and victory is won.

Before the others you condemn,
Think twice, your love prevailing.
Think twice—you have, the same as them,
Some little fault or failing.
Think twice, for second thoughts are best,
And judge yourself and not the rest.
This world would be a paradise
If folks would only just think twice!

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SODAWATER SLIDE.

(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Hush! Be quiet!" said Jack Frost to Uncle Wiggily as the cold and freezing elf came closer and closer to the rabbit gentleman. "Don't speak another word!"

"But how can I keep quiet when you are going to freeze my pink, twinkling nose?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Hush, if you please!" whispered Jack Frost. "I'm not going to freeze your nose! I wouldn't do such a thing! I want you to keep quiet because I see your friend, the Fuzzy Fox, coming this way and I want to play a trick on him."

"Don't call the Fox a friend of mine," said Uncle Wiggily. "He is nothing of the sort!"

"Well, he's always chasing after you," spoke Jack Frost, "and that is what friends do, sometimes."

"The Fox is a Bad Chap," said Uncle Wiggily, looking around and seeing the fuzzy fellow coming up the hill toward him.

"Yes, so he is," agreed Jack Frost. "And I think he is after you, but I'll play a trick on him. The reason I want you to keep quiet is that I don't want the Fox to hear you talking to me. Pretend you are here all alone. He hasn't seen me yet. I'll slip back behind the bush and as soon as that Fox tries to nibble you I'll play such a trick on him that he will wish he had stayed in his den."

"Oh, good!" murmured Mr. Longears. "And you won't freeze my nose, either; will you?"

"Not at all," answered Jack Frost. "But don't come too close to me."

The little Winter Elf had been freezing the brook into ice and had been freezing flowers into a long sleep when Uncle Wiggily happened to meet the cold chap. The rabbit thought Jack was doing wrong to freeze the flowers, but the Winter Elf said he had to so they would not catch cold when it snowed. And then Uncle Wiggily, seeing Jack come so close, thought of frozen noses. But Jack only wanted to warn Uncle Wiggily about the Fox.

Closer and closer to the rabbit crept the Fuzzy Bad Chap. The Fox had thought of what he called a good trick to play on Uncle Wiggily that morning. Before Jack Frost froze the brook the Fox dipped his big, dusting brush of a tail into the water.

"Why are you doing that?" asked the Bob Cat.

"So when I get close to Uncle Wiggily," barked the Fox, "I can flip water from my tail into his eyes and blind him. Then I can easily catch him and nibble him when he can't see because of the water from my tail being in his eyes."

"Good!" mewed the Bob Cat.

But if Uncle Wiggily had heard it he would have said: "Bad!"

Anyhow, the Fox, his tail dripping wet, came on up the hill, not knowing anything about Jack Frost hiding behind the bush. And as the Bad Chap got close to the rabbit gentleman he barked:

"Here I am!"

"Yes," Mr. Longears. "Well, I can't say I'm glad to see you. What do you want?"

"To nibble you!" growled the Fox.

"Tell him to sit down while you think which ear to let him nibble first" whispered Jack Frost out of the bush behind the rabbit. "As soon as he sits down I'll play a trick on him." So Mr. Longears said:

"Sit down, Mr. Fox, until I make up my mind which of my ears I will first let you nibble." So the Fox sat down on his wet tail and as soon as he did it—"Puff!" Jack Frost blew his cold breath and the water on the tail froze to ice and that Fox was frozen fast to the ground.

"Ha! Ha! Let's see you get me now!" cried Uncle Wiggily as he ran away. And though the Fox tried to get up and follow he couldn't, for he was frozen fast to the ground by his wet tail covered with ice.

"Thank you, Jack Frost!" said the bunny uncle. He started back to his bungalow, stopping on the way to buy a bottle of sodawater for Nurse Jane. And as Uncle Wiggily came out of the store there stood the Bob Cat.

"I'll get you!" howled this Bad Chap. Uncle Wiggily gave such a jump that he dropped the bottle of sodawater which spilled on the ground. And as it spilled Jack Frost blew his cold breath again and froze the spilled sodawater into a long, glittering slide of ice.

"Slide home, Uncle Wiggily! Slide home!" cried Jack. So the bunny rabbit slid home on the sodawater slide before the Bob Cat could catch him and so he had two adventures the same

PREVENTING CHRONIC TUBERCULOSIS

The methods which I have found most satisfactory for preventing the development of tuberculosis differ somewhat from the regular treatments employed in many institutions.

Since the tubercular and the near-tubercular usually have very weak digestive systems, they cannot digest large quantities of heavy foods, and for this reason I do not employ the stuffing treatment, nor do I advocate a complete period of inactivity, since I believe some exercise is necessary to bring about a discharge of toxins of this disease from the system. One should however, use frequent resting periods and void becoming overly tired. He should retire early and sleep as long as possible.

I usually begin treatment of these patients by advising them to take a short fast, using the following acid fruits: apples, apricots, cherries, grapes, oranges, berries, tomatoes, and watermelons, using only one kind of these fruits on any one day, but varying from day to day as desired. This fruit diet should be continued for at least a week, and in some cases as long as ten days to two weeks.

The patient should use a warm or cold shower or sponge bath every morning, and a warm enema every evening before retiring.

After the period of fasting the breakfast should consist of one or two eggs prepared in any manner except by frying; Melba toast or toasted Shredded Wheat Biscuit, and a choice of any one of the following fruits, stewed without sugar: prunes, pears, figs, apricots, raisins, apples or ripe figs, using only the pure sundried, unsulphured fruits, except in case of the apple, which may be baked, or the figs which may be eaten raw if desired.

During the forenoon a short walk should be taken, the distance of which should be increased day by day. The walk should not be long enough to cause exhaustion, and the patient should rest immediately after.

or more of the cooked non-starchy vegetables, such as celery, spinach, small string beans, asparagus, summer squash, zucchini, egg plant, cucumbers, beet tops, small carrots, small parsnips, lettuce, okra, chayote, kale, oyster plant, and a choice of one or more of the raw salad vegetables, also avocado or ripe olives if desired. No salt or dressing except a little olive oil should be used.

During the afternoon take another short walk and another rest. The dinner may consist of one or more of the vegetables listed for lunch, in addition to one of the following proteins: lean beef, mutton, chicken, turkey, rabbit or fish. No desserts.

Light tensing exercises and breathing exercises should be used every hour of the day except during the time when much fever is present.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mother writes: "I have a child two years old who eats clay or otherdirt at every opportunity. What makes a child do this, and how may I stop him?"

Answer: This dirt-eating practice is probably only a habit which the child gets into because he is not kept sufficiently interested in healthful playing. Some claim that it is because the child craves certain foods containing minerals and, not getting enough of these foods, gives him the instinctive desire to eat dirt. My observation is that this is not true, but that the dirt-eating habit or the habit of putting objects into the mouth is simply a bad habit of a poorly trained child.

Question: An Interested Reader asks: "Do you recommend the dry-ready-to-eat breakfast foods now on the market, such as corn flakes, etc."?

Answer: When these breakfast foods are re-toasted they form an excellent dextrinized article of food and may be used freely with milk or cream except by those who have a tendency to catarrh, in which case it would be best to use only a small amount of butter. Milk and cream are to be avoided by catarrh sufferers on account of their mucus-forming elements.

Question: G. H. asks: "Will you please tell me the cause of my hands "shivering" for about four years to date? My age is twenty-five, and I do not use tobacco or drink. When I get excited my body shakes all over. Some time ago I had half around my body a girdle of hives—"Herpes Zoster" the doctor said it was. Is there a cure?"

Answer: You are doubtless nervous, but that is due to some cause which can only be found through a careful analysis of your case. The common name for Herpes Zoster is "Shingles" and this is due to certain nerve trunks being irritated by toxemia.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY HONESTY'S THE BEST POLICY

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.

(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

Honesty is not only the best policy: it is the only policy. The Sing Sing prison records show that the value actually obtained in the average robbery during 1927 was only $30.75, or less than the average weekly wage of those imprisoned for this crime. The average for larceny was $230.10; for burglary, $43.22. The sentences imposed for these offenses average one year for every $29.75 obtained.

Dishonesty is not a policy. It is a serious blunder, a trap that ensn the man who can't see beyond his The attractiveness and cunning o honesty lie in the fact that the dishoi person thinks he is getting somethi for nothing, that he is "putting som thing over" somebody, that he is clever enough to get by with it. He gets some satisfaction in the exercise of his wits and the thrill of taking a chance.

Honesty is the only policy, because it pays. And it is no disgrace to be honest for this reason. When rightly understood it is the best reason as well as the only reason.

It pays to be honest from every point of view except that of the thrill in all wrong doing.

Honesty pays in dollars and cents as any crook in prison will testify, as well as the honest man of means. It pays in business to build up a reputation for reliability which is the greatest asset any business can have. Dishonest dealing is short-lived at best. It does not pay in the long run.

Honesty is the best policy because it pays in terms of respectability and self-respect.

Most men are honest because they are good sports. They try to play the game of life according to rules. They sincerely try to treat the other fellow as they expect to be treated by him.

Thus the saying that "honesty is the best policy" is no idle sentiment. It represents the wisdom of the ages and expresses the true motives of every normal human being.

Why do you do what you do? Ask Dr. Thomson. Write care of this paper, and send stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1928.

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Friendly stars guide Earth affairs today, according to astrology, which finds that benefic aspects dominate.

This is a day auspicious for ts to improve one's financial status, a time to make pleas for adva e in salaries or for promotions of any sort.

It is an auspicious rule under which to make applications for political preferment. Those who hold office are supposed to be more helpful than they are likely to be when other configurations rule.

Women are marvelously well directed while this planetary government continues and should make the most of shopping opportunities.

Wearing apparel bought today should be unusually becoming as well as serviceable, for the stars encourage artistic selection.

Theatres should prosper under this planetary direction which makes for success in experiments along artistic lines as well as in commercial ventures.

Actors and actresses should benefit at this time when the spoken word gains power in motion picture theatres as well as in other play-producing centres.

According to ancient lore this is a lucky day for employing women in any line of work. It is most promising for modistes, since there is to be insistent demand for individuality in dress.

As the pendulum of taste swings back to feminine ideals in attire and conduct women are to gain in beauty to an extent that will add new fame to Americans.

Health again becomes a matter of first interest while this configuration prevails and physicians will concentrate more than ordinary attention on diet, it is prognosticated.

Under this sway great civic enterprises should be begun and whatever is truly constructive should benefit.

Household conditions are to improve for even the poorest, it is forecast, but the winter will bring extraordinary cases of suffering, if the stars are rightly interpreted.

Alaska is to command national attention before the spring, astrologers announce.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of marvelous happiness. Love will come to the young and spiritual vision to the old, it is foretold.

Children born on this day probably will have great artistic talents. Many singers are born under this sign of Scorpio which also is supposed to encourage poetry and art.

The RAILWAYS of Canada

THE citizens of Canada are under everlasting obligation to the far-sighted railway officials who have provided them with facilities for a rapid and permanent growth.

What appears like a sudden and marvellous expansion in trade and industry is the logical result of the change from preparation to fulfilment. Canada now has 54,000 miles of railway track, a greater mileage per capita than any country in the world, making available the natural resources of the Dominion.

Nearly 6,000 locomotives and approximately a quarter of a million cars are in constant use on these railways; 40,000,000 passengers and 120,000,000 tons of freight being carried annually. Over 170,000 employees work on our railways, handling the trade and traffic of this young nation, and receive a quarter of a billion dollars in wages per annum.

The Northern Electric Company is gratified that it has been able to supply a share of the electrical equipment which is part and parcel of Canada's great railways.

INFORMATION

Hydro-Electric development in Canada represents a total investment estimated at over $875,000,000, while her water-power development approximates 5,000,000 h.p., which represents only 11% of the total Hydro-Electric resources of Canada.

N. H. L. Campaign Opens On Thursday Night

BOSTON BRUINS AND MONTREAL ARE FAVORITES

Both Clubs Are Stronger in Reserve Strength Than Last Year.

HAWKS AT TORONTO.

Canadiens, Maple Leafs and Ottawa Will Have Stirring Struggle.

TORONTO, Nov. 14.—With all ten teams swinging into action to-morrow night, when games will be played in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Detroit, and Pittsburgh, the National Hockey League is on the eve of another campaign, and from the 220 games which will be played between now and March 16 six teams will emerge as participants in the play-off series which in time will produce the league champions and holders of the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world's hockey championship. Since the close of last year's campaign last Easter, when the New York Rangers scored an unexpected, but at the same time popular, victory in the final over the Montreal Maroons, there have been a number of deals, some of considerable magnitude and other that were practically unnoticed. The local Maple Leafs figured as one of the clubs in the three largest deals of the off season, two of them being with the New York Rangers and the other with Detroit.

Outstanding in the pre-season deals was that in which John Ross Roach, of the Maple Leafs, went to the New York Rangers for Lorne Chabot and $12,500 in cash. Just after the last world's series the locals sent Butch Keeling to the Rangers for Alex. Gray and $10,000. The other trade saw Jimmy Herberts moving to Detroit, while Jack Arbour came to the Leafs along with cash, said to range from $10,000 to $12,000. Outside of the Leafs, the most active clubs in the player market were the Chicago Black Hawks and the New York Americans, both of whom staged more or less thorough housecleanings that started with the managerial heads and went down the line to veteran and recruit substitutes. The other clubs in the league either drafted or purchased a few recruits, but most of them relied upon last year's teams to carry the brunt of the approaching campaign.

Canadiens Led All the Way.

In the 1927-1928 campaign in the Canadian group the Canadiens got away to a flying start, and although they appeared to weaken in the run down the stretch they were still in front when the regular season closed, thanks to their early lead. Montreal was in close pursuit, while Ottawa shook off the Maple Leafs, who were beset by serious injuries to players in the midst of the dash to the wire. The Americans occupied last place, and never threatened to get out. In the other group Boston finished strong to nose out the Rangers, who had led most of the season, while Pittsburg finished in third place by a narrow margin over Detroit. The Pirates, away to a bad start, steadily improved. Chicago was always a sure last-place club. In the play-offs the Rangers defeated the Pirates, and then eliminated the Bruins.

Although previous form is not always true and recruits may not show as much in games as they do in pre-season practices, a fair indication of the relative strengths of the various teams can be secured by their showing last year and the changes in the personnel of the various clubs, along with a certain amount of consideration for improvement in some of the players who were new to the league last season. As a result, it looks as if the standings in the two groups when the schedule ends on March 16 will be something like the following:

Canadian Group—
Montreal, Canadiens, Maple Leafs, Ottawa, Americans.

American Group—
Boston, Rangers, Detroit, Chicago, Pittsburg.

The Maroons, the strongest club in the Canadian group last season, are practically the same squad as last year, although one of the veterans are older, but on the other hand, players like Ward and Lamb will be better for their greater experience. Then the regular forward line, which was re-arranged somewhat last year to permit the inclusion of Hooley Smith, should function better. The Maroons are also strongly fortified in every position.

BIG GUNS ON MAPLE LEAF FIRING SQUAD

Here are some of the "big guns" on the firing line of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey squad in the National League, figured by experts to have a real chance for the bunting this year. No. 1, "Hap" Day, captain and defence player, who has recovered from the injury which threatened to cause his permanent retirement. No. 2, "Ace" Bailey, former local star and speedy forward, who is expected to have a good season. No. 3, Andy Blair, Winnipeg whirlwind, who is being counted to add much scoring strength to the front line. No. 4, Danny Cox, hard-checking wing man from Port Arthur. No. 5, oJe Primeau, smooth skating recruit from the Can-Pro league.

VIEWS ON SPORTS

Hockey players are requested to be on the "Y" gym floor this evening at eight o'clock wearing running shoes. Every player should attend these snappy workouts.

Coach Browne had his P.C.I. team out for a uniform practice on James Stevenson Park yesterday afternoon. All the players except Magee were out working off the stiffness gained in the game Saturday. Magee has a sore foot but will be in shape for the next game.

* * * * * *

The next game for P.C.I. will be a sudden death game with Albert College in Cobourg on Saturday. The winner will continue into the next round of the Interscholastic O.R.F.U. playoffs and will carry the title of Central Ontario champions.

* * * * * *

Cobourg was selected as the scene of the battle because the field at the Lakeshore Park is sandy and should be faster than the other gridirons no matter what the weather may be. If it rains the water sinks through the sand and leaves a fairly firm footing, at least it should not be slippery.

* * * * * *

This Albert College team are no slouches. They romped through their group defeating Picton High School handily. A number of their players were up to see the P.C.I.-Oshawa C.I. game and voiced confidence in their ability to defeat either team that were battling out there in the mud. They estimated their squad as about the same weight as the Oshawa team.

* * * * * *

Albert Smoke showed a little of his old time running form when he raced the other day. Smoke was on the Canadian Olympic team at Antwerp back in 1924 as a marathoner. He didn't, however, get into the big race as he was injured while training in the last day before the great race.

* * * * * *

The Toronto Maple Leafs are raising big expectation in the minds of their followers on their form shown in their practices. The team is all set for the opening game with Chicago Black Hawks at the Arena Thursday night. Connie Smythe is one of the best coaches in the hockey business and the Leafs management has spent great sums to secure a good team. They should make their mark in the N.H.L. this season.

* * * * * *

The N.H.L. teams are all carrying a large squad of players on their pay roll this winter. Every club has at least twelve players to begin the season and some have as high as sixteen. But they will need most of them before the season is over because it is a long hard grind to the end of the schedule next spring and the injuries are many in pro hockey circles.

* * * * * *

The Newark Club in the International League announce the securing of Tris Speaker for the managerial berth. Speaker has proved that he knows baseball and he successfuly managed Cleveland for a time. He should strengthen greatly the Newark team and add prestige to the league. Perhaps he will partly replace the missing figure of the fiery Jack Dunn.

PLAYING STRENGTH OF N.H.L. CLUBS

The following are the rosters and playing numbers of the ten clubs in the National Hockey League. The season opens on Thursday with the Maple Leafs playing Chicago in Toronto:

Toronto Maple Leafs—1, L. Chabot; 2, J. Arbour; 3, A. Duncan; 4, C. Day; 5, W. Carson; 6, I. Bailey; 7, D. Cox; 8, G. Horne; 9, A. Gray; 10, J. Primeau; 11, A. Blair; 12. A. Smith; 14, J. Lowery; 15, B. Grant.

New York Americans—1, Forbes; 2, Spring; 3, Conacher; 4, Simpson; 5, Burch; 6, Hines; 7, Dye; 8, Broadbent; 9, Sheppard; 10, Connors; 11, McVeigh; 12, Reise.

Chicago Black Hawks—1, Gardiner; 2, Loughlin; 3, Irvin; 4, Ripley; 5, Keats; 6, McKinnon; 7, Mackay; 8, Arbour; 9, Hoffinger; 10, Wentworth; 11, Burns; 12, Taylor; 14, Gottselig; 15, Couture.

Detroit Cougars—1, C. Dolson; 2, P. Troub; 3, A. Noble; 4, G. Hay; 5, G Fraser; 6, L. Aurie; 7, J. Herberts; 8, C. Cooper; 9, H. Lewis; 10, R. Connors; 11, B. Brophy.

HOLDS TITLE SAFE.

CHARLIE BELANGER.

CHICAGO, Ills., Nov. 14.— (Canadian Press.) — Charles Bellanger, Winipeg, successfully defended his Canadian light-heavyweight title at the White City arena here, by winning a ten-round decision over Harry Dillon, of Winnipeg.

There was much mauling and wrestling and the bout was uninteresting most of the way. The difference was so slight in the showing of the two men that the judges were divided. Referee McNamara and one judge decided Bellanger had won, while the other judge called it a draw.

GET THREE DEER.

Hunters Return After a Five Day Hunt in Kish Lake District.

J. K. Hughes, J. W. Fraser, R. A. Brown and Fred L. Roy returned to the city on Saturday after a five-day hunt with three deer. They report deer plentiful at Kosh Lake, where they hunted, and very little evidence of wolves.

TORONTO PLAYERS HURT IN SMASH-UP

Arthur Clark and Dave McGaffin in Hospital at Guelph.

GUELPH, Ont., Nov. 14 (Special). —When the car in which they were passengers figured in a bad smash on the Guelph-Kitchener highway yesterday, Arthur Clark and David McGaffin, two players of Teddy Oke's Toronto Millionaire's Hockey Club suffered such severe injuries that they were rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital here. Donald and William Cameron, two other members of the same club, were also taken to the same institution, but after receiving medical attention were able to leave the hospital a few hours later.

Provincial Police investigating the accident have so far been unable to get complete details, but from information given them it appears that the auto containing the hockeyists was struck by a machine bearing a United States license number when the Toronto car was parked on the side of the highway awaiting a supply of gasoline. The nature of the injuries sustained by the athletes has not been ascertained, but, according to the attending physician, Clark was the more severely injured of the two.

Grimsby High School Passes Up Return Game

HAMILTON, Nov. 14. — The Grimsby High School team will not contest the game of the first round Interscholastic series with Hamilton Central Collegiate. The game, scheduled for Grimsby yesterday, was called off because the evident superiority of the locals, the Peach Kings figuring that they could not hope to cut down the long lead established by Central in the first game. Central will be quiet now until Toronto determines a winner, when they are expected to enter the Provincial semi-finals.

FAMOUS CANADIAN RUGBY GAMES, PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By NICK BAWLF— Former star football, lacrosse and hockey player, now coach at Cornell

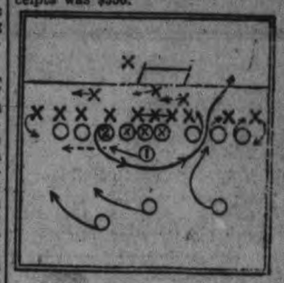
In 1908, just 20 years ago the fourteenth of this month, the Ottawas and the Tigers met at Kingston to decide the Interprovincial championship. It was a memorable game. Replete with clever running and passing and punting—the backbone of Canadian rugby.

The Tigers were the victors, 11-9, and a week later the same team, by defeating Toronto university fourteen 21-17 won the Dominion championship. Ottawa was leading 6-5 at the beginning of the final period. With 10 minutes to play the Tigers obtained possession of the ball, the result of a poor kick into touch, on the Ottawa 15-yard line. The brainy George Ballard—No. 1 in the diagram—and a hard-running quarterback, dug deep into his bag of tricks and hauled out his scoring play, a beauty after the Tigers had advanced the ball to Ottawa's 5-yard line.

Gray—No. 2—was playing inside wing. At the snap of the ball, Ballard picked it up and started to his left, faking a quarterback sneak. Gray stepped back out of the line and just as Ballard passed in front of him he was given the ball. Ottawa were set to stop the wily Ballard. Gray plunged through a hole in the Ottawa line and over the last white stripe for the winning touchdown.

Ottawa increased its total to n' points just before the final whistle blew Jack Williams, Ottawa's great halfback, shot a drop kick at the Tigers' goal from the 40-yard line which just fell under the crossbar.

Ottawa's share of the gate receipts was $350.



The line-up:

Tigers—Fullback, Tope; Halfbacks, Simpson, Biggs, Moore; quarterback, Ballard; scrimmage, Burkholder, McCarthy, Craig; insides, Barron, Gray, middles; Ibister Wigle; outsides, Loftus, Marriott.

Ottawa—Fullback, Powell; halfbacks, McCann, Williams, H. Kennedy; quarterback, Kilt! scrimmages, Sheriff, G. Kennedy, Phillips; insides, Church, Aylmer; middles, Vaughan, Disney; outsides, Stronach, Ryan.

Officials—McKenzie and McMaster.

To-morrow's famous game will be the McGill-Varsity match in which Quilty scored three touchdowns.

LEONARD OFFERS WORTERS $6,000

Star Goalkeeper in N. H. L. Still Holds Out For $8,000.

TORONTO, Nov. 14.—The King of the Holdout Tribe of the N.H.L., Roy Worters, suspended goalkeeper of Benny Leonard's Pittsburgh Pirates, is back home in Toronto.

"I am just marking time to see what will happen," said Worters. "I am on the suspended list and I guess I will be, unless I haul in my horns and take $6,000 for the season. Originally they offered me $5,200 which was an advance on what I received in previous years, but I want $8,000. That is what I asked Benny Leonard for and what I intend to stock out for. If I do not get it I guess I will remain out of hockey. Benny Leonard and his associates all tried to make me come down in my price, but I stuck it out. Can you imagine Leonard coming to me and telling me that I was just a youngster and that I would likely arrive this season and would be able to get the big money later on. I told him that competent judges had already told the hockey world that I had already arrived and that after playing three years for small money I intended to have some of the real money. He said that the Pittsburgh Club could not pay what I asked. That isn't my fault. I have to work just as hard as the rest of the goal keepers and be just as good as the rest of them, no matter how much they can afford. I do not want to stay in Pittsburgh anyway. I would much rather break away with some other club. I have been too long there. That is the only town on the map where I do not get credit for being a goal keeper."

FAIRMOUNT.

FAIRMOUNT, November 14. — A very enjoyable evening was spent under the auspices of the W.M.S. recently, when a good-natured crowd of old and young filled the Sunday School Room, which was decorated with cats, witches, bats, jack o'lanterns, and festive colors. A program of the following artists was given:

Opening chorus, Members of the W.M.S.

Quartette, Mr. and Mrs. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. C. Hanbidge.

Violin and piano duets, Mrs. A. McBain, Harry McArthur.

Piano instrumentals, Claremount Morgan.

Readings by Mrs. G. McIntosh, Miss Helen Staples, Miss Mary Staples, and Irwin Allen.

After the program sandwiches, tea and an abundance of pumpkin pie and whipped cream tickled the palates of the merry party.

The small fee of 15 cents was charged, and the proceeds amounted to over $14.00.

MAULER CONFERS WITH TEX RICKARD

Rumors Again Revived That Ex-Champion Will Return To Ring.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Two wealthy business men sat down yesterday to discuss through smoke of mild Havanas everything pretaining to the fight game except the chances of one of them, Jack Dempsey, returning to active competition. That was saved for a later date, when the host, Tex Rickard, will hold forth discussions with the former heavyweight king.

The boss of Madison Square Garden, tanned to about half fo the complexion of his cigars, came back to his desk after a six week vacation in Florida. His return was the signal for prompt appearance of Dempsey and revival of all the rumors of a new comeback attempt to be staged by the old Manassa Mauler next summer.

For more than two hours, Dempsey, in a most congenial and receptive mood, talked of fights and fighters, with Rickard and a host of newspapermen. He discussed the advantage of Florida as a winter training ground, analyzed the fighting qualities of Paulino Uzcudun, and agreed the Spaniard would be an ideal opponent in the event of a comeback.

The former champion was careful to avoid mention of his oft-reiterated statement that he was "through with the ring forever." He appeared restless, anxious to find an outlet for the nervous energy that keeps him continually "on the go." When he had left the room Rickard smiled a benign smile and said:

"A few more months and the big fellow will be begging for a fight. He just can't stay inactive."

Discuss Business at Night.

While the business of the discussion, on the surface at least, was to cement again the friendly relations that have had much to do with the millions both promoter and boxer have made together, Rickard said the business of a comeback would be discussed at the dinner to-night. But in accordance with his canny policy of getting the most from his publicity assets, he said there would be no definite announcement for "several days" at least.

The promoter said he had but two courses open in the event that Dempsey did decide to return to the ring. One would be the announcement that the old champion, twice the victim of the retired Gene Tunney, was ready and willing to fight the winner of the winter elimination tournament in a title battle next summer. His other plan would call for withholding of any annoucement until the winter, and his suitability as an opponthe elimination parade

Photo-Play Magazine said: "For sure-fire entertainment, see Bebe Daniels in 'Hot News.' This is Bebe at her best, making the impossible seem easy of accomplishment. It sets a fast pace at the start and keeps it up until the end."

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

BEBE DANIELS' GREATEST PICTURE, "HOT NEWS," WILL BE AT THE CAPITOL THURSDAY, FRIDAY, AND SATURDAY — ONE OF THE SEASON'S GREATEST SUCCESSES — ALSO THE THIRD OF THE NEW COLLEGIAN SERIES.

Bebe Daniels' admirers will feel that she has made the most spectacularly thrilling picture of her career when they see "Hot News," which opens at The Capitol to-morrow.

Abounding in adventure, suspense, thrills, humor, and romance, it will appeal to people in all walks of life as one of the most entertaining films this popular star has ever made.

The story deals with the exploits of a news reel camera girl who steps into her father's business at a crucial moment and saves him from ruin by "scooping" the other news reel services at every turn.

The climax of the picture is one that is warranted to give the most blase movie-goer a thrill. Airplanes and government coastguard cutters are employed to make this an unusually spectacular finish.

"Hot News" is excellent screen fare. It tells an authentic story of one of the most adventurous professions in the world — that of the news reel cameraman. Miss Daniels is her usual vivacious self in this picture, and, in addition to her talents as a comedienne, her prowess as an athlete is nothing short of amazing.

The New Collegians will also be on the program for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

AT THE REGENT.

"TENDERLOIN" STARS DOLORES COSTELLO

Scheduled for Regent To-morrow

Dolores Costello, one of the greatest of the screen's reigning stars, will be presented by Warner Bros. at the Regent on Thursday when the talented and alluring actress will be seen in "Tenderloin." The producers announce this picture as a pretentious and ambitions effort and that it is, is shown by the names associated in its making and projection.

It is known that Miss Costello has no patience with namby-pamby characterizations. For this reason she selected "Tenderloin," insomuch as its heroine is a girl who runs the gamut of human feelings. It is a role that gives opportunity to play upon the sympathies of an audience, to grip it and to reach the emotions. The heroine of "Tenderloin" is an innocent young girl enraptured with a good-looking boy, who seems to be the soul of honor. In reality he is a master crook, not one of the petty, sneaky kind, but the type that goes in for "big money," at the same time making light of the risks as long as the gun hand is free. Brought into the gang of which her good-looking boy is a member, this girl goes through adventures that would drive her mad only she believes that somewhere there is some good, some nobleness, some influence that will save her from an abhorrent existence.

"Tenderloin" as presented was adapted from Melvill Crosman's original story by E. T. Lowe, Jr. It as had the benefit of the expert and artistic direction of Michael Curtiz, which adds to its importance as a screen offering. Heading Miss Costello's supporting company is Conrad Nagel, who, as may be imagined, plays the good-looking crook. Others in the cast include Mitchell Lewis, Dan Wolheim, John Miljan, Georgie Stone and Pat Hartigan.

Bowling
Alley Gossip
By Pin Boy

Duffus Alleys.

The C.G.E. Bowling team that is entered in the Manufactures League gave a spectacular demonstration of pin busting on Thanksgiving Day in the tournament by the management of the Duffus Alleys and as a result took first prize. Four games were played with total pinnage to count, and the C.G.E. quintette piled up the staggering totatl of 4548 pins. Bud Weese carried off the prize for the high single with a total of 302. The following is the score:

Playford	207	202	222	175—806
Grant	177	263	260	162—762
Weese	302	185	228	277—986
Calladine ...	174	218	277	268—937
McGrath	289	206	223	275—993

A ladies team from the A.Y.P.A. League made a splendid showing in a three game roll-off piling up a total of 2,409 pins, this score taking first prize. Miss Olive Rightmeyer was exceptionally good accounting for the high single score of 264.

Mercantile League.

The Barbers will have to do something to improve their pin busting, judging from the walloping which they received from the Canadiens last week at the Duffus Alleys. The winners had a margin well over 300 pins in total pinnage and took every game, which adds 8 points to their total. V. Fitzgerald was chief pin toppler with 264, 247 and 235 making high trio 746 while George Giroux was hitting them hard, making 256 single.

The Cardinals handed the Firemen the tailend of the argument with a 6 to 2 victory. R. Suddards was the feature performer with 215 and 231 and also made high three 609.

The Little Five and Peterborough Lumber Co. conducted hteir battle along more social lines, each taking four points. C. Wolff and J. Eastwood were the heavy hitters making 292 and 235 respectively.

Sloan and Company bowlers are beginning to zip along in better style, and were able to take six out of eight points from the Underwriters. Dunstan and Trennum for the winners topped the 600 mark with high three scores while Doughty and Weese for the Underwriters plunked the pins for 256 and 241 single.

The Bus Drivers were overwhelmed by the clever exhibition uncorked by the Buick Specials who are eight points to the good as a result of their victory. George Gimblett, Sr. with 242, G. Copping with 253, and J. W. McDermid's score of 240 were the highlights of this battle.

MANUFACTURERS' LEAGUE.

The Canadian Packers, although slow in getting away, were at last able to show a real fighting style, and accordingly were able to carry off the spoils in two games out of three against Stock's Bread on Monday night. Jim McLeod set a fast pace and a good example for the Packers, making 248 and 568 total. Claire Theobald showed good form with 242.

The prizes that Lew LeBarr offered for the lady and gentleman who bowled the highest total score in three consecutive games, were won by Miss Margaret Fife and Grant Gillespie, whose total scores amounted to 1,125.

GROUP NO. 2, C.G.E.

As a result of their two game win over the Insulation Crew last night, the Meter Makers are leading in Group 2 of the C.G.E. Shop League. Bannon and Hollingsworth biffed the pins in a healthy manner, making 273 and 222 respectively. Bannon also took high three with 579.

Brass No. 2 kept up the good work by taking two from Brass No. 1 despite the clever bowling by E. Boon, who rolled 196, 228, and 208 for a high three score of 632, while W. Weston for the winners hit them hard, being the only other player to top the 600 mark, his high score of 234 was high single for this game.

* * *

The Lightning Arrester squad walloped the Switchboard team in fine style, taking two games and losing the third by a very small margin, although Baker for the Swithboard collected high single with 264, high three going to Carter, who made 594.

SARNIA CONFIDENT OF REACHING FINAL

Play Kitchener For Right To Meet Varsity Orphans.

SARNIA, Ont., Nov. 14.—Jack Newton's Sarnia rugby seniors left this morning for London where they meet the Kitchener Panthers in a sudden-death game to return a winner to meet the Varsity Orphans in Toronto Saturday, in the O.R.F.U. final. The team is in first-class physical condition and bubbling over with confidence. The players are confident they can "take" both Kitchener and Varsity in the same week and qualify to meet the Hamilton Tigers in the Dominion final the following week-end. Sarnia came out of Saturday's hard game here without injury. Beauchamp was hobbling around during the game for a while but he was better before the final whistle. There isn't an ache or pain bad enough to keep any of them out of the game to-day. The whole squad turned up at the Athletic Park yesterday afternoon and scampered through a long running session to pep up the wind and tore through their signals a couple of times. There is all kinds of pep around the camp and nothing but victory is seen ahead.

Saturday marked the first time in the last five starts that Sarnia has been able to stop Kitchener. The teams have played seven games, Kitchener winning four and Sarnia three. Sarnia's line-up for to-day's game will not likely be changed from last Saturday. Captain Cutie McPhedran will be at flying wing and Jo Jo Stirrett, Perry and Beauchamp will be on the half line. Johnny Manore, whose engineering of end runs, Saturday, stamps him as the most promising quarterback find of the season, will be calling signals and Less Ewener will be over the ball. Blackie and Sisson will be at insides with Smith and Wilson at middles. Burwell and Bill Ewener will be the likely starting choice for end wing. Mandeville, Scharf, Reeves, McNair, McLean, Hurst, Fitzgibbon, Welch and Cook will be the alternates.

FROM SQUARED CIRCLE TO THE FOOTLIGHTS

Jack Dempsey's recent appearance on the stage brings to mind similar appearances by Jeffries, Sullivan, Terry McGovern and other champions, says the December FIGHT STORIES. Jim Corbett probably was the most successful of the boxers who turned to the stage. He had a flair for grease paint and the footlights.

On the screen Victor McLaglen, once heavyweight champion, is by far the best of the boxer-actors. McLaglen established his fame by his marvelous impersonation of Captain Flagg in "What Price Glory." Tom Kennedy, the old heavyweight, has been doing well in Hollywood. So has One-Round Hogan, the lightweight star who invaded the East nearly twenty years ago. Gunboat Smith and George Godfrey also did well in screen work.

Babe Ruth Assured Of Princely Income

NEW YORK, November 14 (Canadian Press). — Babe Ruth's famous trust fund has grown by another $10,000. The big sock man of the New York Yankees came to town yesterday, visited his bank and deposited enough cash to increase his trust fund to the grand total of $130,000. The "Babe" started the fund after his disastrous season of 1925, arranging the investment so that he could not touch the principal. The fund now assured the "Babe" a yearly income of $10,000 or thereabouts. Practically all of the principal has come from what Ruth terms "commercial by-product," such as barnstorming trips, vaudeville, movies, and advertising.

MALE VOICE CHOIR HOLDS REHEARSAL

Tenor Section Requires More Members—Invited To New York.

The weekly rehearsal of Peterborough Male Voice Choir was held in Canadian Legion Hall last evening, all sections being well represented, but with room for improvement in attendance of members, and also in new membership. The weakest section is the tenor, and it is hoped choristers in this necessary body will come forward next Tuesday if possible, as the officers are anxious to close the membership in a week or two.

The music is tuneful and interesting, and can be enjoyed by all participants at the practices.

Receive Invitation.

The executive last night dealt with a communication received by Mr. Chenhall, the choir conductor, from the Associated Glee Clubs of America, New York, in the form of an invitation to visit New York in May next.

This request comes as a signal honor to Peterborough, since the Male Voice Choir, should it see its way clear, will be one of two, or perhaps three, Canadian Male Voice Choirs, invited to take part in a great musical festival.

According to the syllabus to hand, on May 24, 1929, a mass-chorus concert will be held in Madison Square Garden (18,000 seating capacity), when a male chorus of 5,000, from every State of the Union, with the Canadian choirs, will render a program on the Friday evening (24th), and on Saturday, a competition will be held, "Twilight" (Mair) and "Lullaby of Love" (Fletcher) as the Class A and Class B test pieces respectively. The contest would probably be held in some other auditorium.

This honor would undoubtedly lend prestige to Peterborough through its Male Voice Choir, and be a means of more intimate musical relations on both sides of the boundary.

The proposition will be discussed fully by the executive here, and further particulars are being awaited by the members.

Uzcudum Is Reinstated By Boxing Commission

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Paulino Uzcudun was reinstated and Sid Terris suspended yesterday at the regular meeting of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Uzcudun had been in disgrace as a result of his fouling Big Boy Petersen in a recent bout at Ebbets Field, but had been permitted to box Otto Von Porat at the Garden.

Terris drew official action upon his head by failing to appear before the commission to explain the injury which caused him to cancel his scheduled trip to Washington at the St. Nicholas Arena there Monday night.

George Levine, Harry Wallace were reinstated after serving some weeks on the ineligible list.

POPPY DAY IS SUCCESSFUL

Canadian Legion Secures Sum of $1,058.48 On Annual Tag Day.

MRS. GARNER LEADS.

Saturday was one of the most successful poppy tag days ever held in the city. Nearly every citizen was glad to buy a poppy and the taggers braved the cold damp weather in their efforts to secure funds for the returned men. The amount received in the boxes on the sale of poppies was $851.60 and the sale of wreaths and other contributions brought a total of $1,058.48.

Two little girls who were selling poppies on George street were told by one kind gentleman who had just placed a slip of paper in their box, that is was a cheque for $10. The little girls, hardly realizing what was meant by a cheque and startled by the amount, were anxious at the end of the day to see the piee of paper that the gentleman had so carefully placed in their box. To satisfy their urgent curiosity, precedant was broken, their box was opened before their eyes and there in one corner among all the pieces of silver was the cheque for $10.

A boy scout found it impossible to fold a dollar, given to him in payment for a poppy, small enough to push it through the narrow slot in his box. He placed it in his pocket intending to give it to the men at the Legion Hall when he handed in his box that evening. But in the excitement and hurry of handing in the box he forgot the bill in his pocket. Afterward at home when he was changing from his uniform he felt the bill in his pocket and ran immediately back to the Legion Hall to place it in the hands of the treasurer, W. J. Swanger.

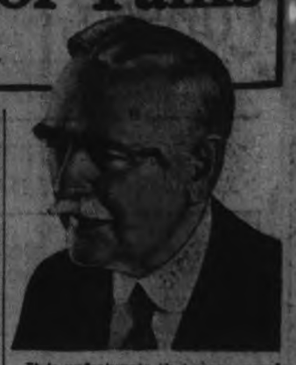
A Doctor Talks About Cascara



Judge the thoroughness of a laxative by its violence. The salts that rush through the system may not even penetrate the film of poisonous matter that has coated the colon. A long list of drugs will "loosen the bowels" but what is the best way to CLEANSE them?

The world's best laxative is one that Mother Nature makes in her own laboratory. It is the bark of a tree, called CASCARA. The Indians used to chew this bark—and reach old age without a sick day. It is the best thing there is today, for any system; best for the blood. The most beneficial in its action on the bowels, of anything yet disclosed. For many reasons:

First of all, there is no HABIT

CASCARETS
They Work While You Sleep!

It is unfortunate that many people formed from cascara. The bowels are not weakened but strengthened by its occasional use. The occasions when one needs this aid grow less and less. Its influence is long-lets You don't find yourself bound-up the day following. You do find the bowels more inclined to move of their own volition. The candy Cascaret that every drugstore has in stock is the ideal form of cascara.

THANKSGIVING STORY RETOLD

Zion League Holds Most Interesting Weekly Meeting.

45 PRESENT

(Examiner Correspondence)

PETHERICKS CORNERS, Nov. 14—Thanksgiving was the theme of the Zion League service on Thursday evening, when Gerald Barnum, assistant convenor of the Missionary group, arranged the program with Fred Fry, as leader. The roll call showed an attendance of forty-five, with the groups almost even. Following the opening exercises of hymns and responsive reading, the scriptural lesson was read by Don Barnum. Rev. F. G. MacTavish gave a short talk on "Thanksgiving" with emphasis on some outstanding things people should be thankful for. The history of Thanksgiving was told in a brief address by Miss Nellie Bennett. A very splendidly presented reading was given by Miss Gladys Petherick. A vocal solo by Thomas Fry and the missionary topic by Gerald Barnum brought the meeting to a close. It is expected that the next League service will be on Friday evening, owing to an entertainment in Hoard's Church on Thursday. George Brunton, citizenship convenor, will be in charge.

GROUP ENTERTAINED

C.G.I.T. Girls of Lakefield Motor to Millage Home in Smith Township.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BRIDGENORTH, Nov. 14.—The C.G.I.T. group of the Regent Street United Church, Lakefield, accompanied by their leader, Mrs. (Rev.) S. A. Kemp and Rev. Mr. Kemp, motored to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Millage, of Smith, on Wednesday evening, and held their mid-week meeting.

The president, Miss Merle Crawford, took charge of the meeting and Miss Dorothy Sutton read the scriptural lesson. The following program was given:

Reading—Miss Dorothy Sutton.

Vocal duet—Misses Mildred Purdy and Elva Hendren.

Reading—Miss Lulu Smith.

Kazoo trio—Misses Elva Hendren, Lulu Smith and Dorothy Sutton.

After this program, the meeting closed with prayer by Rev. Mr. Kemp. The remainder of the evening was spent in games, after which the hostess served a dainty lunch.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Millage by Miss Merle Crawford, seconded by Miss Elva Hendren. Mrs. Millage replied that it was a pleasure to have the group and hoped it wouldn't be their last visit to her home.

OLD COMPANY'S LEHIGH

THE BEST SINCE 1820

Neither Underheated Nor Overheated

THE comfortable home is neither underheated on severely cold days, nor overheated at other times.

A fuel that cannot be held down in mild weather is as unsatisfactory as one that fails to deliver sufficient heat when the thermometer moves toward zero.

Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite gives you a wide margin of flexibility in your home-heating. This coal holds fire tenaciously under light draft, permitting a slow fire without danger of its dying out.

And it responds quickly to the dampers when increased warmth is needed, rapidly running up the house temperature to combat any sudden drop outside.

The reason is that Old Company's Lehigh is a pure, hard coal, packed with potential heat which is ready to be released as needed.

Your local Old Company's dealer is a reliable merchant, who handles this dependable coal because he is that kind of dealer.

He will supply you with Old Company's Lehigh in clean, prime condition, delivered as you like it; and he, furthermore, will be glad to advise you how to burn it for the greatest efficiency and economy.

Tune in on Reinald Werrenrath Recital SUNDAY 7 P.M. WEAF and Associated Stations

Mine Leaders Drop After Firm Opening

TORONTO, Nov. 14.—(Canadian Press).—After firm opening this morning the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange became irregular with numerous leading issues going down. In spite of the announcement that railway lines would be run into the Sherritt-Gordon property, the issue dropped to $6.75 for a net loss of 10 cents, after opening at $6.90. Towagamac which had a particularly active day yesterday when it went as high as $3.25 was down 25 cents at $3.00. Noranda, too, dropped 25 to $53.75. While Mining Corporation

Massey-Harris Registers Gain On Active Market

TORONTO, Nov. 14.— (Canadian Press).— A firmer tone marked this morning's session of the Toronto stock exchange today. Massey Harris again featured the market with sales totalling 16,765. At noon it was selling at around 77 for a net advance of 6¼ points after selling as high as 78 for a new high. Cockshutt Plow was another active feature and registered 1½ point gain at 36, with a turnover of 3,560 shares Canadian Industrial Alcohol at 46 7-8 showed a gain of 7-8. Imperial was the only oil stock to show firmness, advancing a half to 96. British American Oil at 51½ dropped one point and International Petroleum was fractionally lower at 50 5-8. Waterloo was up 2¼ at 24, DeForest Crosley continued its upward trend, with a gain of four to 51. Tamblyn at 45 gained one and British Columbia Packers advanced ¾ at 26¾. Abitibi and Shredded Wheat were both up one at 39 and 66 respectively.

Mining Briefs

A Special Service to The Examiner

Buying of a significant character is steadily firming the price of Bathurst Mines Ltd. The demand is coming from strong Montreal interests. This activity follows reports of a favorable character which emanated from the property recently. These were to the effect that the drift at the 250 foot level was in a good width of good grade ore. This crosscut is expected to be directly underneath the famous Golden Sidewalk in the near future. This latter is a dome of quartz exposed on surface and is regarded as one of the most spectacular showings of the Red Lake district. So rich are the showings on surface and in the dome that the company is installing a ten-ton stamp mill for the purpose of "cashing in" on these. The mill will also serve to give some idea of the problems which are always in evidence in a new field. A few days ago, Frank Carnegie, mine manager, wired that the foundations for this mill were being erected, as well as confirming reports regarding development.

Drifting to the east on the 100-foot level of the Buckingham Mines, in West Shining Tree, have now opened up the vein for a length of 70 feet, showing an average width of approximately 3½ feet with considerable free gold and strong mineralization, states a wire from Haileybury. Assay plans covering this work are now in course of preparation and from indications to date these will show the vein to be of commercial grade. Crosscutting south from the west drift is said to have cut through 50 feet of important mineralization.

M. B. Huston, vice-president of the Mandy Mines, is quoted as saying that the company plans to deepen the main shaft in the near future. At present the shaft is bottomed at 525 feet and this will be increased from 800 to 1,000 feet. A new compressor is said to have been ordered and it is understood that while this is being installed the work of sinking will begin.

A wire from Vancouver reports that Kootenay Florence have made a find in a water hole of 50 by 60 feet, but that it is too dangerous yet to make a proper examination. It will be a week probably before the hole can be pumped out and a proper examination takes place.

Development to date at the Stewart-Abate Gold Mines property has been quite favorable, according to officials of the company. At present a test pit is being put down on one of several veins and this shows the break to be well mineralized, containing a lot of molybdenite and panning some gold. The mineralization runs far into the wall rock. Assays from this work will be available shortly. There are several vein systems on this property and the one on which work is now going on is some distance from the main workings.

Work on the Frechette Township property of the Clericy Mines is said to have revealed a width of from 4½ to 15 feet of high grade copper ore. This find is stated to have been traced for a length of approximately 80 feet.

The Gold Hill Mines announce that the vein intersected at the 1100-foot level shows commercial ore over a width of five feet. Drifting is proceeding, both to the east and west. It is expected that the drifts will disclose appreciable ore shoots.

News From the Mines

Through Solloway, Mills & Company

St. Anthony.

The Ontario Diamond Drilling Company has received the contract for diamond drilling on the property of St. Anthony Gold Mines, Limited. Drilling is to be carried out this winter preparatory to reopening the main workings of the mine and rehabilitating the mill and the property. At the present time a force of about 20 men are at work cleaning up the property, renovating camp buildings and overhauling machinery. This property produced a considerable amount of bullion some years ago.

Grandview.

Machinery for the 500-ton mill being built in the Pend Oreille district of Washington, near Metaline Falls, by Grandview Mines is now all on the ground and the work of putting the plant in condition for operation is proceeding rapidly. Officials of the company expect that the first ore will be treated between Dec. 1 and 15. In driving the main tunnel, an orebody was struck which continued for 15 feet, according to G. E. Riegel of Spokane, president of the company. No development work on this orebody will be attempted until the tunnel reaches its first objective, the 1,090 foot point, where a raise will be started to a glory hole.

Grace Mines.

The Power and Mines Corporation, Limited, announced over the weekend that they had given instructions for the erection of a 100-ton cyanide mill at the Grace Mine. Ore reserves are estimated at 100,000 tons, sufficient to keep the mill in operation for a period of three years. The shaft is reported to be down to a depth of 450 feet and has shown ore values of a good average.

Porter Idaho.

Work on the Porter Idaho tramway has stopped for the winter, according to our Vancouver office. Operations will be resumed in the spring.

Royalite.

Royalite No. 17 has around 6,000,000 cubic feet of gas. Will drive deeper in expectation of a larger flow.

Towagmac.

Our Montreal office reports that in drifting on the 500 foot level of Aldermac Mines good ore was cut over the week end. No details are as yet available as to grade, width, etc.

Towagmac's gain of 30 points to $3.25 in yesterday morning's market was evidently a discounting of the good news on Aldermac. Towagmac Mines own approximately 35 per cent. of Aldermac.

Grain Values Increase Following Report Issue

CHICAGO, Nov. 14 (Canadian Press).—Owing largely to the surprising bullish character of the Canadian Government crop report all grain values here went up with a rush early to-day. Corn and oats scored a new high price record for the season. Opening at 1 to 1¾ advance, wheat rose a little further in some cases and then re-acted to a moderate extent. Corn started 1-8 to 1 1-8 higher and subsequently held near to the initial range. Provisions likewise slanted upward.

Wheat, Dec. 116 3-8; March, 121 3-8. Corn, Dec. 83¼; March 88. Oats, Dec. 45 1-8; March 45 5-8.

Stocks Hold High Mark Despite Selling Squalls

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—(Canadian Press).—Speculation in stocks continued at a terrific pace in to-day's market with the general price tendency still upward. Waves of selling swept through the market at intervals, carrying many issues down one to five points, but new leaders were quickly brought forward and a long list of issues sold one to nearly twelve points higher.

So great was the accumulation of orders that the ticker again fell about one hour behind the market with indications by early afternoon that total sales would again cross the five million share mark.

Except for a series of favorable earnings and dividend statements including a fifteen percent stock dividend on Otis elevator there was little new in today's news to influence the price movement. Call money was in plentiful supply at renewal figure of six percent. and there was talk of further imports of British gold.

Further stiffening in pig iron prices carried the iron age composite price to highest level since July 1927. United States Steel Common was again in forefront on an advance, crossing 170 to new high record.

National Bella Hess was marked up nearly twelve points to a new high record at 168. Sears-Roebuck ran up eight points to a new high at 197½, which contrasts with year's low of 82¼, but Montgomery dropped from 390 to 380 before the selling was checked.

Selling pressure also was effective against Radio, Union Carbide, Wright Aero, Union Pacific, International Nickel, Western Union and American Smelting, which were driven down three to five points below yesterday's final quotations. Strong selling resistance also was apparent in the motor group but the recessions were not large.

Growing Organization Needs More Salesmen Salary and Bonus

Last January Purina Mills, a 35-year-old, Eleven Million Dollar Corporation, opened its first plant in Woodstock, Ontario.

Already this plant has been enlarged and our Canadian organization has grown from nothing to 30 salesmen and 150 carload dealers.

Additional territories now being opened offer a few men an unusual opportunity to grow with a large, progressive and fast-growing organization.

To qualify you must have unquestioned character and industry, previous sales experience, and an Agricultural College education or its equivalent. Age 25 to 35.

Give previous record of employment and enclose a recent photo or snapshot in first letter. A personal interview will shortly be granted to those possessing above qualifications.

SELECTION

There are many good investments in each investment group, and many poor ones, too. There are good common stocks, for example, whose earnings and dividend background entitle them to an investment rating, and poor bonds which, on the other hand, must rightly be rated as speculative.

Quality, rather than type, is the factor of importance in the selection of investment securities.

The protection of quality is assured to the investor who selects the offerings of investment bankers whose reputation for integrity is securely established and jealously maintained; and who, moreover, possess first-hand information concerning the governments or corporations whose securities they recommend.

Our current list of offerings will be mailed on request.

IN MEMORIAM

ROBINSON.—In loving memory of our dear brother, Gilbert Robinson, who passed away one year ago today, Nov. 14, 1927.
Days of suffering, nights of pain,
Waiting for the cure, but all in vain;
Till God above did think it best
To ease your pain and give you rest.
The flowers we lay upon your grave
May wither and decay;
But our love for you, dear brother,
Will never fade away.
—Sadly missed by sister and brother-in-law.

ROBINSON.—In loving memory of our dear son, Gilbert Robinson, who died November 14, 1927.
Yes, dear son, how we miss you,
But you are gone to happy rest,
Where the angels throng around you
And they will crown you with the blest.
You have gone to be with loved ones,
Who have gone on long before;
They are waiting, watching for you
Over on the golden shore.
Though your place on earth is vacant
And you will come to us no more,
Yet we hope again to meet you
When our time on earth is o'er.
And in that land of song and beauty
Parting hands are clasped no more;
When we meet again, dear son,
'Twill be where parting all is o'er.
All your days of pain and sorrow,
All your weary nights are past;
All earth's toils for you are ended,
You are safe in heaven at last.
—Sadly missed by mother and father.

LEGION BAZAAR OPENS TO-MORROW

The members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion are preparing busily to-day for their bazaar, which opens tomorrow at three o'clock, and continues until Friday evening.
This Auxiliary does a large amount of work among families of veterans and their dependents. Year in and year out, the ladies go about silently doing good for those who fought for their country in time of need. They send food and clothing to homes where these are needed and pay hospital bills when necessary. They pay visits to the sick and take them fruit and flowers.
Their bazaar is an annual big effort to gather funds for these purposes, and they include in it sales of things which are useful and dainty.
The booths are named after different rooms, with articles used in these room offered for sale. There is fancy work of all types, handkerchiefs, table and bed linens, home-made cooking and candy, with a fortune-telling booth and fish pond as attractions and service of afternoon tea. The "Lucky Five" orchestra, led by Leslie Abraham, have volunteered their services during the evenings.

Farmer Hears Screams of Girl

SEARCHERS RENEW EFFORTS NORTH OF BROTHERSTON HOME FOR MISSING KIRKFIELD GIRL

Victoria Road Residents Heard Girl's Screams Last Night in Nearby Woods.

SUGGESTS SUICIDE.

Hastings County Seeress Says Girl Will Be Found Near Home.

KIRKFIELD, Ont., November 15 (Special to The Examiner). — A report that a girl's scream had been heard from a lonely stretch of bush about three miles north of her home last evening at dark, to-day sent a posse of more than 100 searchers to follow what may be a clue in the disappearance of Gladys Brotherstone, the 19-year-old girl missing from her home near Kirkfield since Friday night.

To-day Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brotherstone, the girl's parents, were told that William McInery, a farmer who lives near Victoria Road, had heard cries repeated several times from the bush some distance from his farm house. Only Mr. McInery and his crippled daughter were at home at the time, and were unable to investigate. Haggard after the mental strain and almost ceaseless efforts of five days and five nights, Joseph Brotherstone, the girl's father, has refused to let darkness intercupt his search.

Searchers Played Out.

"You are all done out; aren't you going to get some sleep to-night?" asked a searcher, as the girl's father rested for a few moments. "I can't find her by sleeping," was her father's reply. "I've got to keep going." The family meanwhile is buoyed up in the search by predictions of Mrs. Elizabeth Booth, 83-year-old clairvoyant, who declares that Gladys will be found to-day. Last night in a little farm house at Wellman's Corners, Rawdon Township, Hastings County, this quiet, elderly woman, in whom the family places great confidence, held up her crystal before a brightly gleaming kerosene lamp and gazed into it. Then she stated she saw the girl lying prone behind a wall of rocks characteristic of the country within few miles of the girl's home. Nearby, the seeress said, was a man carrying which might be a lantern. He had not yet seen the girl, but was slowly drawing nearer; in fact, Mrs. Booth said, the girl might be found within an hour or so. Several of the persons in the room when Mrs. Booth gazed into her prophetic globe, say they clearly saw, with almost photographic clearness, the picture conjured by this octogenarian.

Shown a picture of Gladys, Mrs. Booth said that it was the face of the girl seen in the crystal. Hope springs eternal—and the family and friends of the young girl hope that the "seeress" might by some chance be right.

It is Mrs. Brotherstone's belief that her daughter went away intending to suicide; but another theory is suggested by a magazine that was found in her room. It was a magazine of adventure stories that she had been reading on the evening of her disappearance, and it contained two stories of men who went away and hid in the wilderness, the "hero" of one of the stories had fled to a cave and made it his home. The magazine was found open at the end of that story. Does it give the explanation of the disappearance? The rifle the mannish clothing, gymnasium bloomers, sweater, and blazer might suggest some idea of an adventurous journey rather than the flight of an obsessed girl to a tragic last hiding place.

Leaves For Kirkfield.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 15.—(Canadian Press.)—Inspector Wm. Stringer of the Criminal Investigation Department of the Provincial Police, has left for Kirkfield, where he will co-operate with those searching for Gladys Brotherston, who is missing from her home.

"Inspector Stringer has instructions to do everything possible to assist in finding the girl," stated Deputy Commissioner Cuddy. So far no reports have reached the Provincial Police here in connection with the search.

OLD HOME WEEK MEETING ON MONDAY

Mayor Denne has called a meeting of citizens for Monday night next, to organize Old Home Boys' Week. The meeting will be held in the Council Chamber, commencing at 7.30 o'clock and it is hoped it will be largely attended by individual citizens, and by representatives from all organizations.

Vestris Owners Deny Crew Inexperienced

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 15—Colonel Samuel Heywood Melly, Assistant Manager of Lamport and Holt, last night said:

"We wish to give absolute denial to the assertion that the crew of the Vestris was inexperienced, and we feel there can be no doubt that the boats were lowered at the right time.

"We have every confidence in Captain Carey and his crew. It is absurd to suggest that the crew was inexperienced. All officers, except the third mate, had Masters' certificates, and some other members of the crew had been with the Vestris since she was first commissioned."

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU OFFICE HAS GOOD YEAR

During Past Year Local Representative Made 2,027 Placements.

SUBMITS REPORT.

Always Had Steady Demand For Farmer Workers, 218 Placed.

While it does not include much that is statistical, the annual report of the Peterborough Branch Employment Bureau, shown The Examiner this morning, gives some interesting and authoritative sidelights on the employment situation in this district throughout the past year. The local office covers a wide field, extending, as it does, over the counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Haliburton, part of Ontario, and all of Muskoka district, and for this reason alone there has been much that the report does not cover. An instance of this is the demand from the Muskoka Lakes district for summer help, a demand which is partly met by the Toronto office; there is the factor of many applicants refusing to register, of many being handicapped by age or lack of skill, and of many more who have come, time and again for jobs which they will not attempt to retain. Thus, it will be seen that the work of the local bureau is far from covered in the number of placements mentioned in the report, 2,027.

Summarizes Work

The closing paragraph of the report gives an interesting summary of the past year. It reads: "Our placement for the year just closed was about the same as last year, 2,027, being placed. We also had a large number shipped into our district mostly from Toronto and Oshawa; we also shipped out some skilled workmen and some bushmen. Labor was well employed throughout the year, there being a steady demand for physically fit workmen, but handicapped workmen were, as usual, hard to place. The Trent Canal took care of a number of ex-service men on maintenance work, also for the bridge and lock tending, but this work closes in the fall, and these men are out of employment until navigation opens again."

Branches of Employment

Superintendent Hugh Robertson has dealt thoughtfully with the various main branches of employment. Farming, manufacturing, building and construction, logging, domestic and personal, are the heads under which he has written, the paragraphs dealing with each and reading as follows:—

Farming

There was a steady demand for farm workers all year and when the Spring work opened up we could fill all the orders received. About one hundred overseas men and boys were placed in this district by the Canadian Pacific Railway and this helped the situation some, but did not supply the demand and we had a waiting list of farmers from early Spring until the close of the fiscal year. We were successful in placing two hundred and eighteen in this group and could have placed twice the number, had men been available.

Manufacturing

Conditions were very good in the many different branches of manufacturing located in this district, but the turnover of labor was not very large, the reason for this being that many plants increased their staffs in 1927 and were still employing them in 1928, so that the only orders received were for replacement. The only new industry of importance was a branch

SURVIVORS AND VICTIMS OF SEA TRAGEDY

With 208 persons rescued alive from the liner Vestris, which sank off the Virginia capes on Monday, and with eight bodies recovered, 123 persons are still missing. Among these are Earl Devore (1) and Norman Batten (2), well-known automobile racers, of California. Their wives, also aboard the Vestris, were rescued. No. (3) shows the steamer itself; No. (4) W. W. Jones, correspondent of La Nacion, a Buenos Aires newspaper, who was rescued. No. (5) is Major Yasuio Inouye of the Japanese army, missing, and No. (6) his wife, who is rescued. No. (7) shows Capt. Sebastian Cummings of the steamer American Shipper, which rescued many of the survivors. No. (8) is Mrs. Norman Batten, rescued, whose husband is missing.

MISSING GIRL WAS LAST SEEN IN NORTH END BY MAIL CARRIER

Mary Bailey Was Accompanied By a Tall, Well Dressed Young Man.

NOT IN ST. CATHARINES.

Information is of Little Assistance to Parents in Tracing Daughter.

The first information that might possibly serve to throw some light upon the disappearance of Mary Bailey is contained in a statement made by Thomas F. Moore, mail carrier, who has informed Edward Bailey, father of the missing sixteen-year-old Kenneth Avenue girl, that about October 16th, the date upon which the girl disappeared, he saw her near the corner of Smith and Water Streets, accompanied by a tall, well-dressed young man, a stranger to the informant.

Mrs. Bailey, mother of the missing girl, informed The Examiner of this development this morning when a reporter called at the Bailey home.

The information is, however, of little assistance to the parents in tracing their daughter inasmuch as the description given of the stranger who was Mary's companion on the occasion mentioned does not fit in with that of any acquaintance of the girl known to her parents.

Mrs. Bailey confessed herself utterly at a loss to explain the disappearance of her daughter.

Never Mentioned Leaving.

"Had she at any time ever mentioned leaving home or expressed a wish to live somewhere else?" the mother was asked.

"Never," was the reply. "I don't remember her ever saying anything about wanting to live in some other city or about her intention of going away.

"We have tried every place we thought she might be," added the worried mother. "Her grandmother lives in St. Catharines, and thinking she might have gone there, we communicated with her, but she has heard nothing from or seen nothing of Mary. Our daughter was for three years at the School of the Good Shepherd in Toronto, and for a while we had an idea that she might have gone back to the school. She has not been heard of there either. We have some relatives in Toronto, but they have no news of Mary. There hasn't been a word or a line from her since she went away."

Young Man On a Bicycle Attacks Girl When She Is Returning Home From Work

The police are investigating in the hope of locating a young man who last evening leaped from a bicycle and attacked Dorothy Wallwork as she was walking to her home, in company with another girl, about six o'clock. The story of how Miss Wallwork was attacked on Monaghan Road, and of how her cries and those of her companion had attracted the assistance of a resident of that section who frightened off the attacker, was told The Examiner by her father, Frank Wallwork, of Western Avenue.

The young girl, an employee of the Bonner-Worth Mills, is in the habit of walking to her home each evening. She had reached a point on Monaghan Road, just west of the C.G.E., when the man, unknown to her, but whom she declares she would recognize if she saw him again, jumped off a bicycle. The other girl, with whom she had been walking, ran screaming, thus attracting help from a man who lived nearby, while Miss Wallwork put up a plucky resistance.

NEW DWELLING BEING ERECTED

Toronto Savings and Loan Co. Takes Out Permit For New Home.

WILL COST $5,000.

An application of the Toronto Savings and Loan for permission to erect a $5,000 dwelling at the corner of Hunter and Walton Streets, was all that saved the total of building permits for the first three days of the week from being very meagre, indeed.

The new dwelling will be 34 feet in length and 30 in width, and will be of brick veneer on concrete foundation. Lathe and plaster will be used in the interior walls, while a pine finish will be used throughout the eight rooms of the two-story dwelling. Wood shingles and asbestos will be the roofing material, while there will be two brick, flue-lined chimneys. An open fireplace and a hot water system will be used for heating. April 1, 1929, was the date set for completion.

W. Rogers will spend approximately $90.00 to move and repair a garage, while James Moran will erect a $35.00 hen house at 164 Lake Street.

A new barber shop will be provided for at the corner of Lake and George Streets. The new building to be erected by Joseph Rivard, contractor for Mrs. F. Marino, will be of frame,

DENTISTS HEAR FINE ADDRESS

Dr. Fred Conboy is Delivering Lectures To Normal Students.

SPEAKS AT DINNER.

"Education is necessary in the war against disease," said Dr. Fred Conboy, director of Dental Service for Ontario, speaking to the local society of dentists at dinner to-day in the Empress Hotel.

Dr. Conboy is in the city in connection with a course of lecture on prevention of disease and the care of the teeth at the Normal School. Dr. John Fair, M.D., of the Ontario Department of Medical Health, is also lecturing at the Normal School.

The speaker spoke of the importance of giving some information on the subject of dentistry to the teachers, because some of them will be teaching in communities far removed from a resident dentist. The teachers will also know the necessity of teeth hygiene and educate their pupils to the same view.

Dr. Conboy expressed the hope that the local society of dental surgeons would meet frequently and discuss some of the problems that confront them in their practises. The conclusions they reached, if sent to the Royal Society of Dental Surgeons,

BODIES OF VESTRIS VICTIMS ARE RECLAIMED FROM OCEAN

Coast Guard Destroyers and Rescue Ships Bring Bodies To New York.

JAPANESE ENVOY DROWNED.

United States Opens Investigation Into Sinking of Holt Liner.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Reclaimed from the sea, twenty two bodies of the Vestris dead to-day were being returned to grieving relatives and friends. The first body was brought to this city early yesterday on the rescue ship "Berlin" while last night eight bodies were brought by the coast guard destroyers, Tucker and Acussnet. The coast guard destroyer "Shaw" left the scene of wreck for New York with thirteen bodies. Many of the dead had not been identified to-day, the clothing of victims being devoid of identifying marks.

Among the bodies aboard the "Shaw" were those of Major Yashio Inouye, Japanese Consul at Buenos Aires, whose wife was rescued by the battleship "Wyoming," also Carl Franke, representative of a German firm and his twenty-two year old daughter, Ingeborg. Of the four bodies brought by the Tucker only two were identified, brass tags worn about their necks identified one as that of Jose Gonzales Rua, of Newbedford, Mass., and the other as that of Raymond Garcia Pelal of New York.

Nine Missing

All but nine of the known survivors of S.S. Vestris were safely in New York to-day, the last fifty-seven came in early to-day on a French tanker Myriam. Nine others are on the battleship Wyoming, bound for Norfolk, Virginia, of the fifty-seven, eight were passengers, others being members of crew.

Most of the passengers were silent about late Captain Carey's actions, but the crew outspokenly criticized the skipper. Mrs. Clyne Slaughter, only woman passenger on Myriam defended the captain. "He did his duty and did his best" she said. She denied stories of other passengers that crew had rushed lifeboats.

Mrs. Slaughter who last saw her husband floundering in the sea as the ship sank found him waiting at the pier when she landed. He recognized her, despite the fact that she was clad in a pair of French captain's trousers and a woollen undershirt.

TWENTY-EIGHT MINUTES ARE REQUIRED FOR JURY TO RETURN WITH VERDICT

Inquest Was Conducted Yesterday Afternoon in Village of Buckhorn.

SHOT BY UNKNOWN PERSON.

Bullet Struck Boy On Forehead and Passed Out Back of Skull.

In the little True Blue Hall at the village of Buckhorn, was held yesterday afternoon, the inquest into the death of Ross Lytle, aged about eighteen years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Lytle of Buckhorn, who was fatally shot on the morning of November 4 last. The jury, following twenty-eight minutes' deliberation, brought in the following verdict:

"We find that Ross Lytle of the Township of Harvey, came to his death November 4, 1928, some time before noon. Death was caused by a bullet from a rifle in the hands of an unknown person, and we believe it to have been accidental.

Intense Interest

Indicative, in a small way, of the intense interest aroused in the case, a crowd of villagers filled every available space in the hall as Crown Attorney W. H. Hatton, K.C., of Peterborough conducted the examination of the officers who had investigated the shooting, and of the companions of Lytle on that fatal hunt. Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield, presided.

The jury comprised Harry Shearer (foreman), James Irwin, Joseph Johnson, Charles Kerkimer, Charles Tanner of Likefield, Roy Chesney, George Wilson, Harry McIlmoyle, Herman Windover, and George Spafford.

Medical Evidence

Dr. Edwin E. Willis was the first witness called following the formation of the jury and other opening arrangements. He stated that he was a medical practitioner, and that he had viewed the body of young Lytle at between eight and nine o'clock on the evening of Sunday, November 4, the day on which the shooting had taken place. The father and mother had identified Ross Lytle's body and Coroner Dr. Smith had requested witness to examine the body. Death had taken place six, eight or ten hours previous, the cause being a wound on the right side, near the front of the head, and a second wound at the back of the head near the left side. There were no bullets in the skull, the bullet that struck Lytle having gone right through. Witness described the wound more fully, stating that the front wound had been circular, about one-half inch in diameter or slightly less, while at the back of the head, the wound was a shattered one from one to one and a half inches in diameter. If deceased had been in a normal position, the bullet must have been fired either from some position in front or to the right side of him. It was a soft-nosed bullet of .38 calibre that had struck him.

High County Constable Pearson

The second witness called was High County Constable Pearson, of Peterborough, who, in giving his evidence, said: "I saw Lytle at the place where he was shot, back in the bush in Harvey Township, about eight miles from here. It was on Lot 15, Concession 4 of Harvey. I went to the scene, and there were thirty or forty others there also. Lytle was lying on his left side with the muzzle of the rifle under his head. (The gun was shown in court).

There was a bullet mark on his left forehead and where it came out at the back of his head. They carried the body out to his father's house. I took the bullets out of the gun—four loaded cartridges and a discharged one. Here are three of the bullets and the empty shell. I gave the fourth bullet to the doctor. One other empty shell was picked up. I could not tell whether the boy fired the shot or not.

Dr. Smith: What was the calibre?
A: It is a .303 British.

Constable Webster

Taking up one of two rifles exhibited in court, Constable Webster of Lakefield, said:

"This is a 38-55 Marlin, the property of Jack Ireland. I got it from him and he said it was his. There were nine loaded bullets in the magazine. The first cartridge that I got from the gun had been fired off. I extracted it by pumping the rifle. With each pump I extracted a cartridge until they were all out—nine of them. The .303 is a fraction over 30 calibre; the bullets from the Marlin are .38 calibre'

"I saw the body after it had been moved. I saw it on the rocks and at the father's residence. I had a talk with John Ireland. He said that the five had gone hunting together and on reaching the edge of the rocks, had found tracks of a bear. The party had then separated; one of its members going into the swamp to chase the bear out. When the bear went over the ridge, several shots had been fired, two from Lytle's rifle and four or five from his own. He said that he (Ireland) had fired at a bear. He had distinctly seen it, he said, and from his position, with relation to that of where Lytle had been, it would be impossible for a bullet from his gun to hit Lytle. But Lytle had changed his position to one higher

PREMIER BRUCE PLACES LABOR ON DEFENSIVE

"Supremacy of Law Over Anarchy" Overshadows Tariff and Other Issues in Election.

GOVERNMENT CONFIDENT.

Labor Pledges Protection to Local Industries and Reform of Arbitration Act.

CANABERRA, Australia, Nov. 15 (Canadian Press).—The national triennial Australian election called for next Saturday, with the writs returnable for the meeting of the new parliament not later than Feb. 6, 1929, will probably go down in history as the hardest-fought political struggle since federation. It can be safely said that no democracy in the last decade has been asked to register a decision on so many diverse questions of public policy—all of them burning issues. Yet, curiously enough, the Nationalist-Country party coalition government, under the leadership of Premier S. M. Bruce and Hon. Dr. Earle C. Page, federal treasurer, is making its principal appeal for return to power on a single problem, paramount in its connotations to the public interest; law and order and industrial peace.

The Bruce-Page government in 1925 obtained a coalition majority of 52 in the house of representatives whose total membership is 75, and a majority of 26 in the senate whose total number of seats is 36, on the basis of radical tendencies in the Labor party growing out of a pre-election shipping strike. A similar waterside workers' strike in September and October of this year precipitated a general election, with Messrs. Bruce and Page asking the country to reiterate its condemnation of violence and disorder and disregard of Federal arbitration court awards. Between 1925 and 1928 Mr. Bruce's government had lost considerable popular support for a variety of reasons to be recounted in this article, but what the federal government views as the disregard by Labor of the public interest in the waterside-workers' strike, and a dramatic flare up of disorder in Sydney fifteen days before the election and after the strike had been considered settled, have, in the opinion of government supporters, made certain the victory of the present government.

Seats Changed

An award of the Commonwealth arbitration court last summer instituted changes in the scale of wags paid to wharf laborers. There were increases and decreases in the hourly rate, and these proved unsatisfactory to the Waterside Workers' Federation whose membership is approximately 12,000. The strike quickly spread until it affected virtually every important port in the commonwealth. The shipowners obtained an order from the arbitration court enabling them to employ strike-breakers because a "state of industrial unrest" existed, and this at once precipitated armed clashes between the two forces.

Mr. Bruce issued an ultimatum to the Federation that the "Government will do its utmost to maintain law and order by prosecuting those who unlawfully interfere with the peaceful carrying on of the transport industry of the Commonwealth," and proceeded to press through parliament the Transport Workers' Bill over the vociferous opposition of Labor. This measure, questioned as to its constitutionality, authorized the Governor-General to make "regulations...with respect to the employment of transport workers and for regulating or

Six Are Killed in Airplane Crash

PASSENGERS ARE VICTIMS WHEN ARMY TRANSPORT PLANE PLUNGES INTO A TAILSPIN

Machine Nose Dives Into Cotton Field—One Passenger Injured.

WING BREAKS.

Pilot and Staff Sergeant Make Safe Landing in Parachute.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Six men were killed and another was injured when an army transport plane crashed yesterday afternoon from 3,000 feet in the air to a spot near here on the Corpus Christi Road, ten miles east of Brooks Field, aviation training school for the United States Army.

The names of the dead are:

Private Arthur W. Hardesty, aged 24, son of Mrs. J. W. Howard, Lebanon Junction, Ky.

Private Niceforo Villereal, aged 29, son of Mrs. Virginia Villereal, Puanta Cochabainba, Bolivia.

Private Carl W. Harris, aged 22, son of Mrs. Minnie Harris of Winnsboro', Texas.

Private Harry W. Gauldin, aged 26, son of Mrs. G. C. Gauldin of Callander, Va.

Private Deaner T. McLusky, aged 19, son of Mrs. Martha McLusky of Paris, Texas.

Private Irvin Self, aged 23, son of Mrs. Lulu Self of Victor, Texas.

The accident occurred when the right wing of the plane broke off from the fuselage and the tailpiece broke away, plunging the plane into a tailspin. It crashed, nose first, into a cotton field.

The six passengers killed were in the cabin of the plane.

Lieutenant Harvey F. Dyer, pilot, and Staff Sergeant Frank J. Siedenhaler, who was in the front seat with him, escaped death when they were thrown out of the tilting plane and landed with parachutes. Dyer was unhurt, but Siedenhaler had a broken rib that was pronounced not serious.

The plane was a Brooks Field ship, and was out on manoeuvres when the

THANKSGIVING RALLY HELD BY YOUNG PEOPLE

Baptist Union Meets in Convention in Park Street Church.

DEBATE IS HELD

Gilmour Memorial Union Puts on a B. Y. P .U. Meeting.

The annual Thanksgiving Rally of the Peterborough Association Baptist Young People's Union was held in Park Street Baptist Church on Monday night. The president, Rev. J. L. Harton, B.Th., of Park Street Church, was in the chair. Devotional exercises were conducted by the president of Norwood Union.

"A Model B.Y.P.U." was then put on by the Gilmour Memorial Young People's Union, with Gordon McGregor in the chair. The meeting opened with a song service led by William Paul, and prayer by Rev. W. S. Edgar.

Miss Jean Paul read various passages of scripture bearing on peace, which was the subject to be discussed at the meeting.

The topic was divided into three parts; the first taken by Miss Betty Edgar, "The Evils Resulting from War"; "What is Being Done World Peace," by Miss Jean Scott; "Peace or Harmony in Nature," taken by Miss Phyllis Moore.

A number of questions all bearing on the subject were answered by other members of the group. The discussion closed with a few remarks by Rev. W. S. Edgar.

The Misses Lilian McGregor, Frances Sanderson, Marion Blewett, Eunice Hammond, and Phyllis Moore sang "Love Lifted Me."

Miss Mabel Paul presided at the piano.

Model Meeting

Rev. S. M. Smith of Campbellford opened a discussion on the model meeting. Remarks both appreciatory and mildly critical were offered by various speakers.

After tea, the meeting continued with a song service, led by Rev. J. N. H. Norton of Cobourg.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Miss Dorothy Ough, president of the Port Hope Union.

Rev. T. E. Meldrum of Port Hope then gave the report of the nominating committee, which was as follows:

President, B. H. Smith of Park Street Union; vice-president, Miss Betty Edgar, of Gilmour Memorial; secretary treasurer, Miss Dorothy Ough, of Port Hope Union; Councillors: Rev. T. E. Meldrum of Port Hope, and Rev. J. P. McLennan of Norwood.

Wins Pennant

The pennant for the largest delegation was won by Park Street Union and presented amid great enthusiasm to the youngest member. Members of the Park Street Union put on a pageant, "A Hut in the Northland." It was a mock trial, representing an indictment of the Christian church for failure to fulfil the great commission of the Master, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

Those taking part were Maurice Dunkley as judge; Cecil Lapp, court clerk; C. Chapman, defence lawyer; B. H. Smith, Crown Attorney. Witnesses were the Misses Gladys and Muriel Thomas, Edith Jobe, Ethel

TRENT CREEK IS BEING WIDENED

Campbellford Council Is Attempting To Eliminate Flood Danger in Spring.

BANKS ALTERED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 15.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence). — There will be no damage from Trout creek overflowing its banks in future if the town council and the engineer can avoid it. Last spring the creek rose to unusually high levels and did considerable damage. Cellars were flooded and people were unable to leave their residences for many hours. The roads and sidewalks in places were completely submerged. The water flowed over the Palliser and Simpson street bridges. The result was that many grievances were aired before the council at their next session and a few remedies advised. The town engineer was sent to look over the scene and advise the best way to coping with the situation.

The creek bed is being cleaned and levelled from the viaduct to Palliser street. All the large stones likely to impede the flow of water are being removed. The banks are being altered so that the creek will be from ten to twelve feet wider and stone walls are being built to protect the property on the south side of the stream. It is expected that this will relieve the situation which damaged Inkerman street last Spring. The creek bed is a stratified rock and to remove this material would involve a great deal of expense.

FOWL SUPPER BIG SUCCESS

Tables Were Laden With Liberal Helpings of Fowl at Omemee.

SECOND DINNER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, November 15. — Over five hundred people attended the fowl supper and concert given in Trinity United Church on Monday evening. The rain and muddy roads had dampened the spirits of those in charge, but when the supper hour arrived, there was no time for thought, as the ladies and their assistants were kept busy. People came from Dunsford, Peterborough, Lindsay, Janetville, Reaboro, Downeyville, and the surrounding country. The tables were laden with good things and liberal helpings of fowl, hot potatoes and gravy were served. After the supper there remained ample food to hold a suppr on Tuesday evening and again a good crowd partook of the fowl dinner provided for 15 cents.

The proceeds of the two evenings amounted to about $300.

Following the dinner on Monday evening a splendid program was given in the auditorium of the church. Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard presided. The ladies were fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. W. Reesor, of Lindsay, who pleasingly gave two vocal numbers, and was forced to respond each time with an encore. Miss Kathleen Baker, also of Lindsay, pleased the large audience with her readings, and she, too, was generous with her selections. Mr. Taylor, of Lindsay, organist of First United Church, contributed an organ solo. These artists were assisted on the program by the choir, the Misses Eva and Lillian Race, and Rev. Mr. Blanchard, who was heard in song and recitation, both of which were heartily applauded and an encore given.

This was a fitting conclusion to the Thanksgiving services of Sunday, and the pastor thanked all those who had helped in any way toward the success of the Sunday services and also the fowl supper and program.

Troubled With Painful Eruptions Cuticura Healed

"I was troubled with itchy, sore eruptions on my head for over a year. They were very embarrassing in company as I wanted to be scratching all the time, and if I did scratch them a watery fluid came from them. They were very painful, and my hair came out in patches.

"I tried many remedies during that time but without success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some. The irritation stopped after one week's treatment, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss B. HAROLD.

HAROLD, Nov. 15.—On Tuesday evening the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bain (nee Hazel Runnials) visited them and spent a social evening at their home at Harold. They presented them with many beautiful and useful gifts. Mrs. W. J. Scott read the address.

The bride then opened the presents and the groom gave their uses. The young couple then made a very fitting reply of thanks. The lunch was served and after a very enjoyable time they all went to their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Bain many prosperous and happy years of wedded life.

RURAL FAIRS DISCUSSED AT MEETING

Agricultural Representative Delivers an Address to Women's Institute at Warsaw.

Pupil Must Do His Own Work, is a Recognized Fact by All Parents.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Nov. 15.— J. B. Nelson, District Agricultural Representative, was special speaker at the Warsaw Women's Institute held in the Institute rooms last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Theodore Douglas asked to be relieved of some of the secretarial work, and Miss Mary Rose was appointed assistant secretary. Miss Rose's mother, who was formerly Miss Annie Hawthorne, was secretary of the Institute before her marriage. The treasurer's report shows a balance of $110.65 on hand.

The conditions of two families in the north were discussed. For one family donations of clothing, either new or old, may be left at Mrs. A. F. Choate's house. Old underwear, which may be cut down for children, would be welcomed, as the mother is industrious and capable of making garments. The other family is provided for at present, and inquiries are to be made about what is needed.

Shower For Hospital.

At the December meeting there will be a shower for Apsley Hospital. Dishes, flat ware, and cooking utensils are needed. More particulars will be found out and published shortly. They have none too much bedding, but home-made quilts are not suitable for an hospital. Long sheets, sent by the department, were used.

At the close of the meeting tea and cookies were served.

The next meeting will be on Thursday, Dec. 10, in the Institute rooms, when the delegates, Miss Mary Rose, and Mrs. David Miller, will give their reports of the convention.

School Fairs.

Mr. Nelson started his address by stating that there seemed to be a lot of good in the world. He had been at other Institute meetings lately, also the Kiwanis Club, and all were discussing how to help some one else.

In speaking of school fairs, some of Mr. Nelsons points were that school fairs had been about twenty years in the province and those in this district were in good shape.

The purposes of the school fair are not to give prizes that the children may have more spending money, nor are they for a social gathering. These do not come incidentally, but the fair is an expense, which the agricultural department would not put up for these reasons.

The fairs are educational and they have proved a benefit.

Having the honor of winning first place, or any of the ribbons is an essential, and to many fully as great, as the few cents of prize money. A large percentage of farm boys and girls do not stay on the farms. If the children, when young, can be made to take an interest in their work, they will be better citizens and can start about where the preceding generation left off. They amount to nothing for themselves nor anybody else, if they stand still. Our fathers cleared the land, and made the farms, it is for the following generations, each one, to improve.

The department gives seeds in the spring; the children do the planting, caring and exhibiting, and whether they win or lose they learn. If they

FALLEN HEROES ARE HONORED

Major J. F. Belford Delivers Address at Hastings Memorial Service.

LARGE AUDIENCE

HASTINGS, Nov. 15 (Examiner Correspondence).—With a capacity audience occupying seats in the town hall, an excellent Armistice Day program was enjoyed by the citizens of Hastings and neighboring communities. Promptly at 10.30 a.m., Dr. Wilson, Reeve of Hastings, called the assemblage to order, and welcomed all, in a few well-chosen words. He then introduced Rev. Major Belford, who was given charge of the proceedings. "Onward, Christian Soldiers," was sung, followed by responsive reading of scripture, and prayer by Major Belford. Two minutes' silence was observed, as the United Church bell announced the hour of eleven o'clock. At the conclusion of the address by Rev. Major Belford, Mrs. T. A. Chaplin of Lakefield sang very feelingly, an appropriate number.

People Loyal

In opening his address Major Belford stated that the large audience was a revelation to him of the loyalty of the people after ten years of peace. It was a certain indication that "they had not forgotten." He said that the soldiers suffered during the war, and many of those who were spared still suffer. War had affected their moral fibre, and their nerve had been shattered.. But in this suffering they had a part in making Canada a nation. Nation building was not the work of any one man, but the combined efforts of all her people. The soldiers who placed their lives upon the altar of Empire have passed the torch to us, and we are reminded to-day that we are to "carry on." Members of the Canadian Legion faced heavy odds in France, and they must still face heavy odds. Their rights have not at all times been recognized, but if they still "carry on" in the spirit of true soldiers, there is hope that wrongs shall be righted, and eventually world-wide peace be fully established. After the singing of "O Canada" and the National Anthem, members of the Legion were asked to "fall in" and march to the cenotaph where a wreath was laid by the Legion in memory of their fallen comrades. Flowers were also placed there by many "next of kin" who still remember.

TWO CARS COLLIDE NEAR BONARLAW

Both Are Badly Smashed, But No One is Seriously Injured.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, November 15. — Two cars, one driven by David Wellman, Jr., of ePterborough, and the other by Garnet Redden, of Stanwood, collided on the Town Line, near Allen's Mill, on Saturday night. Mr. Wellman's car was turned over, but no one was seriously injured. Mr Wellman received a bad bruise on his arm, and both cars were badly damaged. In the Wellman car were Bernard Coldwell and Daniel Bronson, of Peterborough.

Rotary and Farmers' Clubs Are Interested in Developing a Poultry Market.

MEETINGS HELD

(Examiner Correspondence)

STIRLING, Nov. 15.—The Rotary Club, of Trenton, and the Farmers' Club, are very busy developing a poultry market at Trenton, similar to the one which is held annually at Napanee. This market has a continent-wide reputation as being the greatest of its kind and has been operating for twenty-five years, at which from 150 to 175 tons of dressed fowl are disposed of. Every community has its surplus of poultry at this season of the year and the owners are looking for a place where they can dispose of their fowl. It is with this object in view that these clubs are developing this market. Only 6.1 per cent. of the birds marketed at Napanee are turkeys, while more than 70 per cent are chickens. The Trenton market is in no way, in opposition to the one at Napanee and the same buyers will visit both places. In order that the new market at Trenton might be better understood, meetings have been held at Campbellford, Brighton, Warkworth, Colborne, Stirling and Belleville. On Friday afternoon a meeting was held in Stirling after which an demonstration was given by an expert in the killing and plucking of chickens, which proved of interest to those present.

Automobile Runs Into Deep Ditch Near Emily Creek.

ESCAPE INJURY

(Examiner Correspondence)

DUNSFORD, Nov. 15.—Mrs. E. J. Woolard, whose husband runs the local drug store in Bobcaygeon while on the return trip in an automobile on Saturday from Toronto had an accident which might easily have resulted in fatalities. When about two miles north of Dunsford something happened the tire on one rear wheel which caused Mrs. Woolard to loose control of the car which swerved from one side of the road to the other several times and finally came to a standstill on its side in the ditch not many rods distant from Emily creek. Little harm was done the car and the occupants, including Mrs. Woolard and her two young sons were uninjured save a terrible nervous shaking up.

VALUE IN WASTE FROM GAS

By?products from illuminating gas manufacture, which now serve only to gum up the meter in your cellar, son may be turned to use in making plastics and perfumes worth many thousands of dollars a year, reports Popular Science Monthly. Investigating the clogging of meters, experts of the organic chemical laboratory of the U.S. Bureau of Mines have discovered that the trouble is due to gum formation from the chemical compounds, indene and styrene, always present in manufactured gas. If completely separated from the gas, it is said, eight million tins of styrene and twice that amount of indene would be available annually for making plastics and perfumes, and might possibly be used in ruber making.

MEN PLAN NEW ORGANIZATION

Bishop of Ontario Leads in Forming a Laymen's Movement.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, November 15. — A diocesan-wide laymen's movement, intended to result in a laymen's association, is being launched by the Right Rev. C. A. Seager, D.D., Bishop of Ontario. Following a representative meeting of clergy and laymen recently held in Kingston for the churches of that city, with Barriefield and Portsmouth, a second meeting was held in St. Thomas' Hall, Belleville, on Friday evening. Clergy and lay representatives were present from the following parishes: St. Thomas', Belleville; Christ Church, Belleville; Shannonville, Napanee, Roslin, Tweed, Marysburg, Carrying Place, Wellington, Picton, Trenton, and Marmora. In the course of a rousing address lasting an hour and a half, Bishop Seager referred to all such gatherings being planned throughout the Diocese, expressing the hope that out of them something would emerge to prove a real strength in the Diocese. He had many things to say which fell under three headings. First, he would state the general principle. Secondly, he would present a set of facts; and thirdly, he would ask those present to make suggestions as to practical steps. He asked all present to look at things from the hill top of the Diocese, side by side, if they would, with himself. Touching upon the general principle, he referred to the Diocese as one of the smallest and weakest in the Dominion, possessing but 58 parishes and missions. Quoting figures of the last Diocesan census, he showed that from 1901 to 1921 the loss to the Church from its rural districts had been 24,000, and the Church was still losing from that quarter. In other dioceses there had been a rural loss, but the cities had gained. In the Diocese of Ontario, it had been a dead loss, for there were no great industrial cities within the Diocese to absorb those leaving the rural districts. The Bishop then gave a series of striking facts regarding the administration of the Church in the Diocese, which is so largely missionary, thirty-two of its fifty-eight parishes being in receipt of Diocesan grants. Having looked inward into the life and constitution of the Diocese, Bishop Seager urged those present to look outward upon the whole thing of which it is a unit. The Diocese he referred to as being a great link in a long golden chain which Christ in His redeeming love has hung around the shoulders of the Father, and has been pleased to call His Church.

In making suggestions for the grouping together of the laymen of the Diocese, the Bishop thought various regions might be created such as Kingston, Belleville, Napanee, and Trenton, where outstanding laymen getting possession of the facts concerning the Church's needs could influence the whole of the laity to a whole-hearted response. Names were furnished of representative laymen of the parishes represented at the meeting to form as a central committee to organize and feed the parochial committees which will be formed.

MANY HOMEBREWS ON OTTAWA SQUAD

Powerful Club Gathered For Campaign in National Hockey Schedule.

OTTAWA, Nov. 15 (Canadian Press Service).—There is a firmly rooted conviction among the fans of this city, carried over from the time before players were paid, that Ottawa boys succeed on Ottawa teams.

Ever since the Ottawa team was formed the management has encouraged this sentiment by having players from the capital predominate, but never before to such an extent as this season have the Senators been the product of the school rinks of Ottawa.

Frank Nighbor, a citizen of Pembroke, is the only outsider so far, although one other may be added later on. Frank has done such wonderful work, however, that he is one of the most popular members.

The present team is also the youngest that has ever carried the Red, White and Black colors in the N.H.L. schedule. Nighbor and George Boucher are the only veterans. The regular line-up will be the same as that which played through last year. Nighbor will be at centre with Frank Finnegan right wing and Hector Kilrea on the left. Boucher and King Clancy will be the regular defence, with Alex. Connell in goal.

Cancy is heavier this year than last and quite as fast. George Boucher will be about the same and so will Connell. The Boucher-Clancy partnership has few superiors.

Alex. Smith will be the mainstay of the defence subs. The other subs are Bill Touhy, centre and left wing, with Stratford last year; Milt Halliday, centre, with London, Ont., last year; Jack Duggan and Sam Godin, forwards, and Allan Shields, defence, who started with the Senators last year.

Dave Gill will again be the coach

THE RADIO'S PART.

The great value of the wireless is indicated by the story of the sinking of the liner Vestris 300 miles off the Virginia coast.

Had it not been for the radio messages sent out when it was realized that the ship was doomed the loss of the Vestris might have been added to the long list of sea mysteries, and the whole ship's complement might have lost their lives.

The radio operator stayed at his post as long as possible, and his S.O.S. calls, picked up by other steamers, sent a fleet of vessels to the rescue, and were responsible for the saving of several hundred people adrift in life-boats and rafts.

Before the advent of the wireless it is doubtful whether there would have been any survivors; at least the odds would have been very much against the rescue of the passengers and crew.

When the part played by the radio in thus saving life, in facilitating business and in providing amusement and education for many millions of people is considered, Marconi's invention must be regarded as one of the most important credited to science.

THE GAS PLANT.

The City Council has decided to continue negotiations with the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, hoping that it may be possible to secure a better offer for the purchase of the local gas plant.

The lower price the commission is prepared to accept for the utility the more likely, of course, will be the ratepayers of Peterborough to favor its purchase should the question be referred to them.

In any case the people should have an opportunity to decide for themselves whether they want to buy the plant and have it operated as a municipality activity, or whether they are willing to see the franchise pass into the hands of a private company with all that would be entailed in such a transfer.

If a lower price can be obtained so much the better, and the Council is justified in endeavoring to secure better terms; but whether they succeed or fail in that endeavor, the whole proposition should go before the people for a verdict.

To allow the gas franchise with the rights and privileges involved in it to be absorbed by a private company without the citizens being given an opportunity to express their views would be a short-sighted and mistaken policy and one that The Examiner feels sure the Council will not make.

THEY DON'T PLAY IT THAT WAY.

Governor Al Smith, accepting his defeat in the sportsmanlike manner his record would lead everybody to expect, has been sounding the right note in his statements as to the duty of the American people toward the President-elect.

"Every man elected to public office is entitled to a full chance to make good, and Herbert Hoover should have every assistance of every American," is Governor Smith's conception of the situation.

That is good advice that could be profitably followed, not only by the people of the United States, but by Canadians in their attitude toward the men in this country who have been elected to public office.

Unfortunately, however, the game of politics—based on the theory of the "ins" and the "outs"—is not played just that way.

There is too great a tendency on the part of oppositions to oppose, and of Governments to reject opposition suggestions.

Among politicians it is apparently considered good business to throw cold water upon anything originating with the other fellows.

The legislation brought down by the "ins" is consistently opposed by the "outs," and in turn, when the latter advance a worth-while proposal, it is promptly squelched by the "ins"—possibly to be brought in at the next session as a Government measure.

Al Smith's idea of "every assistance from every citizen" does not get very far as the political game is played.

WHERE WOULD THEY WORK?

The intimation from Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, British Minister of Labor, that the British Government intends to negotiate with the Canadian Government with a view to opening wider the doors to Britishers who wish to migrate as workers to Canadian cities and towns, without agricultural training, is not likely to be enthusiastically received by Canadian labor.

The Minister declared that it would be possible to send out three or four thousand of this type in the next few months.

But with winter closing in and outdoor employment consequently being suspended to a great extent in Canada, is there any reason to believe that Canadian industrial concerns could absorb that many newcomers at this period of the year without throwing out of employment some of our own workers?

While the employment situation locally has been satisfactory, the time has arrived when outdoor workers will be searching for inside employment for the winter months.

Under such conditions, therefore, it would be a decidedly unwise policy to dump industrial workers into this and other similar communities at a season when their absorption would be almost impossible.

Suppose 100 such immigrants arrived here to-morrow, does any one imagine that they could be provided with work, unless room were made for them at the expense of local citizens?

THE PRIME MINISTER ON THE LEAGUE.

Mr. Mackenzie King did a fine service for his countrymen and for the cause of world peace when, speaking at the banquet of the League of Nations' Society on Friday night, he summed up so admirably and so eloquently the work being performed by the league. In these days of material prosperity, when once again the urge among us is for ease and comfort and luxury, we are all apt to forget the tragedy and the blood and tears that engulfed the world ten short years ago. Over thirty million human beings were killed and wounded during the war. Nine million of these—equal almost to the population of Canada—were killed. When we remember this and reflect upon what it meant; when we think upon the maimed, the gassed, the blind, the disfigured, and their untold agonies—so-called survivors of that war—what a pitiful commentary it all is upon our civilization and upon the shortsightedness which refuses to try to discover some measure to prevent such another catastrophe.

The League of Nations may not represent the one and only instrument that men can devise to prevent another war. Yet, judging it by its motives and its record, who can deny that it is a mighty agency for good, challenging support of all who desire perpetuation of peace? The framers of the League Covenant have never pretended that it was "verbally inspired," that, as the Scot's guid wife said of the Bible, it would be impossible safely to spare a word, not even "that blessed word Mesopotamia." But its authors and its friends do hold, and it is true, that the league can do, and is doing, a fine work for peace and decency and good conduct among nations, and that, therefore, all who value such things in the world should tender it their active support.—Ottawa Journal.

IMPROVEMENTS AND COSTS.

Improvements costs in all progressive communities are looked upon generally as gilt-edged investments.

Sidewalks must be built. Municipal buildings must go up. Sewers, roadways, parks and playgrounds to keep citizens physically fit, are as necessary and as vital as the purchase of food is to the individual.

There are, however, a few in every community who attempt to belittle each improvement as it comes up for public approval. They lament the cost, overlooking the returns in increased business for the merchants, increased employment and increased pay for the workers and general prosperity all around.

There is but one known way to keep taxes low, declares a contemporary, and that is stop all improvements. Quit building new streets, quit paving, stop sidewalk and sewer construction, discontinue building schools and public buildings, leave off getting a better protection against fire, or any of the numerous things necessary to round out things making for a better community and municipality—stop these and there will be no increase in tax payments from time to time. But if that be done, neither will there be an increase in property values; and when there is no increase in property values, that means there is no growth.

Men and money are attracted to cities that are growing. Few individuals casting about for a new place to live will choose a city that already is built. The chances for reward on investment in a city that is building are too great to stop in a city where a transfer of property rights in a dwelling may become a chief interest and excitement.

The more we build the more it costs, and the man who looks the situation squarely in the face and complains either is mistaken in his facts or unreasonable in his attitude.—Oshawa Times.

YOUTH'S RESPONSIBILITY.

Lord Willingdon, our popular Governor-General, addressed a meeting of young men in Montreal this week, concluding his speech with the following words: "A great responsibility lies with the young men and women of the British Empire, and I especially ask the young men of Canada to-day to take up that responsibility with all seriousness, to build up not only the material welfare, but the spiritual welfare of this great Dominion. I know you will shoulder this responsibility, and that you will do so with three great principles in mind, love of country, faith in the British Empire and complete love and devotion to our beloved sovereign, King George." It was an inspiring picture which his lordship painted of the British commonwealth of nations, all the dominions, covering the wide world, working together for the common good and for the promotion of British ideals. "Canada is the first Dominion and should and will set the example," the Governor-General said, in appealing to his young hearers to rise to the height of their privilege and opportunity. The future of the Empire depends absolutely upon the amount of faith and courage of its young citizenry. If there is an adequate conception of the great mission of the British commonwealth—the part it is destined to play in the pacification of the world—the response of young Canada to the challenge will be enthusiastic. The Empire is too vast to be properly comprehended by any single unit. Lord Willingdon is personally acquainted with many different parts of the Empire, and his outlook is necessarily much bigger than that of others not possessing such advantage. If all of us in Canada, in Great Britain, in Australia, in South Africa could only visualize ourselves as we really are—members of a united family, with a common purpose and similar aspirations—there would be no limit to the enthusiasm and degree of co-operation which would prevail. It is for the rising generation to appreciate their position and to make the most of it.

The chief thing which strikes the visitor to this country is its immense possibilities. Great as has been the rate of progress in recent times, it is as nothing compared with what will surely be in the years to come. It is a rare good fortune to be born in a country which is only just on the threshold of its expansion. Everywhere there is growth, and growth means opportunity. Lady Chamberlain, who a day or so ago was in Toronto, spoke of the great impression which the journey through Canada had made on her; but, she added, significantly: "We must come again to find what Canada does with the future." What Canada will do with the future rests, for the most part, with the boys and girls of to-day. That is the responsibility to which Lord Willingdon referred.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The wolf menace in the Apsley district at least supplies non-successful hunters with a perfect alibi.

Now that there is to be no reduction in the cost of motor licenses, it is not so likely that there will be a provincial election next spring.

In view of his speech the other night, it was probably just as well that President Coolidge remained silent during most of his term in office.

No one has as yet suggested Harry Sifton for the chairmanship of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission.

The appointment of Irving Robertson as editor of the Toronto Telegram has been applauded by the press generally. Mr. Robertson's fitness for the position is acknowledged on all sides.

Just in case it may be overlooked, it might be as well to remind our readers of the wisdom of early Christmas shopping.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

THANK YOU!

Warsaw, Nov. 13.

The Peterborough Examiner Editors,
Dear Editor:—

I just must congratulate you on the splendid Armistice Day number you sent out My husband informed me the one number would be worth a year's subscription. You have collected so much and it is so beautifully illustrated and put together—it must have entailed an immense amount of labour.

Have you any spare copies? We wish to keep ours and I would like to send one copy to a sister in Australia and another to a cousin in England. One of Stuart Miller's family will call in a few days and get them, if they are to be had.

I was a bit surprised to see two of my poor little contributions appear. I wonder why Mr. Fenton of Norwood did not write. Was glad to see Mr. McCleary did. I had been told his name was Mr. Clarry. Am proud to be a very small unit on a paper that could get out such a number. I especially liked the supplement pages.

Sincerely,
S. M. C. Miller.

The Question Box

House of Commons and Senate

L.S.C. Q.—What is the strength in members of the House of Commons and Senate?

A.—The membership strength of the House of Commons as fixed by the B.N.A. Act is 235, and that of the Senate 96. The former are elected and thel atter appointed for life.

A Thought

DISCIPLINE

Discipline, like the bridle in the hand of a good rider, should exercise its influence without appearing to do so; should be ever active, both as a support and as a restraint, yet seem to lie easily in hand. It must always be ready to check or pull up, as occasion may require; and only when the horse is a runaway should the action of the curb be perceptible.

GOD'S MINUTE.

I love the Lord, because He hath heard my voice and my supplications. Because He hath inclined His ear unto me, therefore will I call upon Him as long as I live. The sorrows of death compassed me, and the pains of hell gat hold upon me: I found trouble and sorrow. Then called I upon the name of the Lord: O Lord, I beseech Thee, deliver my soul. Gracious is the Lord, and righteous; yea, our God is merciful. —Ps. 116: 1-5.

Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for this new day, with its privileges and opportunities. May we in gratitude for Thy love and mercy serve Thee to-day with sincere hearts. Give us grace to do Thy will, and to accept Thy purpose for us in the spirit of joyful obedience, believing that Thy will is always best.

Keep our hearts from sin, our minds pure, and our motives true. Forgive us when we fail. Grant that we may consecrate the commonplace duties of the day with the consciousness of Thy presence. Whether the day brings prosperity or loss, sunshine or shadow, blessings or bereavement, may our faith remain firm, our love unfailing, our hope undaunted. Through us to-day may mankind be blessed, and the coming of Thy Kingdom hastened, for His name's sake. Amen.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—With a light run yesterday, prospects of a clean-up is expected. Quality of offering is not too good, but trading on all types is moving along steadily, with preference, as usual, for the finished cattle.

Heavy steers still continue slow at $9.50 to $10.00. It is fortunate that not very many are for sale. Choice handy weight butcher steers and heifers sell steady at Tuesday's gain. Good steers and heifers bring $9.00 to $9.25, with common $7.50 to $8.75.

Few baby beeves are in the run. The choice bring $13.00 to $13.50, and medium $10.00 to $11.00.

Cows hold firm at Tuesday's price for choice of $7.50 to $8.25. Some fancy sold as high as $8.50. Medium sell at $5.75 to $6.50.

Light butcher bulls maintain the strong price of $7.50 to $8.25, with a few fancy at $8.50. Heavy bulls are $7.50 to $8.00.

Only choice forward springers seem to be wanted, they sell at $100 to $135 for the best. Choice fresh milkers are $75 to $100. Medium and common kinds are slow sellers.

Calves are selling at $15 to $15.50 for choice. Good $13.50 to $15. Medium $9 to $12.

Lambs are unsettled with buyers bidding $11.25 for choice. Yearling sheep are purchased at $8 to $9. Culls $2 to $3.

No hogs marked, as packers are bidding $8.75 f.o.b. for selects, and salesmen holding out for $9.

Receipts: Cattle 716; calves 178; hogs 1,771; sheep 1,666.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15 (Associated Press).—Flurried buying sent all grain flying upward in price yesterday and then came a re-action. Remarkable curtailment made in official estimates of the 1928 wheat yield in Canada brought about the buying flurry but an increase of nearly 17,000,000 bushels was shown in world stocks of wheat, and there was a good deal more profit-taking on the part of wheat owners than could be digested at once.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅛ to 7-8c net higher, with corn 3-8 to 1c up, oats showing 1-8 to ¼c gain, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 25c.

Rising prices for wheat yesterday carried corn and oats to the highest level that March and May deliveries of the feed grains have reached yet this season. As in the case of wheat, however, top quotations failed to hold. It was pointed out that although the Canadian Government crop report cut down by 49,000,000 bushels the latest previous official estimate of Canadian wheat production this year, the world supply total includes 12,576,000 bushels enlargement this week in North America alone, with Canadian country deliveries of wheat for one day 5,184,000 bushels against 3,284,000 bushels a year ago. Meanwhile, European demand for wheat from North America was at least temporarily at a virtual standstill.

Argentine cables received just before the wheat market closed said heavy rains the last few days had brought about considerable lodging of wheat in north-eastern Cordoba and in Santa Fe province and that irreparable damage had undoubtedly been done. However, the weather in Argentina is now mostly clear and cutting of wheat is just starting. This would imply that the harvest of the first southern hemisphere wheat from America is now actually under way.

Cold wave predictions for the corn belt had a part in easing the corn market during the late dealings. Earlier wet weather and smallness of rural offerings did much to hoist corn values, especially while wheat was jumping upward. Oats paralleled the course of other grain.

Provisions were responsive to word that cold storage stocks of lard had diminished by more than 44,000,000 pounds in October.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., November 15 (Canadian Press).— The export trade in Canadian grain continued moderate here yesterday, and a fair amount of business was done in wheat and oats with both the United Kingdom and the Continent. The local market for cash grain was firm, with a fair trade passing.

The demand for spring and winter wheat flour was good and values were steady.

The trade in all lines of millfeed continued active and prices were firm. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was active and steady.

A feature of the egg trade was the strength that developed in fresh extras, and sales were made as high as 70c per dozen. This was attributed to the continued scarcity of supplies and the good demand. Other grades of fresh and storage were steady under a moderate demand. Receipts were 4,350 cases.

Little business was done in butter, but the undertone to the market was firm. Receipts were 233 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the local and export trade in cheese, but the values were unchanged. Receipts were 9,000 boxes.

Beans were steady at $5.25 per bushel for imported grades, and $4.83 to $4.90 per bushel for Canadian beans, ex-store.

Potatoes continued in good demand. New Brunswick Green Mountains sold at 65c per bag of 90 pounds, in bulk, and Prince Edward Island grades at 78c to 83c in bags.

RURAL FAIRS

lose they see why and can do better later.

Includes Contests.

The fair program includes contests in seed, weed, wood, collections, also contests in handiwork, for boys and for girls. Special prizes are not too desirable, they make much extra bookkeeping. If any organization wants to help the school fair, either give money to the fair to make the prizes larger, or have some special contest in which teams from each school may take part. Durham had a team of three from each school demonstrate the setting of a broken arm. One pupil was a patient.

People now appreciate the fact that if the pupil does not do the work himself it does him no good and teaches him dishonesty. Parent or teacher may guide and instruct, but the work must be the pupil's own.

Exhibits must be prepared exactly as the prize list says. If five apples are asked let there be five, not just four, nor six. Exhibits must be of the best possible quality for the purpose. Bets table turnips are not necessarily the best for feed.

Get and read the bulletins. They are full of the best points, and the more the boys and girls learn, the more worth while may be their work. Each one must do something to justify his existence. If we do not go ahead we are failures.

Home Gardens.

In speaking of home gardens, Mr. Nelson mentioned the indifference of men towards the garden. Perhaps they might plow once and harrow twice, and leave it, perhaps a month later than it should have been done, then he leaves it to the woman whose hands are pretty full anyway. He forgets that the small patch provides half the living during the summer. Sometimes there are a few carrots and beets in a corner of the field; sometimes there is no garden of any kind. Men do not worry, women have too much else to do.

It is all right to put the coarser carrots, and such vegetables beside the root crop, but there should be a small patch near the house, where the garden stuff may easily be gotten for the house. There shoud be lettuce, radish, onions, small fruits, and the many tasty and wholesome things which should appear on the table.

For the home garden contests the department gives 18 varieties of seeds. He notices that very few people seem to know how to use Swiss chard and spinach. They are so easily grown, and very wholesome. Another valuable vegetable, generally neglected is asparagus. Once planted, after a couple of years it requires very little attention. Get bulletins on vegetables and get some of the less common ones.

A hot bed which can be made in a very short time is a necessity; with it one may have vegetables a month earlier and home-grown young plants are better than those bought. A garden requires a lot of fertilizer, and commercial fertilizer, especially that containing a good percentage of nitrate of soda is especially good. It is good for fall wheat and makes a leafy growth, better quality and more rapid. Potatoes, however, do not do so well in the heavily fertilized garden; they are apt to be scabby. They require, for best growth, a light soil.

Obituary

(Examiner Correspondence)
LORNE NORTHEY.

YOUNG'S POINT Nov. 15.—The funeral of the late Lorne Northey took place on Friday afternoon from his late residence in Douro, on the arrival of the funeral of the late Russel Lane, when a halt was made and the same clergymen, Rev. S. A. Kemp and Rev. J. B. McCormack conducted the funeral services. The funeral of the late Mr. Northey was a military one, conducted by Comrade C. C. Stennu. The pall-bearers were six comrades, Walter Chappell, Joseph Hill, Ernest Robertshaw, Tom Simpson, Alfred Hudson and Mr. Simpson. The firing party included, Arthur Barker, W. Adamson, H. McCracken, D. Sullivan, R. Remnant and E. Tighe. The casket was draped with the Union Jack and many beautiful floral tributes were given, an everlasting wreath from the veterans being among them.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and young son, Elwood, his father, Thomas Northey, of Burleigh, Roland, of Detroit, and two sisters, Mrs. Harry Hockaday, of Young's Point and Mrs. William Bickel, of Smith township.

The double funeral wended its way down the country road and through the village of Lakefield to the cemetery, with the soldiers on foot each side of the hearse. As the Last Post was sounded by Comrade Allan Clarke, the thoughts of a great many travelled back to Flanders' Fields, where so many of their comrades sleep beneath the poppies.

The floral tributes included a wreath from the Legion, Lakefield; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hill, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. William Bickel, Smith; wreath, Mrs. Lorne Northey; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hockaday and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hockaday; bouquet, teacher and pupils of school, Douro.

(Examiner Correspondence.)
ROBERT H. LITTLE.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 15.— The funeral of the late Robert Hamilton Little will take place, under Masonic auspices, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon from Regent Street United Church.

Mr. Little, who was 64 years of age, was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Little, of Dummer, and for the past thirty-five years he has resided at Pinegrove.

Besides the four sisters already mentioned there is also Mrs. James Clarke, of Bubric, Sask.

THANKSGIVING

White; Messrs. James King, James McCulloch.

Miss Fern Rahmel was the prisoner. Mr. Jeffrey acted as policeman.

Personality

Joseph Wearing then gave an inspirational address, the subject of which was "Personality." He said that God gave to every man and woman a soul as well as a body, and the development or the degeneration of that soul resulted in personality and was the thing that made us differ from one another. He gave many amusing illustrations from the old family album of typical characters of the past, instancing Uncle Ned, Aunt Minnie, who were hypocritical, showing that in their very countenances, and Uncle John and Aunt Mary, who were goodness itself, and look it.

He concluded by urging the young people to put duty before pleasure as that, and that alone would make real character and true personality. His address was punctuated by flashes of real humor and contained a true philosophy of life.

After votes of thanks the meeting closed with the Doxology.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

BUTTER AND EGGS

TORONTO, Nov. 15.— Improved demand for first and extra grade eggs, and more active inquiry for No. 1 butter carried values upward in wholesale produce trading in Toronto yesterday. Publication of the preliminary storage report for Canada, showing quantities of both butter and eggs on hand at Nov. 1 to be lighter than those of a year ago, evidently proved a strengthening factor, and this, coupled with a generally more active mid-week trade had its result in a rise of ¼ to ¾ cent in butter, and a gain of 2 to 3 cents a dozen in extra-grade eggs.

The shortage of fresh eggs was sharply reflected in higher asking prices of 58 to 60 cents a dozen for fresh extras, delivered in Toronto, and firsts were quoted from 53 to 55 cents on the same delivery basis. Pullets' extras were also firmer at 41 to 42 cents. Prices to retailers were firm at a general range of 66 to 67 cents a dozen for fresh extras in cartons.

The improved buying movement was not altogether surprising in view of the forthcoming requirements for week-end trade. The post-holiday market of Tuesday was a dull affair, but retailers are beginning to replenish stocks, and the current shortage of fresh extras is, therefore, accentuated.

COMPANY BUYS PRESSED STRAW

Shipments Will be Used by Trenton Pulp and Paper Company.

FOUR CARLOADS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 15.—Four carloads of pressed straw were shipped from this point to Trenton on Friday, purchase having been made by the Trenton Pulp and Paper Company. The pressing of the straw into bales for shipment was in charge of G. Martin, of Hope township, and among the farmers from whom quite a quantity of the straw was secured were W. Elson, of the Seventh Line, Cavan, and Mrs. R. Lowery, Fallis' Line. Providing a high enough price is offered, it is probable that other shipments of a similar nature will be made from this station, material being secured from different farms in the vicinity.

CORONER'S JURY

on the rocks. He said they had followed the bear, thinking it had been wounded, and then, thinking of Lytle, they had called. Receiving no answer, they looked for him and it was about three-quarters of an hour afterward that Lytle was found. He was still alive.

"Ireland did not tell me anything about a bullet from his gun hitting Ross Lytle. He did say that he and Ross had been the only two to do any shooting—

Mr. Hatton: "So that unless Lytle shot himself, Ireland must have shot him accidentally?"

Witness: "Yet, but Ireland didn't say anything about that. He had not seen Lytle after they had separated. I understand that the bear was in the swamp and did come out. I was through the swamp afterward."

Explains Chart of Ground.

Provincial Constable Thompson, of Peterborough, who had investigated the accident, said in part: "I viewed the body the night following the shooting. The family identified it as that of Ross Lytle. I interviewed each of the Ireland brothers, except Charles. On the following day, I went over the ground and placed them where they had been stationed as the bear was being chased out."

Witness explained a chart of the vicinity of the shooting, to the jury, showing the positions of the hunters, course of the bullets and other features. To the Court, he said, on inquiry by Mr. Hatton, that Lytle had been on the west side of the swamp when he was shot. The body had been found from 12 to 15 feet from the original position of Lytle. There was a spot of blood at the place where the body had been found. It would have been impossible for Lytle to have had another shot at the bear had he not moved from his original position.

Accustomed to Shooting.

John Ireland, a young man of dark complexion, clean shaven, and not overly tall, next took the stand. To Mr. Hatton's questioning he said: "I have lived in the township of Harvey for a considerable length of time and am accustomed to hunting. I was in the party that Ross Lytle was in. My brothers Charles, Kenneth, and Nelson were there. We all had guns. Mine was a 38-55 Marlin. Ross Lytle had a Lee-Enfield. He had shown me some of his cartridges going in to the hunt. I don't think Lytle was as old as eighteen years. He had done some hunting before, and had been employed on the boat of the Carew Lumber Company of Lindsay, during the summer.

"I didn't know he was going with us until I met him with my brother, though we, my brothers and I had planned to go, the Thursday night before. Foster Lytle, the boy's father, was to have gone, I think, though he was not one of those who talked over the hunt at first. He had talked about it with my brother. We had not known of the bear being in that part of the country, previous to going on the hunt. We went by the noise of the dog. We were on a general hunt. I know it is against the law to hunt on Sunday. I couldn't say as there was a leader. My brother was the eldest. Ross Lytle placed us after we traced teh bear. My brother Charlie went into the swamp. We hadn't any particular idea where the bear would come out. I didn't know at that time where Lytle was until we found him. I couldn't see him from where I was, but he had been going south the last time I saw him.

"I fired four shots as near as I could tell by the shells. There are four empty shells there now. None of my cartridges had been unloaded before the hunt."

Mr. Hatton: "You must have taken thirteen shells then?"

Witness: "I guess so."

Mr. Hatton: "That's an unlucky number this time?"

Witness: "It seems to be."

Below Ridge.

Continuing, John Ireland said of his position: "I was in a position about seven feet below the height of the ridge that the bear went over. I stayed in the same position. I just turned my body to keep a bead on the bear. I know where the body was found. When I fired my first shot, the bear would be in a line with where we found the body. I heard my four shots and two others.

"Our families were on good terms—there was no question about that. I had an idea he was in that direction from hearing his shots, and I let the bear run about twenty-five yards before shooting. I have no explanation. I heard my four shots and his two."

Brothers Corroborate Evidence.

Charles Ireland and Kenneth Ireland, two brothers of the previous witness, could not give any further light on the shooting. Both had heard the evidence of their brother John and certified as to its truthfulness, and both stated that they had not done any shooting at the bear.

Witness Recalled.

Dr. Willis, recalled, stated that in his opinion a .38 bullet had caused Lytle's death. The other bullets did not fit the wound as the .38 did. It had been a direct impact, not a ricochetting bullet. The injury must have meant instant death to young Lytle. Witness described the wound.

There being no one else present with evidence to submit, Coroner Dr. Smith charged the jury, which retired to a room in the Jones' general store to decide upon the above verdict.

Voices you Love

Galli Curci . . . Jeritza . . . Ponselle—lovely voices cryctal-pure . . . flooding your home with their beauty—brought there by the new Orthophonic Victrola

Melodies that sing away in your memory when the song itself is ended. A flute obbligato that keeps you wondering which is voice and which is instrument, so true to pitch, so resonant are both. Why!—you are at the concert, in your own home! Yet you feel here in your living room you must reach out and touch the living artist!

The seemingly intangible thing that makes musical dreams come true, as often as you wish, is "Matched Impedance", or "Smooth Flow of Sound", something scientists evolved only recently and gave to Victor—for you! Compare the new results with the old—and discover the difference.

For charming homes—you may select a cabinet of fine woods. Electric drive, which costs a little more, if you wish it, eliminates winding. Prices from $1400 to as low as $115 on convenient payments from "His Master's Voice" Dealers.

The Personal Greeting Card is now recognized as like unto a personal visit because it carries that indefinable something that is not expressed by any other kind of a gift.

The exclusive lines of Examiner Greeting Cards are now ready for inspection at your home, office, or at our store. If you would like to make your selection at home, please telephone 1600 and ask for the Examiner Greeting Card Girl, and she will be glad to take care of your request.

There is a very wide range of Cards, Folders, Etchings, etc. They are all beautiful, with and without lined envelopes, and all very moderately priced.

The greetings were all personally selected, and carry a strong personal appeal that is sure to please the recipient. Many of these lines cannot be duplicated; therefore, we suggest an early selection to avoid disappointment.

We thank all those who purchased Greeting Cards from us in the past and trust that they, and many others, will come to The Examiner this year.

We take a personal pride and pleasure in printing Greeting Cards, and it is an excellent boost for our fair city if you are able to tell your friends that you had this year's Personal Greeting Cards printed in YOUR home city.

Awaiting an opportunity to serve you.

THE USE OF MAPS IN TEACHING

On Thursday afternoon, at the Teachers' Convention, Miss E. Fusee gave a most helpful paper on "The Use of Maps and Concrete Material in Teaching Geography."

"The demands upon the teacher in these days are of an extremely strenuous character. The multiplicity of subjects, the greater requirements as to qualifications, the higher standard of personal equipment, the greater results expected, all tend to make the teacher's work more important and more exacting. In order to accomplish the best results he must keep pace with the times by bringing his methods up to date, and this can be done only by study and observation.

Good method embraces the what and the how of teaching; that is, the teacher has to decide not only the kind, quantity and quality of his subject matter, but also the way in which that matter shall be presented to his class.

The test of all teaching is the extent to which it evokes purpose and so excites and directs the fullest activity of thought, of which the pupils are capable, towards the accomplishment of that purpose.

Pestalozzi said, "To interest children we must adopt a better mode of instruction by which the children are less left to themselves, less thrown upon unwelcome employment of passive listening, but more aroused by questions and animated by illustrations."

What is geography?

It is a long word. It is not an English word. We have borrowed it from the old Greek language. Geography means earth-knowledge; knowledge about the world in which we live. This knowledge is a substitute for the first-hand experience obtained by travel and is to the latter as a picture is to the original. If one had the time and means at his disposal the best way to learn geography would be by travel.

First Teachers.

Our early sailors were the first teachers of geography. They learned it by travelling about from place to place. They brought home the news of all they had seen and learned for the benefit of the rest. So it has been ever since.

The knowledge of geography helps men to find their way about in the world: to find their way in ships from one country to another. Ships bring us, for our daily use, hundreds of things from other lands, which we could not have without this knowledge of geography The same ships take to the people in distant lands things which they require for their use. There could be no commerce without a knowledge of geography. It feeds and clothes everybody; it gives work to our workers: it joins us and the people of far distant lands into a close bond of brotherhood, for the mutual good of all.

We should endeavor as far as possible, in the teaching of geography, to lead the pupils by a series of easy and natural stepping-stones, commencing with the observation of the simple, every-day phenomena of earth, air and water, and of the common things around them.

Among the many lessons to be taught are those classed under the topic, "Land and water forms." These forms should be taught as far as possible from nature. There are, however, many forms which would be impossible to study in this way, for example, the lesson on a "volcano." The next best thing is to make models. These may often be crudely constructed, but their aid in making statements clear, is, at times, invaluable.

Sully has said, "Visual images or pictures of objects constitute the staple of our ordinary recallings."

Pictures, I believe, should have a very prominent part in the teaching of geography. These could be secured from magazines (Geographic), newspapers (Toronto Star Weekly), calendars, postcards, photos, and souvenir books. Often pictures and booklets of interest can be "picked up," to use a common phrase, at fall fairs, the Toronto Exhibition, the O. E. A. convention, railway ticket offices, &c. These pictures should be tabulated and kept for future reference. They may be of help in more than one lesson. Pupils should be encouraged to aid the teacher in making picture collections. Sets of pictures illustrating certain lessons can be purchased through school supply catalogues. Lantern slides and motion pictures are also of great value. Even we teachers have to admit a better knowledge of world geography after seeing films depicting such subjects as "Mt. Vesuvius in Action," "Beautiful Hawaiian Islands," "Flying Over the North Pole," &c. Pupils, I believe, should be encouraged to see films which tend to enlighten the public on world geography. A set of Black's Travel Pictures is worth having in one's possession.

Newspaper Clippings Helpful.

Newspaper clippings, if cut out and mounted are a help in keeping one "up with the times."

Supplementary Reading is on the curriculum for each grade. We are fortunate in having in our schools sets of good geography readers, "The Story of the Earth and Its People." This book, however, should not be the extent of the pupils' supplementary reading. They should be encouraged to make use of the public library, where no end of first-class reading material is tabulated. A few books in the teacher's possession would prove very helpful, such as: (Great American Industries)—four volumes, (Talks About Common Things), &c.

There is one book which I believe should be in the hands of every teacher of geography—"The Canadian School Atlas." The "Canada Descriptive Atlas," issued by the Minister of Immigration and Colonization, is an atlas which each pupil in the Senior III class should have in his possession.

For some lessons we can purchase pamphlets which will be of interest and help.

Good magazines prove a boon to the teaching profession. One of the best magazines a teacher can procure is the "Geographic Magazine." "The Journal of Geography," also an American publication, is a magazine devoted to the teachers of geography in elementary as well as secondary schools.

Visit Museums.

Sometimes first-class information is secured through visits to a museum. These visits should take the form of information lessons on stipulated subjects. For example, in teaching the lesson on coal, certain pupils might be assigned the task of making out a list of coal products. Here is a partial list made out while visiting the museum in Ottawa: benzene, dye colors, carbolic soap, aqua ammonia, naptha soap, liquid ammonia, coke, asphaltum, pitch, tar soap, coal gas, blueing, mothballs, antiseptic gauze, stain varnish, perfumes, winter green flavoring, aspirin, &c.

Visits to factories and mills should prove of great value. This treat, however, is often out of the question as far as the pupils are concerned. However, they can aid one in making class collections on various subjects. One can also obtain ready information and samples of different articles at stores and wholesale houses. Pupils also enjoy making such collections as coins, grain, woods, &c.

Occasionally we have pupils in our classroom who have come from foreign lands. They delight in "helping out," so to speak, when their native country is under discussion. First-hand information always proves of interest.

I read the following extract on the cover of a pamphlet advertising maps:

"Maps are of fundamental importance in the study of geography, and the ability to use a map is one of the most important acquisitions to be secured from school geography work. The map habit, therefore, is an essential habit that all should acquire."

How true this statement is!

A map is one of the most difficult of concrete material for the child to understand properly.

Invariably to him the Niagara River flows from Lake Ontario to Lake Erie. The St. Lawrence River flows from the Atlantic Ocean to Lake Ontario. Early explorers sailed down the river to Lake Ontario. To the child the map shows at first, up and down, not north and south.

Understand Meaning.

Before maps are used in class their meaning and use should be thoroughly understood by the pupils. Maps should be preceded by plans. Plans should be drawn on a horizontal surface not on the vertical black-board. Place on your desk a few common articles as an ink-bottle, chalk box, bell, &c. Run a chalk line round each of these things to mark where it stands on the desk. Setting these articles aside call attention to what has been done. Note that the circle round where the ink-bottle stood shows a drawing of the base of the bottle, the shape of the base, the size, and the exact place where the bottle stood; and so on with each of the other outlines. Explain that drawings like these, which show the shape and size of the base of an article, and the position in which it stands, are called plans. Draw a plan of the classroom on correct scale, say one inch to a foot. Have pupils mark directions. This plan shows position, shape, and size of a room. It is not a picture such as the camera would show, but simply a plan. A plan is another name for a map. A map is a plan. A map therefore must show shape, size, position, and direction.

After plans have been thoroughly understood, introduce the modelling tray, that is, if you are fortunate enough to have one. There is no better way to impress the form and surface of a country than to have teacher and pupils model the map in clay or sand.

After the map has been modelled and the directions studied carefully then this same outline should be drawn on a horizontal black-board not a vertical one. A piece of slated cloth or a large sheet of paper could take the place of the horizontal black-board. Care should be taken to have the modelling tray and the horizontal map the correct compass directions of the class-room when first learning directions. One should draw the pupils' attention to the fact that the plan or map has to show, on a flat surface, everything that the raised model shows. Explain to the pupils why we always represent hills and mountains in a map by means of shading.

Hanging Maps.

Hanging maps should not be introduced until the pupils have, step by step, learned to grasp the full meaning of those drawn in the horizontal position. After the wall map has been compared with the horizontal one it could be explained that maps are usually hung up before the class in order that they may be seen. Have them note carefully that what is north and south now appears to be up and down. Emphasize the fact that maps are always hung with the north pointing to the ceiling. If the pupils at any time get mixed in directions place the map in a horizontal position the correct compass directions of the class-room, and the difficulty will in all probability be overcome.

Another modelling map which holds the child's interest and has proved of value for future reference is the "salt and flour" map. Draw the outline of a map on a piece of cardboard or thin board and cover it with a mixture of salt and flour, using four teaspoonfulls of salt to three of flour. Moisten the mixture with water. For mountains pile the past to the desired height and let it dry. The mixture dries out white and when rivers and lakes are marked on it with colored ink, the study of physical features is a pleasure to the pupils. Salt and cornstarch maps, sand and glue maps, and pulp maps have also been used for the same purpose. Plasticine is an excellent medium for modelling purposes.

Outline maps are also needed to impress the general features of the country. For the black-board one can purchase stencil maps. A teacher should be very careful in the drawing of freehand maps. Poorly drawn maps give wrong impressions. Care has been taken to stress the fact that maps must show shape, size, position, and direction. Why not put the same care into our own drawing. Stencils are clean to handle, easily manipulated, and inexpensive considering their value. Small map stencils can be purchased for the pupils' work. The work of outlining the map gives pupils exercise in map drawing. These stencils should be used several times before the pupil is allowed to make freehand drawings. In a geographical map everything should be definite and true. Omit all details that are not necessary and put upon the map only what is under consideration or what we wish to call attention to. It frequently happens that when pupils draw maps and put in the rivers, they indicate all kinds of little branches that do not exist. They seem to think that a few more branches won't do any harm. Banish this idea as early as possible.

Advantage of Outline Maps.

Many of us are taking advantage of the small outline maps offered for sale by the Educational Publishing Co.

Many are using the duplicator as a means of making outline maps.

Blackboard outline maps—those on rollers—serve a good purpose in the reviewing as well as in the teaching of the lesson. They save the pupils the bother of frantically hunting for names.

Cloth maps can be used as reference maps. Pictures, printed names, samples of products, &c., can be either sewn or pasted on. Like the black-board outline roller maps, they are always ready for use.

Ability to Use.

As has been previously stated, the ability to use a map is one of the most important acquisitions to be secured from school geography work. Pupils should be taught how to use a map. They should be taught the relation of cause and effect in geography as elsewhere. From a map they should be taught how to study, to a great extent, the general character of the country, its situation, and its climate conditions. Certain rules should be noted and stressed. A few of these are as follows:

The scale of the map determines the size of the country.

The backbone of the country is its mountains.

The shape of the land and the coast-line depends upon its mountains.

The position of the watershed determines the direction of the flow of the rivers.

Rivers and lakes often determine the situation for towns and cities.

The estuaries are of great importance to ships and shipping centres.

Natural resources, industries and trade are to a great extent dependent upon the natural physical features of a country and its climate.

These and other points of importance should be taught.

The uses of maps are unlimited. In the study of a country, say Canada, several outline maps of this country could be put to good use.

One might be used for marking the physical features. Another for marking those features which affect climate such as mountain ranges, large bodies of inland water, prevailing winds, marked with red arrows, ocean currents marked with black arrows, large coast indentations, scant and copious rainfall districts, &c.

A third map might be used for vegetation and product areas such as northern, western and southern forest areas, barren lands, prairie districts, lumbering areas, wheat and grain belts, fruit districts, &c.

A fourth map might be used for marking cities, manufactures, political divisions.

A fifth map might be used for marking canals and chief railways.

Several Maps Better.

How much better is the use of several maps with each lesson distinctly represented than one map with a jumble of facts.

If time permitted pupils should be given an insight into the use of a road map, a city directory, and a street guide.

The rotundity of the earth is a most difficult subject to present to young children, for it is a direct contradiction of the evidence of their own senses. They see for themselves everywhere (except of course in hilly parts of the country) that the land looks as flat as their school playground; and those who have been to sea, know that the surface of the water, too, looks perfectly level, as far as their eyes can reach.

Yet (strange as it may seem) this very knowledge, which comes from their own observation, must be made the starting point, from which to set out to prove the real shape of the earth.

One might start with a lesson on the horizon. The horizon bounds our sight. It is not always the same distance from us. The higher up we are the farther off is the horizon. One could illustrate this point by means of some little toy, say a fly or a rabbit, and a very large ball or sphere. The geographical globe should not be used at this stage but as we have no other large sphere we have to make use of it. A slated globe would be of splendid aid. Place the fly on the sphere and mark a couple of spots some distance apart. Lead the pupils to tell that the fly from its position would be able to see one spot and not the other. Between the two marked spots the surface of the sphere (or ball) curves away from the fly. Draw a circle on the sphere round the fly to show the extent of its vision. This circle would be the fly's horizon. Place the fly on a stick of chalk or pencil. Have the pupils prove that the fly is able to see more of the sphere or ball now: that it has a new horizon.

Apply these principles, for example:

If the earth were flat as it seems to be there would be no such thing as a horizon to bound our sight.

We should see no further from the top of a church steeple than from the ground.

It is the great curve of sea or land which forms our horizon.

The sky does not really touch the earth at the horizon.

The earth is a great round sphere or ball and we walk about on the outside of it as the fly walks about on this sphere or ball.

This same little fly, together with a small toy boat and a large sphere, can be used to illustrate five of the eight proofs for saying that the earth and sea appearing flat when in reality they are a part of an immense ball may be shown by means of circles. Have the pupils compare an inch arc of a very large, a medium and a very small circle. A hoop may also be put to good use in this lesson.

Observations from a railway train or from a boat will help pupils to understand what is really going on when we watch the sun day by day.

Illustrations Used.

The daily rotation of the earth can be illustrated by the use of the globe and a large lamp fitted with a plain, round, opaque shade. The same objects, together with a top, a string, and a ball, can be used in illustrating the yearly motion. The top, while spinning, can be gaided around the ball in a large circle.

The use of the equator and first meridian in locating a place upon the surface of the earth, can be simplified by the use of the walls of a room in locating some object in the room.

The tropics and circles can be measured off by means of a string and short colored splints. When the sun's perpendicular rays shine down on the equator, its twilight line or horizon just touches the poles. Tie the three splints on the string the exact measurements of the lines representing the equator and the horizon line, red representing the perpendicular rays, yellow the twilight rays at each pole. Prove by measuring, that when the sun's perpendicular rays shine down on the tropic or turning point north of the equator, that is, the Tropic of Cancer, the sun's horizon or twilight line has moved the same distance beyond the North Pole, and come short of the South Pole by the same distance. By moving the red splint down to the line representing the Tropic of Capricorn, the yellow splints representing the sun's horizon or twilight line, come short of the North Pole and reach beyond the South Pole by the same distance. These circles when marked on the slated globe represent the Aretic Circle, the Tropic of Cancer, the Tropic of Capricorn and the Antarctic Circle. The globe is mounted correctly to show the movement of the sun's direct rays in its yearly motion.

The Trippensee Planetarium, together with good black-board drawings, aid greatly in teaching the earth's daily motion, its yearly motion, the moon's phases, the tides, eclipses, &c.

Geography is a bundle of organized knowledge which cannot be acquired to any extent in connection with other subjects as language, &c. It is a subject by itself; and the best way to study and present it systematically is for the teacher and pupils to have a good text-book. An elementary text-book of high interest should be used in the Junior III class and a more comprehensive text-book in the senior grades. The present geography text-book is too comprehensive for the junior classes. Its cross-word puzzle maps also present a serious problem.

In conclusion, let me say it does take time and effort to prepare concrete material for use in geography lessons. But when we balance this with the interest aroused and the results obtained we cannot help but say, "After all, it is worth while." Each day let us send our pupils home feeling that they have learned something, and that it is good to be at school. Let us, too, remember the little rhyme:

Do not loiter or shirk,
Do not falter or shrink;
But just think out your work
And then, work out your think.

"Saves the Clothes and Hands"
Says Mrs. — Weller St., Peterborough

"I've been using Rinso for several years now and I wouldn't think of doing my housework without a package of it on hand. Doesn't it get clothes white? And so easily! It's wonderful in cool water—why just soaking the wash in the safe Rinso suds overnight gets all the dirt out. There's no real rubbing to do, and, of course, that saves the clothes—and hands! With Rinso, clothes don't need to be boiled—that saves on my gas bill. Rinso is also just as good for cleaning woodwork, tiles, etc. It's a real work-saver"
Mrs. ——, Weller Street, Peterborough.

Yes! You can get whiter clothes in less time with less work

DOESN'T that sound welcome to you women who know what hard wash day work means? And Rinso does exactly what we say. Millions of women have proved it. They're using Rinso each wash day. And they are feeling better—feeling happier. Rinso saves them hours of hard work, yet they have the whitest clothes that ever gladdened a woman's eyes.

Rinso makes such rich, soapy suds that clothes are actually soaked clean. A little rub here and there perhaps, where the things are badly soiled—but that's all. No boiling—no other bar soap, chips or powder needed. Rinso does the work alone—and does it better—in hard or soft water. White clothes kept whiter. Coloured things kept brighter. Save your strength, your time, your clothes . . . . . Use Rinso.

"I have read with interest the letter written by a person 50 years of age. I, too, have been taking Kruschen Salts in my first cup of tea every morning ever since it was first put on the market. I am healthy and strong—I would not think of having my morning cup without Kruschen. I am 66 years of age. I have a daughter 45 years, a granddaughter 21 years.

"People will not think I am my age. They say my daughter looks the elder of the two. I have been taking for 25 and 40 at the most. I laugh and tell them they are a long way off.

"I could say a lot of the benefit I have received through taking my regular dose. I am 5 ft. 5 in. in height. I weigh 178 pounds."—(Mrs.) S. F.

Original letter on file for inspection.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at drug and department stores in Canada at 75c. a bottle. A bottle contains enough to last for 4 or 5 months—good health for half-a-cent a day.

Jessie Alexander Delivers An Address at Meeting of Local Women.

EXPLAINS TRIP.

Gives a Rousing and Dramatic Rendition of "I Am Content With Canada."

Mrs. Roberts whose work as Jessie Allexander has made her name a household word throughout Canada, wherever there are people who admire elocution, proved herself equally popular as a speaker yesterday afternoon, and did what very few women could accomplish under the circumstances, when, after an attack of faintness which interrupted her scheduled address, went on to give a rousing and dramatic rendition of the patriotic reading, "I am Content With Canada."

The address, which was being given before a large audience of members and friends of the Women's Canadian Club, assembled yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the Public Library, was entitled "A Ramble on My Rambles". With the historic and dramatic emphasis which Jessie Alexander uses so well in her readings, and with the charming fluency learned through long platform acquaintanceship with her audiences, Mrs. Roberts' address was being listened to with intense interest, when she was compelled to put a finish to it, just when she had reached the Eternal City and was beginning to talk very entertainingly about Rome and its various aspects.

Mrs. J. A. Allan occupied the chair and introduced the speaker of the afternoon, who in her opening remarks, proclaimed a long friendship with Peterborough, dating from a time in the beginning of her professional career as a reader, when she appeared here at the old Y.M.C.A.

Informal Description

Mrs. Roberts' talk was an informal, humorous, characteristic description of a recent trip abroad, inspired to a certain extent, she said, by a desire to see again all the beauties of nature talked of in the poem, "I am Content with Canada." This poem describes in detail the "Soft Italian Skies" the "enchanted Aprils" of Switzerland and the storied Alps, and then records the composer's contentment with this great Dominion.

Little bits of humorous description of life on board ship and of the American woman who was taking her daughter abroad to "change her ideals" after the girl had fallen in love with a typical American youth "who looked like the advertisement of Arrow collars"; a reference to a modern wedding held in the church which holds the tomb of Napoleon; glimpses of Avignon and its famous bridge, of the Riviera, of Cannes and Mentone and Monte Carlo, were given.

Visits Genoa

At Genoa, "and I don't wonder that Columbus was anxious to leave Genoa, because there was nothing to keep him there," Mrs. Roberts saw the home of the great explorer, a famous Paganini violin and a wonderful cemetery where one of the chief sights is the monument erected to herself during her lifetime by an old peasant woman.

Speaking of Pisa, Mrs. Roberts referred to Mussolini and the wonderful speech he had made to an audience of enemies, most of whom were armed with weapons brought to do harm to him and his followers. But he disarmed them by his eloquence and the manner in which he described his ideals for Italy. Although, as the speaker hinted, in the background of their minds may have been the consciousness of the extreme dosing with castor oil which is one of the methods used by Il Duce to cause more tractable ideas in the minds of those whom he imprisons for political offences.

Speaking of Rome, Mrs. Roberts went on to say that "one gets what one looks for in Rome," which has many faces to present to visitors.

Just here, the speaker was compelled to stop, and, after having been revived, insisted on reciting, with wonderful effect, the beautiful poem, "I am Content With Canada."

"Too many Thanksgiving dinners have been too much for me. I am afraid," exclaimed Mrs. Roberts, whimsically.

NASHUA EMPLOYEE RECEIVES BURNS

Allan MacNab Slips While Putting Belt On His Machine.

Allen MacNab, of 494 Weller Street, an employee of the Nashua Paper Company, escaped with burns about one arm and one leg when his desperate grasp caught on something solid to prevent his falling into a tank of hot wax at the Nashua plant about ten o'clock yesterday morning. He is at present confined to Nicholls Hospital as a result.

MacNab was assisting in putting on a belt on his waxing machine when it slipped, throwing him toward the tank of wax. He succeeded in saving himself at the cost of burning his arm and leg. Dr. G. R. Scott attended him.

HARD TIME FROLIC.

Fine Prizes Are Being Offered By Knights of Columbus For Best Costumes.

There is going to be a good time at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Wednesday evening, November 21. The Knights will frolic in a gigantic hard time party that evening. No one wearing good clothes will be admitted into the hall for the party. The music will be supplied by the Silver Slipper Orchestra and that means there will be first class music. The costumes will be judged and some fine prizes will be awarded to those wearing the most unique old clothes. All the members and their friends are invited to attend.

MISSING GIRL

the girl might have been interested, Mrs. Bailey declared she knew of nobody that might have had anything to do with the disappearance of her daughter.

Mary Bailey is said by those who knew her to have been a well-developed and attractive looking girl, a decided brunette of striking appearance.

Her father, Edward Bailey, is employed by the Quaker Oats Company. He is a war veteran, who enlisted here with the 93rd Battalion and served overseas with 1st Canadian Battalion, to which he was drafted when the Peterborough County unit was broken up in England.

COLLEGIATE NOTES

A keenly contested election is in full swing at the Collegiate. Two parties, "The Rams" and "The Beavers," have been formed and each are seeking election to the Literary Society.

Beaver Campaign.

The Beaver party consists of Reginald Howden for president. Barbara Foster for vice-president, Howard Macdonald for secretary and Florence Wedlock for treasurer.

Reg. Howden, for president, is an experienced man. As vice-president in the last Literary Society he gained an invaluable insight with the workings of Lit.

Barbara Foster, seeking the office of vice-president, is an experienced candidate of scholastic ability.

Everybody knows Howie MacDonald. He is Peterborough's member to Boys' Parliament. He has always taken an active part in school activities and is well equipped to act as secretary for the Lit.

Florence Wedlock is a member of the Commercial Department of P.C.I. Well versed in intricacies of the business, and her party believes her well able to handle the funds of the Literary Society.

The Rams.

This party consists of:

President, Charles Kitney, the well known philosopher and one who has an extraordinary knowledge of school statistics.

Vice-President, Hedley Vickers, P.C.I.'s popular cheer leader, who assures you that he will faithfully support all literary and social endeavors and increase a more and better school spirit among the students.

Secretary, Gordon Braund, the captain who led the Intermediate Rugby team into the finals, and who also promised to help lead the literary society to higher and better ideals.

Treasurer, Miss Jean Pethick, famous dramatist and popular co-ed who has had wide experience in Collegiate societies.

In the wood-working department of P.C.I. Mr. Rutherford says that students both at day and night school are increasing rapidly.

In the drafting department of P.C.I. the students have made a very good showing in the past week. If this is continued throughout the school year Mr. Rutherford will certainly be well pleased.

SYSTEMATIC GIVING URGED BY SPEAKER

St. James' W.M.S. Meeting Carries Thanksgiving Note Throughout.

The November meeting of St. James' W.M.S. was "Thanksgiving" in character throughout and the large membership present responded to the roll call with Thankgiving Bible verses.

Mrs. J. H. Dudgeon, first vice-president, ably presided in the absence of Mrs. Woodley, the president. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. F. D. Armstrong, who chose the 103rd Psalm for study. The hymns were also all songs of praise and thanksgiving. Prayers were offered by Mrs. Bonney, Mrs. Sollitt, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Mann and Mrs. Dudgeon.

"Our Possessions" was the title of the devotional reading given by Mrs. George H. Rowe.

The solo, "The Whole Wide World," was beautifully rendered by Mrs. T. E. Curvin.

The meeting was honored by the presence of Mrs. A. F. Bookhout, president of Peterborough Presbyterial Society of the United Church, who gave a very fine address.

Mrs. Bookhout had recently returned from an executive meeting of Bay of Quinte W. M. S. Conference Branch, held in Belleville, and brought to her hearers many interesting and helpful echoes of its doings. Our allocation, hints for Thank offering envelopes, distribution, the news that the New Outlook had devoted, once a month, a page of their magazine to W.M.S. work; temperance; divorce; the aim and object of the W.M.S., were only a few of the subjects on which she spoke with authoritative knowledge.

Noon Prayer Hour.

The Dominion Board has asked that a noon-time prayer hour be established, by which the women of our church may girdle the world with their prayers at the same hour. Prayer, she said, is not optional, but an obligation. It is a command, a privilege and a blessing.

In speaking of Christian Stewardship, Mrs. Bookhout asked, "Do we own our possessions?" She urged systematic giving. The Lord has made it easy for us to know "how much." We are to give "according as He has prospered us." It is as much an obligation and blessing for a poor man to give as it is for the rich man. If every professing Christian gave one tenth of his income, no appeals for money to extend God's kingdom would be necessary.

A hymn and prayer by Mrs. Dudgeon concluded this most inspiring meeting, which was arranged by Group 2 of the society, under the able leadership of Mrs. F. B. Elliott.

DENTISTS HEAR

would be very valuable in making some necessary improvements.

Educate Patients

The speaker explained the necessity of the dentists to educate their patients to the importance of dental hygiene. The great service the dentist, by educating the public to the importance of dental work, can elevate the general health of the community.

Periodic Examination.

It was pointed out that people with an income of less than $1,000 could not afford dental work, and the only way that these people could escape a large dental bill was to have periodic examination and dental advice. Most people have large dental expenses, explained the speaker, because they did not have the periodic examination of their teeth by a dentist. The arrangement of some form of instalment paying would be a good idea for the dentists to try out, he suggested. The speaker remarked that many people are unable to pay a big bill all at one time, and thus fail to get the dental attention that they require.

"Dentists are important members of the great body of health workers, and they must needs have a true appreciation of health service. The dentists are responsible for the general health of the people so far as it is affected by their dental conditions," said the speaker.

The speaker mentioned the great need for more education along preventive lines in health. "The dentist must take his share in the work of preserving the health of his community by constantly talking health and the importance of proper care and attention to the teeth."

The parents must be educated to the idea of seeing that their children's teeth are in a healthy condition. The health of a community is handicapped by the apathy of the parents to dental hygiene and if the dentists were constantly talking health and the importance of healthy teeth it would do much to overcome this and thus aid in building up the general health.

Interest In Children.

Dr. John Fair said that he was particularly interested in child hygiene and he too reiterated the importance of educating the parents to an interest in the condition of their children's teeth. He gave the figures that 15 per cent. of the children in the schools are suffering from malnutrition, which is greatly due to some infection or disease of the teeth. He also pointed out the co-operation that should exist between the school nurse and the dentists. "The dentist should educate the child and the parent when they come to his office at the request of the nurse and impress the necessity of close attention to the teeth," said Dr. Fair.

Considerable discussion followed among the dentists as a result of some points brought out by the speakers.

Dr. E. M. Crough, president of the Dental Society, acted as chairman at the meeting and introduced the speakers.

ALTAR BOYS ARE GIVEN BANQUET

Bishop O'Brien Exhorts Boys To Be True and Loyal Citizens of Canada.

SACRED HEART PARISH.

The annual banquet of the Altar Boys of the Sacred Heart Parish was held last evening in the basement hall of the church.

The mothers of the boys provided a splendid feast which by unanimous consent was voted the most excellent they have yet achieved. The decoration of the banquet hall was executed by Mrs. Clarence Bacon and Miss Gertrude Bacon who secured a beautiful effect with pink and white streamers and bells and several floor lamps.

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, Rev. Father Lynch and Mr. John Bennett, B.A., separate school inspector, were the honored guests of the evening.

After the serving of the repast a toast list followed under the able direction of toastmaster Herbert Masterson, who performed his arduous duties in a witty and efficient manner. The following toasts were honored, one speaker proposing the toast and the following speaker replying to it. Our Pope and Our King (Fear God, honor the King; John Cairns, P. J. Anglesy. Our Office (Servants of the Servants of God), Leo Masterson, Joseph O'Toole. Our Country (It is the most lasting passion), Joseph Collins, Vincent Anglesy. Our Parish (East, West, Home is Best), Gordon LePlante, Bert Taylor. Our Pastor (He was a man to all the country dear), James Fleming, Rev. J. J. O'Brien. Our Mothers (The hand which rocks the cradle rules the world), Roy Bacon, Francis Kirealdy.

Following the proposal of the toasts were songs and recitations appropriate to each, following is the program of recitations: Leonard Goulah, "Little Batiste"; Harold Maloney, "Our Lady's Beads"; Murray Corkery, "The Mass"; Leo Pearson, "Charity"; John Rody, "Our Maple Leaf"; Joseph Ryan, "Menagerie Diet"; Gerold Fleming, "You Get Up"; Earl O'Toole, "Pudsy Kelly's Future"; Frank McGrath, "She Never Was a Boy"; Billy Grady, "A Household Mystery"; Jack Corkery, "Mother's Way"; George Maloney, "Our Priests"; Kenneth O'Toole and Jack Collins sang solos, accompanied by Vincent Anglesy on the piano; and Gerald Grady rendered a piano solo.

Be Loyal Citizens.

At the conclusion of the toast list His Lordship the Bishop, in a brief but stirring address, placed before the boys a glowing picture of the greatness of our country and exhorted them to be loyal and true Canadian boys. Mr. Bennett recalled his days as an altar boy in Toronto and showed how his training as an altar boy and the discipline of the Sanctuary had helped him in his work as an educator.

Father O'Brien made his address in reply to the toast in his honor. He expresed his appreciation of the work of the altar boys who aid the priest in carrying out the august ceremonies of the church and also his gratitude to the parents of the boys who co-operate in having their boys always punctual and neatly attired for their sacred office. Father Lynch and Father Moloney also gave brief addresses.

The pleasant and instructive evening was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

RE LEVELLING PARK.

Four Hundred Loads of Top Soil Are Being Put in Confederation Square.

For the last few days Confederation Square has been the scene of great activity. Large loads of earth have been dumped in the centre of the park for re-levelling. When the new sidewalks were laid they were about six inches above the level, giving it rather an untidy appearance. It will take over 400 loads to complete the job and the whole will be seeded in the spring. The circle around the monument will be planted with shrubs.

Setting aside questions as to the jurisdiction, Federal authorities today began investigation of the sinking of the steamer Vestris with a loss of more than one hundred lives. Preliminary questioning of witnesses took place this morning and a formal inquiry will open this afternoon. Sixty witnesses are subpoenaed for hearing.

As the Vestris was of British registry, jurisdiction of United States courts is uncertain but it was rumored British authorities might consent to have entire inquiry held here.

Around the City

Bank clearings for the week amounted to $906,598.

At 9.39 yesterday morning the fire department received a call to 494 Park street, where a dirty chimney was the cause of a small blaze. The use of chemicals, however, soon put it out before any damage was done.

NEW DWELLING

20 feet long and 15 feet wide, with interior of gyprock. Asbestos shingles will be the roofing material used, while one brick flue-lined chimney will also be built. The building, to cost $400.00, will be finished about December 15, 1928.

Gramaphone Is Used As Novel Alarm Clock

A novel idea in an alarm clock for a late-sleeping guest desirous of catching a train at a certain hour was described by Jessie Alexander Roberts of Toronto, in the course of her address to the Women's Canadian Club Wednesday afternoon.

On one occasion, when Mrs. Roberts failed to arise for her train, her tactful hostess placed a gramaphone outside her door and the guest awoke to the strains of "Kathleen Mavourneen the grey dawn is breaking," played softly but effectually through the panels.

Y.W.C.A. PLANS LECTURE COURSE

Professor H. J. Davis Will Speak On Modern Novelists This Winter.

All those who enjoyed the lectures given by Dr. Pratt at the Young Women's Christian Association during the past two winter seasons, will be pleased to learn that a course on Modern Novelists is to be given this year by Professor H. J. Davis, M.A., of University College, Toronto.

Professor Davis is a graduate of Oxford University, and is Associate Professor of English at University College, Toronto. He comes highly recommended by Dr. Pratt, who congratulates the "Y" on securing Professor Davis for the literature class, and who recommends the latter as a splendid lecturer and an outstanding man on the University staff.

The course this year will commence on Tuesday next, November 20th, when the lecturer will speak on the works of Thomas Hardy, continuing the same subject in the second lecture on December 4th.

On January 8th, Professor Davis will speak on the works of W. H. Hudson, and on January 22nd on the novels of Joseph Conrad. On February 5th, John Galsworthy will be considered, and D. H. Lawrence will be the subject of the final address on February 19th.

The lectures last year and the previous season were exceptionally interesting and instructive. They were well attended and the course this season promises to be equally attractive. The meetings are short and include several musical numbers in the program.

RUMMAGE SALE IS MOST SUCCESSFUL

St. John's Women's Auxiliary Sends Letter of Condolence To Sister Organization.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Anglican Church held their regular monthly devotional meeting on Wednesday in the Parish Hall, with the president, Mrs. A. W. Turner, occupying the chair. There was the usual large attendance. Owing to the absence of the vicar, Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, the Scriptural reading was taken by Mrs. De la Fosse.

Mrs. Holloway, convenor of the rummage sale, thanked all the workers and givers who made possible one of the most successful sales ever held. The secretary was instructed to write a letter of condolence to St. Luke's branch of the W.A. on the dealth of their president Mrs. J. J. Turner and to express the sympathy of the St. John's women to the members of the bereaved family, some of whom are connected with the church.

The meeting was brought to a close with the members' prayer and benediction, after which a delightful tea was served by Mrs. Lennings and her refreshment committee.

IN POLICE COURT

Three months of hard labor in the common jail was the sentence imposed upon Marvin Green, who resides near Havelock, when he appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning, and pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting and doing bodily harm to his wife. "I don't believe in condoning wife-beating in any way and you may count yourself fortunate in receiving as light a sentence as you did," concluded His Worship.

JEAN HARVEY HOLDS RECORD

Regular Weekly Sports Hour Held at Y.W.C.A. Swimming Pool.

GOOD ATTENDANCE.

The sports hour at the Y.W.C.A. swimming pool last night was very popular. The pool was crowded with enthusiastic swimmers and audience.

Jean Harvey still holds the record for senior speed test, D. Rogers following by a close 2-5 of a second.

Mary Kingsbury again led the junior speed with Marion Harvey second.

The outstanding divers last night were Viola Harvey, Verna Huffman, Hazel Bradley, Mary Kingsbury, Helen Cole, Jean Harvey and Margaret Currie.

The physical director announced a special practice on Friday for life-saving examinations and the coming exhibition.

PREMIER BRUCE

prohibiting the engagement, service and discharge of transport workers, and the licensing of persons as transport workers, and for regulating or prohibiting the employment of unlicensed persons as transport workers, and for the protection of transport workers." The government now had power literally to wipe out the Waterside Workers' Federation...and as a result the strike was crushed at the end of October.

The present situation is particularly significant when it is remembered the train of events between 1925 and 1928 conspired to rob the Bruce-Page Coalition of its popular appeal. Defeated in a national referendum wherein Bruce asked for wider powers for the federal industrial arbitration system, strongly condemned for obtaining the same powers through a questionable statute, Mr. Bruce could have been said to lack the confidence of the people a short twelve months after the election of 1925. And in the next two years the list of alleged weaknesses grew instead of diminished.

White Australia

More than that, an influx of Mediterranean population gave the Labor Party an excellent opportunity to charge that the "white Australia" policy—a religion in the Commonwealth—was being dumped overboard by the coalition, and that Asiatics would follow the Mediterraneans.

The government made strenuous protests that "we can economically absorb population only by opening up and developing our natural resources, and progressively expanding our secondary industries. How rapidly we can do these things is dependent upon the capital available for such purposes." It declared that in 1921, 98 per cent of the Australian people were of British blood and that the 1931 census would show the same percentage. Moreover, the "white Australia" policy was in no danger. "Friendly arrangements" had been made with South European governments for the restriction of alien migration.

An intense depression in the coal industry in New South Wales induced the commonwealth to offer a bounty, provided the miners would accept a reduction in wages. It was proposed to secure a reduction of $1 in the price of coal in order to compete with coal brought in from abroad and sold at $1.75 per ton less than the New South Wales product. Moerover, Victorian brown coal briquettes were successfully competing with the New South Wales hard coal at more favorable prices. Industry rose in arms against this "dole" to the coal industry, and Labor declined to accept wage reductions. The public's confidence in the government's ability to deal with this problem was considerably reduced.

Tax Scandals

Few other things so troubled the Bruce Government as the "Abrahams tax scandals." A tax ring had succeeded in defrauding the Commonwealth government and various states out of millions of pounds sterling by means of rigged tax returns over a number of years. The Commonwealth settled with the defendants for a fixed sum of $2,500,000 and agreed not to prosecute. Mr. Bruce tried to make it clear that the federal government, at that, had recaptured more than that States did, and that the government's law officers insisted they had no case, but the scandals lost the coalition support in their own ranks.

Having promised the electorate in 1925 that problems of national development hereafter would be put in the hands of experts, Mr. Bruce in the next few years proceeded to create commissions to deal with the Northern Territory, migration, markets, science and industry. He promised the people instantaneous result, and instead disputes and quarrels rose over appointments, insufficient appropriations — and most seriously over the inexpertness of these "expert commissions." The question was finally asked what good could these various bodies with limited authorities accomplish in view of the fact that Federal Australia, unlike most other nations, did not have a national department of agriculture? Popular belief in the commission idea was thrown on to a bear market.

Mr. Bruce had promised "national" insurance to cover unemployment and sickness. Three years of endless discussion culminated finally in an actuarial committee's report that the Commonwealth could undertake, without undue financial burden, sickness and disablement benefit, child and widows' allowances, orphans' and wives' and widows' superannuation pensions, and marriage allowances to females. There the matter ended. "His Majesty's 10th Commonwealth Parliament" adjourned without passage of the necessary bill.

AUTO RUNS 59 MILES ON GALLON OF GAS

Automobile engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 59 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. They not only report amazing gas savings, but are also surprised to find quicker pick-up, instant starting, smoother running motors and disappearance of carbon. E. Oliver, 999-1409W Third St., Milwaukee, Wisc., for a limited time is offering a free device to those who will help introduce it. They also need men everywhere to make over $100 weekly in their own territory taking care of local business. Write him at once for free sample and big money making offer.—Adv.

What Would You Give to Enjoy Health of Your Nose, Throat and Lungs?

The health of the nose, throat and lungs is important at this season of the year. Nasal stoppage is not only unpleasant, but dangerous. Sore throat interferes with digestion and unless quickly mastered, infects the system. Lung ailments are responsible for more deaths than any other single group.

All these forms of weakness are caused by slight or serious displacement of joints of the spine in the region of the base of the neck. The trouble may be aggravated by bad, or stooping position. CHIROPRACTIC SPINAL ADJUSTMENTS remove the pressure upon spinal nerves to these organs, and with this pressure removed, the healthful condition of nose, throat, and lungs becomes a certainty.

"No return of the trouble after more than a year. I suffered untold misery from asthma and catarrh, ever since I was a girl. I could not lie down at night. I tried one doctor after another, and every patent medicine I heard about. About sixteen months ago I started chiropractic adjustments and became well. It is now more than a year since, and I have had no return of the ailment."—Matilda J. Sears, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1238-H.

CHURCH OFFICIALS HONOR MEMBERS

Mr. and Mrs. James Longmuir Receive Handsome Gifts from Trent River Church.

TRENT RIVER, Nov. 15.—Members of the Ladies' Aid and Board of Managers of the United Church assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Longmuir Thursday night, to spend a social hour with Mr. and Mrs. George Spencer before their departure for Toronto. A pleasing part of the evening's program was a presentation to the guests of honor.

The members of the Ladies' Aid presented Mrs. Spencer with a handsome pair of silver salt and pepper shakers. The address was read by Mrs. George Vanvolkenburg and the presentation was made by Mrs. James Longmuir. Mr. Spencer was presented with a club bag from the Official Board, Mr. Frank Davidson reading the address and Lloyd Vanvolkenburg making the presentation. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer made suitable replies, after which "For they are jolly good fellows" was sung by the company. Lunch was served and after an hours' social time all joined hands and sang "Old Lang Syne."

Mr. and Mrs. George Spencer, Miss Winnifred and brother, Bruce, left Friday for Toronto.

Cease Operations.

The cheese factory ceased operating for the season Friday evening.

Road Work Completed.

The road leading to the various cottages is completed and an excellent job has been done. The bridge has been repaired, which before was unsafe for traffic. Cars can travel through easily now, and not axle deep in mud as has been the case for many years.

Hunters Return.

SEVEN IN TEN MEN PAST 40 NEED THIS SPECIAL TRATMENT

Writer Explains Wondrous Value of Doctor Southworth's "Uratabs" And Invites All to Try Them Without Cost Unless Pleased.

With middle age ailments attacking over two-thirds of those past 40, every man who notices such distressing symptoms as Lameness, Pains in back and down through groins, scanty but frequent and burning Urination, 'Getting - Up Nights,' Nervous Irritability, and Lack of Force — should at once try the amazing value of Dr. Southworth's URATABS.

While new to many, the truly remarkable value of URATABS has been thoroughly proven by more than 40 years of successful use in the private practice of Dr. H. C. Southworth. Reports from Doctors and Users alike offer convincing proofs: "I have never found anything to help my case until I tried URATABS. "URATABS are the best thing for Bladder Weakness and Irritation I have ever used." No more backaches, no more pain, no more daily embarrassment or Getting-up nights. I now sleep soundly and get up in the morning full of pep—thanks to URATABS."—This is amazing evidence.

No matter how long you have been troubled or how stubborn your case may seem to be, a ten-day test of Dr. Southworth's URATABS offers comfort and relief—and you can make the test without risk of cost, for any good druggist will supply you on guarantee of money back if not satisfied. Try URATABS today!

District Churches

CAVAN UNITED.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, Nov. 15.— Very successful Thanksgiving services were held in Cavan United church on Sunday, when the Rev. Mr. Going, Peterborough, preached morning and evening to large congregations. The church was nicely decorated for the occasion with flowers, fruit and vegetables.

In the morning Rev. Mr. Going read Isaiah, 35, as a lesson, and chose as his text, Genesis, 2:12, "And the gold of that land was good." He compared that land with ours, showing that our land is good and that we have much to be thankful for. He spoke of conditions in times past, enumerating the many inventions and discoveries which tend to make things easier for the people of this generation. He mentioned the saying often heard, "That the young people are not as they were in days gone by." He said that if there was more evil in the world there was also more good. The young people of to-day have a wonderful heritage, with the experience and knowledge gained by their ancestors.

The choir sang "Living For Jesus" and "Will You Ask Him to Live With You," Miss A Tinney singing the verse as a solo. Miss Helen Kennedy sang a solo, "Teach Me To Pray." Mrs. (Rev.) J. O. Totton, Bridgenorth, presided at the organ for both services.

Evening Service.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Going spoke from the text, Pslam 126:3, "The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad." His sermon was appropriate to the Thanksgiving season.

The choir sang the anthem "Bounteous Harvest."

Mrs. R. S. Staples, Mrs. A. B. Kennedy and Messrs. R. Sutton and F. M. Staples sang a quartette, "God's Love Will Never Grow Old."

This was Rev. Mr. Going's first visit to Cavan and he was well received and his address much enjoyed.

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 15.—The morning service in Knox United Church on Sunday, November 11, began with the two minutes' silence and was immediately followed by singing of the Doxology. During the service the choir sang Tennyson's beautiful hymn, "Crossing the Bar."

Rev. T. M. Wesley took as his treat "Thou Shalt Remember" touching on the service and sacrifice which brought about the peace which we commemorate on this tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice.

Mrs. Bell sang "The Dream of Paradise" at the conclusion of the sermon.

St. John's Church.

The morning service in St. John's Church on Sunday began at 10.55 and immediately the processional hymn the two minutes' silence was reverently observed and was terminated by the ringing of the church bell and the singing of the National Anthem. Hymns appropriate to the day were sung and included "Oh God Our Help In Ages Past" and "The Saints of God How Sweet Their Rest." Rev. W. J. Creighton spoke in stirring manner of the blessing of peace which followed the war and paid a tribute to the work of the League of Nations which is a step toward world peace for all time.

WARKWORTH UNITED

WARKWORTH, Nov. 15.—Special service for Armistice Day was carried out in the United Church on Sunday morning. The official order of service was carried out as nearly as possible. Rev. F. H. Howard gave an interesting address in which was stated that sacrifice was the big thing in God's life and in Christ's life, but it was given so that the people might make all good things possible, so it was with the boys who sacrificed themselves that we might appreciate and appropriate what they made possible.

The pulpit was draped with the Union Jack and the honor roll was placed upon it.

Evening Service.

In the evening the address which the pastor gave was on Thanksgiving and was equally as interesting as the morning address.

Presbyterian Church.

Mr. McClary, student of Knox College, preached in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning while Louis Fowler, also student of Knox College, preached in the evening, the evening service being especially for Armistice Day.

Anniversary Services.

Anniversary services, which were held at Morganston, were well attended and the addresses given afternoon and evening by Rev. Mr. Glover of Smithfield, were greatly appreciated.

Bridgenorth

(Examiner Correspondence)

BRIDGENORTH, Nov. 15.—The Misse Helen and Marion Storey, of Toronto, spent the holiday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Evans Storey.

Miss Mildred Archer, of Toronto, was the guest of her parents over the week-end.

Mrs. Robert Tedford, of Bridgenorth, is spending a few days with her cousin, Mrs. Bruce Fitzgerald, of Selwyn.

Messrs. Clarke and Montgomery of Norwood attended the funeral of the late Tillie Smith, of Smith.

Miss Victoria Robison, teacher of S.S. No. 11, Smith, is holding her concert in the school on Thursday night, December 6, 1928.

Miss J. Blewett, of Toronto, was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Blewett, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Millage, of Smith, spent Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Millage, Lakefield.

Mr. William Mann, of Smith, spent a few days with his sister, Mrs. W. Garbutt, Douro.

DRAMATIC CLUB PRESENTS PLAY

Proceeds of Cavan Fowl Supper Amount to $315.00.

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAVAN, Nov. 15.—The proceeds of the fowl supper held in Cavan on Monday night amounted to $315. The hall and basement were nicely decorated for the occasion with Thanksgiving decorations, and Mrs. D. J. Hunter and Mrs. R. Matchett were in charge of one long table while Mrs. W. Nill was in charge of the other. After the supper, the following program was given:

Piano duet—Misses Mary and Doris Tinney.

Play, "Home Acres"—Cavan Dramatic Club.

The Rev. George Pringle, of British Columbia was present and told a good story of a Klondike experience which he had.

Piano duet—Misses Audrey Nill and Dorothy Cobbly.

Recitation, "Just Two Things to Worry Over"—Will Swain.

The cast of character for the play was:

Ann Rickett, a dressmaker, who generally has her say—Mrs. G. M. Carr.

Jane Whitman, rooted in the soil —Mrs. Albert Tinney.

David Holden, a young farmer—W. H. Swain.

Rose Whitman, a country flower—Mrs. C. L. Newton.

Lit, out of her element—Miss Flora Start.

Enoch, the chore boy—George Cobley.

John Whitman, ho has been to college—R. A. Sutton.

Wilfred Clay, a New Yorker—Eldred Snider.

Helen Dalton, a product of the gay white way—Mrs. Isaac Wood.

Jim Ferguson, a schemer—James Douglas.

The parts were well taken and the play was full of humor and interest. Rev. F. Carpenter was chairman for the occasion, filling the position in a genial manner. He commented on the large crowd, the good supper and abundance of provision. After all had been served, one uncarved goose remained, and this was sold. Rev. Mr. Carpenter also remarked on the distance some had to come to attend, one in particular, who was present had come 3,500 miles—the Rev. G. Pringle.

EYE TROUBLES VANISH:

If you've been suffering with strained eyes—eyes that burn, itch, smart, discharge—if you're troubled with granulated lids, styes, by all means use DR. PETTIT'S EYE SALVE, in use 120 years.

This powerful healing salve is marvelous to quickly restore lids to the original healthy state, to instantly soothe irritated eyes, to impart a sparkling lustre. A clear, healthy eye is the only eye that can be beautiful. 30c and 50c at Bond's Drug Store, McDermid & Jury, McDermid Drug Co. and all drugstores.

A Story of Revenged Love, by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER XXXII.

Giles hung up the receiver and turned away. He was powerless and yet he knew that he could never be content to let things remain as they were. He must see Julie again, somehow.

Someone tapped at his door.

"Mr. Lombard to see you, sir."

"Confound! Oh, well, show him up!"

Lombard seemed nervous and apologetic.

"I've called twice today and you were out both times. I went along to the club—"

"I haven't been there, and I'm just going out. What do you want?"

"You're not very polite."

"I'm sorry. I'm worried. Have a drink."

"Thanks." Lombard helped himself, furtively watching Chittenham all the time. "I say," he broke out suddenly, "I'm in the devil of a fix!"

Chittenham looked up.

"Money?"

"How did you know?"

"My dear fellow, isn't it almost the only thing anyone is ever in a fix about? How much do you want?"

Lombard gulped down his whisky.

"It's awfully sporting of you. If I could have five hundred. It's only a temporary loan—"

Giles laughed shortly. "Do you take me for a millionaire?"

"I tell you it's only temporary."

"I'll lend you fifty if it's any use."

There was an eloquent silence, then Lombard turned.

"Look here, Chittenham, it's serious. I'm frightfully up against it. I don't know anyone else who will help me."

"I tell you you can have fifty pounds."

"It's no more use to me than fifty shillings."

Chittenham shrugged his shoulders.

"I'm sorry, but it's all I can do, and, look here, I'm in a hurry."

He turned to the door, but Lombard stopped him; his face was white.

"You've got to let me have it!" he said desperately.

"Got to!"

For a moment the two men looked at one another silently, then Chittenham laughed.

"Sorry, but that's a thing no man can say to me." He made another move to the door, but Lombard caught his arm.

"Chittenham, for God's sake—"

Chittenham stood still.

"What do you want it for? What have you been up to?"

The other man's eyes fell.

"I can't tell you."

"All right, then, you won't get anything."

Lombard looked up suddenly.

"Oh, yes, I shall!" he said with detestable inflection.

There was an ugly silence.

"O, yes, I shall," he said again as Chittenham did not speak. "And if you refuse I shall tell Schofield, and anyone else who might be interested, that you and Julie Farrow spent the night together up at St. Bernard."

It was such an unexpected challenge that for a moment Chittenham could find no words; he just stared blankly at Lombard's white face. It seemed incredible that this man whom he had always looked upon as a friend—though certainly since that episode in Switzerland things had been rather strained between them—should suddenly turn and rend him. Then, with a great effort, he pulled himself together.

"And do you think anyone will believe you?" he asked.

Lombard laughed.

"They'll be glad enough to believe me. Scandal is the salt of life to Julie's friends. She's not altogether popular as it is, and if I tell them— It's no use getting violent," he added hurriedly as he saw Chittenham's hands clench into fists. "I'm in a position to prove what I say, remember."

"Prove it, then, and be damned!"

"Very well!" Lombard shrugged his shoulders with well-assumed indifference and turned to the door. Chittenham let him open it, then he called after him sharply: "Lombard—come back!"

Lombard half turned. "I've no time to waste, any more than you have," he said sullenly.

Chittenham caught him by the shoulder and jerked him back into the center of the room.

"I'll make it a hundred," he said.

"It's no use to me."

"Two hundred?"

A slyly amused smile crossed Lombard's face, and Giles broke out savagely.

"Damn you, do you think I'm afraid for myself? If it were only a question of that I'd give you the biggest thrashing you ever had and kick you out into the street. But as there is someone else in the case—"

"And someone for whom you have a great regard, eh?" Lombard sneered. "My dear fellow, don't think I'm not sympathetic. I know a great deal more than you think I do. For instance our mutual friend the charming little American—"

"What the hell do you mean?"

"Only that I overheard last night—quite by accident—something which both of you apparently are most anxious to keep from the rest of the world. I've always found that it's most dangerous to talk secrets in a crowded room, and your wife, you will agree, has rather an insistent voice."

"You sneaking hound!"

Lombard shrugged his shoulders.

"As you please! I'm not in a position to resent anything you say. After all, it's common knowledge that opportunity makes the thief."

"And if I refuse to give you anything at all?"

"Then probably Mrs. Chittenham will be very pleased to buy the information I have to sell."

"Then go to her and be damned to you."

"So Julie Farrow's reputation is nothing to you, after all?"

Giles went very white. He knew he was in Lombard's power. If he openly refused to lend this money he knew that some lying and grossly exaggerated story of that night in the mountains would be insidiously circulated amongst all those who cared to listen, and yet, on the other hand, if he paid, he would be in this man's hands for the rest of his life.

He controlled himself with an effort and temporized.

"Give me till tomorrow. You shall hear from me in the morning. Oh, good Lord, man," he broke out savagely as Lombard obviously hesitated, "what the hell do you think I can do that you need be afraid of? If I had only myself to consider I'd hand you over to the police."

"I'm not afraid of that," Lombard answered. He waited a moment, then said: "Very well, tomorrow morning. I'm sorry to be so importunate."

Chittenham took a stride towards him.

"Get our, or, by God—"

The door closed hurriedly between them.

* * * * * *

It was not true that Julie had promised to marry Lawrence Schofield, but when after her stormy interview with Chittenham he again urged her to accept him she suddenly gave in.

She felt overwrought and weak, almost as if the combat between herself and the man she loved had been a physical one.

There was only one hope for her, she knew, and that was never to see Chittenham again. Yet as long as they were both in London it would be impossible to avoid him, and pride would not allow her to admit her defeat and run away.

In her overwrought state she exaggerated everything; she magnified his every word and glance through a distorted mirror. If she could have done just as she liked without the morbid fear of what people would say or think, she would have gone away into the country with Bim, and tried to forget.

But here pride again stepped in.

Chittenham would think she had gone because she was afraid to face him; Chittenham would think that she was as broken as she knew herself to be.

She could not see that her reckless gaiety deceived nobody; she was like a machine that has got out of control and could not be stopped—a machine inevitably headed for disaster.

Lawrence Schofield's kindly devotion was like a cool hand laid on her feverishness, and when once again he asked if she could not make up her mind to marry him she suddenly gave in.

"Very well—if you are willing to take the risk."

"I am quite willing."

He was sufficiently undertanding not to attempt any demonstration of joy; he just talked to her quietly of their life together, and of all he meant to do for her.

"We will go where you like—live where you like: my only wish is for your happiness."

She turned her unhappy eyes upon him.

"You'll soon get tired of me. I'm so restless. I never seem to want the same thing two minutes together."

"You'll get over that. We shall settle down and be quite happy."

Julie shivered.

"I'm afraid you'll be dreadfully disappointed."

Schofield said he was not afraid. He was blinded by his happiness; he had never believed such goof fortune could be his. He wanted to go straight away and buy her the finest diamond ring in London, but Julie would not allow it.

"Not yet. You must give me a little time to get used to it. I don't want people to know just yet."

He was disappointed, but he fell in with her wishes.

"Just as you like. Everything shall always be just as you like."

Sudden tears filled her eyes.

"That's foolish of you," she told him, "but it's dear of you, too. I'm not half good enough for you, Lawrence."

SEVERAL PAPERS READ AT MEETING

Foreign Mission Work is Discussed by Roseneath Women.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Nov. 15.—The Woman's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Lily Turner on Tuesday afternoon and was fairly well attended by the members. Mrs. Turner conducted the meeting.

Mrs. H. Taylor read the scripture lesson, Romans, 14. The devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. Reg. Crego, followed by Mrs. (Rev.) M. R. Brown, who read a paper on Foreign Missions. Mrs. Davey, Miss Ellen Brown, Mrs. W. Arnold, and Mrs. Nixon each gave a paper on the missionary work done in Angola.

Mrs. William Roberts favored the meeting with a paper on Korea, which was very interesting and greatly enjoyed. Korea is one foreign field where missionaries have worked hard, their earnest toil and faithfulness to God is helping advance the country into civilisation.

A discussion took place on the need of money, but decided rather than have a tea or social, for each member to contribute more liberally would be an easier way and more beneficial.

As the Circle is undecided as to whether it will remain as it is or change to other church societies, the Missionary monthly will be left for further discussion.

The December meeting will be held at the parsonage, when every member is requested to be present.

After the Mizpah benediction was given in unison, a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Turner and the Misses Turner.

FENIAN VETERAN DIES AT SARNIA

Henry Gorman Was Editor of Sarnia Observer For Thirty-nine Years.

POLICE MAGISTRATE.

SARNIA, Ont., November 15 (Canadian Press). — Henry Gorman, 90, former city police magistrate and editor and publisher, died here to-day. He served in the Fenian Raid, and held a medal and bar. For thirty-nine years he owned and edited The Sarnia Observer, disposing of his interest in the paper in 1917. From 1898 until early this year, he held the post of police magistrate. Two daughters and one son survive.

OLYMPIC TRAINER TO SPEAK AT 'Y'

J. Howard Crocker Will Give Address Under Auspices of Friday Night Supper Club.

Some first hand information on the last Olympic Games will be given by J. Howard Crocker, Friday evening at the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Crocker was on the Canadian Olympic committee with P. J. Mulqueen of Toronto and Dr. Lambe, of Montreal and this committee practically managed all the affairs of the Canadian team at the last games in Amsterdam. Mr. Crocker was manager of the Canadian team at the Olympic games held in London in 1904 and he has been closely associated with the games ever since. He is director of physical training and athletics on the continent.

Will Illustrate Address

Mr. Crocker will likely tell the inside story of Canada's great success at the last games and he will have pictures showing the men in action and winning their events. He has given his lecture in many cities across the continent with huge success. The other evening in Ottawa the "Y" lecture room was so crowded and Mr. Crocker's pictures were so good that the committee were rather sorry they hadn't hired a theatre for the occasion.

Mr. Crocker will speak under the auspices of the Friday Night Supper Club and tables will be set in the gymnasium sufficient to seat 150. All "Y" members and friends of the association are invited to the supper Friday night to hear Mr. Crocker's story of the Olympic Games.

The charming rooms of Mrs. J. A. Aylmer's house on Weller street were thrown open yesterday afternoon to the members and friends of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E., who held a tea there. There was a good attendance of ladies during the tea hour. The guests were welcomed by Mrs. Aylmer and the regent of the chapter, Mrs. F. L. Boomhour. A cosy grate fire, many lighted lamps and candelabra and a profusion of white and bronze mums in vases and bowls, added to the attraction of the rooms, with their artistic pictures and interesting antique furniture. The table was centred by a large brass bowl of bronze baby mums and brass holders held yellow candles. The Chinese lantern flowers sold at the side tables added a bright spot of color. Mrs. C. A. White acted as general convenor of arrangements and Mrs. W. H. Hyde had charge of the tea room. The guests were ushered in by Mrs. A. Beal. Mrs. J. Garbutt and Mrs. F. Pulkinghorn had the sale of home-made cooking, while Mrs. C. A. White and Mrs. T. C. Elliott looked after the sale of fancy work and Miss A. M. Lancaster was supervisor of the Book Table. Tea was poured by Mrs. R. Hartstone and Mrs. L. J. Lecair, assisted by Mrs. M. N. Clark, Mrs. G. H. Roper, Mrs. D. W. Clark and Mrs. J. J. Doris. Mrs. J. A. Robinson acted as treasurer.

A very successful and well-attended bridge party was held last evening in the hall of the Conservatory of Music, under the auspices of the Womens Art Association. The hall, prettily decorated, the stage lit with tall floor lamps, was filled with the thirty-six tables, with their dainty tally cards and red and green sweetmeat baskets. The guests were received by the president, Mrs. W. Blackwell, Mrs. B. L. Barns and Miss Mary Stratton. Arrangements were carried out in excellent fashion by the general convenor, Mrs. C. B. Adair, while the service of dainty refreshments was looked after by Mrs. H. E. Connolly, Mrs. A. Barton and Mrs. V. S. Foster, assisted by a number of the guests. Mrs. H. W. Morphet acted as treasurer and Mrs. B. H. Meyers collected the tallies. Prizes were won by Miss M. Archer and Mr. R. H. Parsons, Mr. F. Saltman winning the gentlemen's consolation. The 'lucky number' prize was won by Miss Genevieve Sullivan, and was a very pretty painting donated by Miss Cameron Edwards. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. F. Saltman, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. THE WHATNOT

By MARION

I suppose you think it is nearly time I announced the winners of the Armistice Day letter competition?

• • •

First prize goes to "Patricia," and the correspondence cards to "Adastia," "?," "E.A.M.", "Mack," and "Jenny Wren II". You will notice that I am giving five boxes of correspondence cards instead of the two promised. And here is my reason:

• • •

Every letter in the Armistice number was different in viewpoint, in treatment, and in sentiment. It is difficult to judge a letter which tells of personal interest against one which tells of the feelings of others.

• • •

"Patricia's" letter, I think, was the best description of "What Armistice Meant to Me," and for that reason I have chosen it for first place. The story of the day's joys and sorrows is well told, and "Patricia's" own sentiments on the day of days were not forgotten.

• • •

"Adastia" tells splendidly the account of people's feelings on Armistice Day, but does not detail her own personal reactions.

"?" writes a pathetic story of the missing one who might be restored by the Armistice; she tells it in a way that thrills while it saddens. It WAS "Victory Slope", that winding road from the beautiful Leas to the smoky transport, "?", but the victory was purchased by the boys who there bade farewell for ever to the beauty of England.

• • •

"E.A.M." has a different kind of letter. It recalls the time of waiting, the relaxation after long years of suffering, and leads up to the warning against crying "Peace, when there is no peace."

• • •

The letter from "Mack" tells poignantly the sorrows of those who lost. Herself rejoicing, she suffered with the mother who had given six sons to her country—sacrifice indeed!

• • •

And last, "Jenny Wren II" reminds us that in spite of the passage of time we must not forget that Armistice Day, because many of the men to whom it meant most are still with us. "Remember the dead, but do not forget the living," she seems to say.

• • •

I don't think there was a story told with more pathos than that of "Waiting," or one that more clearly summed up the spirit of Armistice, but I respect her wishes and offer no prize. The neighbors cannot but admire a devotion so great and strong that it has survived these ten years.

• • •

The letters were all wonderful, and the response was splendid. I believe they made that page the most HUMAN of the Armistice number.

• • •

You know I appreciate them, don't you, neighbors?

• • •

There are some prizewinners whose addresses I have not on record; perhaps they wil be good enough to inform me. They are: "Patricia," "Adastia", "?", "E.A.M." The other prizes have been sent out, and these four will be sent on recipit of the names and addresses.

• • •

This is a last reminder of the Christmas story competition, which will close on November 30. The first prize will be $5, second prize $2.50, and third prize a box of stationery, in addition to payment for the stories at regular space rates.

• • •

All stories printed, whether prize-winners or not, will be paid for at regular space rates—not very high, but sufficient to show appreciation of the work.

• • •

Stories must have a Christmas touch, must be written on one side of the paper only, and must reach me by November 30. The Christmas edition will be issued, I think, about December 5.

• • •

Writing about Christmas reminds me that this week's help is a four-page folder giving dozens of suggestions for making Christmas gifts at home. You will find it interesting, even if you have no intention of making gifts; and maybe after you read about some of the lovely things which can be easily made at home you will decide to try! The four-page booklet is free on request.

In a couple of weeks I expect to offer another Christmas help which I have asked "Laura" to prepare. It will tell about Christmas parties, games and menus.

If you have any recipes for Christmas goodies that there is still time to prepare, why not help out the neighbors by sending them in right away for publication?

• • •

And how about some of you old friends writing to us again? We haven't heard from some of you in months—and we miss you!

BEEF GOULASH

Cut 2 pounds of chuck beef into pieces for serving and chop up 3 onions. Put in an iron Dutch oven and add 2 tablespoons catsup, 1 bay leaf, 2 teaspoons Worchestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon paprika. Let brown slowly, add a little water and let that cook away until the meat is browned again. Then add 1 pint of water and let simmer for an hour. Add potatoes, carrots and whole onions and simmer until vegetables are tender. Thicken the gravy with cornstarch dissolved in cold water.

OLIVE DRESSING

To 1 cup of thick mayonnaise dressing add 1 cup chopped olives, ½ cup chopped pimentos, ½ teaspoon chopped chives, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley. Serve on hearts of lettuce. A delightful salad for the course dinner as it is dainty and appetizing without being so filling.

BABY NOT GAINING? LOOK TO HIS DIGESTION

Babies can't gain when souring waste in a clogged digestive tract is forming gas, making them colicky, constipated and miserable. Just try the method doctors endorse, and millions of mothers know, and see how your baby improves. A few drops of purely-veegtable, harmless Fletcher's Castoria makes the most fretful, feverish baby or child comfortable in a jiffy. A few doses and he's digesting perfectly and gaining as he should. To get genuine Castoria, look for the Fletcher signature on the wrapper.

WOMEN CLAIM VOTING RIGHT

Canadian Alliance Addresses Request for Information to Minister of Justice.

IN QUEBEC

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 15.—(Canadian Press).—The following open letter on the question as to when the women of the province of Quebec ceased to have the right to vote is addressed to the Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, by the Canadian Alliance for Women's Vote in Quebec:

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, Ottawa:

Dear Sir,—We beg you to accept our most sincere appreciation of the address which you gave before the Provincial Suffrage Committee on October 31.

Would you kindly inform us when the right to vote formerly possessed by the women of our province was taken away from them—at what session, under which Prime Minister and on what date?

Eminent jurists who have seriously studied the question have not yet as found any document to that effect, and are, therefore, of the opinion that there is nothing in our constitution to prevent women from voting as they did in 1820 and perhaps later. An important group of women of Montreal will register on the present voters' list and will claim their provincial as well as their federal rights.

Respectfully, Canadian Alliance for Womne's Vote in Quebec.

(Signed), Idola Saint Jean, President.

CLAM BROTH

If the invalid is fond of clam broth, it is excellent for him, and when daintily prepared, very appetizing as well as nourishing. Buy 12 clams in the shell. Place in a saucepan over a slow fire until the shells open. Then pour off juice into another pan. Add as much water as you have clam juice. Stew gently for 10 minutes, skimming carefully. Season with a little butter and pepper; salt is rarely necessary. Strain and serve.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

This red tweed coat has collar and cuffs of black fox and is worn with red felt hat and all-black frock of black crepe.

Last season women never felt more appropriately and conveniently dressed for the usual round of informal afternoon engagements than when wearing coats of black fur over little bright colored frocks of silk or georgette. Often the bright little frock was worn beneath a brown or gray fur coat. Of course, there were coat costumes made with frock to match the coat, in color, though seldom in fabric, and this season we still have these monocolor ensembles. Quite new, and, I think, decidedly smart is the ensemble consisting of a bright colored coat trimmed with black fur and a little frock of all-black crepe or georgette to wear beneath.

It is a reversal of the order of the black coat and colorful frock—pleasing for sake of novelty if for nothing else. Usually the effect is decidedly becoming also. The sketch shows an ensemble of a red tweed coat worn with a red felt hat to match—and black frock to match the black fur trimming of the coat. The shoes are of black and the stockings of thin gunmetal. The brighter shades of blue may be combined effectively with black in the same manner.

This arrangement, of course, lends itself to use only with a full-length coat. Meantime, of course, the fashion for slightly shorter coats is gaining ground and these shorter coats really are at their best when worn with foundation skirt to match. Over this is worn an overblouse or long tunic of contrasting color of fabric.

Shades of red are even more highly favored at present than was generally anticipated. There are definite reds of a real scarlet or slightly brickish cast and a wide variety of wine reds as well.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

(By Jeanette.)

"They were wrought in the monks' slow manner
With silver and sanguine shell.
And their pictures were little and terrible keyholes
To heaven and hell."
—An Illuminated Missal.

A peacock spread its wings on a black background. First the gold outlines of its body shone out, then the violet and royal blue and green of its feathers appeared.

In one of the local stores, a serious-faced girl bent over the cushion-cover she was painting. Textile Art is the name given this fascinating occupation.

The process is simple but effective. She was fashioning a brilliant-hued peacock while an instructor watched her skilful fingers.

First the pattern is applied to the fabric, by means of a transfer powder and a soft brush that looks like a nail-buffer. Then the outlines are put in, in the color desired, and then the white liquid paint that serves as a holding base and groundwork, is applied. Over this is brushed lightly the dry powder that gives a soft finish. Each color is finished in separate sections. The outfit includes a number of little glass tubes of dry powder, some bottles of liquid paint, transfer powders, brushes and little cones of paper that, when twisted to hold the white liquid color, look like the little pointed ends of tubes of nail-white. Making Christmas gifts in this way would be quite pleasant.

Ladies of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. were very energetic on Saturday, as they congregated outside the Teco Store to sell tickets for their Hope Chest. Displayed in the window were the contents of the beautiful wooden box. Embroidered linens, brightly-colored blankets, candelabra, a hand-painted painting in oils, a darling little cherry red boudoir lamp, and one of Mrs. M. McNabb's famous patchwork quilts, were among the objects on view.

Among the quaint conceits in the local stores, designed probably as Christmas gifts, are the dainty little butter-dishes that look like mother-of-pearl conch shells, with tiny silver butter knives. The favorite spread for bread would look especially nice in these pretty holders.

The program of the Women's Art Association for this season promises some very interesting entertainments for the members. Miss Nora Thompson of Toronto, expert on books for the T. Eaton Company, Limited, was the first attraction on this year's program of events, and Emanuel Hahn, A.R.C.A., O.S.A., a prominent member of the Sculptors' Society of Canada, gave an interesting lecture last week, at the second meeting. Mr. Hahn, by the way, paid a wonderful tribute to the talent of youthful Canadians when he said they could compare favorably with, in fact could not be excelled by, students of art in European lands. He was especially emphatic about the talent of Canadian girl students in these lines.

An Exhibition and Sale of work by members of the allied Guild of Arts and Crafts is the next attraction, on November 22nd, and on November 23rd, Miss Mayme Montgomery will speak on "Art in Paris."

On December 14th, Rev. Charles V. McLean, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, will give an address on "Christmas in Art," at the Christmas Musicale.

The opening meeting of the New Year will be on January 11th, when Mrs. L. J. Pettit, convenor of the Dramatic Club, will give a talk on Dramatic Art, illustrated with Greek statue poses. On January 25th, Miss Ruth Home, lecturer of the Royal Ontario Museum, will speak on "Old Lace." This will be illustrated by lantern slides.

Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman of Toronto will lecture on "The Greatest Masterpiece," on the evening of February 8th, and on February 22nd, Juan Cano, A.B., of Toronto University, will give an illustrated lecture entitled "A Trip to Spain."

On March 8th, Miss C. E. Moore of Toronto will give a talk on China Painting and Canadian Clay, with an exhibition and on March 22nd, Miss L. O. Adams of Toronto will give an exhibition of painting in oil and water colors.

On April 12th, Mrs. F. C. Neal will give some Impressions gleaned from her recent trip to Europe.

On April 26th, an exhibition of paintings will be given by Miss Mamie L. McCarthy.

Increase Your Weight 5 Pounds 30 Days Or Money Back

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Extract is full of vitamines that make flesh, create appetite, build up the power to resist disease and puts good solid flesh on skinny men and women.

So now men and women who keep up with the times are taking McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets—rich in flesh producing, health building, strength creating vitamines and as easy to take as candy.

So why not start today? Why not fill out those deep hollows in neck, cheeks and chest? Why go on through life with sunken cheeks and narrow chest when you can take advantage of this straight forward offer.

Try them for 30 days if you want to gain five pounds or more. And bear this in mind if they don't help you in that time McDermids, McDermid & Jury, Bond's, Payne's and James Lynch, or any druggist anywhere is authorized to return your money—but demand McCoy's 60 Tablets 60 cents.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion, at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion,

I really liked your Armistice number, and I enjoyed every letter written to your page. I am watching to see those whom you pick as prize-winners, to see if my judgment agrees.

The Armistice Day service, too, was wonderful; wasn't it? I forget whether I read it in the Whatnot (I read everything you write) or whether I heard someone say it, but I agree that if Armistice Day is observed like that every year in all the warring countries there can never be another Great War. If people remember their losses they will not court the same catastrophe again.

I am eagerly looking forward to the Christmas help you promised, as I am at my wits' end to know what to give. I have to make most of my presents at home, and while I thoroughly enjoy it, it is difficult to find different things to give every year.

Yours sincerely,
Agatha."

I'm glad you liked the Armistice number, "Agatha," and hope the choice of winners meets with your approval. I, too, believe in the idea that memory of the war time sacrifices is the greatest guarantee of peace.

The Christmas help will be out at the end of this week. It has taken quite a while to prepare and print, but I think you will find it just what you want.

"Dear Marion:

I am anxious to get a copy of The Examiner of September 22, will you kindly tell me through your column where one can be obtained.

Yours,
A constant reader."

I am sorry that there is not a single copy of this day's issue left.

"Dear Marion,

This is too late for readers to use this season, but those who need it will likely keep it.

If tomatoes are ripening slowly and the weather is cold, just put them in a box, cover with some dark warm covering, and old sweater, and put behind the stove, they will ripen beautifully.

Ours started to ripen, one by one in August. When the first frosts came, we brought all the nice ones to the verandah, put what we could in windows, to ripen in the sun, and covered the others in a south-east corner when the sun was not shining. A neighbor came in and told me of the covered box behind the stove, and we have had lots of ripe tomatoes, and still have quite a few. Have been told many methods, but this is the first we have found satisfactory.

Mrs. D. M."

Thanks for the suggestion, Mrs. D. M., which I suggest the neighbors save in their scrap books for next season.

2 eggs

Sweet milk enough to make a soft dough. Roll, then spread with butter, sugar and currants. Over this put grated nutmeg. Roll and cut off in cakes; sprinkle with white sugar and bake.

TOO MUCH MILK GIVEN CHILDREN

Says Dr. Chandler at Child Development Clinic at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Wee children graduating from merest babyhood to the mighty age of six years are given too much milk in many cases, and because of this parents encounter great difficulty in teaching them to eat other things, Dr. A. B. Chandler pointed out at the child development clinic held at the Montreal General Hospital.

Dr. Chandler based his remarks on observations made at the McGill nursery school with children ranging in age from eleven months to six years. In speaking of the young child's diet, he called attention to the fact that it has been found that many parents have not the least idea how much little children should have to eat. They also fall by the wayside by feeding them too often.

Individual problems were given. Among the illustrations was that of a child of 11 months who spent most of the hours from seven to ten at night and one to seven in the morning in tears. The family had bought a radio and had been unable to make use of it because of this almost incessant crying. In dealing with the sleeplessness of this child it was found that it was being fed day and night every three hours, and consequently had formed the habit of waking up to receive food.

Because the baby had 'aid awake at night the mother was allowing it sleep during the day. The treatment of keeping it awake in the day and giving it food during the day was applied in order to regulate its life. The parents were advised, as soon as it was possible, to turn the radio on in order that the child might become accustomed to sleeping despite it, and the result of the treatment was that in six weeks the child's sleeplessness was remedied.

The child development clinic is conducted in various centres in the city in connection with the Child Welfare Association of which Dr. Chandler is medical director. He has, among other assistants in this work, a public health nurse who obtained a Rockfeller scholarship and spent a year in the United States studying special methods, and a dietitian who has had two years' experience in nursery school work.

Great revival of archery among women in England. 80 clubs in country. American women also enthusiastic here.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE RED HEN

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate)

Do you remember the time the Fuzzy Fox wanted to nibble Uncle Wiggily and Jack Frost froze the Bad Chap fast to the ground by the water on his tail? And do you remember how, after that, the Bob Cat chased the rabbit and Mr. Longears dropped a bottle of sodawater he was carrying and the water froze and made a slippery slide?

Yes. Well, do you remember how, sliding on the frozen sodawater, Uncle Wiggily reached his hollow stump bungalow safely and so the Bob Cat didn't get him? Of course you do. Well, this story is about what happened next.

Uncle Wiggily slid so fast on the sodawater slide that he couldn't stop himself and slamb bang ker bunko he went, right up against the front door.

"Goodness me! What's that?" cried Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Some one trying to break in, I fear!" said Mrs. Longears.

"Oh, it's Unkie Wig!" shouted Baby Bunty looking out of a side window. "And he's sitting down on the steps!"

For I forgot to tell you that Uncle Wiggily slid along on the frozen sodawater sitting down and of course he slid up on his bungalow porch steps in the same way.

"Whatever is the matter, Wiggy?" asked his wife, opening the door.

"Nothing is the matter now," said her husband. "But there might have been if the Bob Cat had caught me. But no matter? Is supper ready? I am very hungry."

"We are all ready to sit down—just waiting for you," squeaked Nurse Jane.

After supper, all the forty thirteen or fourteen bunny rabbit boys and girls gathered around their Daddicums and begged:

"Please tell us a Bedtime Story!"

"Oh, all right," said UncleWiggily. So he began:

"Once upon a time there was a little Red Hen."

"Was she any relation to Charlie and Arabella Chick?" asked Baby Bunty, while Jingle asked: "Could she lay eggs?"

"Now look here," said Mr. Longears. "If you keep on asking questions I can't tell the story. I shall have to start over."

He waited until the children were quiet and then he said:

"Once upon a time there was a little Red Hen."

"You told us that part, Daddicums," said Buster.

"My dear," said his father, "you must not interrupt. Now I shall have to begin all over again. So, waiting until the children were very quiet Uncle Wiggily said:

"Once upon a time there was a little Red Hen." And this time no one asked any questions so the bunny rabbit gentleman went on with the story to the very end. But there is no need of me telling you that story, for you know it.

Anyhow, all of a sudden, next day, when Uncle Wiggily was hopping along the road, out of the bushes ran the little Red Hen.

"Caw! Caw! Ka dah!" clucked the little Red Hen. "I hear you have been telling stories about me, Uncle Wiggily!" and she fluffed out her feathers and puffed herself out and looked very angry.

"Why, I only told a Bedtime Story about you," said the bunny uncle.

"Well, you mustn't talk about me," clucked the Hen. "Besides I'm not really red at all."

"Aren't you?" asked Uncle Wiggily, rubbing his eyes, for he saw the red color on the Hen as plainly as you can see an automobile.

"No, I'm not really red, I'm black," clucked the Hen. "This red is only a suit of red flannel I wear over my feathers so I won't catch cold. If you tell any more stories about me say 'once upon a time there was a little Black Hen.' Then it will be right."

"But how can I say you're black when I see you are red?" asked the bunny rabbit. "I must tell storiesthe way they are."

"Look here!" cawed the little Red Black Hen. "If you don't do as I say I shall have to scratch you and flip you with my wings!" With that she began to run right toward the bunny.

"Oh, please don't scratch me!" he begged.

"Yes, I shall!" cawed the little Red Hen.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1928.

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Minded good and bad planetary influences are seen by astrologers in this day's horoscope. It is a time to be cautious.

While there may be a stimulation of energy under this rule of the stars important matters would better be held in obeyance.

It is not wise to trust the judgment while this configuration prevails, for the vision may not be trustworthy either in domestic or business matters.

This is not a lucky day for making new acquiantances, and it is especially hazardous if they be of opposite sex.

At this period of the year there may be a strong temptation to take risks. Speculation may be peculiarly alluring. Be careful.

The spirit that leads to ventures of every sort may be responsible for many hasty or ill-advised marriages.

Whatever concerns publishers appears to be subject to the best possible conditions and unprecedented advertising appears to be forecast for the holiday season.

In every large city shops will be made even more beautiful and gorgeous than ever before, and money will be lavishly spent for Christmas, it is forecast.

Banks and bankers continue under a sway making for continued extension of their fields of activity.

This is an auspicious day to pay debts or even to seek loans, but there is danger of being too sanguine regarding ability to pay creditors.

Those who seek political preferment will do well to await a more promising aspect before pushing claims for recognition.

Persons who occupy positions in the Sun may be in exacting mood today, for many small disappointments may assail them.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of perils, more or less disturbing, but they will have the ability to make apparent handicaps become aids.

Children born on this day probably will have first rate constructive talent. Many architects are born under this sign of Scorpio which often produces super men and women.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE PRIZE ANTIQUES

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.

(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

Antiques that we prize are rare. Many people have come to desire them. The ownership confers a kind of distinction upon the owner. It isn't everyone who can have one of the five existing editions of a certain book or one of the few examples of a certain type of furniture.

Exclusiveness is at the bottom of a great many things we prize. This is true not only of rare furniture and antiques in general but also of the social club, the higher academic degrees, titles, etc. What would these things be worth if anyone could procure them? A piece of glass may be fully as brilliant as a diamond, at least to the amateur in such matters. Yet we pay fabulous sums for a diamond because it is rare and costly. There are not enough large perfect diamonds to go around and it is not everyone who can afford to pay the price.

We honor the champion in golf, in baseball, in tennis, in anything from oratory to continuous dancing. If you are a state champion you are superior to the county champion because there are fewer of your kind in existence, but you are not as important as the national champion, who is less important than the world champion. When a person becomes a world champion he is a celebrity. He is so exclusive as to be in a class by himself.

The manufacturers of modern furniture and costly automobiles take advantage of the psychic element that makes an antique valuable. Only a small number of certain expensive furniture designs is produced. After making, say, five hundred sets of dining room suites, the pattern is destroyed, or discarded. The buyer may feel assured that not many if any, of his associates will have a set exactly like his. In automobiles this method is not so practical so far as the entire car is concerned, but it is approximated by changing the color and appointments to give an exclusive appearance.

Moreover, there is a tendency to copy the expensive and exclusive articles by cheap imitations. And of course as soon as these cheap imitations appear the rich discard their old for newer designs to keep well up in the exclusive class.

We prize antiques as we prize anything that places the proud possessor above the average. The human motives involved are the desire to outdo others, to make an impression, to be envied; the antique is merely one of the means of realizing these motives.

Why do you do what you do? Ask Dr. Thomson. Write him care of this paper, and send stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

ANNUAL SUPPER IS WELL ATTENDED

Five Hundred Guests Are Served by St. Paul's Presbyterian Ladies.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, Nov. 15.—The anniversary supper held at St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, on Monday evening, proved to be a decided success in spite of the weather conditions. More than five hundred people sat down to supper. That provisions were abundant was proved by the fact that a school children's dinner was served on Tuesday at noon, with plenty of provisions to satisfy everyone.

LYRICS OF LIFE

A GOOD BEGINNING

Jeff Jeffers says we ought to join
The League of Nations right away.
But doesn't speak to Mickey Hoyne,
Because he's Irish, so they say.
Jeff Jeffers hates with all his heart
A lot of people he has known.
It seems that Jeffers ought to start
A League of Nations of his own.

Will Williams says that Muscle Shoals
Should be developed, something vast
But when it comes to digging holes
Himself, he isn't quite so fast.
His gate is broken, fences, too,
Around his yard the chickens roam.
It looks like Williams ought to do
It The first developing at home.

Jack Jackson says the government
Should help the farmer, so it should.
This morning past his place I went
And saw the Missus chopping wood.
The nation ought to, I agree,
Make easier the farmer's life;
But meanwhile I would like to see
The farmer help the farmer's wife.

"Fruit-a-tives" Stopped Pain and Terrible Dizziness

Mme. GODIN

It seems almost a miracle—the way "Fruit-a-tives" benefits women suffering at the change of life. "I was obliged to go to bed because of the terrible dizziness, pain and weakness," writes Mme. Onesime Godin of Paquetville, N.B. "During this trying time 'Fruit-a-tives' proved a godsend to me, and now I am in perfect health. Every woman should follow my example and take 'Fruit-a-tives,' and they would surely get the wonderful relief that I did." Try it. Your dealer has this wonderful fruit medicine—25c. and 50c. a box.

FITS OR CONVULSIONS OF CHILDREN

Many a mother, upon seeing her child suddenly stretch out in a convulsion and fall upon the floor, believes that the child is about to die and becomes frantic, calling one or more doctors on the telephone and, until their arrival, may apply a number of home remedies. The child's body, usually without any preceding symptoms except restlessness, becomes stiff and the head may be drawn backward toward the heels, the eyes are turned up, the face is strained, and there is usually an appearance of choking or holding the breath so that the child may become black in the face. Fortunately, this condition is not actually as serious as it appears, and usually no permanent after-effects occur.

Indigestion is the most frequent cause of convulsions, although other conditions may be responsible, such as teething, worms, stomach disturbances, anemia, kidney trouble, epilepsy, or the beginning of infectious diseases, such as measles, small pox, scarlet fever or pneumonia.

The correct treatment during an attack is usually simple, but after the condition becomes normal an effort should be made by the doctor to discover the real cause, that it may be removed. As soon as the convulsion begins the child should be placed in a tub of hot water until perspirations begin. Care must be taken that the water is not hot enough to burn the child. The child's head should be kept cool by applications of wet towels. When sweating begins the child should be removed from the tub and wrapped in a sheet and placed in bed so that the perspiration will continue. A cold abdominal compress shouldbe applied. This is made by wrapping a wet, well-wrung towel flat around the abdomen, and then wrapping two or three thicknesses of dry wool or flannel on the outside after which the child should be covered and the head kept cool. If the child is not too hot he will fall into a sleep and will perspire profusely, in this way discharging the toxins that are causing the convulsions. The child should be allowed to awaken by itself after which he should receive a quick, cold shower and be vigorously dried and rubbed and one or two enemas of warm water given.

For the first day the child should be given as much water as it will drink, but no other food except orange juice. The use of an acid fruit diet for a few days is advisable after which a "Children's Diet" may be employed. The mother should be especially careful with the proper food combinations, and for some weeks the child should be encouraged to drink as much water as possible. One enema should be used daily for about a week. They are also very successful in overcoming the spasms which will usually stop when the bowels are open.

Should the convulsions prove to be caused by some disease, a thorough effort to correct the trouble should be undertaken. If your doctor discovers that some disease is present as a cause, you should send me his report, and I will be very glad to give you my advice as to the methods which I consider most satisfactory for bringing about a permanent cure.

Epilepsy seldom makes its appearance before the age of two years, but the convulsions which I have just described may occur at any age. The appearance is an indication that some error has been made in the care and feeding of the child, and the mother should make a thorough study as to the correct methods of child feeding.

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of this paper. Enclose stamped, addressed large envelope for reply.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Apoplexy.

Question: X.Y.Z. writes: "Kindly explain what apoplexy is and if there is a cure for it."

Answer: Apoplexy is a sudden paralysis and coma from effusion of blood or serum into the brain or spinal cord. Most cases recover from the first attack at least, and no more attacks need occur if the affected one will learn the cause and live so as to prevent a recurrence of the attack.

Mosaic Dietary Laws.

Question: S. E. asks: "Is there a healthful reason why the Mosaic dietary laws prohibit the eating of dairy and meat products during a meal. Also, is it for a healthful reason that these laws require a lapse of six hours between a meat food meal and a dairy food meal?"

Answer: The Mosaic laws have many fine suggestions about the regulation of the dietary. One especially good rule is against the use of milk with a meat meal. My experience with patients has taught me that milk with other protein foods makes such a meal difficult of digestion. As it takes about six hours to digest an ordinary meal, it is always well to wait this long between meals.

Age and Arteriosclerosis.

Question: T. O'N. asks: "Is there an age limit for arteriosclerosis? Is it possible for a person 55 years old to be free from that ailment?"

Answer: Arteriosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, may occur at any age, but is more frequently found with those after forty. This disease can be at least partially cured through various hygienic measures with special attention to correct diet.

Green or Over-ripe Fruit.

Question: M. O. writes: "I would like to ask whoch is the more harmful to eat, fruit partly green or over-ripe?"

Answer: Fruit should not be eaten in either condition, green fruit may sometimes be cooked and made edible, but over-ripe fruit should always be discarded.

Stomach and Brain Trouble.

Question: Mrs. H. A. S. asks: "Would a continued stomach trouble destroy brain cells and they be lost forever?"

Answer: I am sure that any stomach trouble always has an effect upon every part of the body, including the brain. The brain cells are constantly dying and new ones growing in their place; unless there is an abnormal degeneration of these cells they are always replaced. When a large group of brain cells becomes destroyed, it is liable to produce paralysis or some other trouble which is very marked. In such a case, the destroyed cells are usually not restored.

THREE MEN - By FANNIE HURST

THREE men lived in a fine old house in a fine old street. It was a gabled, many-angled house that held laughter and tears and the gay talk, the sad talk, the hopeful talk, the desolated talk of four generations in its timbers. The family tree had ripened to a rich maturity in that old house and finally declined into three men.

Old Amos Morgenthau and his son Martin Morgenthau and his son's son, Junior Morgenthau. There were no women left in that family. There were no other branches left, when Amos was sixty-five and Martin was forty and Junior was twenty. They were the last of the line. Curious, how a normal-sized family can suddenly veer off through unexpected death, natural death, old age and the tragedy of youthful death, into decadence.

Dignity of Past Lived on With Them

The Morgenthau family, ten years previous, had given no evidence of the early withering of that family tree.

Sometimes in that sombre old house, full of the dignity of having given roof to people of taste and discernment and cultivation, one felt a certain vastness of isolation and yet their lives were busy, animated, interested and interesting.

At sixty-five, Amos seemed to be standing on the threshold of an entrance into some new world. He was frail, and of a parchment-colored transparency that seemed to give him no corporeal substance, but the face of Amos Morgenthau was the face of a man animated with a sublime fanaticism. For forty years, he had fostered a dream; he had fostered an ideal; he had fostered a vision. And now, when he was sixty-five, fulfillment lay suddenly in the grasp of his bird-like transparent hands.

Million and Half Out of Clear Sky

To be exact, on the morning of his sixty-fifth birthday, as Amos sat down to his breakfast table with his son and grand-son, he opened an envelope at his plate and fell over in the first faint of his life. His invention of a propellerless aeroplane had been bought by a Dayton concern for a million and a half dollars.

Amos Morgenthau was the day's sensation. His home-papers carried first page stories of him for weeks and even the New York press heralded his success by sending star reporters out to the Western city to interview the old gentleman, and scientific and popular periodicals and magazines printed the story of his life and his rise and his ultimate achievement at sixty-five years of age. All the dreams of the old gentleman had suddenly come true.

Now the World Bowed at His Feet

Engineering success. The many tribulations of a lifetime of trying to keep up appearances worthy of his family background on a small income, were banished. His son and grand-son shone in the reflective glory of his splendid success and the world bowed at his feet.

And yet, deep in his heart, when he would admit it to himself, the old man knew that his success had come too late. A woman named Laura, at whose feet he had yearned to lay the rewards that were now in his clasp, was dead and cold in her grave these ten years past. A particular generation of men before whom it would have meant most to achieve this fine success, was a sadly depleted one. Amos scarcely knew the strange young set that had grown up around him. The years when he had so passionately yearned for fulfillment, were dead years along with Laura in her grave.

Success Had Come Too Late

It was all very fine and very stimulating and the old man's home town was filled with pride, but in his heart Amos knew his success had come too late.

When Amos Morgenthau died, and left the million and a half dollar legacy for Martin and his son, it seemed to the older of the two Martins who were left, that now there must come a turn in the tide of his affairs. For twenty years, he had been dreaming of the achievement which would mean more to him than anything his future might hold.

Women petted him and men deferred to him. He was the "find" of the season. For two years he was the fierce young lion of London and New York. He had life by the wrists, so to speak. Night life, club life and the most brilliant social and intellectual life of two continents claimed him. There was glory in his success.

But he was living the glory of it, and when he tried to leave off the glory and go back to work it was no use. The world had been too much for him. Success had come too soon.

Martin Morgenthau wanted to write. The soul of this man was like a tormented thing within him, beating about, wanting to get said its tumult, bursting of a beauty it could not translate into words. There were novels, hung like great tapestries in the inner chambers of Martin's heart. Lyrics ran through his being as clear and as swift as mountain streams; mountain streams that had no outlet. And now, with this new leisure, with this new indulgence, it seemed to Martin that somehow, somewhere, there must come flowing to the end of his pen, the pent-up literary avalanches that had pressed against his very being for years upon years.

It kept the eyes of Martin as fanatical with zeal, with idealism and with the vision as his father's had been before him. In two years, Martin Morgenthau wrote three novels, every one of them failing to find a publisher or even the promise of one.

At twenty-one, Junior Morgenthau, with the spontaneity, the daring and the brilliance of youth, accomplished what many older men would have lacked the insolence to do.

He wrote, while he was still a senior at Harvard, a blasphemous, a brilliant, a scorching social satire that openly pointed a finger at certain outstanding figures of national life.

A breathless and astonished and delighted audience saw it performed in a college theatre.

The news spread rapidly and important theatrical managers from New York came rushing to see the second performance. Six months later, Junior's play, "It Is To Laugh," was the outstanding success, simultaneously, of New York and London.

Young Morgenthau was the "find of the season." His two next plays were bought unwritten. The day he graduated from Harvard, the most conspicuous member of his class, the grand-son of Amos Morgenthau carried in his waistcoat pocket a check for $6,000. That week's royalties for two "It Is To Laugh" companies.

Women Petted, Men Deferred

For two years, Junior Morgenthau was the fierce young lion of London and New York. He had life by the wrists, so to speak. His admirers called him the young Racine. Night life, club life and the most brilliant social and intellectual life of two continents claimed him.

Women petted him and men deferred to him. At the end of the third year, the two plays bought unwritten, unseen, had not even been started. During the fourth year, Junior tried to settle down to work. It was no use. Junior's blood was on fire. The world had been too much with him. At the end of the fifth year, with the desolation that was a lodestone at his heart, Junior Morgenthau realized that he had been a one-play man.

Too Young To Handle Success

Bitterly, young Morgenthau told himself that success had come too soon. He had not been fully equipped for the world to be able to withstand its temptations. At twenty-six, young Morgenthau was dissolute, dissipated, disillusioned.

Success had come too soon.

Martin outlived the three. At sixty, he had written twenty-two unpublished novels. The light of a fanatic was in his eye. The light of an ideal was on his horizon. At sixty, he was still going toward it. Full of courage. Full of hope. Full of yearning.

Havelock

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, Nov. 14.—The Junior Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church held a very successful afternoon tea, sale of work and home made cooking, on Thursday from 3 to 6 o'clock in the school room of the church, which was prettily decorated in red and green, for the occasion. The tea was served by the small members of the Society and Miss Marguerite Roches presided at the candy table.

Old Time Dance Held.

A very enjoyable old time dance was held on Thursday evening in the town hall, under the auspices of Royal Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 286. Excellent music for the occasion was provided by Fleming's Orchestra, of Colborne, assisted by Lou Comstock of Westwood. During the evening a demonstration in step dancing was given by John McQuigge of Belmont and George Pacey of Havelock. The proceeds which amounted to $125.00 will be used to purchase a grandfather's clock for the lodge room.

CANADA CLUB PREPARES PLAY

Pontypool Man Receives Cheque for $11,824.40 as a Result of Contest.

FINE WAR RECORD

(Examiner Correspondence)

PONTYPOOL, Nov. 15. — The Young Canada Club held its regular meeting at the Carsadden School on Wednesday evening. The meeting was under the leadership of the president, Miss B. Parker. After the devotional period, a program was given, consisting of a solo by Miss A. Sloman; reading, Miss Muriel Fiske; current events by John Payne. Community singing and games were also enjoyed. The young people are preparing a play which they intend giving in the near future.

Receives Cheque.

Fred Graham receive his cheque last week of $11,824.40, and the citizens of this village are glad that Fred won the money. The Graham family has had an excellent military record. Five brothers served in the war, one killed in action, one has died since from the effects of the war, while another is in a military hospital in London. Fred is a good athlete having been a star half-back in the local football team, a good softball pitcher and prominent on the baseball diamond. He is a member of the local L.O.L., I.O.O.F. and R.P.B. lodges.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

FALSE ALARM.

Campbellford Fire Department Receives First Alarm of Present Month.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, November 15.—The first fire alarm for the present month was turned in at ten minutes to four yesterday afternoon. The Brigade made its usual prompt response, but could find no trace of a blaze in the section from which the alarm came. After cruising for a few minutes without finding anything to interest them in the line of fire, they returned to the Fire Hall. The alarm was from Ward One.

BISCUITS

BISCUITS are appetizing only when fresh, and they are "always fresh" when bought at our busy Groceterias.

Have you ever bought biscuits and found to your great disappointment that the goods had apparently been in stock a long time and had lost that crispness and rich flavor which are the chief qualities of a real, high-grade article? Contrast this with the biscuits you buy from our attractive department. Note the white uniformed attendant and the surroundings; everything clean and sanitary; your choice of various lines selected and packed specially for you by the biscuit girl in a neat package.

SARNIA TO MEET VARSITY IN O.R.F.U. FINAL

KITCHENER IS DEFEATED 16-6

McPhedran and Perry Outstanding Players For Imperials in Three Periods.

GAME IS ONE-SIDED.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 15.— The Sarnia Imperials ousted the Kitchener Panthers in their sudden death senior O.R.F.U. play-off at the Western University oval here yesterday in decisive fashion by a 16 to 6 count and will meet the University of Toronto "Orphans" in another sudden death game in Toronto on Saturday for the senior O.R.F.U. title and to earn the right to meet Hamilton Tigers in the Eastern Canada final.

The Kitchener squad got the dry, fast field and perfect day they had hoped for but they only had one lone point on the score board until the last minute of the surprisingly one-sided game. Beauchamp of Sarnia fumbled Peters' hoist on his own five yard line and the Panthers recovered the ball. The second Sarnia muff in succession came right after when Kitchener's short onside kick was muffed by a Sarnia rearguard behind the goal line, and what would have only been a rouge was turned into a try when Norman Kitchener middle wing, fell on the ball for an easy try. The convert was attempted after the final whistle had blown, but it failed.

The Imperials got the jump on the Panthers in the first few minutes of the hard and none too cleanly fought battle, and were well out in front all the way. The speedy extension runs of the Sarnia backs behind a line that held Kitchener until well into the last quarter were more than consolidated by the great booting of Captain McPhedran. Although Raynor and Peters kicked well at times for the Panthers, McPhedran gained ground for his team on practically every exchange and his toe accounted for five of their points on four rouges and a convert. The Sarnia touchdowns were scored by Jo J. Stirrett and Johnny Manore and the latter also kicked their other single. Kitchener's single that brought their tally up to half a dozen was booted by Raynor.

OTTAWA HAS THREE IN ROW

Senators To Open N.H.L. Campaign With Three Games On Home Ice.

MEET AMERICANS TO-NIGHT.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 15 (Canadian Press).—The New York Americans will be here to-night to open the National Hockey League schedule. The Senators have three home games in a row, and great importance is placed on the opening match. It should indicate the strength of the Senators, particularly the subs., and also the measure of success that has attended Tommy Gorman in revamping the Yankees.

Local fans view the visitors with a great deal of respect. Billy Burch, who performs at centre for them, is said to be at the top of his form, which means a master in that position. "Babe" Dye is also reported back to his best days, and it was his powerful shooting which once, more than anything else won the Stanley Cup for Toronto. He will play right wing and Sheppard left. Conacher and Simpson will probably be the defence in front of Forbes. The Americans have a substitute list including many names famous in big time hockey, including Jess Spring, Leo Reise, "Punch" Broadbent, McVeigh, Connor, Holmes and Bouchard.

Start With Regulars

Ottawa will start out with five regulars and one sub. The only absentee of the regulars will be Kilrea, who had blood poisoning and will likely be out of the game for some weeks. His place will be taken by "Bill" Touhey on left wing. Nighbor will be at centre, Finnigan, right wing; George Boucher and Clancy, defence, and Alex. Connell in goal. All are reported in good shape, Clancy being much stronger physically than last year. The sub. line-up will likely be, Alex. Smith and Allan Shields, defence. Last night this sub. line-up with Alex. Connell in goal held the regulars with Peterkin in the cage to 3-all. It was a rugged game in which quarter was neither asked nor given and showed the possibilities of the youngsters.

There is great interest in the opening game, and a big crowd is anticipated.

CANADIANS TURN TO FLORIDA FOR A CAREFREE WINTER SEASON

Semi- tropical Florida is again drawing large numbers of Canadians for the winter season. It is becoming more popular every year—principally because it is so near, its climate is so inviting, and it offers such an array of interesting sports and pastimes peculiar to that part of the country.

Where else but Florida can one enjoy better such an exciting novelty as Tarpon fishing—or aquaplaning—or speed-boating—or polo. Where else can one motor for miles through avenues shaded by graceful palms—by great citrus groves or ripening oranges and lemons—or along the shore of the Atlantic. There's golf, too—all winter long.

Arrange now to spend your winter months in Florida—any Canadian National Railways Agent will gladly supply you with information about rates routes and its resorts

Maroons-Canadiens Open Season at Home

VIEWS ON SPORT

The N.H.L. will get off on the right foot to-night when every team swings into action.

The big clash in the opening games of the N.H.L. is the Canadiens and Maroon tilt at the Forum. There will be some real gibbering in excited French along the boards. Both teams have large followings of hot-headed fans who fling threats and mean epithets at each other in explosive French.

* * * * * *

That famous firing line of Howie Morenz, Aurel Joliot and Art. Gagne are still with the team and they will give Benedict, the Maroon goaler, and the other net guardians in the league busy evenings.

* * * * * *

Roy Worters, crack goalie of the N.H.L. and the insistent holdout of Benny Leonard's Pittsburg Pirates, may play with the New York Americans. Worters broke off all negotiations with Leonard when they refused to pay him $8,000 salary. Worters is second to none and this fact will make it easy for him to join some other team who can see his worth better than Leonard. But perhaps no team needed him more than did the Pirates on their showing last year.

* * * * * *

Percy Bond, second vice-president of the O.H.A., Walter Perks, Cec. Wolfe, and Bill Kay will represent the city at the annual meeting of the O.H.A. in Toronto on Saturday. It is not likely that there will be any great changes in the O.H.A. constitution. But the question they should give their attention is the Junior teams. The pro. clubs have stolen most of the fast players on the senior teams and all the interesting hockey will be played in the Junior.

* * * * * *

The following were some of the hockey players seen at the training at th "Y" last evening:—R. Allen C. Mayette, J. Mayette, J. Hall, Fred Cripps, E. Kenneally, E. Mautsley, J. Thornton, E. Williams, Ted LeBarr and Jack L eBarr. Some of the players are in fairly good condition right now, but all can stand lots more of the kind of training they get on Wednesday nights in the gymnasium.

* * * * * *

There will likely be a meeting tomorrow night to see what is to be done about the Junior hockey situation The executive hopes to find the St. John's Club willing to get behind the ideas of one strong team for the city. The St. John's team was a smart outfit last year and the team will welcome their players with open arms. With players from the two teams of last year and some good boys who have developed since, Peterborough should have a team that will make some more history.

* * * * * *

The twelve P.C.I. players who started in the game in Port Hope played the whole game without a substitute. Coach Browne follows the plan that when the players are going well it isn't wise to send in any subs. All the players on the P.C.I. team are in good condition and they can easily go the whole game if necessary.

* * * * * *

However the coach is bolstering up the team with some of the best players from the Intermediates in preparation for the big game with Albert College in Cobourg on Saturday. The team was out yesterday afternoon and had a stiff scrimmage.

* * * * * *

Finnegan Hills, the famous Finnegan who roamed centre ice for Port Hope during the seventeen years of hectic hockey has decided to retire. He has earned a reputation throughout Central Ontario for his clean sportsmanship keen hockey. Finnegan has been an institution in sport along the Front.

Walsh To Tend Goal For the Americans

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (Canadian Press).—"Flat" Walsh, substitute goal tender of the Montreal Maroons, will be in the net for the New York Americans when they open their National Hockey League campaign in Ottawa today.

Instead of the regular American goalie, Jakie Forbes, who is ill with the grippe, it was announced yesterday, Walsh has been loaned by the Maroons to care for the American goal until Forbes can take his regular place.

CANADIENS RELY ON REGULAR SQUAD

Open N.H.L. Season With Maroons To-night in Inter-City Battle.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 15 (Canadian Press).—The opening of the local National Hockey League season here tonight will bring together the two local entrants, Canadiens and Maroons. A capacity house is already assured for the resumption of these famous intra-city battles.

With the exception of the replacement of Herb Gardiner by Martin Burke on Canadiens' defence, no major changes have been made in the line-ups of either team from last season the Chicago Black Hawks, while Burke who was loaned by the Canucks to Pittsburgh last winter, was recalled this fall. If Burke can suitably fill Gardiner's place, the Flying Frenchmen should be stronger than last Winter, through a better-conditioned lot of substitutes. Gaudreault will be starting his second season in professional hockey and will be that much more experienced. Pete Lepine has recovered from shoulder injuries which kept him on the sidelines most of last year, while Patterson, the big right wing recruit, has displayed fine form in the practice sessions, and should provide suitable relief for Art Gagne on the righ wing side of the forward line. The latter will again be composed of that dashing trio, Morenz, Joliat and Gagne.

The Maroons will have four defencemen and seven forwards available for duty. Earl Robinson, former local schoolboy hockeyist, who saw his first professional hockey with Philadelphia last year, has been added to the front rank, while Hicks, a defenceman from Stratford, is the only other acquisition this year. Last year's regular line-up is intact.

NEW PLAYERS ON MAPLE LEAF ROSTER

Herberts, Ramsey, Roach and Keeling of Last Year's Team Missing.

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—Strengthened by the addition of seven new players, four of whom already have proved their worth in professional ranks, the Toronto Maple Leafs will present a much re-vamped line-up when they clash with Chicago Black Hawks in the opening game of the National Hockey League season here to-night.

Jimmie Herberts and Beatty Ramsay, veteran defence men, "Butch" Keeling, right wing, and John Ross Roach, peerless goal-tender, have gone, but in their places are players who are expected to transform the Leafs into a really serious contender for the league championship.

Replacing Roachs' familiar form between the goal posts will be Lorne Chabot, formerly of New York Rangers, who was traded to Toronto, with $12,500, for Roach. The deal was put through when Toronto officials declined to meet Roach's request for an increase in salary.

To fill the gap left in the Leafs' defence by the departure of Herberts and Ramsay, Jack Arbour came from Detroit to work with Art. Duncan, "Happy" Day and Art. Smith. Day was put out of the game by injuries a month before last season ended, so that his return to the team will add strength which was lacking when the Leafs were going at their best last season.

Another player who was lost to the Leafs through injury a good part of last winter is "Dr. "Bill" Carson, who will be back at his old centre post. Irvin Bailey will patrol the left flank as of yore with probably Danny Cox occupying the regular right position.

TEN CLUBS IN NATIONAL LEAGUE SWING INTO ACTION TO-NIGHT

Season Will Open in Three Canadian and Two United States' Cities.

TEAMS STRENGTHENED.

Officials Predict Attendance Record Will Surpass the Two Million Mark.

NEW YORK, November 15 (Canadian Press). — The whiz of steel over ice, the crack of stick on stick, the dull thud of a player hurled into the boards and the roar of the crowd, thrilled with the fastest, cleanest kind of sport action, will roll again to-night through the ice palaces around the National professional hockey circuit.

The league season of 44 games for each of the ten teams, swinging down through the winter and into the spring for the Stanley Cup play-off series and the crowning of a world champion, will open in three Canadian and United States cities. The world champion New York Rangers, conquerors of the Montreal Maroons in the last title series, swing into action in Detroit, while the Boston Bruins, co-favorites of the American group, tackle Benny Leonard's Pittsburgh Pirates in Pennsylvania.

The remainder of the teams clash in Canadian cities. Those deadly rivals and international section favorites, Maroons and Canadiens, touch off the yearly frenzy in their home city of Montreal. The Ottawa Senators entertain the New York Americans and Chicago Black Hawks, almost entirely rebuilt, furnish the opposition for a gala night at Toronto, home of the Maple Leafs.

Predict Good Season.

Looking ahead through rosy glasses officials of the league can see nothing but a trail of shattered records following the teams throughout the grind. They expect to see the record of 1,350,000 paid attendance last season surpassed by a mark that will approach 2,000,000 with correspondingly increased gate receipts and financial happiness for players and magnates.

Heretofore, the rivalry between the Maroons and Canadiens, has given ship in attendance throughout the ship in attendance throuhgout the circuit. Last year 292,000 flocked to the Canadien rink, while 291,000 saw the Montreal Maroons play on home ice.

The opening of a new Madison Square Garden in Boston will give the Bruins added seating capacity, and the Rangers, with the best American attendance of 166,000 last season, hope for far better returns in the coming campaign. Both Chicago and Pittsburgh have improved their rinks.

Rangers Strengthen Squad.

The Rangers believe they have been strengthened by the trading of Lorne Chabot to Toronto along with a bundle of cash for John Ross Roach, a goalkeeper of the sensational type. The purchase of Butch Keeling from the same club, and the signing of Myles Lane, Dartmouth College defence star. The Bruins will depend on their stars, Eddie Shore and Frank Frederickson, and set of fast travelling youngsters.

The Canadiens, with the most colorful of the league's forward lines in Howie Morenz, Aurel Joliat, and Art Gagne still intact, will miss the defensive strength of Herb. Gardiner, who has gone to Chicago as manager. The Maroons are standing pat on a star line-up that includes Babe Siebert, Dunc Munro, Hoolie Smith, Nels Stewart and Clint eBnedict, one of the league's most consistent goalies.

The two weakest outfits last season, New York Americans and Chicago Black Hawks, have been torn down and re-assembled. The Hawks bought the Saskatoon team outright in an effort to build strength around Dick Irvin and Mickey Mackay. The Americans acquired Babe Dye from Chicago, Johnny Sheppard from Detroit, Harry Connor of Boston and Billy Holmes of London.

Ottawa will string with its veterans Frank Clancy, Frank Nighbor, Alex Connell and two great youngsters, Hector Kilrea and Frank Finnegan. Detroit has Georgie Hay, almost a team himself, and Sailor Herberts, Dolly Dolson and Noble and undoubtedly are stronger than last season.

Maple Leafs Stronger.

The Toronto Maple Leafs appear stronger than last year. They have replaced the erratic Keeling with that crafty left winger, Danny Cox and have several promising youngsters on the reserve list. Some claim that Roach will be missed, but the figures show Lorne Chabot to be a more consistent goalkeeper than John Ross.

Pittsburgh are possibly weaker this season owing to the loss of Roy Worters, but Joe Miller who will replace him, has never really been given a fair show in the major league. The only time he had a reliable defense in front of him was while subbing for Chabot in the Ranger nets against Maroons in the Stanley Cup playoffs last season. His performance then was of the sensational variety and it is quite possible that Benny Leonard, owner of the Pirates, will not miss Worters to the extent feared by some.

James Belcher, of Bristol, was champion of England from 1793 to 1809.

Trottier To "Give" Self to Maroons, Newspaper Says

MONTREAL, Nov. 15 (Canadian Press).—The Montreal Star said yesterday: "From a source close to Dave Trottier, much-discussed player, it is intimated that Trottier will give himself to Montreal Maroons as a Christmas present and that he will be playing in a Maroon jersey before the New Year."

"Much interest has been stirred up in the National Hockey League circles as to whether Dave Trottier, star of the Toronto Grads, Olympic champions, would join any of its teams. The player has been most reticent as to his hockey plans.

TORONTO CANPROS NOSED OUT 3 TO 2

Gallant Rally Fails As Bulldogs Score in Dying Minutes.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 15.—Forced to fight to the last ditch by a third period rally that wiped out their earlier lead, Windsor Bulldogs came through with a 3 to 2 victory over "Happy" Holmes' Millionaires here last night. The game, which opened the local season, drew a capacity crowd of almost 6,000 fans.

The invaders made it a battle from the drop of the hat. They held the Bulldogs scoreless in the first period, and only yielded two goals in the second when two spectacular attacks carried the puck in on top of Fisher. Then, in the last chapter, they came out to stage a rally that produced two tallies and tied the score in three minutes.

But the Windsorites were not to be denied the privilege of making a hit in their initial appearance before the home crowd. Effectively halting the Toronto rush, they came back with a combination assault that finally brought the winning goal. Johnny Sorrell, lanky left-winger, scored it five minutes before full time on a perfect pass from Mickey Roach, veteran centre and club captain.

To-night marks the opening of major league hockey, and great is the excitement in the East over the new season's line-ups. In Montreal the old, fierce feud will be renewed. For nowhere in the game of hockey does rivalry run so rampant as between the Maroons and Canadiens. At Ottawa the N.Y. Americans invade the Senators' camp with a brand new outfit which has been the talk of the hockey world for some time. Meanwhile, Boston is all set to make a sortie on the Pirates' lair at Pittsburg, and the Rangers will start the fireworks at the Ford city.

At the Arena Gardens, Toronto, the Chi-Hawks will swoop down on "Connie" Smythe's Leafs. There has been considerable comment on Smythe's selling of what looked like the best goalkeeper in the league, for there is no doubt that John Ross Roach is one of the best. However, Lorne Chabot is shaping into an equal favorite. Here is how the two men compared on paper last year:

	Chabot	Roach
Games played	44	43
Opponents' shots	1592	1610
Opponents' saves	75	88
Saves	1517	1532
Percentage	.933	.945

Viewing the dope from this ange it looks as if "Connie" Smythe weren't such a dumbell in his trade with New York. However, hold your seat and wait for to-night's results.

DETROIT OLYMPICS DEFEAT HAMILTON

All Three Goals Scored During First Period—Final 2 to 1.

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 15.—The Detroit Olympics won their second start in the Canpro circuit here last night, defeating the new Hamilton Club by a score of 2 to 1 in a typical, early-season game. The visitors, better conditioned and with vastly more cohesion to their play, had an early edge on the locals but when Hap. Watson's men got their second wind they made the balance of the game most interesting and towards the end they were assuming the whip hand in the general play, but were unable to produce the tying counter.

Detroit led at the end of the first period after Mike Brophy had put Hamilton in front in four minutes with a nice drive of Reinikka's pass out from behind the net. Bellefeuille went down the right boards alone two minutes later to equalize and Bill Brydge, in the centre of a three-man excursion, waltzed in unopposed when the Hamilton defence duo split and went for the accompanying wings. Brydge had no trouble in beating Reid for the counter that eventually proved a winner.

Hamilton's green team, obviously ill-conditioned, which was natural for the length of time they have been together, gave the Olympics a stern fight, and proved that their 1-0 defeat at London was a true indication of the play against the Panthers in the opening game of the season. The locals did not exhibit tremendous speed, either on the front line or the defence, but they were entirely in earnest and many times made enthusiasm carry them over the rough spots when they lacked the condition to hold the pace. Detroit was always aggressive but not more so than Bernie Morris' men and had it not been for the alertness of Stuart, in the Olympics' nets, the Hamilton aggregation might easily have pulled through with a triumph.

SUCCEED TAYLOR.

Findley S. Douglas New President of United States' Golf Association.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(Canadian Press.)—Findlay S. Douglas, of New York, will succeed Melvin A. Taylor, of Chicago as president of the United States Golf Association at the annual meeting in January.

Mr. Douglas heads the ticket made public by the nominating committee yesterday. The nomination amounts to election.

BUENOS AIRES PLANNING BOUT

Quires of Argentine Embassy Arrives On Ill-fated Vestris With Signed Contracts.

HEAVYWEIGHTS SIGNED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—William C. Quires, an attache of the Argentine Embassy in Washington and a first-class passenger on the ill-fated Vestris, carried with him the signed contracts of a half dozen American boxers, it became known Wednesday. All were signed for bouts in the Argentine Republic and all but Roberto Roberti, now in Italy, were to have accompanied Quires to Buenos Aires on board the lost liner. The only boxer that left New York with Quires on the Vestris was Harry Fay, a Pittsburgh heavyweight.

Among the other boxers signed by Quires while he was in New York were Mike McTigue, Paulino Uzcudun, Matty Mario and George Courtney. McTigue and his manager, James J. Johnston, were booked on the Vestris, but cancelled their reservations at the last minute when the illness of Johnston's wife prevented his departure.

Quires, representing a group of Argentine promoters, told this writer just before he sailed that the signing up of several American fighters was simply part of a plan to stage a huge sporting carnival in Buenos Aires that was destined to make that city one of the greatest sporting centres of the world. Boxing, wrestling, horse racing and dog racing were to be on this South American sporting program.

It was Quires who brought to New York the news that Luis Angel Firpo, famous Argentine heavyweight, was to attempt a comeback. His first opponent in a trial bout was to be Harry Fay, the Pittsburgh heavy, whose name appeared among the second-class passengers on board the Vestris. If the once Wild Bull of the Pampas got by Fay he was to meet Roberto Roberti and then Paulino Uzcudun.

There are several promising heavyweights in the Argentine who will take part in the big boxing carnival and who hope to build themselves up to a point where they would be in the scramble for the title abandoned by Gene Tunney.

Quires said that the promoters whom he represented aimed to stage the next heavyweight championship battle in Buenos Aires and were prepared to match guarantees with any promoters in the world. According to Humbert Fugazy, Roberto Roberti was to sail directly to Buenos Aires from Italy and after one or two bouts there was to come on to New York.

"TENDERLOIN."

In "Tenderloin," the new melodrama selected for Dolores Costello, and over which Warner Bros. have been spending so much time and effort out in their Hollywood studios, there is one thrilling angle which will fill with joy those lawyers who hold that circumstantial evidence is never sufficient in itself to convict anyone.

"Tenderloin" is frankly melodramatic and deals with a set of expert safe blowers. One of these crooks, a handsome young fellow, brings his fascinations to bear on a lovely young girl who has not the faintest idea regarding his character.

The girl, hurrying home of a blustery night, is startled by a leather bag coming over a fence and dropping at her feet. She looks around. There is not a soul in sight. Then from an alley half-way down the block some figures hurriedly emerge and vanish. The girl picks up the bag and as she does so a squad of police come racing around the corner and seeing her and the bag exult. The safe in the county bank had just been blown and already they were in possession of one of the culprits and the stolen money.

The gang, surprised, bolted out of the bank. The man with the swag, to make his escape easier, threw the bag with the money over a fence, feeling certain the lookout with the extra car would get it. The lookout, unable to do this, saw all that happened and made off.

From this, one of many startling incidents in "Tenderloin," it is to be taken that as a melodrama it should possess a number of thrills. It does, and it furnishes the gorgeous Dolores with a highly emotional role in which she is sure to score very effectively. Michael Curtiz, who directed the picture, is said to have handled it artistically. The fascinating young crook is played by Conrad Nagel. Others in the cast are Mitchell Lewis, Dan Wolheim, John Miljan, Georgie Stone and Pat Hartigan. The story of "Tenderloin" is by Melville Crosman, while E. T. Lowe, Jr., made its screen adaptation.

Dolores Costello in "Tenderloin," a Warner Bros. production, starting today and running till Saturday.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"HOT NEWS" ONE OF THE BEST PICTURES OF THE YEAR, WITH BEBE DANIELS AT THE CAPITOL TO-NIGHT, ALSO THE THIRD OF THE NEW COLLEGIANS

Suspense, thrills, humor, adventure and romance dominate Bebe Daniels' new picture "Hot News", which some to the Capitol Theatre to-day.

It is not only one of the most spectacular and entertaining films this popular star has ever produced, but it tells a graphic and authentic story of what is undoubtedly one of the most exciting professions in the world—that of the newsreel cameramen.

The audience at the Capitol theatre gasped with evident relish as Bebe stood on top of the Statue of Liberty with her camera and attempted to film an incoming trans-Atlantic flier.

And they gasped again when she was shown riding through the air in a breeches buoy to a wrecked ship at sea, with her trusty camera under her arm.

"Hot News" is undoubtedly one of the most thrilling pictures Miss Daniels has ever made.

The events themselves are breath-taking but the manner in which Miss Daniels obtains views of them is even more so.

Neil Hamilton lends capable support to the star as a rival cameraman and Paul Lukas makes a splendid villain and brings about a spectacular climax.

The third of the New Collegians are also on the program with "Hot News."

Reports of World's Temperance Conference Are Read At Meeting.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, Nov. 15.—The W.C.T.U. meeting for Madoc and vicinity held its monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. S. Ludbrook. After the devotional exercises conducted by Mrs. McCaffrey in which Mrs. Comerford, Mrs. Dingman and Mrs. Henderson took part, matters of business were brought up. Reports were received from the S.S. Temperance campaign and of visiting by the Sick and Relief Committee.

Mr. McCaffrey read parts of the reports of the Worlds W.C.T.U. Conference at Lausanne, Switzerland, drawing attention to the fact that representatives from all parts of the world were there. Canada sent only ten representatives while U.S. sent over two hundred and Great Britain over three hundred representatives.

Short readings were given by Mrs. A. Sinclair and Mrs. McMechan and a social half hour closed the meeting.

Personals.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Rivers of Trinity United Parsonage, have returned home after a visit to Sarnia where they attended the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. Rivers' sister.

Mrs. R. Baker of Bolton, Ont., arrived on Thursday to spend the Thanksgiving week-end with Mr. and Mrs. William Rousehorn.

Mrs. Carl Bird of West Huntingdon, is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. Carl Conley.

Mrs. L. Ashley has been on the sick list for some time but is much better. Her sister, Mrs. Gray, Foxboro, has been spending a few days with her.

Mrs. D. Phillips and Mrs. Keith Jarvis are spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. J. A. Watson, Editor of the Review, left last Friday for Magnetawan to spend the hunting season.

Mrs. J. A. Watson and little son, Jimmy, are visiting Mrs. Hillis Fowler, at La Salle, N.Y.

Mr. Charles O'Hara has just celebrated his 96th birthday. He is still hale and hearty and takes a daily walk down to the post office for his mail.

Miss L. Ramsay, of Newburgh, has been engaged as organist and choir leader of Trinity United Church, duties beginning in December. Miss Ramsay will also open classes in organ, piano and singing.

Dr. and Mrs. Alexander, formerly of Madoc, are leaving Bancroft to take up residence in Bloomfield. Before leaving Bancroft they were presented by St. Paul's United church and choir with a casserole, accompanied by an address, and the Order of the Eastern Star presented to Mrs. Alexander, a silver entre dish and an address expressing regret at their departure and wishing them all success in their new home.

CLASS OF BOYS IS ENTERTAINED

Milton Hawley Wins Sunday School Attendance Contest.

(Examiner Correspondence)

TRENT RIVER, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Isaac Lawson entertained the members of her Sunday School class of boys on Saturday afternoon, at her home. The afternoon was spent in games. A pleasing event was the result given of the boys' attendance during the year, at Sunday School. Milton Hawley having attended the most regular. Mrs. Lawson had made a cake with his name placed on the icing. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and before departing the boys extended a hearty vote of thanks to their teacher for her generosity.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Collins, Miss Lillian Collins, Peterborough; Miss Mabel Collins and Mr. Wesley Collins, of Toronto, were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Redden.

Miss Leita Chaplain, who is teaching school near Castleton, spent Thanksgiving at her home.

Miss Eva Inkster and brother, Bud, of Marmora, were home for over Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. James Walkinshaw, Mrs. A. Adams, Mrs. J. D Cumming, Campbellford, and Mr Robert Adams and daughter, Isabel of Ottawa, were Sunday visitors with their aunt and cousin, Mrs. Char French and Miss Bessie at "Beau Sejour."

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rose and little son and Norman Lewis motored from Toronto to spend a few days at "Ye Olde Mill."

Miss Nell McLaughlin, Will McLaughlin and Frank Barrie motored from Toronto Saturday to spend over Thanksgiving at the parental home.

Misses Laura and Agnes Wight and Mr. Will Wight, of Peterborough spent Thanksgiving at the home of their mother, Mrs. A. Wight, "Cedar Isle."

Warsaw

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, Nov. 15.—The United Church Missionary society will meet in the Church basement on Thursday afternoon.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid will meet at Mrs. Theodore Douglas' home on Thursday afternoon.

Rev. Mr. Pringle to Speak

On Friday evening, Nov. 23 Rev. G. C. F. Pringle will give an address, telling about his work among the marines in British Columbia. At present his pastorate includes about forty charges. After looking through the year book it would seem that Dr. Charles Pringle is a brother of Dr. John Pringle for many years a missionary in the Yukon. Both clergymen were overseas and were much beloved by the men. Dr. C. Pringle is lecturing on his work, throughout Canada. Bethel Church is most central for this pastorate.

Speaks on Temperance

Rev. Mr. Lewis preached at the charges on Warsaw Circuit on Sunday in the cause of Temperance. He gave a short history of some of the great nations which have fallen because they did not put God first. Nations which have stood have put God first.

He then spoke of the terrible curse that is hanging over Canada in having the government selling liquor. God is not first there. Other nations are watching us. There is no control. He put the plea very strongly to save the homes, the men and women, and the country, from the terrible consequences of legalising intoxicating beverages.

Engineer's League

The mechanical engineering bowlers uncorked a snappy brand of pin toppling last night and cleaned up on the A. C. Section for two games losing the third by only six pins. Killoran topped the list for high single with 288 while Miss Abbott and Mitchell were tied for second place with 208 each. Killoran was the only player to top the 600 mark, his total of 618 going for high three.

The D. C. team although handicapped by a dummy score were able to hold their own in the battle with Induction Motors winning two games. Hayes came through with a high single score of 252 while not one on the losing team were able to reach the 200 mark. Hayes' trio of scores amounting to 577 carried off high three honors.

The Lab. quintette were not up to their usual good form and as a result dropped two games to the Switchboard No. 2 who were hitting them hard and were forced to use a dummy score. Lowe and McRae climbed over the 200 mark with 246 and 203 respectively and high three was accounted for by McRae also with 552.

Langley with 255 single came to the fore in the Price Setting No. 1 versus Switchboard No. 1 fracas, the former team taking two games out of three. Adams and J. Barnes for the Price Setters were going nice each making 248 single. J. Barnes made a nice trio of scores amounting to 623 for high three.

The Price Setting No. 2 team had a disastrous night because of the fact that they had to use two dummy scores, and their opponents I. C. Section took every gave which netted them eight points. Miss Campbell walked away with both high single and high three scores with 252 and 649.

Miss Campbell's high three score of 649 places her second in line for the prize offered by Louis Yeotes for the lady rolling the highest score in three consecutive games during the month of November, the highest score to date being made by Virginia Legros with 654.

Argentina Reports Lower Wheat Values

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.— (Canadian Press).—Reports of rather free offerings of Argentine wheat to Europe tended to pull wheat prices down to-day in the early dealings here, there were also advices, however, that unsettled weather was threatening to interfere with Argentina's wheat harvest. Opening at ⅝ off to ¼ up, Chicago wheat afterwards showed price setbacks all around Corn also inclined to sag, starting unchanged to ½ lower and subsequently undergoing general downturn. Oats were firm.

Wheat, Dec. 115⅛, March 120⅞. Corn, Dec. 85, March 87⅝. Oats, Dec. 45⅛, March 45⅝.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Installation of the hoist in the winze at the Kirkland Lake Gold Mines is now practically completed, according to a wire from Kirkland Lake. The winze is stated to be down approximately 600 feet.

A second report from that centre states that the Lake Shore shaft is now completed to 2,000 feet and that a station is being cut.

Two converters have now arrived at Noranda and one is still in transit from the old Murray Mine in Sudbury. Sinking of the new No. 4 shaft is rapidly going ahead.

Underground work at the Goodfish to date is understood to have been unfavorable and as a consequence the management have resorted to diamond drilling and will attempt to pick up underground extensions of surface exposures. It is said that underground work will be stopped while diamond drilling is under way.

The Pioneer Mining Corporation has issued an official progress report for the three months ended October 31st. The statement follows: "During the three months ending October 31st, 1928, underground development at the Jubilee Break at Michipicoten has made satisfactory progress. Drifting and cross-cutting on the third and fourth evels have shown encouraging values in several ore shoots or lenses which after the elimination of visible gold, which is of frequent occurrence, yielded assays of from $10 to $50 over good widths. Both levels are now being drifted on in a northerly direction carrying workings into an area from which the most favorable indications were obtained in diamond drilling.

"Owing to the variable distribution of the large amount of free gold which is obtained both in the vein-matter and in the wall rock, it has been found extremely difficult to arrive at a true value of the ore bodies by ordinary channel sampling methods. It has therefore been decided to erect a test mill of a capacity of twenty tons per day for the purpose of bulk sampling across the full width of the shear zone, which exploration shows to have a true width of from 75 to 80 feet. This test mill is also for the purpose of obtaining information as to the best method of mining and milling the ore from both the Jubilee and Minto veins. The erection of this test mill will be proceeded with at once and it is planned to have it in operation early in the new year."

A western account of the new strike at Kootenay Florence is as follows: "Heralded by lead sulphides carried out by the gushing water draining from an underground lake, a significant incident that suddenly centred interest on the Kootenay Florence, an important shoot of ore dramatically disclosed itself Wednesday night in the deep workings of the Florence, when the chamber in the rock was entered for examination purposes. With the water still running the neck of the chamber was enlarged to man-size, and what was seen within its walls resulted in a call to Nelson, and a hurried motor trip to Ainsworth by R. B. Lamb, engineer of the Stobie, Forlong interests, who happened to be there, and other staff members. The midnight inspection disclosed to the experts a chamber about 100 by 75 feet, strewn with rock debris, across probably 12 feet of which lead ore was found. Some huge chunks of galena were obviously hundreds of pounds in weight."

News From the Mines

Solloway, Mills & Company

Towagmac.

The upward extension of the high-grade orebody which was being sought for on the 1125-foot level of the Aldermac Mines was cut over the week-end at a depth of 500 feet, and Towagmac shares moved up sharply yesterday on receipt of this news from the north.

Okalta.

Late last Friday afternoon, officials of the Okalta Oils, Ltd., stated that no change had been reported in the situation at the Okalta No. 1 well which practically doubled its flow of gas and oil during Thursday night, bringing the estimate of production up to the neighborhood of possibly 400 barrels per day. Previous flows of gas had been estimated at about 10,000,000 cubic feet per day, producing 200 barrels daily of oil, better than 60 degrees Beaume gravity. With the flow doubled during the night from a few feet more of new hole, the estimate of production was raised accordingly, although no official measurements will be made for the present.

A report received over our private wire this morning from our Calgary office states that Okalta is now said to be producing about 20,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day. Oil men in Calgary and the Turner Valley believe that this is the wonder well of the field. Drilling is continuing on Nos. 14 and 17 and developments are expected any minute.

Calgary Oil Gossip.

McLeod No. 3 is 29 feet in line. Home No. 1 is drilling through cement. Highwood has begun drilling with diamond drill. Vulcan No. 1 is frozen. Should be drilling to-day.

Mining Corporation.

It is unofficially reported that Mining Corporation have cut ore in one of their crosscuts. If this report is true, it may mean a rejuvenation and an intense development campaign on all the properties surrounding Noranda.

Sherritt-Gordon.

Negotiations have been completed between Sherritt-Gordon and the Canadian National Railways whereby a cash guarantee of $1,500,000 will be given by Sherritt-Gordon to the Canadian National for the completion of a railroad into the Sherritt-Gordon mine in Manitoba. Work will be started almost immediately from the end of steel at the Flin Flon mine and it is expected that it will be completed by December 1st next year. It is reported that the concentrates from the Sherritt-Gordon will be smelted at the Flin Flon mines or at Sudbury. The $1,500,000 guarantees the Canadian National Railways that the promoter of the mine will construct a concentrator and other works necessary for the mine's development.

Rufus Argenta.

J. F. Duthie, who has an option on 53 1-3 per cent. of the stock of Rufus Argenta at 30c per share, has suspended exploration on the property until next season on account of the heavy snow.

Big Missouri.

Duncan McVichie, consulting engineer for the Big Missouri Mining Company, recently confirmed the report of the discovery of good ore at 1700 feet from the portal of the tunnel. The vein as reported has been exposed for a length of some 250 feet, the chief value of which is in gold. The drift is being continued in ore in both directions. Mr. McVichie also reports that at 400 feet from the portal an attractive body of ore carrying gold, silver, lead and zinc has been indicated by diamond drilling.

Massey-Harris Leader Toronto Exchange List

TORONTO, November 15 (Canadian Press). — With sales totalling 14,485 shares, Massey-Harris led the list on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Opening at 88 it soared as high as 92¾ for a new high, and at noon was selling around 87¾, a net advance of 2¼ points over yesterday's close.

Cockshutt Plow, another active feature, sold up two points to 40 with a large turnover.

Canada Cement and Canadian Industrial Alcohol displayed firmness, advancing one point to 34 and 47 respectively. Photo Engravers was unusually active with a two and a half point gain to 40½. International Nickel continued its downward trend with a loss of 4½ at 192 in very light trading.

Stock Market Settles Following Active Week

NEW YORK, November 15 (Canadian Press). — The stock market, which has been moving upward at a five million share pace all week, slowed up to-day, but the main price tendency continued upward. Although heavy profit-taking forced a number of recent favorites, such as Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Hudson Motors, and Radio, down three to nearly six points, several new specialties were brought forward by pools and marked up three to nine points to new high records. Call money was renewed unchanged at six per cent. despite the heavy mid-month demand for funds.

EMPLOYMENT

of the Johnston Outboard Motor Company.

The iron trade is the largest employer of labor, and their combined output is great. Electric, pulp, paper, sawmill, water-power and mining machinery, and stoves, locks and hardware are some of the products of this group.

The textile trade produces yarn, cloth, carpets, rugs and knitted goods; The woodworking plants manufacture lumber, portable houses, sash and doors, canoes, and skiffs, while the other plants not in the above groups are three large cereal plants, one tent and awning factory, one harness factory, one pork packing plant, one clock and watch factory, paper factory, one paper box factory, and one cement plant.

Building and Construction

The building trade was very steady during the year and very few mechanics were out of work. The addition to the Collegiate was completed in September.

The Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Company, and Canadian General Electric Company have several buildings under construction and many new dwellings are going up, also improvements have been made to many old buildings.

Construction work on the highways in this district employed a large number of unskilled workmen. Work on No. 4 dam on the Trent Canal, Canada Cement plant, paving, sewer and waterworks extensions made conditions good in this group and we were able to fill all orders locally.

Logging

A few orders were received for logging and cordwood cutting, but as all the camps are small, the number called for was not large. Good bushmen are now scarce in this district, as those who follow this work have moved to other parts where they can secure employment with large companies.

Domestic and Personal

The usual shortage of good domestic help prevailed throughout the year and we could not meet the demand. The women's department of the Toronto office supplied a large number of hotel workers for summer work in our Muskoka district and we filled some orders in the Kawartha Lakes district.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

There is a secret, connected with real Christian living, that many professed preachers of the gospel and professed Christians know not. Some are living the best they know how, but that best is failure and defeat. Some are endeavoring to believe some man-made creed, endeavouring to find something to satisfy their hunger, but are starving. Some have their names on some church roll-book, being persuaded that, that fills the bill, but it does not do so. Some think by living austere life, putting to one side the joys and beauties of life, that that is Christian living, but even this course of life fails to give satisfaction. Some try keeping the old law of the Ten Commandments given to the Israelites. Some like the foolish Galatians, who commenced to live the real Christian life, have turned to the old law, forgetting that if righteousness came by the law, then Christ died for naught. Some think to be a Christian is to act the hypocrite. Some know the wonderful secret of real Christian living.

CAR HITS POLE

Motor Accident Occurs at Corner of Aylmer and Hunter Streets.

The corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets was the scene of a motor accident at noon to-day when A. Sweetman turned his car into a heavy pole to avoid striking a car driven south by Miss Jopling. As a result, his car suffered a damaged fender, bumper and radiator. The Sweetman car had been proceeding west. The shock of the impact against the pole caused a large glass globe to fall from a street light that had been supported by the pole.

WEDDING BELLS

BAIN—RUNNALLS.

HAROLD, Nov. 15.—A very quiet but pretty wedding took place at the Madoc Presbyterian Manse, Thursday, November 1st at 6 p.m. when the Rev. T. G. Marshall joined in holy bonds of matrimony Hazel M. only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Runnalls to Kenneth Bain, both of Harold.

The bride looked charming in a dress of poudre blue georgette with blonde stockings and patent shoes.

Miss Dora Osborne of Marmora and Mr Creighton Johnson of Harold accompanied them to the Manse as witnesses.

After the ceremony midst showers of confetti the young couple journeyed to the home of the bride where a sumptuous supper was served at 8.00 o'clock. The dining room was prettily decorated for the occasion with white streamers and a huge white bell overhanging the table beneath which the bride and groom sat.

The young couple left by motor for a short trip, on their return they will reside at Harold.

BIBLE CLASS MEETS.

The Gleaners' Bible Class of Mark Street United Church held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. MacLean, 142 Maria street on Tuesday, November 13th. The president, Mrs. Hill, was in the chair. Mrs. Thornley led in prayer. Following a discussion of business matters, Mrs. Scriver read a very interesting letter from the class teacher, Miss Wilson who is at present out of town. After singing the closing hymn, dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. MacLean and Mrs. Cooper.

IN MEMORIAM

HEARD.—In loving memory of my darling son, Percy Harold, who died November 15, 1926.

Just two years ago to-day
Since God took home our darling;
Placed our bud amongst his flowers;
Took back the bud he lent us
To a better world than ours.
He was too pure for this cold world;
Too beautiful to stay;
And so God's Holy Angels
Bore our darling Harold away.

TAXI MAN CONDUCTS GUESSING CONTEST

Alphonse F. Fontaine Starts New Contest in Regards to Taxi Service.

Alphonse T. Fontaine, 492 McDonnel street, 'phone 752, is conducting an interesting contest in regards to his taxi business. After each ride a customer receives a slip giving him an opportunity to take part in this contest. The idea of the contest is three of his four taxis have the speedometers covered, the other one is left open for the convenience of commercial travellers who travel on mileage, and the customer is to estimate the number of miles the four cars have travelled during the seventy-five days that the contest takes place. The one who estimates the nearest approximate answer receives first prize. There are four prizes, $50.00, $12.00, $8.00, and $5.00. The contest closes on the 15th of December when the speedometer covers will be taken off in front of The Examiner by a local mechanic. This contest has attracted the eye of the public and many are making good use of it. Mr. Fontaine's business is carried on in a fair and square basis, and the cars are always on time with a twenty-four hour service.

HEARTLESS INHUMANITY IS CHARGED

MISSING GIRL IS FOUND IN TORONTO

HOME OF GOOD SHEPHERD SEND CHEERING NEWS TO KENNETH AVENUE PARENTS

Where Girl Spent Four Weeks Is Not Known To Authorities.

POLICE NOTIFIED.

Father Is Unable To Explain Why Mary Bailey Left Her Home.

That Mary, their sixteen year old daughter, missing for over four weeks, is safe, was the cheering news that reached Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bailey at their home on Kenneth avenue this morning.

"Mr. Bailey, don't worry, Mary is safe. Signed, Mrs. Ward, 86 Empress Crescent, Toronto," was the message in a telegram received by Mr. Bailey early to-day.

For over four long weeks the anxious parents have searched for their missing daughter. To-day their hopes were rewarded and their faces lit with smiles again when they received the first news of their daughter's safety. The long weeks of fruitless hunting, and excursions made after working hours that took the tired father from one end of the city to the other, and the patient vigil of the mother were all forgotten in the happy knowledge that their daughter was found and is safe.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey told a representative of the Examiner this morning that they hope and expected that some one was bringing Mary home on the noon train to-day. But this hope was not realized as she did not arrive on either of the noon trains from Toronto.

The local police received the message from the Toronto police last night that Mary Bailey had sought refuge in the Home of the Good Shepherd yesterday. As yet no intimation has been made as to indicate where the girl has been during the weeks that have elapsed since she disappeared from her home on October 16.

Mr. Bailey still can not imagine what made the girl leave her home, but he assured The Examiner that all anxiety of the past weeks has been forgotten.

GIRL FOUND.

MARY BAILEY.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bailey, of Kenneth Avenue, who was found in Toronto last night after disappearing from her home over four weeks ago.

BLACKSMITH IS MISSING

Marmora Resident Disappears From His Home Early This Morning.

REFUSED TO RETURN.

MARMORA, Nov. 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—Search parties are securing the neighboring country in their efforts to find Benjamin Osborne, a blacksmith of Marmora. Mr. Osborne is about sixty years of age and lately has been suffering from ill health. Early this morning he wandered away from his home and despite the keen search of large parties he has as yet not been found. The whole village is aroused over the hunt for the missing man.

The last person to see Mr. Osborne was Philip Sopha, a livery man of Marmora, who met him on the Bonarlaw road. Mr. Sopha tried to induce Mr. Osborne to return to his home, but the man refused. Mr. Sopha then turned and hastened back to the village to raise the alarm and since that time an energetic search has been in progress, with as yet no sight of the missing man.

It is rumored that Mr. Osborne was seen near Tisfis, a stop on the C.P.R. line near here.

CHAPTER DANCE.

Annual Event Will Be Held This Year On Christmas Night.

Among the items of business transacted by the Major Bennett Chapter I.O.D.E. at its last regular meeting, was the date of the annual dance of the Chapter, to be held this year on Christmas Day, December 25th.

It was decided to send $2 to the fund for the Memorial to the late Mrs. F. M. Burkholder of Hamilton, Provincial President of the Order.

Three dozen of the junior badges recently issued will be purchased for distribution among the members.

The meeting, which was held at the home of Miss Mary Mulholland, was presided over by the regent, Miss Jean Fraser.

SAMUEL JONES DIES AT HOME

Durham's Oldest Resident Recently Celebrated His 100th Birthday.

LIVED IN NEWTONVILLE.

PORT HOPE, Ont., Nov. 16 (Special to The Examiner).—Samuel Jones, the oldest resident in Durham County, died at his residence at Newtonville, west of Port Hope, on Thursday. The deceased was 100 years, one month and ten days old. On October 5th Mr. Jones celebrated his 100th birthday when his descendants and friends honored him with a presentation of a purse of gold. In the year 1820 Mr. Jones' grandmother immigrated with her five fatherless sons: John, Robert, William, James and Humphrey, and their families from the County of Fermanagh, North Ireland, and landed in Port Hope, Durham County. Humphrey, the father of Mr. Jones, with his wife and children settled on Lot 8, Concession 1, of the Township of Clarke, and after eight years' sojourn in Canada, on the 5th of October, 1828, Samuel was born in a log-house, just to the east end of the present homestead, and around it the entire record of his life circles. Mr. Jones still held very vivid recollections of the conditions of those early days. It was thrilling to listen to him telling of their struggles, dangers and achievements. On December 26, 1855, he was united in marriage to Miss Maria Fitzpatrick, of Cobourg, by Rev. Canon Brent, father of the present Bishop Brent, of New York, and there was born to them three children: Samuel on the homestead, Harry of Vancouver, and G. W., manager of the Port Hope Telephone Company. In 1925 they celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary, and on August 23, 1927, at the age of 94 years, Mrs. Jones passed peacefully to her eternal rest, severing a happy union of seventy-two years.

The funeral will be held on Sunday afternoon at one o'clock, with burial at Newtonville Cemetery.

State Department officials said the papers could be duplicated.

BODY OF GIRL IS FOUND WITH BULLET WOUND

Two Searchers Come Upon Body of Kirkfield Girl On Lonely Farm.

PASSED MANY TIMES.

Whistle of Stone Crusher Broadcasts News To All Search Parties.

KIRKFIELD, Nov. 16.—The body of Gladys Brotherston, missing from her home here since Friday was found to-day near Fry's Mill with a bullet wound in her head. Fry's Mill is about three miles from Kirkfield.

The girl left home lightly clad and carrying a rifle and has been the object of a six day search by a posse of one hundred men and bloodhounds.

Theory after theory was advanced but later disproved though lack of sufficient clues. The Trent Canal was drained for three miles and the swampy country round about her home was combed numerous times without success.

Several days ago a bloodhound was brought from Cannington to take up the trail. Yesterday the search continued without further success on the clue that a woman's scream had been heard in the dense swamp some distance from her home by a farmer.

KIRKFIELD, Nov. 16.—(Special to The Examiner).—At half-past twelve today the dead body of Gladys Brotherston, missing from her home near here since last Friday night was found about a quarter of a mile from the farm of Archie Deadman, on the Portage Road, east of the big bridge. The spot is about four miles from the girl's home in the stone quarry settlement near Kirkfield. While posses of searchers were out all over the countryside headed by inspector William Stringer of the Provincial Police, two searchers came and reported their find to Mr. Deadman and to Walter Bandlett of Toronto.

Bullet Wound

It is reported there was a bullet wound in the body. Although prostrated by the suddenness with which the search was ended, Mr. and Mrs. Brotherston and the members of their family who were not at the moment out with the searchers expressed relief at the ending of the long suspense.

"It is terrible but still it is better this way than never knowing what had become of her; the suspense would would have been more than we could have borne." The spot where the girl was found is one that has been passed many times by search parties, the road runs through drowned lands fringed by heavily-wooded country in which the girl's body might have remained for months without ever being seen.

"It is a mercy," Mrs. Brotherston said, "that she was lying somewhere where we could find her body."

Whistle Blows

The end of the search was broadcast by the pre-arranged signal of three short blasts from the whistle of the Kirkfield stone crusher which has been the base of operations since the girl's disappearance. Early members of the search parties were beginning to treckle back to the stone quarry settlement as the signal rose. Immediately there was a rush to the Brotherston home, where hurried and heartfelt condolences were extended to the family.

The body has not yet been removed from its resting place, as it must first be viewed by the coroner from Lindsay.

Discovery came after an anxious night following reports that on Friday night last mysterious screaming cries had come from the fields and had penetrated a farm house where a party was being held.

Howard Degeer told Provincial Police Inspector Lougheed of Belleville of the occurrence yesterday. He did not know at the time that Gladys was missing.

His information gave new impetus to the search, and the posses scoured the countryside with the daylight today.

Chairman Tells Deputation From City Council That Hydro Will Submit Final Price On Gas Plant

Within a day or two, Peterborough Council will have, in writing, the final offer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, relative to the sale to the City of the local gas plant, and it will then remain for the Council to either accept or reject that offer. In the former case, the Council will recommend the purchase to the people, and the entire matter will be put to a vote of the ratepayers, probably at the same time as the municipal elections.

His Worship Mayor Roland Denne, Aldermen Greene, Phelan and Stocker comprised the deputation from this city which interviewed Chairman Magrath of the Hydro Commission in Toronto yesterday, and while they did not bring back a definite answer, they received a satisfactory interview and only the time necessary to consideration of the city's offer will elapse before the commission accedes to or declines that offer. His Worship Mayor Denne expressed his satisfaction at the course of events, in conversation with The Examiner this morning.

MRS. JOSEPH AYOTTE RECALLS OLD DAYS IN DOURO AND SMITH

Pioneer Was Born in June, 1838—Has Spent Life in County.

FIFTY-ONE GRANDCHILDREN.

Lived For Many Years On Farm North of Young's Point.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 16 (Examiner Correspondence).—There was born in the Township of Douro in June, 1839 Bridget O'Brien, the daughter of one of the pioneer families who settled in the township in 1825. In 1860 she was married to Joseph Ayotte and went to live on a farm two miles north of Young's Point, where she raised a family of eleven children, six daughters and five sons. Mrs. Ayotte knew by hard experience what pioneer life meant to a woman, as her new home was in a newly opened district, with roads only of sorts, no convenience as we know such, but the pioneer spirit carried her through many trying experiences. The forests, which encroached almost to the door, held a menace of wild beasts and the trackless woods had its terrors for the mothers of young children, who could easily stray off and actually perish before aid could reach them. This intrepid pioneer woman spun the yarn from which she knit the stockings and mitts which protected her family from the rigors of the cold winters.

Cheerfully she worked with her husband till their family were grown up and married, and then they moved into Young's Point, where Mr. Ayotte passed away seventeen years ago. Mrs. Ayotte, who is at present visiting her son, John, on the Burleigh road, makes home with her son, George, of 565 Bethune street, Peterborough.

Has Splendid Memory

In spite of her great age, she possesses a splendid memory and enjoys nothing more than telling of old days as she knits for her grandchildren and great grandchildren. In her young days on the farm, oxen were used exclusively, horses were rare and costly, and the wide well-tilled fields of to-day were not often seen for the forests encroached on the farms which were in many cases but little clearings which were brought to a state of production by incredible labor and patience. Racial and religious feuds were common, and both men and women had to work hard and wage an unending war against the perils of the wild, but in spite of this, she smiles and says, "The olden days were the golden days." So much for the spirit of our pioneer women; it was this bravery in difficulty and fortitude in adversity which built up our country and to these brave men and women we owe a tremendous debt.

Nine Children Living

Now, in the evening of her life, Mrs. Ayotte is receiving the care and attention from her children which her sacrifice and service for them deserves. She has nine children living, as follows: Mrs. Burke, Toronto; Mrs. Kearns of Peterborough; Joseph of Detroit; William of Highland Grove, Ontario; Peter of Peterborough; Mrs. O'Rourke of Peterborough; Mrs. Gravell of Toronto; John of Burleigh Falls, and George of Peterborough. The two deceased were Mrs. McFadden and Mrs. Fitzgerald. There are fifty-one grandchildren and sixty-five great grandchildren, and two great great grandchildren making in all one hundred and twenty-seven living descendants.

OLD RESIDENT.

Mrs. Joseph Ayotte who was born in township of Douro in 1839.

COURT REDUCES MURDER CHARGE

Margaret Sheridan Remanded For Sentence in Toronto Women's Police Court.

EMPLOYED AS DOMESTIC.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 16 (Special to The Examiner).—A charge of murder against Margaret Sheridan was reduced by the Crown in the Women's Police Court to-day to one of concealment of birth and after hearing the circumstances of the case detailed by the defence counsel, H. B. Mortimer, the woman was remanded for sentence by Magistrate Cohen.

Detective MacArthur testified to having found the body of a newly-born child wrapped in a newspaper on a lawn in the north of the city. The paper had a Cobourg address, and by this means he traced the accused, who had been employed as a domestic at that place.

"The accused told me that the child had been born dead while she was alone in a rooming house," he said. "She had wrapped the body in paper and kept it in the house for a couple of days, and then had taken it up Yonge street, where she left it."

Mr. Mortimer stated his client admitted concealment of birth, and in asking for a suspended sentence spoke of many extenuating circumstances.

"This girl's mother died when the accused was only five years old," he said. "The father of the child is still in Ireland. He promised to follow and marry her here, but he never has done so. The girl was well thought of by her employer, who wanted to keep her on, and she never has been in trouble before.

Human Skeletons Found In Highway Excavations

BROCKVILLE, Ont., November 16 (Canadian Press). — The discovery of thirty human skeletons many in a perfect state of preservation, in excavations by the Government Highway employees near Woodlands Village, is reported to-day. In the absence of any information bearing on the opening of a burial plot there by the early settlers, it is believed the remains are those of victims of a ship fever, Irish immigrants, who perished along the St. Lawrence a century ago.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 16.—"There is a feeling that the Mother's Allowance should be extended to the wives of criminals serving long sentences, and I have recommended it," said Hon. Dr. David Jamieson, chairman of the Mothers' Allowances Board, speaking to local representatives of the boards of the Mothers' Allowance Act of Ontario here Wednesday.

LEAGUE'S WORK DESCRIBED TO LOCAL COUNCIL

Women Have Already Raised $250 Towards Foundation Fund.

DISPUTES SETTLED.

Averting War Is Not the Only Work of Great Peace Organization.

A very informative summary of the work and aims of the League of Nations was a feature of the regular meeting of the Local Council of Women, held yesterday afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. It was given by Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner and brought to the attention of her hearers in concise, pleasing form the aspects of the great peace machine which functions at Geneva.

The meeting was well attended and was presided over by Mrs. C. H. Edwards, who spoke about the World Wide magazine, which devotes a portion of its pages to accounts of the work of the National Council of Women. Mrs. Edwards asked for subscriptions to this publication.

Correspondence was read by Mrs. A. Mowat, the minutes of the previous meeting were given by Mrs. J. Wearing, and Mrs. N. D. Seaton spoke of the finances of the society. Over $250 has already been subscribed toward the National Foundation Fund.

It was decided to forward a letter of condolence to J. J. Turner.

A cordial invitation was extended by members of the Catholic Women's League, with regard to their bazaar in the market hall during the latter part of this month.

The address on the League of Nations given by Mrs. Kenner was remarkably clear, and summed up in telling fashion the salient points in the work and aims of the League. Describing its formation as a direct product of the late war, in an attempt to prevent a recurrence of such a catastrophe, the speaker went on to point out other aspects of its endeavors, outside of the realm of peace efforts.

The functioning and personnel of the Assembly, the Council and the Secretariat were described, and reference was made to the International Labor Organization and the Court of International Justice which form component parts of the great machine.

Disputes Settled.

Reference was made to the differences between nations which have been amicably adjusted by the League, such as the dispute between Sweden and Finland over the Aland Islands, the invasion of Albania by the Serbians in 1921 and the Greek army invasion of Bulgaria, all of these being potential war-makers whose purpose was frustrated by the prompt action of the League.

Assists Nations.

"But averting war is not the only work of the League," said Mrs. Kenner, going on to speak of the mandatory states which have been created by it, and the assistance thus given to backward peoples of Europe. The protection of racial minorities in Europe is an important phase of the work, as is the great work of repatriation of refugees, carried on so successfully by Dr. Nansen and his committee.

The settlement of the dispute in the Saar Valley and the trouble which arose in connection with the free city of Dantzig, were further accomplishments, as was the financial reconstruction of Austria, tottering to a disastrous fall after the Great War.

Health Program.

The health program of the League has to do with the prevention of disease, as well as the stamping out of epidemics, and much attention is given to questions concerned with slavery, the white slave traffic and the opium evil.

One of the major efforts of the League, said Mrs. Kenner, has been the furthering of a freer international intercourse and the maintenance of freedom of transit. Intellectual intercourse is assisted also, in the drawing together of the great universities of the world and the making of a Crew Robbed Certain Lifeboats To Others For Their Own Use.

STEWARD DRUNK.

Rowed Away From Drowning Passengers—S.O.S. Calls Sent Too Late.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—Six survivors of the Vestris disaster, still suffering as a result of their experience when the vessel foundered, made grave charges under oath and before a United States Commissioner yesterday.

The witnesses at the opening session of a Federal inquiry before United States Commissioner Francis O'Neil, were all passengers. Frederick W. Puppe, whose wife and 7-months-old baby were lost, was the first to testify, and Carlos Quiros, Chancellor of the Argentine Consulate at Washington, the last.

Puppe, in a broken voice—choking up at times and once breaking off his testimony to remove his spectacles and polish them—told how he stood with his wife and baby on the sharply sloping deck of the Vestris on Monday forenoon, and anxiously scanned the horizon for "the steamers we were absolutely sure must have been called to our help."

"Suddenly, though we heard no orders, and though no officers were in sight," he said, "the crew began to take down the lifeboats. You could see that none of them had ever even tried to lower a lifeboat before. They ran from one boat to another, taking things from one and putting them in another. I didn't realize what this meant, but later I discovered. At night, when we were out in the lifeboat, we saw that there were flares in some of the other boats, though ours were wet. Then I realized what it meant when I saw men taking things from one boat and putting them into another. They were fixing a few with proper equipment, planning to ride in them themselves, and they winked to their friends to join them."

Steward Was Drunk.

Puppe charged the ship's crew with an inefficiency which, he said, was indicated first when they sailed on Saturday and he was told that the steward in charge of his stateroom was drunk, and continued right through to the long hours in the lifeboat, when, he testified, the occupants found salt water in the drinking casks. On Monday morning, when he went to the kitchen to ask for some food and water for his wife and baby, he said he was told to "go find it yourself."

Puppe testified that, separated from his wife and child, he saw one of the lifeboats break and plunge its occupants into the sea, and that he finally got into a boat and rowed away, not knowing the fate of his loved ones.

"I saw two lifeboats," Puppe testified, "still clinging to the ship when she went over."

Carlos Quiros, Chancellor of the Argentine Consulate-General, testified that in his opinion Captain W. J. Carey should have sent out an S.O.S. from the steamer Vestris more than twelve hours earlier than he did.

Mr. Quiros furnished some of the most dramatic moments of the afternoon.

"A man I knew, a pugilist," he said, "came up to me and said 'Things are getting bad. I just saw an officer pull a gun on a negro seaman, and the negro grabbed the gun and threw it into the sea.'

"Any one with common sense," Quiros said, "would have sent an S.O.S. from the Vestris more than twelve hours earlier than Captain Carey did."

Warned Saturday.

Quiros testified that as she left the harbor Saturday the Vestris was listing. Friends who saw him off, he declared, warned him against the boat, saying it was "one of the worst in the service."

Quiros declared that men were separated from their wives as the lifeboats were filled, and their places in the lifeboats taken by members of the crew. He said that as one boat was being lowered members of the crew were patching a hole in its side. "An old hole," he declared, "dark around the edges."

Wallace Sinclair, one of the calmest witnesses, said that the flares in his lifeboat were in a canister so rusted that nobody could get it opened until a negro seaman finally chopped it off with a hatchet. No members of the crew in that lifeboat, he charged, knew where the flares were. "We had to find them ourselves," he said, "and when we did, and finally got them out of the canister, half of them br

Sinclair said the lifeboat in which he rode was minus patches of paint as big as his hand, and leaked through the seams.

He charged that there was "an entire lack of any intelligent plan of getting the lifeboats down or getting the passengers into them."

"I did not hear at any time," he

ORANGE LEADER PASSES AWAY

Grand Organizer Dies At His Home On Water Street.

HELD MANY CHAIRS.

There passed away this morning at his home at 377 Water Street, George McCartney, one of the oldest residents of this district. Mr McCartney was born in Newbils, Ireland, on October 3, 1851, and came to this country when he was three years old. His family settled in the Township of Cavan, and it was there at the old schoolhouse that he received most of his education. Mr. McCartney left school to go to Millbrook to learn the trade of carriage making. Completing his trade he started in business for himself in Bethany, where he worked for many years.

Mr. McCartney was one of the most prominent Orangemen in the district. He had received every degree it was possible to get in that society, and has been Grand Organizer of Eastern Ontario for the last 20 years, leaving his small business to take up that position. Mr. McCartney was a member of the Bethany Lodge, and this year was the first since he joined the order, forty years ago, that he has missed the walk.

Besides being an Orangeman, Mr. McCartney was a member of the Masons and was connected with that society for many years, taking several of the minor degrees.

Was a Presbyterian.

As secretary of the Bethany Presbyterian church for thirty years he was loved and respected by all those who knew him. He was also president of the Upper Canada Bible Society for the same number of years, taking a most active part in all its doings. He travelled for many years for the society. Since coming to Peterborough he has been connected with St. Pauls church.

Mr. McCartney was very fond of books and literature in general and spent many happy hours in his large library. Mr. McCartney was married in the year 1880 to Miss Elizabeth McNeil of Otonabee.

He was a life-long Conservative and took a very promient part in politics. He was a ready speaker and was very popular in the district because of that.

Col. J. M. Miller, who was one of Mr. McCartney's best friends, referred to him as a man of very fine character and high ideals and prominent in all walks of life.

Steamer John Gehm Is Missing From Port

EAST CHICAGO, Ills., November 16 (Canadian Press). — Fears for the safety of the steamer John Gehm, of Buffalo N.Y., and its crew of 25 were expressed late yesterday by port officials.

The ship, carrying a cargo of 2,500 tons of steel from Lackawanna, N.Y., here, was due at 11 p.m. on Tuesday. It was scheduled to pass Mackinaw at 11 a.m. on Monday, but at midnight that night had not been sighted there.

Heavy weather is reported in the northern waters of the Great Lakes and the steamer carries no radio.

In 1772, a Baltimorean for the first time in the United States, appeared on street walking under an umbrella. Horses and children were frightened.

French Cabinet Is Upheld in House

SOCIALISTS CHALLENGE RIGHT OF PREMIER POINCARE TO FORM NEW GOVERNMENT

Cabinet Carries Two Votes of Confidence in Chamber of Deputies.

LARGE MAJORITIES.

Hundred Radical Members Fail To Vote For Either Motions.

PARIS, Nov. 15 (Canadian Press). —Twice yesterday the new Poincare government submitted itself to the acid test of a vote of confidence in the French Chamber of Deputies, and twice it emerged bolstered and unscathed, once by a vote of 335 to 147 and at the close of debate by a vote of 330 to 129.

The first vote came when the Socialists challenged the Premier's right to alter the order of the day for the reading of his new declaration of principles, the Socialists inferring that if put to a vote M. Poincare could not obtain priority. The Premier insisted on the vote, and made it a question of confidence, the Chamber supporting him overwhelmingly.

Later when he had finished his declaration of principle, in which he had declared that the future condition of European countries rested largely upon the disposition that is made of the vexatious reparations problem, a direct confidence vote was taken, and the new government favored by a vote of 330 to 129.

Radicals Fail to Vote

In neither vote did the hundred or more Radical members participate refraining from voting in the interests of party discipline.

But observers consider the government has been inaugurated under most auspicious circumstances and that, though the new majority might sensibly be larger, it is large enough for all purposes now and should be strengthened in time.

The board spirit of conciliation the Premier displayed yesterday in dealing with questions responsible for previous ruptures and the resignation of the last Cabinet made him friends, it was said.

M. Poincare took the initiative yesterday, and maintained it throughout the meeting, with the result that he disposed of ends which have been loose since the resignation nearly two weeks ago of the last Cabinet, and left the field clear for discussion today of the budget for 1929.

Budget Debate

The adoption of this budget is a cardinal point in the Premier's policies, and he made it plain yesterday that he was prepared to subordinate all other questions to the attainment of his goal; which, he said, is essential both to France's economic restoration and to the international negotiations just begun.

Both in the declaration of principle and in his answers to interpellations regarding the declaration, the Premier made it clear that he considered the reparations question the most vital consideration in Europe to-day. He did not touch upon the war debts problem, save indirectly, although it had been forecast he would, and a large part of his speech was a discussion of inetrnal policy as regards the burget and the stabilization of French currency.

"Legal stabilization of the currency closed a decisive phase in financial redressment," he said, "but nothing is done so long as there remains something to be done."

Does Not Seek Initiative

As to reparations, he declared that France did not seek to take the initative i nasking revision of the Dawes plan, and that for her part "we are quite satisfied with just plain execution of the Dawes plan. It has functioned thus far with perfect regularity and to our complete satisfaction. We, however, have no reason to oppose new negotiations tending to a final equitable solution by which France and Europe might recover prosperity.

"But we cannot abandon lightly the guarantees awarded us by treatries until payment is assured us." In another place he reiterated his old contention that these payments from Germany should equal French debt payments in the United States and Great Britain and the amount spent in reconstruction of the devastated French war areas.

Bermudans Use Shark Oil To Find Weather Indications

HAMILTON, Bermuda, November 16. — Hundreds of negroes here are entirely dependent on the oil of the shark for their weather indications. Many small sharks are caught on the islands by local fishermen, shark being a favorite dish with the colored population.

The oil of the shark is eagerly sought for various purposes, but more for weather indications. The oil is placed in a bottle and hung up to serve as a future guide to the weather. With fine weather in the offing the oil is perfectly clear. Rumors of stormy weather are indicated by the oil turning thick and cloudy.

WARSAW WOMEN TO RAISE $150

United Church W. M. S. Holds Regular Monthly Meeting.

TEMPERANCE IS TOPIC.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, Nov. 16.—Mr. Herman Payne entertained the United Church W.M.S. on Thursday afternoon, with the president presiding. This was a special Thanksgiving meeting with "Temperance" for the topic. Mrs. Watts, a life member, and the oldest member, led in the scriptural reading. There were a few moments of silent Thanksgiving followed by the Doxology.

The allocation for Warsaw this year is $150. The Warsaw Women's Institute had set their objective at $100 but have generally gone over this. A drive was made for members and a large number paid the fee and became members but they really pay no more heed to the Institute, and naturally the Presbyterial considers it a large organization. A bale of goods was sent to one of the mission fields, all the articles in which were contributed by the members. The executive is to arrange for some method of obtaining the extra needed money, for this auxiliary does not intend to fall down, even on the larger amount.

Mrs. Herrington thanked all who subscribed to the Missionary Monthly. She thought every woman should take it, even if she had to do without some of the more expensive

FOUR INJURED; CAR OVERTURNS

"Motordrome" Turn on Lindsay-Oakwood Highway is Scene of Accident.

ALL IN HOSPITAL.

LINDSAY, Nov. 16.—(Special to The Examiner).—As the result of an accident on the Oakwood-Lindsay highway yesterday, four persons are in Ross Memorial Hospital suffering from injuries. They are Stanley James of Toronto, Miss Lila Godfrey, of Toronto, her cousin, Miss Gladys Godfrey, of Pefferlaw, and Alfred Wesley of Wilfred.

The car, owned by Wesley and driven by James, was coming towards Lindsay at a fast rate of speed, when at a "motordrome" turn in the highway two miles out of town it left the roadway and plunged over the bank, rolling over six times. All the occupants of the car were unconscious for some time, and, treated by Dr. Shier, were taken to the hospital. Wesley suffered a broken shoulder bone, and of the remainder Miss Lila Godfrey is believed to be most seriously injured. Provincial Constables Wetherhall and Porter are investigating.

NEW MINISTER TAKES CHARGE IN WARKWORTH

Rev. Gordon R. Duncan, of Montreal, Is Inducted In Presbyterian Church.

VACANT SINCE 1925.

Members of Presbytery Are Present at Important Service in Life of Congregation.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.

WARKWORTH, Nov. 16. — Since 1925, the Presbyterian church here has not enjoyed having an ordained minister permanently appointed to occupy the pulpit till yesterday afternoon when the Rev. Gordon R. Duncan of Montreal, was inducted as the minister of the church. During the three years, several very capable men have occupied the pulpit both as supply ministers and as students. Of these, perhaps Mr. Fowler enjoyed the longest stay though still an undergraduate of theology. The service yesterday afternoon was most impressive and a large congregation was present to welcome the newly appointed minister. The first part of the service was conducted by the Rev. W. J. Mark of Campbellford. The actual induction ceremony was performed by the Rev. David Thompson, D.D., of Hastings. The Rev. William Allan, of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Peterborough, addressed the minister and the address to the people of the church was delivered by James Dutton, representative elder of St. Paul's church, Peterborough. The Rev. A. A. Smith, of Colborne, offered up the induction prayer. Other ministers present were the Rev. Howard and the Rev. Griffith, both of Warkworth, and the Rev. Clare, of Myersburg and Norham. There was an anthem by the choir and also a male quartette, "The Wayside Cross," by four members of the choir.

Advice Good To-day.

In presiding over the first part of the service, the Rev. Mr. Mark read as the scripture lesson, part of the third chapter of the Book of Revelations. As a text for his sermon, he selected the second verse of the same chapter, "Be watchful and strengthen the things which remain." "This was some advice which had been given to the church at that time and it was also a good piece of advice for the present time. The church to-day must be known as an active organization or else as a thing living, and yet dead. Every individual in the church must do his or her part. It was a wonderful task and a great work," he said. "The work of the church was meat and drink to the people who entered upon it." Mr. Mark then interpreted the significance of Christian baptism and of the Holy Sacrament. These were salient points in the Christian life. Referring to a city mentioned in the Bible which had been captured by an unexpected method after careful study by the beseigers, so congregations might fall a prey to over-confidence in their own secure position. The congregation which the text of his sermon had been directed to originally, said Mr. Mark, was known to the speaker and so were all the individuals in it. So to-day, the individuals as well as the congregation as a while was known to the speaker. In closing, Mr. Mark appealed to the congregation to assist the new minister in his work among them and asked God's blessing on them and on the minister.

Before asking Dr. Thompson to detail the steps leading up to the call, the Rev. William Allan invited all the ministers in the congregation to sit with the presbytery and join in extending a welcome to the Rev. Duncan.

Outlines Steps.

In outlining the various details which had led to Mr. Duncan being called to Warkworth, Dr. Thompson could not resist the urge to deny one of Kipling's statements, "East is east and west is west, and never the twain shall meet." But Dr. Thompson recalled that only last week the Rev W. J. Mark had been inducted in

PARTY CHIEFS WOULD MODIFY BOOTH POWERS

With Salvation Army Leader Dying, Leadership Contest Being Held.

WILL DECIDE CONTROL.

High Council Called To Meet in January For First Time.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The crisis which is reported to have been brewing for the past year over the future control and administration of the Salvation Army apparently had reached its head yesterday as reports from the bedside of General William Bramwell Booth, Commander, indicated there is considerable anxiety as to his condition

For the first time in the history of the Salvation Army the High Council of the organization, which has been nominally in existence for the past 24 years, but has never before been convened, has been summoned to meet early in January of next year, the notice antedating the actual meeting so far in order to give all members abroad time to reach London.

Commissioner's Statement

The notice covering the Council says nothing about the subjects discussed by High Commissioner Higgins of the organization says that every arrangement for the efficient functioning of the Army exists under the system of administration inaugurated by the Army's founder.

As it is understood the General of the Salvation Army possesses the right to nominate his successor, this might conceivably be interpreted as excluding the need for discussion as to the successorship, but, on the other hand, some consider it hard to suppose that such an unprecedented action as convoking of the Council can mean anything else than a contest over the personality of the new General.

By Seven Commissioners

It appears that the Council can be convened by any four Commissioners and the Chief of Staff, or by any seven Commissioners without the Chief of Staff.

A duly appointed General, however, apparently has the power to dismiss any of the Commissioners. Thus some knotty points, possibly leading to invocation of the courts of law, are foreseen by some as possibly arising from the situation.

It is known that the leaders in the reform party in the Army are anxious to modify the enormous power invested in the Booth family, and these have contended that the High Council has the power to remove a General from office and elect a successor, thus nullifying the right claimed by the General to nominate his successor.

ARMISTICE DAY IS CELEBRATED

Rev. Father McAuley Offers a Requiem High Mass on Monday Morning.

SOCIAL HELD

(Examiner Correspondence)

ENNISMORE, Nov. 16.—On Sunday, Rev. Father McAuley preached a special sermon on the Tenth Anniversary of Armistice Day, at the 10.30 Mass. The two minutes' silence was also observed. A requiem High Mass was offered on Monday morning at 8.30 for the souls of the soldiers who died on the battlefield.

Social Held.

The annual Thanksgiving social, under the auspices of the Holy Name League, was held on Monday night in the Parish Hall. A large crowd was present and the evening was enjoyably spent in music and dancing. Prizes awarded to the best step dancers were won by Messrs. McKeever and McIntyre.

Personals.

RAILWAY HAS NO RIGHT OF WAY

Travellers To Get To Dranael Station Must Pass Through Private Property.

MANY COMPLAINTS.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, Nov. 15.—There is a railway station on the main line of the C.P.R. from Montreal to Toronto that has no right of way to it. Anyone diesiring to leave for any point from that station must cross over a pasture field before reaching the station, which, in itself, is very unique. A railway station, as a rule, is for the convenience of the travelling public.

Some seventeen years ago, a branch line was built from Port McNichol on Georgian Bay, for a shorter way of transportation for grain from the Canadian West to Montreal. This line runs through Bethany and Lindsap and runs conveniently to Omemee, Fleetwood and Franklin. The little station referred to, is just where the branch line joins the main line, making a junction. This is two and one-quarter miles south-east of the village of Bethany in Cavan township, and one mile east of the boundary between Cavan and Manvers. When the station was first built it was called Bethany Junction, but many of the travelling public confused this with the village of Bethany and travellers left the train here and found, to their amazement, that they had to walk two and one-quarter miles up the railroad ties to the village, as there wasn't even a road in sight— nothing but sandy railroad cuts hemmed in with woods in a triangle, with a little railroad station and a water tank.

Name Changed.

Numerous complaints were made from time to time, regarding the confusing of the places, so the little station was given a new name—Dranoel, which is Leonard spelled backwards. Mr. Leonard, after whom the station is named, is one of the head officials of the Canadian Pacific Railroad. He was born in Bethany and it was thought fitting to commemorate his name by giving it to this little station, with the hope that in some future time it might become a place of importance. One wonders why there is no legalized roadway to it, but it appears that the C. P. R. built this spur of the road for a short cut for hauling grain and not for passengers. A right-of-way to this station has often been talked of, but as yet no satisfactory arrangements have been made between the land owner, the C. P. R. officials and the people of Cavan and Manvers. To reach the station you drive down the 8th line of Cavan and cross a pasture field on the farm owned by F. W. Galbraith of Port Hope, opening several gates enroute.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, November 16. — The depression over Northern Ontario, which caused strong winds in the lake region, has passed eastward with decreased intensity. Pressure is high on the Atlantic coast and in the Western Provinces. Showers have occurred in parts of Ontario and in Quebec, and the weather has been very mild to the eastward and cold west of the Great Lakes.

Northern Ontario — Fresh northwest winds; cloudy and cooler; snow flurries.

Ottawa Valley and Upper St. Lawrence — Fresh westerly winds, partly cloudy and cooler.

Sir Burton Chadwick Asks For Fair Play; Upholds Carey On Behalf Of Master Mariners

NEW YORK, November 16. — Captain Sir Burton Chadwick, Deputy Master of the Honorable Company of Master Mariners, of London, England, of which the Prince of Wales is Master, protested on Wednesday against the treatment accorded Captain William J. Carey, master of the Vestris.

"On behalf of the Honorable Company of Master Mariners, of which His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales is Master, I wish to send a message of gratitude and congratulation to the masters and crews of the vessels that took part in the rescue of those who were wrecked in the Vestris.

"As a seaman, however, I do protest most strenuously against the wild and cruel injustice that is being done to the late master of the Vestris by a section of the United States press. No authentic account of a disaster of this kind can be available until an official inquiry is held. Until then, in the name of common fairness, let reason prevail.

"Captain Carey is said to have 'remained on his bridge to the last and went down with his ship.' Captain Cummings, or any of those other masters who took such a noble part, would have done the same. It is in accord with the highest traditions of seamen."

RAILWAY HAS NO RIGHT-OF-WAY

ing water tank was erected in close proximity to the station. It is believed to be the largest tank on the right-of-way between Montreal and Toronto. For those desiring to travel by rail from Bethany, there is a mixed train from Havelock to Port McNichol that passes through Dranoel Junction, going through the village of Bethany about 8 oclock a.m., returning around 6 p.m. Being a mixed train, it is not always on time.

There is another train from Toronto to Peterborough, by way of Lindsay and Dranoel, passing through the village at 6 a.m. and returning at 8 p.m. The stations en route are all flag stations from Cavan. This is the only way the surrounding country has of travel to outside points once the snow becomes too deep in the winter for the automobile. There is a station agent in residence at Dranoel Junction but there are no tickets sold for travel. One must get these either at Cavan or Pontypool stations. Of course, those who are making a short trip, may purchase tickets from the conductor on the train.

Near Dranoel Junction on the right of way, there is a good trout stream and often during the summer months, many city folks are to be seen enjoying the sport.

declared, "an order to the passengers to put on their lifebelts."

Herman Rueckert of Leipzig, Germany, a first-class passenger, gave a graphic picture of the way the ship lurched before the storm, which struck it almost as soon as it got to sea.

Bad Storm

"At dinner on Sunday," he said "there was a porthole that wouldn't close A woman was drenched, and we had to move to another table. The same thing happened there. When the ship gave a great roll dishes went everywhere, and one man was thrown under a table."

The next morning he opened his cabin door to see a steward running by with a lifebelt on. "Should I also have a lifebelt?" he asked, and said the steward told him he might as well. That, he said, was all that was done by way of preparing the passengers to go overboard. He got into a lifeboat, but it leaked so badly that he jumped out and swam to another, which was rowed away from him. Then the boat he had been in sank. He said it was the roughest sea he ever experienced, and he had travelled widely.

Walter Spitz, a business man of Berne, Switzerland, testified in German, through an interpreter. He said he saw a great hole in one of the boats in which women and children were placed. The hole was knocked in the boat, he said, while the crew was getting it loose preparatory to lowering it; but the women and children were put in, anyway, and then left swinging in the davits, no one, he said, paying any attention to them, until the Vestris sank and carried them all down with it.

Spitz himself got into a boat crowded to the gunwales, he said, and as it was being lowered it turned over, and all were hurled into the water.

To-day officers and members of the crew of the Vestris will be called. Charles Tuttle, United States Attorney in charge of the inquiry, told reporters at the close of yesterday's session that he was not sure about the jurisdiction of United States courts in the matter, the Vestris being a British ship.

"What I want to find out," he said, "is whether charges are true that United States citizens have lost their lives at sea through negligence. If anybody's negligence has cost the lives of United States citizens those people will be called to account by this office. We'll talk about jurisdiction later."

NEW MINISTER

Campbellford and had come from a British Columbia charge. The Rev. Mr. Duncan was from Montreal and therefor the twain had met. The Warkworth congregation had heard few candidates, Dr. Thompson pointed olut, and they had always been anxious to hear the very best ministers possible. Mr. Duncan, whom they had called, was spoken of very highly by the higher officials of the church and these men had sent their congratulations to Warkworth on having secured such an excellent minister.

Following his remarks, Dr Thompson asked the usual formal questions of Mr Duncan and extended the right hand of fellowship to him. Nine ministers and representative elders availed themselves of the privilege. The Rev. A. A. Smith, Colborne, offered up the induction prayer.

In his address to the people, Rev. Mr. Allan chose as the foundation for his remarks the words of the Apostle Paul, "Take heed unto thyself and unto the doctrine." These words had been spoken by Paul to Timothy. Mr. Allan hoped Mr Duncan would hear the words as though the Apostle were speaking directly to him. It did not matter, he thought, so much about what a man said as how he lived. Ministers were often rebuked for saying unkind things, words that cut deeply into some members of the congregation But Mr. Allan claimed that the minister used a two-edged sword and just as the words hurt those who heard them, so they hurt the man who spoke them, for having to do so. He also recommended prayer and periods of meditation on the ways and works of God. "Take time to be holy," said Mr. Allan. "No man ever became a saint in his sleep." One could not be holy in a hurry, he claimed. A man should pay particular attention to his private life. It was possible to give people the impression that they were what they ought to be, but if the private life were not right it would be revealed some day and the revelation would not be to their credit. It was advisable at times to have a deaf ear and a blind eye. There were things said and done that it was sometimes better not to have any knowledge of.

The second part of the text, "Take heed unto the doctrine," recalled to mind, he said, an incident when a woman had entered a well-known pulpit and defiled many of the doctrine of the church. He had been greatly incensed and told a higher official that he would have to fumigate the pulpit as a result. In many cases, women were the ones responsible for the modern doctrines which were causing so much trouble in the churches. He recalled the case of a church which was run entirely by women and had gone into debt to the tune of fifty-two thousand dollars. A minister was asked if he would take charge of the church, and he accepted on condition that all methods of raising money be dispensed with save that of free-will giving. The women were greatly offended and one woman called a meeting of all the ladies of the church and asked the minister to define the women's place in the church. He was equal to the occasion and explained that there was no male or female recognized in the church. It made no difference whether the people were men or women, the work was the same for each.

Not for Philosophers.

Continuing, Mr. Allan explained that the Bible was not written for philosophers only, but for everyone, and written so that everyone could understand it. He continued to speak at some length on the Christian belief, and concluded by passing on the watchword to Mr. Duncan, which had been given to him many years ago, "He walked with me in peace, and turned many away from iniquity."

Mr. Dutton congratulated the congregation on the success of their work since the time of church union, and quoted many statistics which showed that the church was almost back to its standard when the church union went into effect. The contributions of the congregations had been generous and in some cases double that of former years. He asked that the congregation respect their new minister, both as a man and as a minister of the Gospel. He was of the opinion that the respect for the cloth had lessened considerably during the last few years Mr. Dutton also asked of the congregation, individual as well as collective assistance in the work of the church by Mr. Duncan who had just been inducted as their leader in the work of the Kingdom.

Following the singing of one verse of the hymn, "Blest be the tie that binds," Rev. Mr. Duncan pronounced the benediction for the first time as minister of Warkworth Presbyterian Church.

Supper was served by the ladies of the church to all who wished to stay. The clergymen and elders were seated at a long table and the members of the congregation enjoyed a buffet lunch.

Mrs. Robert Moore read the laws regarding liquor selling in the nine provinces, and Mrs. W. Anderson read the results of study about the effect of alcohol under the heads of narcotic drugs.

Mrs. Charles Foster and Mrs. David Miller read short notes on the results of using liquor after which Mrs. Charles Foster sang, "Building for Eternity." Rev. H. B. Herrington closed the meeting with prayer, and a delicious hot lunch brought the afternoon to a close.

The plow is going pretty steadily on most farms these days. Sometimes double plows are seen, and in some fields there are two or three teams. Very few farmers have all their fall plowing done.

Roots are all in and crops are generally reported good.

OLD HOME WEEK.

The attention of organizations and of individual citizens interested in Peterborough's Old Home Week—and that should apply to nearly everybody—is directed to the public meeting called by Mayor Denne for Monday night when the preliminary organization will be effected.

If the event is to be made a success it must have the assistance and co-operation of the community to the same degree as was accorded on the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee celebration.

Every citizen can contribute something to the successful outcome of Old Home Week, either by helping in locating old boys and girls and in bringing them home for the festivities or in arranging the manifold details that will enter into the local program.

A good start means much to the ultimate success of the occasion.

Preliminary expenses are being taken care of by a grant passed by the City Council, and the way is clear for an enthusiastic launching of the campaign to make Peterborough's Old Home Week a red-letter day in the city's history.

There should be a large and representative attendance at Monday night's public meeting.

THE POPULARITY OF HOCKEY.

The National Hockey League, now thoroughly international in its scope, opened its long campaign last night with huge crowds reported everywhere.

Hockey has advanced a long way from the days when it was first played in Canada with a wooden puck and sticks cut from a convenient tree.

It has become the world's fastest sport, thrilling crowds everywhere with its speed and action, and because in many respects it is typical of Canada, there is a sense of pride in noting the progress that it has made as a major sport across the line.

Professional hockey is indeed rapidly developing into big business with quickly mounting salary lists and bigger arenas, and there is no sign that the invasion of the United States has even slowed up.

From a Canadian viewpoint the situation is not without its peril.

It can readily be appreciated that the popularity of Canada's national game over the border may have a reaction on hockey here, leaving it difficult for some of the Canadian clubs to meet the financial competition engendered by the interest American promoters are displaying.

United States people not only like hockey but see money possibilities in it—and that may mean trouble before long.

THE BROADCASTING CHANGES.

It is perhaps lucky for the members of the Federal Radio Commission in the United States that their position is not an elective one.

Their task of regulating broadcasting and of allocating the wave lengths so that all sections may be adequately served and the most important stations at least given justice in the time they are allowed on the air, is admittedly a most difficult one, and it is obvious that they would find it impossible to please every one no matter what regulations they might adopt.

Just at present it is evident that they have not succeeded in pleasing a good many people, including many Canadian listeners-in, who complain that the recent re-allocation of wave lengths has added to the air congestion on this side of the line.

The complaints from Windsor and other sections of the Province that the changes in the United States are interfering with the reception of the newer Toronto stations is an example of the situation that has been created.

Sections of Ontario that could not previously be reached with any regularity by Toronto broadcasting stations have been enjoying Toronto programs up to this week from the newer stations, but now find reception interfered with by American broadcasts, and they don't like it.

Their representations should receive some attention from the authorities on both sides of the line.

ANOTHER IMMIGRATION QUESTION.

"They come in on farm permits and the next week they are working in the factories," writes a Kitchener resident to The Examiner in discussing the immigration situation.

The writer refers to a condition that is more or less general.

While immigration has been restricted for the most part to farmers and farm laborers and domestic servants, it is undoubtedly true that many of those who come in as farm laborers remain but a short time on the farm and eventually drift to the cities, where they enter into competition with resident labor for employment.

Our Kitchener correspondent declares that ninety-five per cent of the immigrants arriving in that district at present are Germans, Poles or Roumanians, and that while they are allowed to enter Canada on farm permits, they are soon found employed in Kitchener industrial concerns.

If that condition is true the Immigration Department should be asked to explain why the restrictions in regard to the entrance of industrial workers is apparently being winked at.

If these farm workers are really nothing of the kind and are merely posing as farmers long enough to get into Canada, the regulations are evidently not fulfilling the purpose for which they were designed.

The report we have received from Kitchener indicates that in that district the restrictions are only a scrap of paper.

PUBLIC SCHOOL EXAMS.

Mr. Duncan Walker, principal of Peterborough Normal School, believes that written examinations for Public Schools cannot as yet be dispensed with, though agreeing that other considerations in passing pupils should be recognized.

This has been an interesting topic of discussion for years, and opinions are varied. Perhaps the best solution of the situation lies in a series of tests throughout the school term; tests that are not labelled examinations, but that serve the same purpose. It is a well-known fact that the thought of set exams at the end of the term has a most unfortunate effect on many children, and that many excellent students make a bad showing then because of "nerves."—Border Cities Star.

RECORD BUSINESS.

Canadian merchants have this year transacted a record volume of business, according to the tenor of special reports received from all over Canada by Mr. S. H. Logan, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, the increase in current orders over 1927 ranging variously from 5 to 50 per cent. and averaging about 20 per cent. Orders for future delivery in the majority of trades also show a large increase, although the prospects for future trade are not bright in those farming districts which suffered severe crop damage. The bank estimates that the volume of retail sales in Canada now amounts to nearly $3,500,000,000 annually, with a corresponding turnover in wholesale trade of $1,-500,000,000. It will, therefore, be readily seen that even a slight increase in this volume will quicken the flow of purchasing power and give a further momentum to trade in general.

The bank's calculations are based upon the figures recently issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics as a result of a census of nearly 67,000 wholesale and retail establishments taken in 1924, the first of its kind in Canada, with allowance made for non-reporting firms and for the natural increase in trade that has taken place in both Canada and the United States during the past three years. Until a second census is taken the growth of Canadian domestic trade cannot be accurately measured, but the information already obtained will be of great use for future comparative analyses. The result of similar investigations conducted for some years past by the Federal Reserve Board in the United States can meanwhile be accepted as indicating the changing character of distributive trade on this continent. In the United States the money value of wholesale trade has actually declined about 5 per cent. since 1925, owing partly to the increasing business done directly between manufacturer and retailer or ultimate consumer, and partly to the reluctance of retailers to carry more stock than called for by the immediate requirements of their customers. On the other hand, the sales of department stores are nearly 10 per cent. higher than in 1924, while those of mail order houses and chain stores are nearly 45 per cent. higher, 10 per cent. of this being accounted for by the increase during the last twelve months.

Although Canadian trade conditions do not perhaps exhibit these trends to the same marked extent, the situation is undoubtedly similar in this country, but whatever the method of distribution the movement of commodities from producer to ultimate consumer is greater to-day than at any time since the recent low point of 1924. The total tonnage of revenue freight carried over Canadian railways last year (including heavy exports of wheat and other products) was 16 per cent. higher than in 1924, while manufactured and miscellaneous staple commodities (to a much greater extent for domestic consumption) was 22 per cent. higher. The increase in the number of cars loaded during the current year up to the end of October for merchandise and miscellaneous staple commodities was 7 per cent. higher than in 1927, and as this represents only a small part of sales to ultimate consumers, where the largest increase has presumably occurred, a considerably higher percentage of growth must have taken place in general trade.

Groceries and provisions are selling at a better rate than a year ago, especially in Western Canada, but the turnover of the smaller retailers is showing some reduction, owing to the strong competition of chain stores. Good prices have also maintained the volume of meat packers' sales, although in some cases there has been a slight reduction in output. In spite of keen competition Western fruit dealers have slightly increased their sales.

The clothing and dry goods trades report a satisfactory turnover, with stocks moving well. In Ontario and Quebec the demand for natural and artificial silk is of record proportions, with forward orders between 25 per cent. and 50 per cent. ahead of a year ago and the output of some factories sold for several months ahead. Wholesale importers, however, are finding orders on the part of retailers restricted to current needs. The trade in woollens and cottons is experiencing sharp competition from British and American products, but consumption is steadily increasing and the outlook shows some improvement, with more orders for spring delivery than a year ago. Larger current orders for clothing have come from the West in anticipation of the crop, and it is only to be expected that when these have been filled there will be some recession of Western business in this line. The wholesale trade in boots and shoes and in leather goods in general is somewhat unsettled, owing to fluctuations in the price of leather, but sales have been fairly well maintained and Western orders are in some instances larger than a year ago. The low price of crude rubber has more than offset any decline in the gross sales of rubber goods, and manufacturers and dealers are profiting thereby. One manufacturer of rubber soles and shoes reports that forward orders for export are 25 per cent. ahead of a year ago.

The marked expansion of building this summer and autumn has stimulated many trades, among them hardware, paints and varnishes, the iron and steel and other metal trades, lumber and furniture, and although a seasonable decline in some lines is now anticipated, the indications for spring trade are favorable. Hardware, metal and furniture sales, however, continue to be well maintained, with both current and forward orders about 20 per cent. ahead of a year ago. The automobile trade is experiencing the normal seasonal recession, but sales this year to date have been about 25 per cent. higher than 1927, and forward orders are in some cases as high as 50 per cent. above this time last year.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Little is contributed to the peace of the world by such speeches as those made this week by President Coolidge and Lord Birkenhead.

The weeklies of Ontario are evidently determined to prevent any one kicking their dog around.

Now they are busy picking successors to Premier Ferguson. It might just be as well, however, to wait until the Premier officially announces his retirement.

The Department of Highways might tell us how many reports of reckless driving the Bureau of Complaints has received and what action has been taken thereon.

After all, if the Martians can really listen to our radio programs they may prefer to tune them all out and hear something worth while.

Deplores Situation

Dear Mr. Editor:

The finding of the Grand Jury in connection with the recent Assizes held at Cornwall, Ontario, reveals a situation which should arrest the attention of the Attorney-General, and of all who are interested in lessening the evils and the burdens of Society. The particular items in point are as follows:—

"We have visited and inspected the jails and find fourteen prisoners, all males, two awaiting trial and twelve serving sentences, ranging from six months to one month, chiefly for breach of the Ontario Liquor Control Act. Several of the twelve are married and several have served from two to six sentences for similar offences, evidently finding jail life quite agreeable to them. We deeply deplore the increasing evil effects of strong drink as exemplified in these prisoners.

—Veritos.

The Question Box

T.H.L. Q.—What is the definition of a body check in hockey?

Ans.—A fair body check shall be when a player bodies an opponent with the hip or side of the body when standing still or skating at a slow rate of speed. If, however, a player is skating fast, or uses his knee or elbow, it will be considered charging and be penalised accordingly. There shall be no body checking within five feet of the boards.

This rule means that there is to be no body-checking on the forward line. The only players permitted to use the body in checking are players on the defending team when they are back of the 40 foot line, but there must be no charging by these players.

A Thought

A FURROW.

Each day is like a furrow lying before us; our thoughts, desires, and action are the seed that each minute we drop into it, without seeming to perceive it. The furrow finished, we commence upon another, then another, and again another; each day presents a fresh one, and so on to the end of life, . . sowing, ever sowing. And all we have sown springs up, grows and bears fruit, almost unknown to us, even if by chance we cat a backward glance we fail to recognize our work.

Behind us, angels and demons, like gleaners, gather together in sheaves all that belongs to them.

Every night their store is increased. They preserve it, and at the last day will present it to their Master.

Is there not a thought in this that should make us reflect?

GOD'S MINUTE.

Ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto thee.—John 15:7.

* * *

O God our Father, Thou hast watched us during the hours of sleep, and under the shadow of Thy wings we have rested in safety. Grant that now, when we awake, we may be still with Thee. May we walk with Thee and work with Thee through all the hours of the day, seeing Thee in all the life about us, and finding it our meat to do the will of Him who sent us, and to finish His work.

In the busiest moments, may we never quite lose sight of Thee or slacken the hold of our souls upon the things that are eternal.

Defend us from all dangers, but above all from our own faults and weaknesses. Help us so to pass through this day that we shall cast no shade on other lives, but shall bring brightness into the world about us.

And when the day draws to an end, may we have the quiet joy of knowing that, by Thy grace, we have been able to win and to manifest something of that eternal life which is found in doing justly, with loving kindness, and walking humbly with God. In the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 (Associated Press).—Lively upturns in wheat values yesterday followed word of heavy rains hampering the Argentine harvest. Statements of Secretary Jardine that millable wheat supplies in Canada may be less than last year, and that European wheat buyers will have to turn more to the United States during stoppage of navigation on the Great Lakes were also a bullish factor, and so too were reports that President Coolidge may specify farm relief plans to-night. In the face of increased selling, however, top prices failed to hold.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled ¼c to 5-8c net higher, with corn one cent to 1 3-8c down, oats at a shade to ¼c advance, and provisions varying from 17c decline to a rise of 15c.

At first, the wheat market here had a downward trend that was associated with reports of liberal offerings of Argentine wheat to Europe and with bearish crop estimates both from Argentina and Australia. The Argentine crop was unofficially estimated as totalling 245,000,000 bushels, nearly 6,000,000 bushels larger than in 1927, and the Australian crop was officially put at 154,000,000 bushels, about 3,-000,000 bushels over recent private forecasts. An abrupt change in trade sentiment developed, however, after receipt of Buenos Aires cables telling of renewed rainfalls in Northern Argentina.

Much accelerating the upward trend of the wheat market was the widely noticed comment of Secretary Jardine, indicating that Canadian official figures for 1928 wheat yield in Canada, although revised downward, are likely to be further discounted by poor quality, due to frost damage. Additional encouragement to wheat buyers came from trade expectation of farm relief developments going hand in hand with President Coolidge's address to-night before the National Grange at Washington. Profit-taking sales on the advance, though, shaved prices down as the day drew to an end.

Corn showed weakness yesterday from the outset, despite strength displayed by wheat and oats. Improved corn belt weather had a bearish influence on corn, and so likewise did the fact that the corn market had been on the upgrade for the last seven days.

Commission house demand for oats future deliveries found offerings light.

Foreign selling of lard made the provision market average lower.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—A moderate amount of business was done with foreign buyers in wheat here yesterday, but the demand for coarse grain was limited and no sales were reported.

The cash grain trade was fairly active, there being a good demand for both domestic and country account. In oats an easier feeling prevailed, and prices were reduced one cent per bushel.

The movement for Spring and Winter wheat flour was steady and values were firm.

The undertone to the millfeed market was strong owing to the continued good demand from all sources and indications are that values will be advanced in the near future. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was active, and prices were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of fresh and storage eggs were firmly maintained under a continued good demand. Receipts were 1,540 cases.

The potato market continued active and firm. New Brunswick Green Mountains sold at 65c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, and Prince Edward Island grades at 78 to 83c in bags.

The inquiry for beans was good. Imported choice white hand-picked grades were quoted at $5.25 and Canadian beans at $4.85 to $4.90 per bushel, ex-store.

An active business was done in butter, and the undertone to the market was firm. Receipts were 142 packages.

The cheese trade continued dull, and prices for all qualities were unchanged. Receipts were 1,886 boxes.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, Nov. 16—An increasing scarcity of extra and first-grade egg receipts held wholesale prices firm and unchanged in yesterday's trading in the Toronto market. Although sentiment was unquestionably strong, moderate demand after the holiday was a factor in preventing a further rise in prices, and extras continued to move at a general range of 58 to 60 cents a dozen, delivered in Toronto, cases returned. Receipts of first were also limited, and sales were made at firm levels of 53 to 55 cents a dozen. Moderately active buying for week-end requirements imparted a firm appearance to the distributive market and the majority of sales to retailers were made unchanged within a range of 66 to 67 cents a dozen for fresh extras in cartons, or at 63 to 65 cents, loose. Storage eggs moved out at 45 to 46 cents for extras in cartons and other grades of storage supplies were unchanged.

Butter Prices Steady

Wholesale butter values were unchanged and the market undertone was firm. Demand was slightly less active than on Wednesday, but there was no indication of this influence in sales at 40¾ to 41 cents a pound for finest No. 1 pasteurized creamery, delivered in Toronto. No. 2 grade butter was steady at 39; to 40 cents a pound on the same delivery basis.

Sales of butter to retailers found the distributive market unchanged at 43 to 44 cents for No. 1 creamery prints.

Cheese Market Easier

Cheese values developed an easier tendency and prices to the retail trade were marked down a cent a pound, new large cheese ranging from 23½ to 24 cents, with other new and old cheese at corresponding levels. Wholesalers' quotations to country shippers remained nominally unchanged at 21½ to 22 cents a pound for new large cheese, waxed, No. 1 Government graded, delivered in Toronto.

FREED FROM THE MEDICINE HABIT

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought welcome relief

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in Mrs. Van Horn's letter below. She wrote us, voluntarily, to express her appreciation for the wonderful results ALL-BRAN brought.

June 17, 1927

"I feel as if I must write you a few lines to let you know what a wonder food your ALL-BRAN is and what it has done for me and many others I have told about it. I have been using it for one year and have a movement every morning. Before, I was taking medicine every three or four days. Now, I never take any. Many thanks to ALL-BRAN. I can't praise it too much."

Sincerely,
MRS. G. W. VAN HORN

STROPPING IS ESSENTIAL TO THE PERFECT SHAVE

are all Barbers CRAZY?

Is stropping a playful gesture to amuse you — or has the Valet AutoStrop Razor proved that there is a fundamental reason for stropping?

YES, all barbers are insane . . . so are other millions of men . . . if stropping a blade to sharpen it is useless.

But you know that every barber throughout the entire world knows that he must strop before he shaves. An unstropped edge is like a row of needles. It pulls and tears the skin.

There is one razor and only one which automatically insures a stropped blade for every shave. That is the Valet AutoStrop Razor.

The Million Dollar Model is the result of 21 years of research and the expenditure of a million dollars in experiments. Everywhere men are adopting it because of its new day improvements.

Blades are inserted or removed simply by pressing a button. Blades are locked in firm, non-flexible grip that eliminates vibration and pull. New type guard lets you use the full shaving edge. And—fundamentally important—the exclusive self-stropping feature keeps the blade edge super-keen. No need to remove blade to strop or clean it.

Give a Valet AutoStrop Razor a fair trial. You'll quickly learn to like it—then you'll never go back to an unstropped blade.

BROKEN

A Story of Revenged Love, by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER XXX—III

THE STORY THUS FAR:

GILES CHITTENHAM returns to London from the United States—where he has contracted a secret and unfortunate marriage with SADIE BARROW—to help wind up the affairs of his younger half brother, RODNEY ARDRON, who has recently killed himself for love of the notorious flirt JULIE FARROW. In Switzerland he meets Julie Farrow, through his friend, LOMBARD, and makes love to her with the intention of spurning her in revenge for her treatment of Rodney. But, after he realizes that he really loves her, he finds that she is a cousin of the Julie Farrow whom his brother loved. He tells her the truth—that he is already married. She plunges into a gay, wild life trying to forget him. A rich, older man, SCHOFIELD, wants to marry her. Chittenham hears that his wife is in London. He meets the other Julie, who tells him she has not long to live. Then she leaves London. He has a talk with his Julie, but finds her hard and apparently heartless. He decides to divorce Sadie and then, if Julie will have him, marry her. Lombard tells Chittenham that unless he gives him money he will tell the world about Chittenham's marriage to Sadie, and that he and Julie spent the night together at St. Bernard. In the meantime, Julie tells Schofield she will marry him.

It was a bright, sunny afternoon, so he would not let her go back to the flat when they had lunched.

"I'm going to take you for a drive in the country. London is racketing your nerves to pieces. Ring up Miss Lennox and tell her you are spending the rest of the day with me."

"I promised to go back. Poor Bim she thinks I'm a little mad!"

But she did as he asked her, and they got a car and drove down into Buckinghamshire together. Julie sat back with closed eyes.

"I don't want to talk, if you don't mind," she said. She was grateful for the fresh air and the sunshine on her face; she tried to pretend that it was Giles Chittenham beside her holding her hand, instead of this man with his kind worshipful eyes who was less than nothing to her.

If only it had been Giles—

Traitorous imagination carried her back to that night on the mountains. Try as she might she could not forget one incident of it. The shrieking wind, the blinding snow, the little stove that smoked so vilely when it was lit—the cold, bare rooms of the hotel on the top of the world. Then that compelling look in Chittenham's eyes that had seemed to draw her to him like a magnet, and then the close clasp of his arms and the touch of his lips—

Julie opened her eyes with a little smothered cry of pain. If only one could destroy memory!

They stopped at a little country inn for tea. In one of the rooms somebody was playing a gramophone, and there was the sound of laughter and dancing feet.

"They sound happy, don't they?" Julie said with an effort.

"I hope they are as happy as we are," Schofield answered. He seemed very young and rather pathetic in his newly found joy. He was confident that he could make Julie happy. In his simplicity he could not conceive that his great love for Julie could fail to meet with a response as great. His thoughts kept rushing ahead to the future and to the many things he would do for her.

"I'm so glad you are not a rich woman," he told her impulsively. "My greatest happiness will be in giving you everything you want."

Julie laughed brokenly.

It was on her lips to say that if she had been rich she would not have consented to marry him. If she had been rich she would have put the width of the world between herself and the memories that would give her no peace.

The gramophone played a tune she knew, and a raucous voice took up the words of the refrain:

"I may be dancing with somebody else,
but I love you—
When I see you dancing with somebody else, I feel so blue,
When I hear a song that we danced to before—"

It was more than she could bear; she started restlessly to her feet.

"Shall we go? It's getting dark, and the country is so dreary when it gets dark."

She stood looking out of the window while Schofield settled the bill. The silly words of the refrain still rang in her ears.

"I may be dancing with somebody else, but I love you—"

Absurd! She had never danced with Giles in her life, and yet the words seemed so applicable to herself.

She felt as if someone had told her she had got to dance to the same tune all her life, with mirthless feet and an empty heart; that she must keep on dancing till she dropped.

They drove back to London and dined together.

"What shall we do now?" Schofield asked.

It had been a red-letter day to him and one which he wished might never end. He kept looking at Julie with adoring eyes. Her constrained attempts to talk to him passed him by; he was just content to be with her, and to know that she had promised to be his wife. Already he was visualizing the home they would have together—the furniture and the garden—everything in the world that she wanted should be hers.

"I don't mind what we do," Julie said. "Go to a theatre, if you like I can go home and change."

But he would not allow that: he said he could not bear to let her out of his sight on this day of all days.

In the end they went to a cinema. Julie did not care for the pictures, but at any rate it did away with the need to talk, and the darkness was restful. She only looked at the screen when Schofield drew her attention to something being shown upon it.

It was as if fate were relentlessly pursuing her, determined to torment her and keep her pain alive, for the second picture was of the monastery at St. Bernard and of the snowclad mountains.

There had been a recent avalanche, and the picture showed the steep, winding road up to the hotel along which she had driven Charon, and the bleak mountain-sides and precipitous slopes.

Julie sat up stiffly, her heart beating fast.

"I've been there," she said in a strange little voice. "I drove my car up there only a month or two ago." She laughed with shaken excitement. "I stayed at that hotel—it's so cold and cheerless."

"It looks wonderful," Schofield said.

"Yes—it was wonderful," Julie whispered.

She sat with her hands clasped together, her eyes fixed on the screen. It was as if someone had taken her back three months and were making her live those few hours of complete happiness once more.

"That's the monastery," she said. 'You could hardly see it for snow when we were there."

"'We?'" Schofield said quickly. "You were not alone, then?"

"There are always a great many tourists," Julie answered.

"We must go there together some day," he said.

The picture came to an end and flashed away into blackness, and she drew a deep sigh and leaned back in her chair.

Gone—like her short-lived happiness—wiped out—never to be recalled!

They went out into the cool night.

"And now what do we do?" Schofield asked. "I'm like a boy with an unexpected holiday," he apologized, "and I don't want it to end."

"I'm tired," Julie said, and her voice trembled. "I think if you don't mind I should like to go home."

He looked disappointed.

"It's only just eleven," he said. "But if you're tired, my dearest—"

A newsboy came along crying his news.

"Tragic death of well-known society beauty."

"I wonder who it is," Julie said indifferently. She was not really interested but she wanted to avoid endearments.

"I'll get a paper," Schofield said.

They stopped under a lamp to read the short paragraph on the front page.

"News has been received from—My God!" Schofield broke off in dismay.

"What is it?" Julie asked. She bent lower to read the words, then suddenly she gave a cry. "It's Jewel—my cousin Julie! Oh, poor Julie!"

The details were meager and without entire corroboration, but it appeared that Julie—the other Julie who had unwittingly brought about the tragedy of her cousin's life—while on her way to India, where she had been going for a holiday—was suddenly missed from the ship and was presumed to have fallen overboard.

There followed a brief account of her life—her popularity in society—her marriage and divorce—her vogue as a beauty—her tremendous luck and good fortune in every way.

"Every way except in happiness," Julie said passionately. "She never had any happiness. Oh, poor Julie!"

Tears were running down her cheeks.

Schofield did not know what to say, what comfort to offer. He said clumsily that perhaps she was better off—that he always thought it was all right for the one who died; it was those who were left behind for whom he was sorry.

Julie did not listen; she was lost in her own sad thoughts.

They drove back to the flat and she bade him good night.

"No, don't come in—not tonight. I'm so unhappy—it's been such a shock."

She seemed so distressed that Schofield did not dare try to detain her. All day he had been thinking of this good night, sure that she would kiss him. It would have been such a perfect ending to his perfect day. His heart felt heavy as he walked away.

Julie went up the stairs to her flat. She wondered if Bim had heard about the tragedy. Down in the street she could still hear the newsboy's shrill voice:

"Tragic death of society beauty—"

It seemed impossible it could be Jewel to whom those words referred. Jewel, who had seemed to have everything life could offer, to go to her death alone and in such tragic fashion!

Julie let herself into the flat. There was a dim light burning in the sitting-room. Bim would be there, she thought, and it gave her a feeling of comfort. Bim never failed her, no matter how badly she was treated.

She opened the door.

She held the newspaper still clutched in her hand.

There was a photograph of the other Julie on its front page—of Julie in evening dress, smiling above a fan.

There was a little movement in the room and someone pushed back a chair from in front of the fire.

"Jewel is dead," Julie said, sobbing. "I suppose you know. She's dead—she's been lucky to the end, you see. I only wish I were dead too—" Then she broke off with a little choking cry, for it was not Bim who rose to meet her, but Giles Chittenham.

There was a tragic silence.

EXCELLENT PAPER READ TO WOMEN

Omemee Women's Institute Holds Regular Monthly Meeting.

OMEMEE, Nov. 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Women's Institute held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Widdis on Wednesday evening. The president presided. After the opening exercises a paper on "Why knock each other," was given by Miss Mildred Williamson, and a leaflet on "Armistice" was read by Mrs. R. J. Cornwall.

Community singing was indulged in and several familiar pieces were heartily rendered. Mrs. Townsend, of Cameron, a prominent Institute worker, gave a short talk on the work of the society there.

The roll-call was responded to by the exchanging of recipes. Mrs. J. Widdis then read a paper on "Citizenship," composed by the late Jeffrey Widdis. The society will send Mrs. Cornwall as their representative to the annual convention in Toronto on November 25, 26 and 27. The program committee for the next three months will be Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. McPhee, and Miss M. Faulkner.

The hostesses were Mrs. J. J. Nichols, Mrs. R. Wilson, and Mrs. Widdis and a social time was enjoyed.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. J. Nichols on Wednesday evening, December 12.

A.Y.P.A. Meet

The regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. was held in the basement of the church on Monday evening at the usual hour.

The report of the Dominion Conference, held at Windsor, was given, after which George Dickson, who attended the conference, gave an interesting account of Ford City. The night being Guy Fawkes, the remainder of the evening was given to refreshing the minds of the members on the doings of Guy Fawkes.

'NOTHER WASP YARN.

London, Nov. 16.—Two brothers and a sister suffered serious injuries at Alrewas, Burton-on-Trent, because a wasp settled on the hand of one of the brothers who was driving an auto. Samuel Barber released the wheel to brush the insect off and the car careened off the road into the telegraph pole.

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD ENJOYABLE EVENING

Work of Coming Season is Planned by Knox United Church Society.

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 16. — The young people of Knox United church held a very enjoyable social on Monday evening. A large number were present and the evening promised a splendid beginning for the work of the coming winter among the young people. After an hour of games and social intercourse tea was served, Mrs. Wesley and Mrs. Renwick being in charge.

The work planned for the coming winter is of a fourfold volume, devotional, missionary, literary and a fourth department devoted to the discussion of matters concerning citizenship.

The following officers were elected:

To Hold Dance

The social and athletic club of the Canada Cement Company, which was organized recently, are giving a card party and dance on Thursday evening, November 22nd in the Town Hall. A good orchestra will provide music for dancing, both round and square dance, especially featuring the latter.

This is the first venture of the club in the line of entertainment and there is no doubt whatever they will receive popular support.

A.Y.P.A. Meet

At the A.Y.P.A. regular meeting held on Monday night after the business had been settled the committee arranged for court whist, four tables were played. Prizes were won by Mrs. Chappell and N. Hampton while Mrs. M. Smith and H. Payne won the consolation prizes. Refreshments were served by the committee and a delightful time was spent.

Euchre Held

Seven tables were played at the euchre given by St. Paul's ladies on Tuesday evening last. Mrs. Maurice Meade and W. Hamblin were prize winners and Mrs. M. Allen and Leo. Spencer won the consolation prizes. Louis Sabatina won the lucky chair prize.

A.Y.P.A. Euchre

At the A.Y.P.A. euchre on Thursday evening last, fourteen tables were played, the prizes were won by Miss Helen Coughlin and Leonard Wingett. The consolation prizes were won by Mrs. Pringle and Patrick Condon.

Mount Pleasant

(Examiner Correspondence)

MOUNT PLEASANT, Nov. 16. — Mrs. Ronert McCamus, Ida., was hostess on Saturday evening, at a miscellaneous shower held at her home, in honor of Miss Audrey Winslow, before her approaching marriag. A huge decorated container was brought in piled high with useful and beautiful gifts and presented to the bride-elect. The service of dainty refreshments brought a pleasant social evening to a close.

To Hold a Fowl Supper

There will be a fowl supper on Friday, November 16, at St. John's Parish Hall, Ida. Supper will be served from 5 o'clock after which a play entitled, "Dust of the Earth" will be staged by Stewart Hall young people.

Messrs. Robert Henderson, Eric McLean and Delbert Henderson were visitors in Omemee on Saturday.

Miss Evelyn Bland, of Toronto spent Thanksgiving at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fee and Mr and Mrs. Joseph Fee spent Saturday in Peterborough.

Miss Laurine Best, of Omemee spent Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Best.

Mr. and Mrs. John Handley and Miss M. Thorne spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fee.

Mr. Herman McLean, of Toronto spent Thanksgiving with his mother Mrs. G. McLean.

Mr. T. C. Morden and Miss Dorothy Morden spent Saturday in Peterborough.

Messrs. Harry Bryans and son Arthur, have returned from a deer-hunting expedition and were fortunate in bringing home a deer as their loot.

Mr. Gordon McLean, of Toronto spent Thanksgiving at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morden, of Omemee, spent Sunday the guests of the former's son, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Morden in town.

Mrs. Margaret Lough and son Alfred, are leaving the farm and taking up residence on Mark street in Peterborough.

Mr. Joshua Eggleston has rented his farm to Mr. Elmer Windrim. Mr. Windrim is busily enkaged in plowing it. Mr. Eggleston intends having a sale of his farm stock and implements and moving to Omemee.

Miss Ruth Tully, of Omemee, spent the weekend at her home here.

A large number attended the farm sale of Mrs. C. Lough on Thurs. day afternoon.

Mrs. E. Best and her mother, Mrs J. B. Hayes, of Omemee, spent Fri. day in Peterborough.

YOUR FAMILY'S CHARACTERISTICS TOLD BY THE EYES

WHICH PARENT DO THE CHILDREN TAKE AFTER?

Color and shape of the eyes indicate disposition, temperament and ancestry. Blue eyes come from Northern Ancestry. In the Celtic Races, eyes of hazel gray predominate. People of Southern Ancestry are invariably dark-eyed and of brunette complexion. What color are your eyes?

EYES ALSO DENOTE THE CONDITION OF YOUR HEALTH

Whatever be their color or natural sparkle, their beauty is marred if they are dulled by poor condition of liver or headaches, or biliousness arising from constipation.
The whites of the eyes should be clear and slightly bluish. If they show a yellow tinge you need a laxative.

NATURE'S LAXATIVES ARE FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

But sometimes a diet of fruit and vegetables is too slow in its action—you need prompt relief. Then take Beecham's Pills. They are vegetable in composition and contain in concentrated form the equivalent laxative value of fruits and vegetables—safe and certain.

REMOVE YELLOW TINGE WITH BEECHAM'S PILLS
Take a regular daily course of Beecham's Pills for a short period. A Vegetable Product B-6
Your eyes will soon reflect improved health.

VETERANS HOLD ANNUAL DINNER

Lakefield Ex-Soldiers Gather For Second Annual Re-union Banquet.

MANY TOASTS.

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 16.—Forty-eight veterans of Lakefield and surrounding district gathered together for the purpose of holding their second annual re-union dinner on Saturday night. "Fall In" sounded at 7.30 p.m. at the Memorial Hall from whence a parade was held to the Regent street restaurant, where H. J. Brown had a feast prepared, which was fit for a king, to which the boys, amid much good humored banter, did full justice.

When the cigars and cigarettes had gone around the Toastmaster, Comrade T. W. B. Marling, M.C., called the boys to attention and proposed the toast to His Majesty the King, which was loyally honored.

The toast to the British Empire was very ably proposed by Comrade A. B. Burrows, M.M., who briefly referred to vastness of our glorious empire and the privileges of membership and also the responsibilities entailed.

Comrade R. J. Webster replied and although remarking that "men like Sir Austen Chamberlain knew more about the subject" nevertheless "Bob" did well in his oration and echoed to the full the sentiments expressed by Comrade Burrows.

Proposed Toast to Legion.

The next toast, that to "The Canadian Legion," was proposed by Comrade T. J. Johnston, a man who is known and respected all over Peterborough County and especially by the men of the old 93rd Battalion, of which he was the commanding officer. Colonel Johnston stressed the value of the returned men uniting together to help the man who had fallen into bad luck or illness. As a unit a great deal could be accomplished where individual effort would be much less effective.

Comrade J. R. Hill, M.M., replied to this toast in his usual able and effective manner, saying that although he did not have the pleasure of serving under Colonel Johnston he knew him and respected him highly and felt that in his splendid address he had hit the nail on the head and there was never a truer saying that "unity is strength."

To Lakefield Branch.

The toast to Lakefield Branch No. 77 was proposed by Comrade F. J. Hart, of Peterborough. Comrade Hart is known to most of the boys as an untiring and efficient worker for the 21st Club of Peterborough. "Fred" expressed his pleasure at being a guest at the gathering of the returned men of Lakefield and wished the branch the best of luck in their work.

The response was given by Comrade M. P. Kennedy, M.C., the popular president of the local branch of the Legion. "Doc" said he was not going to make a speech but welcomed the guests and asked all to make themselves at home.

Comrade K. A. Mackenzie, the only member of "Our Silent Service" present, is also the energetic secretary of Post 77, proposed the toast to the guests and gracefully welcomed the guests of the evening and at the close of the speech reminded the boys that he was always ready to enroll new members and to receive dues from members already enrolled. "Ken" is always ready to do business.

On behalf of the guests, Reeve C S. Tanner replied expressing pleasure at being present at so important a function and assuring the boys that the Council was behind them as it had been in the past.

The last and most important toast of the evening was proposed by Comrade A. H. Clark, who, in proposing "Our Fallen Comrades", said he did not feel equal to proposing such an important toast but he was sure that to-day all the comrades were thinking of the boys and chums whom they had left peacefully sleeping their last long sleep amid the poppies of Flander's Fields.

This toast was honored by the comrades all rising and standing with heads reverently bowed for two minutes' silence. Who can tell what thoughts flashed through the minds of those boys as they thought of some chum whom they had left "over there."

Comrade T. M. Wesley replied to this toast in a speech which was the gem of the evening, the speaker's theme being the carrying of the torch, which had been passed to us by our glorious dead. The company then joined hands and sang that song which has echoed through barrack rooms all over the British Empire, "Auld Lang Syne," and then adjoined to the Memorial Hall for a social hour, at which Dr. J. C. Smith sang several appreciated solos with Mr. E. de C. Fletcher as accompanist.

The company then dismissed, each man feeling he had attended one of the best social events of his life.

The committee in charge were Comrades Lawrence Charlton, J. R. Hill, W. S. Remnant and J. Lemay, whose hard work and attention were a great factor in making the re-union the success it undoubtedly was.

THOUSANDS MADE HOMELESS

Mount Etna, shown in the distance, threatened recently to inundate Catania, in the foreground, with streams of lava from the volcano which was in the process of its worst eruption in twenty years durng the last few days. Destruction had already been wrought in Mascali and other towns. Thousands are homeless, the property damage is tremendous and a number of persons have been killed during the present upheaval.

"Catherwood" Name Of C.P.R. Station

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 16.—(Canadian Press).—"Catherwood" will be the name of one of the new stations on the recently constructed Rosetown-Perdue branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Saskatchewan, the station is named after Miss Ethel Catherwood of Saskatoon, who brought fame to Canada by her accomplishments at the Olympic Games held at Amsterdam this year.

W.M.S. MEETS.

"Drums in Africa" the Study Book, Is Discussed By Those Present.

(Examiner Correspondence)

BETHANY, Nov. 16—The Women's Missionary Society of the United Church held its November meeting at the home of Mrs. T. J. Jackson, with Miss Richardson presiding. Mrs. Will Rowan told in an interesting manner, the chapter in the study book, "Drums in Africa." At the conclusion of the meeting, tea was served by Mrs. Jackson.

Y.P.I. Meets.

On Wednesday evening Miss Hazel Jackson presided over the missionary program of the Young People's League. The opening period was taken by the president, Bertrand Monk, and the subject for study was on China. Others items on the program were: Duet, Misses Ada and Elsie Richardson; solo, Mrs. Bertrand Monk; recitation, Muriel Patterson; instrumental selection, Karl Monk, and a reading by Stanley Whiteside.

Trees Cut Down.

The residence of Mrs. Charles Reynolds presents a changed appearance since the large Manitoba maples which have adorned the front lawn for so many years, have been cut down. Coming into the village from the west, one would wonder what had taken place to see the bareness in the scenery, due to their removal.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sisson have returned home after a two weeks' visit with their daughter, Mrs. Roy Jarvis, at Brantford.

Mr. Louis Staples and Mr. Harry Hutchinson were visitors to Toronto on Tuesday.

Mr. Douglas Driver has arrived home after spending last week in Cobourg, serving on the jury.

Colonel E. E. Snider, of Port Hope was in the village on Wednesday morning inspecting the public school.

The school children sent a treat of fruit and candy to Beverly Dawe, who is confined to his home with a broken leg.

IRISH LUCK.

Liverpool, Nov. 16.—An inquest was being held to pronounce the official death of John Cunningham. Without warning the object of the session walked in and halted the proceedings. The Irishman proved that the body recovered from the docks was not John Cunningham of Ash-grove "because I am not dead at all."

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD MEETING

Interesting Program Followed Was of a Three-fold Nature.

INSPIRING PAPER.

DUNSFORD, Nov. 16.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The Young People's Society of Trinity United Church gave an unusually interesting program on Monday evening, when a large crowd gathered to enjoy the meeting which had a three-fold nature. The devotional period was conducted wholly with the thought of Thanksgiving in each number. Miss Ada Bond then recited, "In Flanders Fields" and the answer, "In Flanders Now," while Miss Madeline Bond gave a reading which brought the thought of Armistice Day to the minds of all. The third and largest feature was the report of the Bay of Quinte Conference Summer School, which was held at Oak Lake, near Stirling, July 16th-23rd. As several of the young people had been delegates to the Summer School, the report was divided into sections. Mr. Everett Fairman, vice-president of the society gave an introductory talk on the general organization of the school, and the physical features of grounds and surrounding country.

Inspiring Paper

Miss Irene Richardson gave a very inspiring paper on the "Morning Devotional Period" and also a resume of the Bible Study period in which the central thought was "The Adventures of Jesus" under the following sub-divisions," Adventures in the Realm of Religion"; "Adventures in the Realm of Friendship"; "Adventures in the Realm of Economics"; "Adventures in the Realm of Non-resistance"; "Adventures in the Realm of Sacrifice". Miss Flora Metcalfe spoke on the work of the Mission Study group conducted by Miss Bona Mills of Toronto. The C.G.I.T. work was reported by Miss Velma Oliver, while Mr. E. Fairman gave some general statements concerning the C.S.E.T. work. Mr. Walter Dodd related the story of the athletic features of the school, while Rev. A. C. Hle gave an address on "The Evening Camp-fire Meetings" stating that the fireside emotions, impressions, and ideals were not for a week only, but for Life. The musical features of the program were, vocal solo, "I would be true" by Miss Ada Bonds, and a chorus, "Spirit of God descend upon my heart" by the delegates. The singing of, "When I survey the wondrous Cross" and the repeating of the Mizpah benediction brought a very delightful and profitable evening to a close.

NORMAN MILLER TAKING COURSE

Young Peterborough Pilot is Taking Instructor's Course at Camp Borden.

The City of Peterborough Aero Club is represented at Camp Borden at present, and next year will have a qualified instructor as a result. Norman Miller, who is a graduate of the Canadian Air Services School of Instruction here a year or so ago and who gained valuable experience while flying Col. Charles H. Ackerman's D.H. Moth plane here during the past summer, is at Camp Borden now, taking the special instructors' course. The Canadian Government is providing this course as an encouragement to civil flying.

WOMEN COMPLAIN OF LOCAL MARKET

Claim Some Vendors Monopolize Whole Tables for Their Own Produce.

The markets are unsettled in more ways than one. Proof of the fact is noted in the following letter received by The Examiner. It bears the signatures of more than a score of women from the surrounding district, who sell in the Market Hall every Saturday. It reads:

"We are writing you to get some information as to the rules in force in connection with selling in the Market Hall at Peterborough.

"Is it right for anyone having two or three baskets of farm or other produce for sale to rent or hold a table of fifteen feet and invite whom she likes to stand by her piling part of the table unused with old boxes baskets, etc.? These boxes are left in the Market Hall week after week for this particular purpose, while the rest of the women who go to the market with produce have to place their empty baskets on the floor.

"This has been going on for two years, and we would like to know if it is possible for other women who have baskets to rent tables and have the same privilege as the one woman who has now the above advantage. We would like you to find out for us the ruling regarding the indoor market. We believe that everyone should be used alike, and we are willing to abide by any rules that are uniform."

First There, First Served.

An Examiner representative paid a special call to the office of Market Clerk Fisher and there gained more light on the unrest.

"The woman spoken of in the letter does not hold a table fifteen feet long," declared the official. "It is a table about ten feet long, and the only box or boxes which she keeps piled on it from week to week is a supply box. Sometimes her daughter comes to market also, and often she sells her products off the same table. But there is no reserve on the tables. It is a case of first there, first served, despite what anyone may say, and no one has any right to say that she has control over more space than she is using.

"As for some of the women having to place their baskets on the floor there is room for everyone save on two mornings of the year, the Saturday morning before Thanksgiving and Christmas. They are the only times when the Market Hall accommodation is overcrowded."

All the blood in your body has to go through your lungs 2000 times each day.

HUNTERS RETURN WITH FIVE DEER

Party Comes Out of Muskoka With Its Quota of Deer.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, November 16. — Messrs. V. C. Lambert, Lloyd Byam, Wilfrid Whyte, who with George and D. Foster, of Peterborough, have been in Freeman Township, Muskoka, for the deer hunting, returned home on Thursday morning with five fine deer as the result of the outing. This was the initial season in the woods for this particular sport for at least one member of the party, Lloyd Byam, and it was by his rifle shot that one of the deer was bagged.

The other party from the village, of which Messrs. J. W. Hutchison and R. Stone are members, is not expected home until next week, but word has been received that Mr. Hutchison shot a deer on Friday of last week.

If the dawn of history means when man first appeared on earth, and that is imagined to have been 12 hours ago, then our known history is only five minutes long.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Many Old Friends Gather at Home of John Rose, Warsaw.

(Examiner Correspondence).

WARSAW, Nov. 16.—A pleasant surprise party was held on Thursday evening at the home of John Rose, in honor of his birthday. Among the guests were Uriah Payne and E. Hawthorne, who with Mr. Rose, make up the Warsaw trio. Others in the party included Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rose of Peterborough, Mrs. Jacob H. Payne of Peterborough, Dr. and Mrs. Munro, Miss Young, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Charleton, Mr. and Mrs. John Rose and family, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Crowe and son Gerald, Mr. and Mrs. J. Crowe. Mr. Rose was both surprised and delighted, for no one can enjoy such an evening more than he. Music and games were enjoyed, after which a splendid supper was served. The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" brought the party to a close.

To-day, Mrs. Anna Dunn, of 165 Charlotte street, celebrates the ninety-fourth anniversary of her birth. Born in Brockville on November 16th, 1834, Mrs. Dunn came with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Simons, to Peterborough, in the year 1837. Ninety-one years of her long life have been passed here, in the place which she knew as a village first, then later saw grow to a thriving town and finally to a city. As a little girl, the Peterborough of to-day was a place of a few small houses, a general store and a post office and Mrs. Dunn has watched with interest the gradual transformation to its present status. She has taken and still continues to take a pleasure in watching the stream of life as it passes by her quiet door, for she sits at night, rosary in her hands, at her window near the corner of Charlotte and George streets, seeing men and women and children go by. Mrs Dunn has been an indefatigable worker through her long life and she has been a kindly and charitable neighbor. Many an orphan has benefited by the pretty dresses and coats she has made, always with an eye to dainty workmanship as well as utility, during the years she was identified with the sewing committee that meets weekly to make clothes for the children at St. Vincent's Orphanage. Still, with eyesight and hearing very little dimmed by age, she knits warm and pretty things and one of her chief trials at present is her inability to do as much as she would like for the bazaar to be held soon in aid of St. Joseph's Hospital. Mrs. Dunn does not often leave home, but she has a host of friends who enjoy a chat and visit with this cheerful, kindly old lady who is one of the oldest of the city's residents.

Mrs. F. C. Neal was hostess yesterday afternoon at a tea held at her home on Rubidge street, under the auspices of the September and March birthday units of Trinity Women's Association. The guests were received by Mrs. Neil and Mrs. R. J. Kidd, convenor. Tea was poured by Mrs. M. Blewett, assisted by Mrs. B. Watts, Mrs. T. Barrie, Mrs. A. Hoover and Miss Ruby Clegg. Mrs. A. Fife acted as treasurer. The table was very pretty with a handsome cloth of Florentine lace, central silver basket filled with orchid 'mums and little sweetmeat baskets. A sale of books was in charge of Mrs. J. A. Robinson and Mrs. A. Barton and a sale of cooking was supervised by Mrs. D. M. Bissell and Mrs. G. S. Mattice.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

DO THE children in your home want to make Christmas gifts for their friends and relatives? They are usually the first to think about Christmas, or rather to speak of it. . . . A woman told me the other day that her children insisted on making cards in July to be sent at Christmas.

* * *

Why not guide these urges of the youngsters into channels that will be productive of useful or amusing gifts for the people that they wish to remember As a child I always made several spectacle polishers for my father, grandmother and an aunt who wore glasses My method was to get fine tissue paper and cut it into sheets of a convenient size and to cover this booklet with a cover of stiff paper or of cloth decorated as my artistic sense suggested.

* * *

There are many toys that a boy with a few tools and a slight manual training may make. Even a boy who has had no training may be quite successful if he has a natural bent in the line of carpentry.

* *

What small child would not be delighted in the possession of a top? If the top has a figure outlined and placed in the top of the handle it will be all the more interesting. This figure, by the way, is of wire. Instead of the wire try putting a combination of colored papers on the upper surface. More intricate tops may be made. A holder for the top made of a spool, the point of which has a round-headed tack, makes a toy that may be spun with the aid of a string. The holder is made of a block of wood with a cylindrical hole to fit the handle of the top and in the side of the holder is another round hole through which the string is put to wind around the top. If a small hole is bored in the stem of the top the string will not slip if it is placed with the end in this hole before winding.

* *

That ought to be enough to start any boy with a pair of smart hands to work. Other toys that are easily made are those manufactured from cigar-boxes. There are tables, davenports, cradles with rockers, banjos, clocks, 'cedar' chests, settees and articles innumerable that may be made. If the pieces are not to be painted it is well to do the cutting before the paper is taken off, as the wood splits easily, even when worked with the coping saw. Dampen the paper and it will readily come off. If the articles are to be painted or varnished be sure that you allow the wood to dry thoroughly first.

* * *

A game is another simple thing to make. That of ring toss is made in its simplest form by using a piece of stick about two feet long. Near one end of this is attached a hook slightly more rounded than the small 'L' hooks used to hold the small brass curtain rods. Behind this is a piece of cord of the same length as the stick. To its end is tied a ring of wire, raffia or cardboard.

* * *

The object is to toss the ring in the air and catch it on the hook. A more elaborate pattern may be used by making the stick into the head of a dog with mouth open, which catches the ring when tossed. In this case it is necessary to use a wider board. A form of ring toss that several can play together is made by using a barrel head and putting about thirteen hooks in position over which may be tossed rings filched from mother's preserve jars.

* * *

There are so many things that young hands can do I find it hard to get away to any other subject. There is an array of garden trellis, stick, label and sign. The trellis may be either of two uprights or of a number of them. In any case the uprights should project slightly beyond the cross-bars. Use two nails at least at each joint. The stick should be suited to the plant it is to support and notches placed in the upper end to keep the string in place. . . . The label should be painted before it is attached to the upright.

* * *

It doesn't seem necessary to mention bird houses in this town especially after seeing the exhibit at the Produced in Canada Fair but just to remind you that they would be quite acceptable is my object.

* * *

All these suggestions seem to be for the boys to work out. No doubt there are lots of girls who are quite as handy with tools as their brothers and (whisper it) there are boys who can do the work assigned to girls quite as well as the girls themselves.

* * *

How about some holders for use around the kitchen stove, you girls? I know that in the home in which I am there is always a need for them and I can remember making them for my mother for her Christmas gift very well.

* * *

Then there are flowers of ribbon—perhaps you got the instructions that I had some time ago—that would be lovely as a gift.

* * *

Clothes pin aprons, tea towels, vanity sets, buffet sets, tea cloths, bridge cloths and lots of others are waiting for you.

* * *

Don't you know some little girl who is to get a doll that she doesn't know of herself? Wouldn't she love to have some clothes for it too? Knit a little sweater for it or make a coat.

* * *

Once I was walking down Hunter Street and I saw a Peter Rabbit lying on his back on the grass, his hands upraised in horror at his sad plight. He must have thought he was a beetle and couldn't get up. However he was made of daddy's old fawn socks, I know because I enquired of his owner's mother and she told me all his family history. He wore a shepherd check coat blanket stitched to his 'hide' and behind was a most fetching tail of wool. A gorgeous red bow tie adorned his neck and on his head was a knitted wool cap with spaces left for his ears to poke through. At the base of the ear was a pompon and on his hands were mitts like babies wear you know, with no thumbs? A muffler of the same protected his throat because he 'has tonseitis,' the small lady said.

* * *

This ought to give you lots of things to make and added to what you may already have thought of there will be no trouble letting people know that you have thought of them with good will.

* * *

The four-page help which I am offering this week provides dozens of other suggestions for home-made Christmas gifts. It is free for the asking.

INDUSTRIAL GIRL IS Y.W. PROBLEM

Miss Wingman Thinks Canada Has Neglected Duty—Camp Is Tried.

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 16. — (Canadian Press).—In the opinion of Miss Mary Wingham, industrial secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association, one of the greatest problems the association has had to face is in educating the industrial girl and getting students and business girls interested in her problems.

Bryn Mawr and other colleges have recently tried the experiment of having a summer camp, which students, business and industrial girls attend. Miss Wingman feels also that Canada has in some degree neglected her duty in this respect and that more could certainly be done.

Miss Hutchinson, head of the Y.W.C.A. immigration, spoke on, "The New Canadians," and of a new law which has recently been passed which admits the children of industrial workers to the country free of charge, where formerly only those of farm or domestic workers were allowed to enter in this manner. She feels that the problem of keeping pace with these people who are coming from places of organized labor, and know their laws far better than the average Canadian, is a real one. The interest of Canadian girls in the new workers must be stimulated.

BATHROOM ENSEMBLE

Children can have their toothbrushes, soap, wash rag, towel and bath salts all match. If each child has his own color, the evening bath-time becomes less of an ordeal for the children love the color of their things.

In the days of Cromwell fine quality tea cost as much as thirty dollars a pound. To-day, you only pay a few cents more for Red Rose Orange Pekoe than for ordinary tea, but you get the highest quality and greatest value. Put up in clean, bright aluminum packages.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

The large opalescent earrings shown above at the left are known as "rainbow pearls." The large carved jade earring at the right has a coral pearl in the center. Below this is a large rhinestone earring set in silver. The novel earring that fits over the edge of the ear is of rhinestones and emeralds set in silver. Below this is a shell-shaped gold earring and below a flat crystal earring to be worn with Chanel's crystal ring.

Variety is certainly a necessary ingredient of feminine charm and the woman who always wears her hair arranged in precisely the same way and always wears the same sort of earrings comes to be as tiresome as the girl who always sings the same song or the man who always tries to entertain his friends by telling the same funny story. One reason why earrings threatened to go out of fashion some ten years ago was because of the persistent use of the pearl stud earring. We got so used to them that it was a relief when someone left them off.

And yet earrings do for some reason or other add charm or beauty or prettiness or some other desirable trait to almost any face. Young girls now look forward to the time when they can wear them with much the same eagerness that they used to look forward to the time when they might wear their hair on their heads or wear trailing skirts.

The sketch shows a number of different types of earrings that we have thought especially attractive. While long drop earrings are still favored one also sees many of the new plaque-like earrings like the one of carved jade shown above at right. Earrings that fit over the edge of the ear are still so new that in many places they would cause some comment or at least attract attention. They give a shell-like quality to nicely formed ears.

Earrings now should be chosen with regard to one's other ornaments. With Chanel's crystal necklaces and rings one should wear Chanel's flat crystal earrings. With pearl necklace, pearl earrings usually look best, and with a full gold choker or necklace, earrings of dull gold are the best choice.

WALNUT MACAROONS

(Contributed by Mrs. J. H. Scott, Trent River)

½ cup butter
½ cup lard
1½ cups brown sugar
2 eggs
½ lb. shelled walnuts
1½ cup flour
4 cups rolled oats
3 teaspoonfuls baking powder.

LEMON CHEESE

(Contributed by Mrs. M. P., Peterborough.)

¼ lb. butter
1 lb. sugar
2 eggs
grated rind of 2 large lemons

The juice of three. Put all together in a double boiler and cook until thick and the sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Put in jars and allow to cool before sealing. This keeps well (if you let it) and is handy for tart shells which have previously been baked.

Electricity today is estimated to be 50 per cent below pre-war levels when figured on a cost-of-living basis.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion, at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion:

I read your page every night and I sure enjoy it. I am a girl of sixteen, and I go to Commercial. Last summer I went steadily with a boy for four months. All of a sudden he left me. I still do not know why. Well, we came together again, and he came to the house quite often. I love him with all my heart and he told me several times he loved me.

A former girl friend of his heard he went with me, so she managed to get him from me again. My heart was broken. Well, this summer I went to see his mother and she told me many surprising things about him. "My George," as she called him.

He made several dates with me and I did keep all of them. On Sunday he asked me to be at his house at three-thirty. I was there early, and his mother said he was not in. She asked me in and I told her I'd take a walk and then come back.

At 3:40 I went back and he just left very angry 'cause I was not there. He then went to that girl and after supper, being invited I again went to his house. He was not home yet. I heard steps on the stairs so I slid behind the door. I stepped out from my hiding place and came face to face with "R." She spoke and he pushed on. He, however did not speak. I then left and telephoned him. I asked him if he was playing fairly the game with me. He said, "Aw, listen," in a pleading voice and then slammed the receiver down.

I know he cares for me, Marion, and I sure love him. I am only young but he does not interfere with my school work. Would you be kind enough to tell me what to do to win him back? I have written quite a bit, and you may shorten it if necessary, but I would love to hear from you. By the stories in the paper, I want you to be my friend and chief advisor. Thanking you kindly,

I will close for now,

Orchid."

I think, Orchid, that you should forget it. At 16, to be frank with you, there are more important and even more pleasant things to do than hanging around the home of a boy who ignores you like that.

Get out and enjoy yourself, and either he'll come around or you will forget him. But don't, for pity's sake, give him the idea he's the only pebble on the Peterborough beach.

RADIO CLUB

It's the big movement in radio of the year. It is limited to 50 members—30 Rogers and 20 fine Day-Fans being offered while they last. It's the Rogers factory limit of production because they are 2,000 behind, and our order of 30 is all we can expect before Christmas.

ROGERS BATTERYLESS RADIO RECEIVING SETS TRADE MARK REGISTERED

Have you noticed the Club terms—only $2.00 down and $2.00 to $2.50 a week puts a Rogers or a Day-Fan in your home in time for Christmas. How could anyone expect to secure a really high-class radio outfit in any easier way? And they are going so fast that our best advice is to ACT AT ONCE.

The Rogers is a batteryless set. Simply connect to an electric light socket, run up an aerial, and it is ready for operation—[illegible] you its marvelous reception of your choice of the entertainment that is on the air. It has been tried and proved for four years. You can't make any mistake if you decide on a Rogers.

There seems to us to be little need to enlarge on the second option that is open to our Club members—the ever-popular

Day-Fan RADIO
A YEAR AHEAD

We can give immediate delivery of a Day-Fan outfit to the Club member that desires it. We have the number offered (20, less those already sold) right in the Store. Every set is complete with Batteries, Speaker, Tubes and Aerial. There is no question about the delicate receptiveness of a Day-Fan—it is well known in this district where we have placed so many sets in the past four years.

Our Store is open evenings and demonstrations are in progress all the time. A dozen can hear the programs being listened to as well as one, and we invite your investigation, without obligation of any kind.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY'S DING DONG CRICKET

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily stood looking at the little Red Hen as I told you in the story before this. The rabbit gentleman had told his children bunnies a bedtime story about the little red hen who, when she heard about it, found fault because she really was black. The reason she looked red was that she wore a red flannel dress to keep warm.

"And just for calling me red when I'm black, I'm going to scratch you and flip you with my wings," cawed the little hen.

So Uncle Wiggily stood looking at her, hardly knowing what to do. He was much surprised for he had always thought hens were kind and gentle, except when they had a brood of little chickens to watch and then they can be fierce enough, let me tell you.

So the rabbit, not knowing what to do, stood looking at the little Red-Black Hen running at him to scratch and flap him, but, all of a sudden, she stopped short, hid herself behind a stone and softly cackled:

"Don't be afraid now, Uncle Wiggily, but the Wolf is coming this way. I think he's after you."

"He might be after you," said the bunny uncle, looking off amid the trees and seeing the Bad Chap loping along through the woods.

"Oh, no, he doesn't even know I'm here," softly said the little Red Hen as I like to call her. "He must be after you. But, as I said, don't be afraid."

"Ha! It's easy enough for you to tell me not to be afraid," said Uncle Wiggily. "But what with you saying you are going to scratch and flap me and the Wolf coming to nibble me it's enough to frighten anybody. Dear me! What a lot of trouble!"

To his surprise the little Red Hen began to laugh softly.

"I don't see anything funny," said Mr. Longears.

"You are funny if you really thought I meant to scratch and flap you," said the little Red Hen. "I was only teasing you. It was all a joke and a joke is funny, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily, "but the Wolf is no joke."

"Indeed he isn't," agreed the little Red Hen. "But you don't need to fear him, either. I'll fix him so he'll run away and leave you alone. Shall I?"

"How can you?" asked the rabbit.

"Watch me!" said the little Black Hen, who wore a bright red flannel dress. And with that out she popped from behind the stone. By this time the Woozie Wolf was very close and, seeing the bright red color of the Black Hen's dress flashing in the sun, the Bad Chap stopped short and gave a loud howl, saying:

"Red! Red! That means danger! Stop! I daren't go on and yet I see Uncle Wiggily's ears over the top of that bush," which was true enough because the rabbit was hiding in the bushes. "Oh, I wonder what danger is there?" said the Wolf as again the Hen ran in front of him showing her red dress flashing in the sun. And she ran so fast the Wolf could not see that she was only a chicken in a red dress. He thought she was a police dog red danger traffic signal and of course the Wolf stopped for he did not want to be arrested.

"Now you hop home before that Wolf comes over here to see what made him stop," softly cackled the Red Hen to Uncle Wiggily and the rabbit gentleman hurried home the back way so the Bad Chap didn't get him. Ever after that in telling the story about her Mr. Longears always called his friend the little Black-Red Hen.

Now the day after this Uncle Wiggily was hopping along when, all of a sudden he heard a faint voice down in the grass saying:

"Oh, dear! What is to become of me? I'm so cold! I'm almost frozen and it is such a long time until next summer."

"Who are you?" asked the rabbit.

"I am a black, chirping Cricket," was the answer and out on the path crawled the insect, but very slowly for he was stiff with cold. "Can you find me a warm place to stay for the winter?" asked the Cricket.

Uncle Wiggily was just going to invite the insect to his warm bungalow when, just then along came Mrs. Moo, the cow lady.

"If you want a warm place for the winter," said Mrs. Moo, "come to my stable. I have a little bossy calf named Doodle. She wears a bell on her neck so I can hear where she is when she wanders away. But the clapper is lost out of the bell. Now, my dear cricket, if you would like to stay up in Doodle's bell and ding dong it in place of the clapper, you may do so. You will be warm up in the bell, even when Doodle is out of doors, for she is very warm and she will keep you cozy."

"Oh, I should love that," chirped the Cricket. So Uncle Wiggily took the black chap to Mrs. Moo's stable and soon the ding dong Cricket was ringing Doodle's bell as good as the clapper had done.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate

Kindly stars rule today, according to astrology which finds benefic aspects strong.

There is promise of prosperity for most lines of industry and those who till the soil should benefit.

The winter is to bring much good luck for gardeners and florists, it is forecast.

The vogue of raw vegetables will bring profit to many and other food fads will increase demand for fresh produce.

Again the seers prophesy a winter of strong contrasts in human experience. There will be increase of wealth in certain quarters and increase of poverty in others.

Education that tends toward practical application to even the smallest details of living will be stressed, if the stars are rightly read.

Public schools and colleges are to be subject to transition influences that promise much for the future, astrologers predict.

Even though it is the end of the week there should be good luck for all who seek employment.

The planetary government seems to promise a stimulating and energizing rule of the stars today when it is well to push business.

Women now should benefit, for it is foretold that many will be promoted to high places in government service and financial institutions.

Even though great possibilities appear to beckon women into public life there will be a distinct trend toward domesticity, the seers prognosticate.

Love will overcome ambition in the hearts of many college women and girls successful in business or professional vocations, the stars indicate.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a happy, prosperous year to which older persons may contribute much in certain cases.

Children born today probably will prove to be successful organizers. Boys subject to this sign usually win high places easily and girls are likely to be first-rate executives in homes as well as offices.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. FRANK McCOY

"The Fast Way to Health"

© 1928 McCOY HEALTH SERVICE - LOS ANGELES - CAL.

Dr. McCoy's Menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, Nov. 18th:

Sunday.

Breakfast: French omelet, "waffle, applesauce.

Lunch: Cream of tomato soup, baked eggplant, raw celery and ripe olives.

Dinner: Broiled Belgian hare, baked parsnips, cooked lettuce, salad of sliced cucumbers, (no dressing) prune whip.

Monday.

Breakfast: Wholewheat muffins, peanut butter, stewed figs.

Lunch: Glass of buttermilk, with ten or twelve dates.

Dinner: Vegetable soup, roast beef, cooked string beans, stewed tomatoes, salad of chopped raw cabbages and celery, Jello or Jellwell with cream.

Tuesday.

Breakfast: Coddled eggs, Melba toast, pear sauce.

Lunch: Steamed rice, cooked beet tops, head lettuce with olive oil.

Dinner: Broiled lamb chops, cooked spinach, cooked beets, salad of molded vegetables (green peas, string beans and celery), no dessert.

Wednesday.

Breakfast: Oatmeal with butter or cream, no sugar, stewed raisins.

Lunch: Glass of grapejuice.

Dinner: Roast pork, cooked okra, baked egg plant. McCoy salad, baked apple.

Thursday.

Breakfast: Baked eggs, Melba toast, stewed apricots.

Lunch: Celery soup, cucumber and olive sandwiches.

Dinner: Veal loaf (chopped cooked veal molded in gelatin with generous amount of chopped parsley), cooked squash, string beans, ice cream.

Friday.

Breakfast: Poached egg on toasted Shredded Wheat biscuit, stewed figs.

Lunch: Raw apples or oranges as desired.

Dinner: Baked Halibut, spinach, cooked cauliflower, salad of sliced tomatoes (no dressing), no dessert.

Saturday.

Breakfast: Genuine wholewheat bread slightly toasted, peanut butter, stewed prunes.

Lunch: Spaghetti (wholewheat product), boiled and buttered, salad of cold cooked asparagus (canned) on lettuce.

Dinner: Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, steamed carrots, cooked lettuce, salad of crisp raw spinach leaves, raw celery, pineapple sponge.

Waffles: ⅔ cup of flour (sifted with baking powder and salt), ⅓ cup of cream, 2 eggs, 1 level teaspoonful of baking powder, pinch of salt.

Separate the yolks from the whites of the eggs. Beat the yolks and add the cream, mixing thoroughly. Next add the flour into which has been mixed the baking powder and salt, and beat until smooth. Fold in the whites of the eggs which have been beaten into a moderately stiff froth, but not too dry, or they will be inclined to separate and rise to the top of the batter.

The quantity is sufficient for five or six waffles, which should be baked in aluminum waffle irons to which no grease has been added. Bake very thin, allowing waffle to become a light golden brown all the way through. This will dextrinize the starch in the white flour, as in Melba toast. Serve with butter, and a small amount of maple syrup if desired.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Blood Tests.

Question: R. H. H. asks: "Is it possible to detremine the parentage of a child by blood tests?"

Answer: There is a great difference of opinion on this subject. In some courts of law where such cases have been tried to determine the parentage of children the judge has admitted evidence tending to show that either the blood of the mother or father looks the same under the microscope as their child's, but the admission of such evidence is the exception at the present time, as the medical profession has never settled this point and many specialists in blood disorders have claimed that there is no way of accurately determining the parentage by blood tests.

Enlarged Joints.

Question: Mrs. G. E. K. writes: "The joints of my fingers are becoming enlarged and ache at times. Am I getting rheumatism? Are there any special foods I could eat to prevent it? My mother is troubled with the same thing and says it is hereditary."

Answer: You are developing a form of rheumatism known either as arthritis or arthritis deformans. In my opinion the cause is due primarily to the absorption of poisons from the colon. See that your bowels are kept open with two or three bowel movements a day even if you must take laxatives or enemas. There is no special food which causes rheumatism, but the cause is only from bad mixtures of food and sluggish colon.

LYRICS OF LIFE

AN OLD, OLD BOOK

It's just a book, an old, old book,
With many a yellow page,
That looks as I begin to look,
A little worn with age.
The cover now is not so black,
The paper not so white,
And limp the leather, bent the back,
The way I feel tonight.

And yet it has the strength of youth,
Its voice is loud and clear,
Because the everlasting truth
Knows neither day nor year.
And when I read its words of gold,
Its challenges to men,
Although my body may be old,
My heart is young again.

Of all the friends who came and went,
Of friends who went and came,
As I grew old and gray and bent,
But one remained the same.
When I need strength my arms to gird,
Or comfort in my care,
I turn from men and seek God's Word,
And always find it there.

Missing Kirkfield Girl, Home and Family

Search parties have found the body of the nineteen-year-old Gladys Brotherston, who, clad in navy blue serge gymnasium bloomers, a pullover sweater, a flannel coat and an old pair of oxfords, left her home at Kirkfield, last Friday evening. Miss Brotherston, who is shown above in illustration No. 2, carried a .32 calibre rifle and nine rounds of ammunition. Her brothers, Steven and Lorne, and her mother and father are shown in No. 1, and the Brotherston home is shown in No. 3.

CAMBRIAN TRIO GREETED WITH MUCH APPLAUSE

Concert Is Put On Under Auspices of St. Paul's Presbyterian Choir.

ALL REAL ARTISTS.

Glanville Davies, Baritone, Received Much Applause After His Numbers.

(By Jeanette)

A trio of talented musicians members of the Cambrian Concert Company, were the attraction at St. Paul's Church last evening, when a concert of delightful music was given by them under the auspices of St. Paul's Church Choir. A soprano, Jeanette Christine, a baritone, Granville Davies, and an organist, Owen LeP. Franklin, F.R.C.O., comprised the members of the trio, whose rendition of charming music was greeted with much applause by an appreciative audience.

Although each member of the trio was a real artist, the favorite, judging from the applause of the hearers, was Glanville Davies, baritone. Mr. Davies, is possessed of a rich baritone voice of creamy, smooth, texture. His singing is a delight to listen to, both by reason of the resonant quality of the tones and the fact that every word is perfectly enunciated. It is seldom that such an extraordinary facility in articulation is encountered in a deep voice. The words are given their proper value and are beautifully articulated, without any undue hissing in the sibilants or hardening of the consonants. Mr. Davies' ringing, powerful tones were applauded again and again.

He sang first the prologue from "I Pagliacci", in English, with an encore in a little love song, "I Know of Two Bright Eyes."

"The Wanderer's Song" and "Onaway, Awake, Beloved" were second contributions to the program by Mr. Davies, who gave as an encore the little favorite "I Passed by Your Window," playing his own piano accompaniment. To say that he nearly equalled Frank Oldfield's performance of this lovely bit of poetry is to say a great deal for the excellence of the rendition. Comparisons may be odious, but Mr. Oldfield has so stamped this song with his own sign manual that it seems to belong to him exclusively. Mr. Davies did it full justice.

Best in Il Bacio

Jeanette Christine's soprano voice of high, pure birdlike timbre aspect, was at its very best in the gay, vivid colorature music of Arditi's popular waltz song, "Il Bacio." The swift, bright Italian words soared sweetly and powerfully in the brilliant song, for which the singer played her own accompaniment. Other songs in the same group were the poignantly sweet "Long, Long Ago" and "Annie Laurie," with an encore in the delicate fantasy of "Songs My Mother Taught Me." There was an impression of haste in these songs, which did not spoil the waltz number, but had its effect on the more romantic numbers. The first selection by this singer was Bach's song, "My Heart Ever Faithful" with a great deal of operatic emphasis in the rendition of the sacred words. As an encore to this number, "Comin' Thru the Rye" was sung, another light, vivacious thing which suited admirably the temperament and flowery, high tones of the artist.

In duett, Jeanette Christine and Glanville Davies sang "The Voyagers" the two fine voices uniting with splendid effect in this and in the daintily sung, pizzicato-toned encore, the charming bit entitled "Trotting Here and There" from the light opera, "Veronique."

Mr. Franklin was the organ soloist of the evening and also provided many of the accompaniments for the vocal solos. He proved himself to be a musician of very high calibre, with a memory which sent him through several numbers unassisted by musical notes, and an evident very high degree of technical proficiency. He played first an Introduction and Fugue by Reubke, a robust composition with smashing chords. His second contribution to the organ music of the evening was a Mendelssohn Sonata, with some dreamily soft, vibrating passages alternating with heavier interludes.

Changed Numbers

Changing his programmed numbers which were two compositions by Bach, he played the Largo from a Mozart Concerto and the beautiful "Ave Maria" of Schubert, two sweet-toned, bell-like selections of melodic charm, that brought him repeated applause. As an encore, Mr. Franklin played the always popular Londonderry Air," with a pianissimo introduction ending in vibrant, forte recurrence of the pretty theme.

An organ rendition of Cesar Franck's Final in B flat major brought the program to a close, with a verse of the Welsh National Anthem, sung by Madam Christine and Mr. Davies, with organ accompaniment, preceding the singing of "God Save the King."

LEAGUE'S WORK

collective catalogue of the world's finest libraries.

Mrs. Kenner concluded by bringing the responsibility for world peace and the furthering of the program of the League of Nations as a whole, very close to her hearers, by declaring that every member of every community could assist vitally, not only in trying to understand the workings and aims of the League, but by a personal contribution.

"The roots of war lie deep in the hearts of every one of us where bitterness and ugly thoughts are nourished. On us depends the future successful working out of this great program, by striving to banish these things from our individual lives and from the lives of our children, looking forward to the time when "Hate's last word of discord in God's great world shall cease, in the conquest which is service, in the victory which is peace."

A sincere expression of thanks to the speaker was extended by the president, Mrs. Edwards, after having been moved by Mrs. J. F. Allan and seconded by Miss A. Lancaster and Mrs. N. D. Seaton.

The meeting concluded by making nominations for officers of the Local Council of Women for the ensuing year. Speaking of the record in office established by Mrs. Edwards, the president, Miss Lancaster, said that Mrs. Edwards had not only fulfilled "those obvious and inevitable duties which are the lot of the president, but she has gone out of her way to do other things as well." This opinion was seconded by Mrs. J. D. Deyell and several other ladies, in an expression of grateful appreciation of the president's services, which was evidently quite unanimous.

FOWL SUPPER GREAT SUCCESS

550 Guests Were Served at Mark Street Annual Supper.

FINE PROGRAM.

A fowl supper and program following Thanksgiving Sunday has for years been a feature of the activities of Mark Street congregation. Last Monday evening for the last time in the old church this function was observed. Supper was served in the basement from 5 to 9 o'clock to 550 guests, and for three and a half hours, while supper was being served, a program was being conducted upstairs. Mr. Gladden's orchestra furnished a splendid program of music, Rev. R. A. Whattam and Dr. J. E. Moore spoke words of greeting, Mrs. J. Speer, J. John, John Krough, and little Ruth McNeely gave recitations, Miss Alma Blanchard rendered a number of vocal solos, Delbert Coward and Gwennith Boorman were on for instrumental numbers, and Rev. A. E. Thornley acted as chairman.

The last departing guest left a tired but happy company of Mark Street ladies rejoicing over what in rather cramped quarters had been an unqualified success. Both guests and entertainers look forward with high anticipation to a repetition of the event next year in the new Mark Street Church, which is rapidly nearing completion.

FOURTEEN PUPILS PREPARING FOR TEST

Royal Life Saving Society Has Many Aims and Objects.

The special life saving class practice for the coming examinations was well attended Wednesday night. Fourteen pupils are preparing for the elementary, proficiency, bronze Medallion examinations, also three pupils are taking the award of Merit or silver medallion test. This latter is one of the most difficult, requiring the candidate to swim six hundred yards fully dressed, carrying a person by the second method of rescue 20 yards, undressing on the surface of the water, diving for heavy object from the surface of the water, fancy trick swimming, also diving from two heights.

The Royal Life Saving Society has for its aims and objects:—

To promote technical education in life saving and resuscitation of the apparently drowned.

To stimulate public opinion in favour of the general adoption of swimming and life saving as a branch of instruction in schools, colleges, etc.

To encourage floating, diving, plunging, and such other swimming arts as would be of assistance to a person endeavouring to save life.

To arrange and promote public lectures, demonstrations and competitions, and to form classes of instruction, so as to bring about a widespread and thorough knowledge of the principles which underlie the art of Natation

CARS CRASH ON HIGHWAY

S. J. Black and Truck of McGlashan Transport Collide Near Millbrook.

Coming over the top of a grade near the Millbrook turn from the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway at about nine o'clock this morning, S. J. Black, of this city, was forced to crash his sedan car into a McGlashan Transport truck to avoid a head-on collision with a car driven by a man named Vanvlack, of Toronto. The Vanvlack car had been attempting to pass the truck while approaching the top of the hill from the opposite direction. The truck was also meeting Mr. Black's car. The Peterborough car was badly damaged while the Toronto car escaped serious damage.

Mr. Black, who is manager of the local branch of the Remington Typewriter Company, was en route to Belleville, and was driving alone. He later returned to the city, and, accompanied by High County Constable Pearson, departed for the scene of the accident.

MONTHLY MEETING IS HELD IN CHURCH

St. George's Women Are Told About Life Among Moslems.

The W.A. of St. George's Church held their monthly meeting in the church basement on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. E. G. Brown, president, was in charge of the opening devotional exercises, and the Scripture lesson was read by the rector, Rev. J. L. Hughes. The president mentioned that a letter of sympathy to St. Luke's W.A. in the loss of their beloved and esteemed president had been sent by the secretary, Mrs. J. Brownlie. Mrs. Hughes said that a letter of sympathy to the bereaved family had also been sent on behalf of the Deanery.

An interesting letter had been received from the Prayer Partner, Rev. D. B. Marsh, at Eskimo Point, and this was read by Mrs. Hughes, the Prayer Partner secretary. Two interesting stories of life among the Moslems were read by Mrs. P. Malsch, followed by a short talk by the Rector. Members of the branch arranged to visit sick members of the congregation who were in hospital, and also newcomers in the vicinity.

The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer.

SOCIETY MEETS.

Interesting Papers Read at Junior Humane Society Meeting.

The Junior Humane Society of Peterborough met on Thursday, November 8, in St. John's Parish Hall. Mrs. James Chandler presided. The meeting opened with the song, "Ring the Bells of Mercy." The saying of the pledge and the roll-call were combined. There were sixteen present. The secretary, Lily Bull, then read the minutes. It was moved by the secretary and seconded by Miss Connie Legon that they be accepted. Miss Legon read a very interesting story about the faithfulness of an Irish terrier. The name of this article was "Pat's Fidelity."

It was reported that one girl had taken in a stray cat and was caring for it and that another had done the same for a stray dog. Donald Howson then read a story entitled "The Wolf Dog," the story of an Alsatian sheep dog.

Mrs. E. S. Martin spoke about a book she had been reading, in which a deer tells the story. The members then sang the "Marching Song." A story of "The Flower and the Bee," which spoke of the value of the bee and other insects in carrying pollen from flower to flower, was read by Mrs. Chandler.

The program for next week was then arranged. The attendance at these meetings is not up to normal, although the meetings under the reorganized system are very interesting.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Deplorable Act Is Reported By Society

A deplorable piece of cruelty is reported to have been enacted boys, one holding a forlorn look-on Hunter Street bridge. Three ing kitten, were standing on the bridge peering over the parapet of the bridge into the water far below. When they turned from the parapet, the kitten was no longer clutched in the boys' grasp. The kitten must have been hurled from the bridge into the cold swift-flowing water below because it was visible no where on the bridge and there had not been sufficient time for it to run away.

This case was reported by one of the members of the Junior Humane Society at their meeting yesterday and all expressed the regret that boys of such cruel natures lived in the city.

BAND GOES TO TORONTO

Salvation Army Musicians Aid Sister Corps in Queen's City On Holiday.

VISIT HOSPITAL.

Thanksgiving week-end was spent in Toronto by the local Salvation Army Temple Band assisting the Lippincott Corps in its effort to rebuild their temple following a fire which recently destroyed their building. On Saturday evening they participated in a concert with the Dovercourt band, accredited as being the finest musical combination in Toronto, and the large audience seemed to thoroughly enjoy the program.

Col. Henry, Chief Secretary of the Eastern Territory of the Salvation Army and a Chaplain to the Australian forces during the war, presided, and during the evening placed a poppy wreath on the tablet of remembrance in the Dovercourt Temple.

The Sunday services were conducted by Ensign and Mrs. E. Green of the local Corps, and were attended by large congregations. The two minutes' silence was observed during the morning service, and fitting references made to the significance of Armistice Day.

A musical program was rendered by the local band during the afternoon in Alhambra Theatre, on Bloor street. Major McElhiney, a friend of many of the Peterborough citizens, presided, and an audience of almost one thousand people gave the band a hearty welcome to the Queen City in response to its introduction by the Major.

A great Salvation meeting in the evening again saw a huge congregation, and effective addresses by Ensign and Mrs. Green were given, together with suitable vocal and band items.

Visit Hospital

As far as the bandsmen themselves were concerned, the visit to Christie Street Hospital on Monday morning will live long in each man's memory. To see the gallant fellows for whom the war will never be over, lying on beds, wheeling themselves in invalid chairs, walking with sticks and crutches, some minus arms, others an eye missing; most pitiable of all, a crowd of mental cases, reason-lost—made every man feel that the least he could do to help liven the lives of those heroes was a duty that he would gladly perform. Selections were played on the ground and second floors by the band and the saxaphone party, but the boys on the roof got the best the band could give, for it seemed the very sight of those men who for long years have laid on their beds and whose vision is aided by a mirror on the bed head which the man turns and is able to see all round the ward, made us play our very best; for these heroes deserved it. The writer cannot do justice to a description of this sight—it was dinner time, and the turkey was being served and to one man, who for several years has laid on his stomach, his table was his pillow and he supported himself on his elbows and ate his dinner. Another one who lays perfiectly flat on his back, uses his mirror to see the plate and its contents, his table being on his chest and, laying flat, is unable to see his plate without his mirror.

Is it to be wondered that men who had been comrades in arms with these fellows had some difficulty in reading their music while in the presence of those gallant heroes, and the boys who were youngsters in those days of war were sobered and more fully realized the meaning of the dread fiend "War." The program closed with the National Anthem, and those maimed fellows, some able to stand by their bed, stood rigidly at attention, and those in bed stretched their full length and arms straight down their sides—infirmities, long years of confinement forgotten—it was Canada's heroes' tribute to their King.

One cannot leave these boys without paying tribute to their chaplain, Captain the Rev. Sydney Lambert, himself the loser of a leg during the war, for his untiring devotion to his boys; and to the doctors, orderlies and nurses who are still on active service.

Place Wreath

A wreath of poppies was placed on the grave of the late Colonel Bramwell Taylor, who was recently laid to rest in the same plot his comrade Salvationists and bandsmen who were drowned on the Empress of Ireland, out of respect to his memory and to his interest in bandsmen all round the world. The Colonel was in charge of the Salvation Army Ambulance Corps of some forty ambulances during the war, and was given the Order of the British Empire at the cessation of hostilities.

A wreath was also placed on the Toronto Cenotaph during the afternoon, and the appreciation of the city voiced by Controller Robbins on behalf of Mayor McBride, a large crowd witnessing the ceremony at which suitable music was rendered by the band.

Final Concert

The final concert was given in the Temple, Toronto, in conjunction with the Temple Band, and Colonel L. Taylor, Field Secretary for Canada East, presided. A capacity house according the visitors and local band a wonderful reception. Bandmaster F. W. Robinson and Ensign E. Green were recipients of many favorable comments on the band's playing and its high standard of proficiency.

Hundreds Join in Search for Missing Kirkfield Girl

The body of Miss Gladys Brotherston, 19-year-old Kirkfield girl, who had been missing from her home since Friday evening last, was found today. Her brother, George, whose photograph appears in (3) above, found footprints, believed to be his sister's, in the vicinity of a gravel pit. A bloodhound from Cannington, had also picked up the trail. The photograph shows in (1) the canal and the stone-crusher, near the girl's home. The canal was drained early in the search. (2) a view of the lift-lock where footprints were discovered. (4) one of several groups joined in a wide search for the missing girl.

District Churches

WOOLER UNITED

WOOLER, Nov. 16 (Examiner Correspondence) The annual thanksgiving anniversary services of the United Church were a great success. The Sunday morning and evening services were conducted by Rev. George Williams, formerly a missionary in Formosa, now in Toronto.

Mr. Williams spoke in the morning on the subject, "The church and her task." He reminded his audience in the beginning of the special significance of the day, which was not only Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day, but also the 58th anniversary of the Wooler congregation. Among the numerous things for which we should be thankful, perhaps none merited more appreciation than the existence and influence of such an institution of the Christian church.

The purpose of the church was to exhibit the excellencies of Christ and interpert Him to the world. It is the instrument God uses in safeguarding and developing the spiritual interests of mankind.

Great Mystery

One of the great mysteries of life is that God who stands in the midst of this majestic universe with its myriads of flaming suns, compared to which our little world is but one one atom, that He who is infinite in wisdom, love and power should not only work in co-operation with us but should actually depend upon us as His instrument in the building of His Kingdom and the completion of His plans for the human race.

The speaker drew attention to the fact that there had been two great lines of development in the world—the material and the spiritual.

God has placed here for us only the raw material. It is ours, to develop thesea nd adopt them to our use. But it would seem that God only reveals to man the higher truths in the material realm as He sees in man the moral and spiritual qualifications without which it would be unsafe for man to hold within his hand these greater powers.

It is the church that seeks to build up the spiritual side to keep pace with the material development.

In speaking of the weakness of the church, the speaker stated that God has never had a perfect instrument in the church. Each age has had its frailties and we have ours, but in spite of these it is nothing short of miraculous what God has been able to do through the church. As a proof of the success that has attended the church in her work, the following points were enumerated.

The gradual spread of Christianity and the development of indigenous churches in all lands. This living, throbbing organism of the church had under the guidance and inspiration of the spirit of God been able, not only to reproduce itself, but also to adapt itself to all sorts and conditions of men and meet the needs and aspirations of peoples of all races. Christianity has shown itself eminently well fitted to be a world religion.

The Emancipation of Womanhood

The speaker gave one or two striking illustrations, drawn from his own experiences as a missionary to reveal the widespread difference in the attitude toward women in Christian and on-Christian lands. To two-thirds of the women now alive in the world, the Gospel offers the only hope of raising their status from that of practical serfdom to liberty and equality with men.

Conservation of Child Life

The speaker spoke of the deplorable conditions for children that exist in the great newly-developed industrial areas in China and Japan where little children work from twelve to sixteen hours a day at the prevailing wage of five cents a day and children under eight for three cents per day. It was the influence of the Christian church that did away forever with such conditions in England and America, and the same influence is now at work in the Orient and we may expect better things in the near future.

Humanitarian Spirit

It was a large part of the ministry of the Master to heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, and give sight to the blind. The church to-day is acutally doing the very works of Jesus along this line, and doing it on a more extensive scale. One missionary in India alone has given sight to ten thousand blind persons. The church is building into the life of these new born nations of the East the humanitarian spirit that has hitherto been woefully lacking.

Triumph of Christian Ethics

The church has down through the ages been getting a celarer vision of the mind and will of God. We see to-day that religion is something that must touch and mingle with life in all its parts. It is not something merely to be used on Sundays, like a garment and then be laid aside during the week.

The speaker closed with a splendid challenge to all the members of the church.

Evening Service

In the evening, Rev. Mr. Williams spoke to a full house on the subject "Missions in the land of the head-hunter." It was a thrilling account of the triumphs of God's grace and His power to save in the Island of Formosa, where he had served as a missionary.

APSLEY ANGLICAN

APSLEY, Nov. 16.—A very representative congregation attended the Armistice and Thanksgiving service at St. George's Church on Sunday morning at 10.30 nearly every family in the village being represented. The service consisted of morning prayer with a celebration of the Holy Communion and sermon by the rector whose text was the 26th verse of Exodus, 12th chapter: "What mean ye by this service?" from which he evolved a very striking and deeply spiritual lesson applicable to the occasion. The two-minute silence was observed at eleven o'clock, and was very impressive, and at the close of the sermon the names of those from this district who fell in the war were read out. After the service James Downing and John Coones placed poppies on the War Memorial in the village. Similar services were held in the afternoon and evening at St. Paul's, Lasswade, and St. Stephen's, Chandos.

APSLEY UNITED.

Armistice and Thanksgiving services were held in the United churches at Haultain and Apsley in the afternoon and evening respectively. The Rev. W. H. Taylor took for his text at Apsley, Genesis 37-1: "And Jacob dwelt in the land wherein his father was a stranger in the land of Canaan," showing how we, like him, are living in a land wherein our fathers were strangers tracing the settlement by the U.E. Loyalists, and the first emigrants from across the ocean, who faced hardships and privations, fortified by the vision of future prosperity for their children, for which we to-day express our thankfulness in this service of Thanksgiving. Referring to Armistice Day Mr. Taylor pointed out that while to-day Germany is paying indemnity, were it not for the sacrifice made by our boys in the great war, we should be paying indemnity instead of Germany. He then led up to the supreme sacrifice at Calvary and the lesson to be learnt therefrom. The rest of the service was in keeping with the sentiment of the days, the hymns being of a patriotic character.

THOMASBURG UNITED.

(Examiner Correspondence)

THOMASBURG, Nov. 16.—A service combining Thanksgiving and Armistice Day was held in the United Church on Sunday morning at 10.30. The service was in charge of the pastor, Rev. J. W. Platt, B.A. The home choir led by Mr. James Bateman, leader, and Miss M. Harrison, organist, led the music. A large number attended.

LAKEFIELD UNITED.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 16.—The anniversary services of the Regent Street United Church were held on Sunday, November 11th, with Rev. William Macdonald of Knox United Church, Peterborough, as the special preacher. At the morning service, special attention was paid to the fact that the day was the tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice. Appropriate music was sung, including a solo by Mr. E. S. Kelsey and the two minutes' silence observed. The sermon, too, was especially significant of the day in its theme.

At the evening service, Rev. T. M. Wesley and Rev. J. B. McCormack assisted, having, in accord with the prevailing local custom, waived their evening services on the occasion of the anniversary. Mr. Macdonald took his text from the first verse of the 85th Psalm: "Lord, Thou hast been favorable unto Thy land." By proclamation of the Government, Monday was made a day of public and national thanksgiving to God for His blessings during the year. Because the day is so close to the Sabbath, it is the custom of most Protestant churches to use one of the services for thanksgiving purposes instead of holding a public service on Monday. The speaker did not know whether this was a justifiable custom or not. In the old days, great days were marked with both a feast day and a fast day, but to-day we are inclined to turn holy days into holidays.

Our thanks rises spontaneously from the heart for individual blessings of home and prosperity, and while it is easy to sing hymns and enter into prayers, it is not such an easy thing to enter into the spirit of national thanksgiving. God has given us much material prosperity during the past year, but in gathering together for national thanksgiving, we are compelled to think of other blessings than those merely material.

The exodus marked the birth of the Hebrew nation, and in exile there was a re-birth of national consciousness.

We are apt to speak of "this Canada of ours" in a boastful, arrogant way till one grows tired of it. It is God's country, and is given to us in trust through the paternalism of Providence, and in this land where life is so secure and so stable, we are apt too rarely to think that all depends on God.

God laid down the foundation of good government when He gave the law to the people, and our present security is of His ordering and fulfilling His divine purpose.

One of the great war-time lessons was the value of state control. We saw this in conscription, food control, direction of industries and in the closing of that curse of the country, the bar-room. Now that the peril is past and the war is over, we assert our rights and follow our own devices and the government does not interfere except to protect life and property. We often forget that back of the State control, which allows us liberty to follow our own devices, lies the all powerful Providence. Let us modestly, soberly and seriously remember that we have a great responsibility as citizens of this great country for making use of every good gift of God. Our Thanksgiving follows not only the Old Country custom of the Harvest Home, but even more so that of the Pilgrim Fathers, who, after a year spent in the new land, set apart a day of thanksgiving to God for His mercies to them in their endeavor to plant an Anglo-Saxon civilization in a new country.

As we have freely received, freely give, making wise use of the resources of what God has given us. The lack of thrift and economy is a great menace and too many of our young people want only a life of luxurious ease.

Looking on our wonderful country we should be a law-abiding and law-respecting people. A wave of crime, which is semi-madness, the disregard of State rules and public highways, reflects the selfishness which is part of the aftermath of war. If our thanksgiving comes from the heart and not the lips, we will obey the laws of God and stand loyally and faithfully with the church in which we were led to Christ.

Our patriotic pride is sometimes expressed by flaunting of banners and bombastice spirit. This is all very well, but how much better if we realize in deep humility what we have in Canada and strive to be the best possible Canadians, so that our land may stand for the glory of God from generation to generation. Mr. Macdonald closed by reciting a couple of verses of Kipling's "Recessional," written at the close of one of the best periods of British history.

Following the sermon, Mrs. McMillen and Miss Frances Fairbairn sang a pretty setting of "Abide With Me."

On Monday evening a fowl supper was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid, and was very successful and a very large crowd did ample justice to the delicious viands provided. The supper was held in the basement of the church and following was a splendid entertainment in the church with Miss Lenore Hurd Best of Toronto as the principal entertainer. While the supper was being served, the Church orchestra played several selections which were heartily appreciated by those who were waiting in the auditorium. This year's supper and entertainment added another success to the already long list scored by the Ladies' Aid.

Scout News

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Nov. 16.—The fall and winter program is now in full swing. The first meeting was in the nature of a party at Scoutmaster Cheeseman's home where the games brought one laugh after another. Percy Gray and Will Simmons were the champions. The leaf collecting contest brought out some very nice exhibits, Manley Emmorey having the best with Charlie Shannon and Maurice Barlow coming second and third respectively. The second and third weeks in each month are to be devoted to regular scout work and games, while in the fourth week there will be a summing up to see which patrol has forged ahead the most. So far the Loon Patrol is ahead with four tests passed, but they are not so far in advance that they can afford to slow up. A special hike was held last Saturday over the huckleberry rocks and as most of the troop had not previously visited the camp ground that way, it was great fun searching for signs to find the way. At last the camp was reached, and after making a few repairs the fire lighting test was tried, first using the bow and spindle, such as was used by the Indians. The wood in that part of the country did not seem to be quite suitable so another attempt will be made in a different locality until the right wood is found. Three scouts passed their second class fire-lighting test, two of them being in the Loon Patrol.

The troop plans a trip over the rocks in a short while to fit up the camp for a winter snow house and provided there is enough snow this winter, will have lots of fun fixing it up. Some time during November an official game selector will be picked. This scout will have the job of keeping the troop supplied with an assortment of good lively games. It will most likely go to the scout making the best showing for the month, and he will keep the position until he is beaten by someone else.

There are now more than 521,000 Boy Scouts in the British Empire.

ANNUAL BAZAAR IS FORMALLY OPENED

E. A. Peck and James Abraham Are Present at Opening Ceremony.

IN LEGION HALL.

E. A. Peck, M.P., and James Abraham, president of the Canadian Legion, formally opened the bazaar in the Legion Hall yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. This is the annual bazaar held under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion, and will continue until this evening. Arrangements are in charge of the president, Mrs. J. Mills, assisted by an energetic corps of lady helpers who have worked for months gathering the large supplies of dainty and useful articles which are offered for sale in the big hall, decorated with overhead pennants and flags and with brightly colored paper streamers on the white-covered tables.

In their opening remarks, both speakers dwelt on the fine record established by the ladies of the Auxiliary, which has its aim in the comforting and assisting of returned men and their dependents.

The bedroom table, where sheets and embroidered pillow cases are sold, is in charge of Mrs. S. J. Waterman and Mrs. A. Monk has the sale of towels, slips, gowns and pyjamas.

In the dining room section, a sale of fancy work, very dainty and attractive, is in charge of Mrs. W. Hughes and Mrs. J. Mackness, while articles on the kitchen table are sold by Mrs. E. Delong, Mrs. G. Foster and Mrs. A. McIntosh.

Fish Pond Booth.

Mrs. E. Ivison has the fish pond for kiddies and Mrs. R. Bugg tells fortunes in a corner alcove.

A sale of dainty home-made candy is supervised by Mrs. C. H. Porter and Mrs. W. Johnston, while a pair of pillow cases of special interest are looked after by Mrs. J. Gynane, who sells tickets for them.

Mrs. B. F. McNeely has a sale of pretty handkerchiefs and novelties and Mrs. B. P. Walton sells tickets for a quilt. Aprons are sold by Mrs. E. Dormer and Mrs. G. Chambers. Ladies in charge of the rummage sale are Mrs. E. Houghton and Mrs. Ferguson.

Tea is dispensed from little tables centred by flowers, and supper is served also. Mrs. A. Tamblyn and Mrs. N. H. Sutton poured tea on the two days, assisted by Mrs. A. E. Paterson, Mrs. M. Peace, Mrs. M. Budd, Mrs. F. Millard, Mrs. W. F. Peryer and Mrs. W. Dummitt. Mrs. A. Clark is convenor of the tea room and Mrs. W. Devall, with Mrs. A. Gash, have charge of supper arrangements.

In the evening, the "Lucky Five" Orchestra, led by Lealie Abraham, provide enjoyable music for patrons of the bazaar.

STARTS THEM YOUNG

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Just a few short years ago, before infants smoked cigars and flappers inhaled cigarets, mothers used to caution their youthful urchins to beware of sniping cigar butts from the streets. But now—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fillimon have raised five sons, two to fifteen years old, on cigars.

MOTORIED FARMERS

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 16.—Farmers of this state have more automobiles than farms, according to figures of the National Auto Chamber of Commerce. There are 214,000 farms in Iowa and 217,350 automobiles registered for rural districts.

LEAFS BEAT HAWKS IN OPENING GAME

TORONTO TEAM WINS 2-0 COUNT

Leafs Give Indications of Good Form in Turning Back Hawks.

SUBSTITUTES GOOD.

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—With the rookie forward line providing the scoring punch in the way of two goals towards the end of the second period and the defence proving equal to all emergencies the Maple Leafs made a most auspicious debute in the opening game of the National League season, turning back the re-vamped Chicago Black Hawks by 2 to 0. The win, in adrition to starting the local club off on the right foot in the campaign, was the first victory the local N.H.L. entry has scored in an opening game at home for at least five years. The locals deserved the victory on the sixty minutes' play and with the regular forwards functioning in the way they should the margin of victory would have been larger but a win and a shut-out is sufficient.

The hockey displayed by both teams was by no means what is expected in mid-season but it was satisfactory for the opening game. The warm weather outside and the presence of a large crowd of enthusiastic supporters made the going almost laborious at times and the players were weakened by the conduitions. As the game progressed a fog rose off the ice and the players at the far ends of the rink were partially hidden from sight. That Chamot and Gardner were not beaten by shots from well out in the closing minutes speaks well for the vision of the two custodians. The heat in the building also affected the ice which became somewhat soft and sticky as the game progressed, slowing up the speed merchants on both teams.

Perhaps the biggest and most pleasing feature of the game, outside of the victory, was the showing of the second forward line that was thrown over the boards to relieve Carson, Bailey and Cox and which in time proved so successful that they did the greater part of the front line work. Blair, Horne and Lowrey were used for several shifts, and then Primeau was sent into the fray in place of Lowrey and it was shortly after the ex-Falcon player made his first appearance in big time hockey that the deadlock, that had existed for over half an hour, was broken.

Wins for Boston

PITTSURGH, Nov. 16—Before the first sell-out crowd in National Hockey League history locally, the Pittsburg Pirates and the Boston Bruins inaugurated the 1928 season here last night, Boston winning in an overtime period one to nothing.

"Dr." Clapper scored the deciding point in the ten minute overtime play on a rebound off the pads of Miller, Pirate goaltender, who had just saved a shot from the same player.

Shore, Hub defence man, was in the penalty box eleven minutes, five being on a major foul. Frederickson was fined $50 by Umpire O'Leary for profanity.

FALLS SCORE IN LAST MINUTE

McLeod Breaks Deadlock and Cataracts Defeat the Panthers 2-1.

PLAY STIFF GAME.

NIAGARA FALLS, Nov. 16.—The professional hockey opener here last night, when London Panthers invaded the camp of "Newsy" Lalonde's Falls entry, was featured by thrills aplenty. The big "kick" of the evening came in the last minute of the final stanza, when with the score dead locked 1 all "Shorty" Quesnell beat "Shutout" Joe Ironstone for the winning goal, and the locals led at the final bell 2 to 1. It was a stiff battle from start to finish, featuring fast hockey, heavy checking and exciting moments. Play was free from rough tactics, though the legitimate checking was rather heavy in spots. Of the ten minor penalties imposed, London drew six.

Madden and Prestia.

For the Falls Madden, a sub defence player, was the shining light, and he made many worthy offensive attempts and exhibited sterling defensive tactics. Bill Prestia, a Falls boy who made the pro. jump this season, was a dangerous performer on the front line, and shared the vanguard star honors with Sam Godin and "Shorty" Quesnell.

Stan Jackson, Voss and E. Moore were best for London, while King helped his team much with some stiff body jolts. Joe Ironstone, though his continuous shut-out record came to grief, turned in a clever performance, and the goals scored on him were well earned.

HOCKEY PLAYERS ARE IN TRAINING

Campbellford To Have Strong Team in Loop This Winter.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 16.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—With the autumn season lengthening into Winter, the eyes of the local sport enthusiasts are turning toward the hockey team which will represent the town this winter. The team, or at least part of it, has already begun training in the arena. It was decided to ask permission to use the gymnasium of the High School, but either the request was not made or the permission was not forthcoming. At the present time the players are doing physical exercises three nights each week in the arena and the manager has expressed the opinion that four sessions each week would not be too much. The physical exercises have been carried out under the supervision of Earl Johnson, Regimental Sergeant-Major of the Northumberland regiment and a former instructor during the World War. Baskets for basketball have been erected on standards inside the arena and much of the training hours will be spent at this game. There seems to be only one objection to the present proceedings. The players complain that the floor is dry and there is a great deal of dust. It has been suggested that the playing surface be sprinkled with sufficient water to keep down the dust before each practice night.

VARSITY ORPHANS ARE LIGHT TEAM

Sensations of Senior Season Average Less Than 158 Pounds.

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—The University of Toronto Orphans who pulled the biggest surprise of the present rugby season by defeating Balmy Beach, four times champions of the O.R.F.U., last year's winners of the Canadian title and the overwhelming favorites for the Ontario crown this Fall, on the holiday held a signal drill after the conclusion of the High School finals in preparation for the titular clash with the Sarnia Imperials at the local stadium on Saturday afternoon. Coach Jimmy Douglas is easing up somewhat on his charges this week and while there may be a short scrimmage tonight, the Orphans will have little but signal drills until Saturday.

The local squad is one of the hightest aggregations that has ever played senior rugby the average weight of the twelve regulars being 155½ pounds but the players claim that the bigger they are the harder they fall and they fear no opponents.

HEENEY ANXIOUS TO MEET DEMPSEY

New Zealand's Iron Man in Toronto On Last Lap of Honeymoon Trip.

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—Tom Heeney, iron man of the prize ring, who recently contended against Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship of the world, was in Toronto yesterday morning with his bride. He is on the last lap of a honeymoon that took him right around the world. He arrived early yesterday and left for New York at noon.

Despite the terrific lacing he took from Tunney during his last expedition for the title he still has his eye on the top of the ladder and is convinced he can bowl over any opposition he meets in the elimination contests that will be held to decide the new champion.

Learned From Mistakes

"I think I will be the next champion," he said. "The bout I had with Tunney taught me a great deal. The experience I gained that time was very valuable. I made a lot of mistakes in that fight that I'll never make again."

Tom doesn't think there is a man in the heavyweight class to-day strong enough to knock him down. "Tunney did it, I admit," he said, "but none of those left are in Tunney's class. And even Tunney couldn't make me stay down."

Immediately upon arriving in New York, Tom will go into training for the elimination bouts. He hopes to get into the ring again by January or February. He is obviously eager to get back.

He Likes Dempsey.

Jack Dempsey, Tom Hopes, will return to the ring soon. "I wouldn't be surprised to see the announcement of his return any day now. I don't think he will ever be able to stay away as long as he's healthy. He loves fighting and he's homesick away from the game. Of course, he's not the fighter he was or Tunney would never have won the title, but in any condition Jack is the best drawing card in the world to-day. He can always be relied upon to do something spectacular, and the fans will flock to see him."

Tom's greatest ambition is to meet Dempsey in the ring, he divulged. "I think he is the greatest of them all and I will never consider myself a really experienced fighter until I have had a go with Jack."

ENGLAND-WALES MATCH FEATURE

Leeds and The Wednesday Provide Thrills in First Division.

ENGLISH SOCCER.

LONDON, Enf., Nov. 16.—League football will be overshadowed on Saturday by the International Soccer match in Wales between England and Wales. In the First Division of the English League, however, is a fixture which should provide the followers of the dribbling code with all the excitement they want. It is the meeting between The Wednesday and Leeds United at Leeds. Both teams are contenders for the topmost position in the averages and a fine battle will doubtless ensue. Leeds have the advantage of playing at home, but that will be offset by the fact that they are contributing two good players, Edwards and Hart, to England's team. The Wednesday will also be without Blenkinsopp for the same reason.

Derby County, the League leaders at present, must travel to Manchester, where they are billed to perform with the United team. The County will not have the services of Cooper, who is on the England eleven. Blackburn Rovers, runners up in the league race, play at Aston Villa with Campbell, their international half-back, missing. Draws for Derby County and Blackburn Rovers are expected.

Chelsea Showing Interest

In the second division Chelsea's game at Millwall is probably the best attraction. Chelsea, after leading the league at the opening of the season, lost their form. They appear to be coming back, and the game with Millwall should show whether they have completely recovered, because the Millwall club, though they only come up from the third division this season, are a hard nut to crack on their own grounds. The league leaders, Notts County, entertain Blackpool, and would not appear to have much of a task on their hands. Hull City, another contender for leadership, are at home to Bristol City, one of the Cellar-teams.

Easy One for Rangers

In the Scottish division Rangers should easily maintain themselves at the league top and keep their unbeaten record. They play at home against Hamilton Academicals. Hearts, the second team, have a harder job, as they must go to Paisley to meet St. Mirren. Aberdeen travel to Dundee, and if they win there, a probability, and hearts lose, they can get into the second berth. Motherwell, who slipped last Saturday, should get a couple of points from St. Johnstone.

VIEWS ON SPORT

To-morrow afternoon the P.C.I. rugby team will again go into a hard battle with a heavier team.

The opinion seems to be prevalent in Belleville that Coach Browne's youngsters are a heavy bunch of bruisers, if the following from one of their papers is the height of their information: "Albert College now meets Peterborough in home-and-home games, points to count, as Peterborough defeated Oshawa on Saturday at Port Hope. This Peterborough team is reputed to be a fine defensive team, as they have had only one touchdown scored against them this year. They will need to be good, however, when this Albert team gets after them, for they have no fear of the big fellows, and are in there every minute to play the game."

* * * * * *

The Belleville scribe is right when he says that the P.C.I. team is a great defensive squad, but that is about as far as he is correct. The game in Cobourg will be a sudden-death battle, and the Albert College team had better be on their mettle.

* * * * * *

P.C.I. had their final uniform practice yesterday afternoon, and the players had only a light signal drill to-day. All the plans for the game are made, and all the team now need to show their form is a fast gridiron.

* * * * * *

The manger of the Port Hope Intermediates, P. L. Brown, has been nominated for the executive of the O.H.A. This indicates that the Lakeshore district feel the need of a representative on that body to voice some of their requirements. Mr. Brown also ran last year, and we hope that he will have better success this time.

* * * * * *

There will be a big pow-wow in Deloro to-morrow when representatives of the Central League will get together in their annual conclave. Peterborough will be well represented by Max Swanston and Vic. Hamilton.

* * * * * *

The hockey fans will get a real opportunity to size up the Toronto Leafs on the showing against Canadiens at the Arena to-morrow night. There has been bushels of pre-season dope, but soon the real strengths of the teams can be pretty accurately gauged.

* * * * * *

The P.C.I. team may stack up against Bloor Collegiate, winners of the Toronto High School League, if they win their game to-morrow.

* * * * * *

The Sarnia-Varsity "Orphans" game at the Varsity Stadium is the only senior rugby tilt slated for Saturday. Sarnia showed real ability when they defeated Kitchener the other day, and the Varsity team pulled the surprise of the year when they defeated Balmy Beach, last year's champions. The game promises to be wide open with two light teams and two brilliant half-lines facing each other.

* * * * * *

Dick Butler, who used to call 'em here a few years ago, will sit in the president's chair at the O.H.A. meeting in Toronto to-morrow. Dick will be remembered here by the way he used to chew Max Swanston's tobacco. He has been a hard working member of the O.H.A. executive for the past thirteen years, and he has done much for sport in Lindsay.

"FINNEGAN" HILLS IS THROUGH WITH GAME

Veteran Seventeen Years As Member of Port Hope Club.

PORT HOPE, November 16.—"Finnegan" Hills is retiring from active participation in hockey. It matters not to him whether hockey weather comes early or late this winter, he says, he is through with the strenuous game.

"Seventeen years is long enough for anyone to stay in the game," said the veteran yesterday. "I have seen many changes. I have had many ups and downs, quite a few tumbles, and a lot of hard playing in days and in games where the going was heavy, and I am leaving all that for the younger fellows to take up now. I feel that there are many in town who are ready to step into the harness and carry on, better, much better, than I can, and I have made up my mind."

He said it all seriously, too, but now and again there came a bit of wistfulness into his voice and what looked like regret in his eyes as he spoke, and perhaps visualized the great games of the past and the stirring part he had played in the old battles.

But he said emphatically he was through, and that had to settle it.

One consoling thing about it was that he emphasized the fact that he is through playing. That is taken to mean that "Finnegan" will still be on the job if a bit of advice, based on long experience, is needed, or when a young and less experienced player needs a bit of coaching to bring him along.

The withdrawal of the popular "Finnegan" Hills means a break with the past, and his departure from the ranks of the team will be regretted on all sides. He was always ready to jump into the breach, he gave of his best for the team and the honor of the town, his example has always been an inspiration to other players, and his influence was always directed to good, clean play, and to getting the best results. Unselfish in his style, with a thorough knowledge of the game's fine points, and a fairness which won him the regard of opponents, he has done much to bring the game up to a high standard. His withdrawal will bring regrets from team mates in Port Hope, and from the ranks of those throughout the district who have opposed him on the ice in the days gone by. He leaves a record and an example which younger players may well copy.

It is not divulging any secret to say that the Port Hope management and his team mates are planning to place on record their appreciation of the sterling player, and it is probable that at the annual dinner of the club which will be held on Saturday evening next, he will be given evidence of the high place he holds in their estimation.

CANUCKS WIN FROM MAROONS

Canadiens Score Two Goals in Third To Break One All Deadlock.

FINAL SCORE 3-1.

MONTREAL, Que., November 16. Caandiens opened their National Hockey League season here last night by scoring a 3 to 1 victory over their traditional intracity rivals, the Maroons. Two goals in the final period broke a one-all deadlock to give the colorful Canucks the victory.

A capacity crowd of 12 000 witnessed the season's opener. Players and fans alike were slow to warm to the play, but both got going in the second period, and the fray took on all the earmarks of a typical mid-season Maroon-Canadien battle.

Fast Scoring by Canucks.

The winning goals were scored within a few seconds of one another in the third period, Gagne getting the first on a pass from Leduc. Forty-five seconds later, with Dutton in the penalty box, Patterson placed a perfect pass in front of Joliat, who beat Benedict for his second goal of the night, the little left winger having given the Canucks a temporary lead in the first period, when he scored on a pass-out from Mantha.

Siebert scored the only Maroon counter soon after Joliat's first effort tying the score on a shot from the left side of the Canuck net which completely fooled Hainsworth.

Penalties were plentiful, but all were minors with the exception of a major earned by Dutton for charging a red-shirted opponent. Hooley Smith and Joliat were each fined $10.00 for staging a rumpus in the penalty box near the end of the game.

KEELING SCORES AS RANGERS WIN

Pro Hockey Champions Score 2-0 Shut-out Over Detroit Cougars.

COOK BROTHERS STAR.

DETROIT, Nov. 15.—The New York Rangers, world's champion professional hockey team, scored a victory in the season opener here last night over the Detroit Cougars, 2 to 0. A capacity crowd of 14,000 persons witnessed the game. The Cook brothers, Bill and Bun, and Frank Boucher, Ranger forwards, proved too much for the Detroit team, their stick handling, fast skating and passing breaking up every combination Manager Jack Adams was able to swing against them.

"Dollie" Dolson, new Cougar goalie, did sensational work in the net, saving more than a score of Ranger drives through the Cougar defence. "Butch" Keeling, Ranger forward, scored a goal in the initial period when he took a speedy pass from Thompson to beat Dolson. In the last minute of the third period Herbie Lewis, Detroit forward, threw his stick at Bouchard as the latter was making a shot, and Referee Dave Ritchie awarded Boucher a goal for the act.

SENATORS PLAY TO SCORELESS TIE

New York Americans Hold Ottawa To Draw in Close Struggle.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16. — Before an opening assemblage of 5,000, including Sir William Clark, Britain's High Commissioner to Canada, who was witnessing his first game of ice hockey, the Ottawa Senators and the remodelled New York Americans battled to a scoreless deadlock in seventy minutes of nerve-wracking National League hockey at the Auditorium last night.

The goalless conflict was a correct indication of the run of the play as the New York veterans were as ever dangerous as the Ottawa mixture of youth and age. "Flat" Walsh, subbing in the Gotham goal, and Alex. Connell, Ottawa net custodian, both turned in masterful performances. In fact, it was the superority of both defences over the rival front lines that kept the score sheet a blank.

Terrific Pace

A terrific pace was maintained throughout three evenly fought periods, but in the extra session, play slowed down with the men of both teams tottering on their feet under the pressure of bruising body checks.

Next to Connell and Walsh, Lionel Conacher was the outstanding player on the ice, and the "Big Train" was a tower of strength on the defence as well as a dangerous puck-carrier. Shining for the home squad on the front line was the youthful Billy Touhey, playing his first game for the Senators at left wing.

SCIENTIFIC RADIATOR PROTECTION

Customer: "Why do you bother to display that MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE sign so prominently?"

Dealer: "Because MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE and ALCO-METER SERVICE give the only winter protection you can depend upon. When car-owners see that sign they know that this is one place where their best interests will be looked after."

IT is dangerous to experiment with the cooling system of your car. You may do your car grave harm through being careless about the kind of anti-freeze you buy or the kind of instrument used to test your radiator mixture.

Your car needs SCIENTIFIC RADIATOR PROTECTION and you have the right to expect that your dealer will furnish it. If he does not suggest MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE and ALCO-METER SERVICE ask for them yourself, by name, and make sure you get them!

MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE contains nothing to injure any part of the cooling system — is economical — and has years of success behind it.

Alco-Meter Service is FREE, scientific and dependable. The Alco-Meter is different from hydrometers and all other kinds of testing instruments. It is for use with MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE only.

The Alco-Meter

Winter Service is not complete without MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE and ALCO-METER Service. Only MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE dealers can give ALCO-METER service. If your regular dealer does not have it it's near there is another close by who does.

W.M.S. MEETING.

Ladies Decide To Hold Quilting Bee For Needy Family in Community.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FENELLA, Nov. 16.—The Women's Missionary Society of Fenella United Church held its monthly meeting on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. C. W. Macklin, the President, Mrs. Fred Talling, presiding.

After a discussion it was decided that the ladies meet in the village hall the following afternoon to make a number of quilts, these to be given to a family who have lost their home and most of the contents by fire.

Mrs. Willis Curtis had charge of the program.

A number of leaflets were read, giving a splendid synopsis of the chapter, "Rolling back the Drums," in the study book.

The devotional leaflet was read by the President.

The hymns and prayers were in keeping with the spirit of the Armistice Memorial.

At the close of the meeting the hostess, assisted by the girls, served lunch.

There were seventeen present.

Personals.

Mrs. C. W. Macklin and son, Harry, motored to Hamilton to visit friends, over the holiday.

Mrs. S. Ash and daughter, Thelma, of Toronto, are visiting friends in Fenella, and Roseneath.

Elmer Sherwin, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldrige Sherwin, is recovering from an attack of pneumonia.

Warsaw

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Nov. 16.—Miss Bentham is visiting her sister, Mrs. Henry Batten.

Mrs. Nelson, accompanied Mr. J. B. Nelson to Warsaw Women's Institute on Thursday.

Rev. H. B. Herrington has taken a great amount of pains to get people to go to the special services being held in the United Churches in Peterborough this week. He has always seen that his own car was full as well.

Mrs. J. A. Crowe spent a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Adamson, at Keene.

Miss McLaren is visiting Mrs. Ernest Batten.

Mrs. Richard Batten and Mrs. Verne Selkirk were in the village on Thursday afternoon.

IN POLICE COURT

In County Court yesterday afternoon, Magistrate O. A. Langley imposed a sentence of seven days' imprisonment upon J. W. Patoine, who came before him on a charge of being intoxicated while in charge of a motor car.

On a second charge of being intoxicated in a public place, Patoine was fined $20.00 and costs.

A sentence of two years on each of two charges, to run concurrently, was the serious punishment imposed upon Ralph Davis, charged with breaking and entering the premises of Lowe & Outram, wholesale confectioners, and the premises of S. Bogue, druggist, at 383 George Street.

Davis appeared on the first charge some time ago, and was found guilty, judgment being reserved. Then followed the charge of entering and stealing money and stamps from the drug store and the sub-post office attached thereto, and the Magistrate's attention was occupied with the case most of Thursday morning, again at four o'clock in the afternoon, and most of this morning. The accused had been released from the reformatory on parole in March of this year, and also had a conviction against him in 1920.

On Thursday, Provincial Constable Thompson and License Inspector Stewart raided the home of Russell Hill, in Centre Dummer Township, where they found a large still, a quantity of liquor, and a supply of mash.

This morning, Hill's wife assumed responsibility for the still, and was fined $200.00, or six Months' imprisonment. She chose the imprisonment.

Arthur Hill, of Peterborough, had his driving license suspended for one month, and was fined $35.00, and costs, for reckless driving on Charlotte Street last night.

Bowling Alley Gossip

By Pin Boy

MERCANTILE LEAGUE

The Buick Specials are showing the world that they're no slouches when it comes to chalking up the strikes, having taken six out of eight points from the Little Five in Wednesday's duel and losing the other game by only one pin. J. Mayneord turned in the nicest piece of consistent bowling of the night, making 277, 225 and 226 for a grand total of 728. George Gimblett Sr. and G. Copping both turned in nice performances, each having two games over 200. For the Little Five, Dave Ahern and H. Gray were the sharpshooters, making high three scores of 597 and 589 respectively.

Dodging traffic all day musn't be conductive to good pin toppling, at least so it seems in the case of the Border Transit Gang, who have been whitewashed two weeks in a row, this time by the Underwriters, who led by Grant, piled up an overwhelming score in every game, having a majority of 500 pins in total pinnage. Bud Weese climbed over the 200 mark in every game and Doughty showed up well with a trio amounting to 620. Walter Ramsay for the Bus Drivers, thought he knew the pin boys so well he just had to sock the balls in the general direction of the bottles, but Dame Fortune failed to smile this time and as a result Walter is parked in the cellar with an average of 130.

Sloan and Company made the spheres hum and trounced the Cardinals six to 2. G. Trennum with 233 and T. McBride with 227 were the heavy hitters in this melee which, despite the lopsided score, was very closely contested.

The Barbers put up a great battle in their encounter with the Peterborough Lumber Company, but were handcapped by a dummy score and although Kimmel battered his way to a high single amounting to 327, the Barbers lost every game, with four men topping the 600 mark, the P. L. crowd were a hard team to beat. J. Eastwood collected 302 for high single.

High Scorers

The following is a list of the scores made by the heavy hitters in the competition for the various prizes offered during the month of November at the Duffus Bowling Academy:

High single scores—Miss V. Legross 288, Miss V. Langton 277, Miss L. Campbell 252, Miss G. O'Connall 247, Miss D. Mortimer 241.

High three scores—Miss V. Legros 654, Miss L. Campbell 649, Miss V. Langton 626, Miss G. O'Connall 620.

Men's high three scores—Bud. Weese 852, Steve Elliot 790.

Kimmel's high single score of 327 is a new record for one game in the Mercantile League.

C.G.E. SHOP LEAGUE

The Porcelain Crew are benefitting from their experience to such an extent that they were able to pocket the big half of the spoils in the game with Industrial Control No. 2. Reg. Dyer took both high single and high three, making 225 and 640.

Competition waxed warm between the Tool Room No. 3 and No. 2, the former taking two games while the No. 2 bowlers bunched their high three scores so evenly that there was not more than 35 pins difference between each total. McDonough was the outstanding player for the winners, taking both high single and three 248 and 604.

The Diemakers on No. 4 team gave the Structural Steel aggregation a liberal dab of the whitewash, taking every game, although the losers put up a plucky battle, McFarlane making 236 and 627. Every one of the "file pushers" had at least one game over 200, Gillis taking the honors with 288 single, while Corkery was working hard and piled up 242.

Jim King's gang of duck hunters know their pins better than their ducks, so it appears as they were able to duplicate the feat of their fellow mechanics by taking everything from Industrial Control No. 1, who with the exception of J. Heffernan were away below average. G. Williams and J. King staged a close race for high three, the former winning by one pin, having 556. High single went to J. King with 221.

WAS ONLY HUMAN

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 16.—'Tis human to err, they say, and it's also human for a cop to enjoy a good crap game. However, James Butler, a policeman, was reported to head quarters for playing that cubical game while in uniform. Butler refused to pa[y] $7.50 that he lost as a result of a di[f]ference of opinion between him an[d] the ivories.

ORANGE LODGE GIVES CONCERT

Old Time Fiddler Entertains Large Audience With Several Numbers.

COMIC SKETCH.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 16 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Christ Church Parish Hall, Rear street, was filled to capacity last night by a very appreciative audience to hear the concert under the auspices of Campbellford L.O.L. 526. The program throughout was received with the marked approval of the audience. Besides the local artists, there were on the program, Joseph Abercrombe of Meaford, Frank Taylor of Workworth and Mrs. E. Gillespie of Perth. As chairman of the evening, John I. Adams spoke a few words before the first number of the program was announced.

Fred McMullen and his old-time fiddling served to warm up the audience for the numbers that were to follow. Mr. McMullen has established a reputation throughout the district as an old-time fiddler. The second number was a brief comic sketch, "The Lady Masons," with a cast from the members of the Lady True Blue Lodge. Frank Taylor of Warkworth won an encore and much applause with his two popular song hits. R. J. Allan, although handicapped by a heavy cold which had necessitated his remaining indoors for several days under the doctor's care, acquitted himself with his usual merit with a reading from Drummond, "The Old Stove Pipe Hole," and an encore, also from Drummond. "Two Black Clouds," a dialogue, was the next number on the program.

Joseph Abercrombe, Meaford, delighted his audience with two comic songs, "If I Ever Marry Aagain," and "The Poor Old Man." Mrs. Gillespie of Perth gave a reading which was encored. Both the number and the encore were received with much applause. John Storie's humorous songs delighted everyone. To James MacDowell was accorded the honors of the evening. For many years, Jimmie MacDowell, his whistle and his mandolin have been well known in the community. He is not always available for public appearance, but among his circle of friends and at private parties, he has long been recognized as second to none. Last night he was not only encored, but recalled a second time. This is an honor seldom tendered either local or visiting artists. The program ended with the singing of the National Anthem.

After the chairs had been cleared from the floor, dancing was the order of the evening, and both square and round dances were favored. By special request, Jimmie MacDowell and his mandolin, Jimmie MacDowell and piano, furnished the music for one of the square dances and part of a round dance. At eleven-thirty, lunch was served to the dancers.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

BEBE DANIELS IN "HOT NEWS"

This is a peppy, fast-moving picture which provides excellent entertainment for the fans and has the pretty, dark, lively star, Bebe Daniels, as the central figure. It is accompanied by one of the popular "New Collegians" episodes.

As "Pat" Clancy, Bebe Daniels has the stellar role in the feature. She is a zippy assistant on her father's paper, The Sun, and gets into difficulty with "Scoop" Morgan, the cameraman, whose camera shows his own escape from death. He refuses to teach the girl how to use the camera, and her father fires him. He goes to work for the campetitive newspaper, The Mercury.

Then news comes of a disaster at sea, five miles from the place where "Pat" is "covering" a dahlia show. On the way, she gives a lift to "Scoop," whose car has broken down. Later, she gets away with the picture first and "scoops" her rival.

In an attempt to reach a dirigible which is reported as nearing New York, the two clamber over the Statue of Liberty and "Pat" is nearly killed through a fall, but is rescued by Morgan. She takes the picture of the dirigible, however.

Further complications depict the endless rivalry between the two, who wish to be friends but are prevented by newspaper allegiance from being anything but rivals, and include such peppy incidents as the photographing of the Maharajah of Devore, who cherishes an age-old superstition against picture-taking. Later, a crime is revealed through the use of "Pat's" camera, but not before the two are taken on board a ship sailing for Rio de Janeiro.

This picture, with its exciting episodes, and the element of truth injected by the use, under fictitious names, of many real episodes, has to be seen to be thoroughly appreciated. It is amusing and interesting in the extreme.

AT THE REGENT.

BIG EMOTIONAL ROLE FOR DOLORES, 'TENDERLOIN'

The exceedingly popular Dolores Costello ,now playing at the Regent, presents her de luxe feature picture, "Tenderloin." It is to be said of the Costello admirers that they all have been awaiting this picture with considerable interest ever since the first annoucement was made regarding it. Nothing that is in sight on the screen seems to match it in importance.

What gives "Tenderloin" such a "kick" in advance of its presentation is the news that it is a melodramatic crook drama affording the gorgeous Dolores of one of the best emotional roles she has ever had. That in itself is enough to interest the fans who flock under the young woman's banner. Further than this, it is known that Miss Costello had much to do in selecting the story of the picture, which was written by Melville Crosman. The screen adaptation was made by E. T. Lowe, Jr., and as an indication of what Warner Bros. thought of the work, they assigned the filming of it to Michael Curtiz, recognized as one of the most artistic directors in the entire motion picture field.

In this new deluxe offering Miss Costello has an acting role which enables her to play upon the sympathies of her audiences. An innocent girl inveigled into a gang of master crooks through her infatuation for a seemingly honest youth, a member of the gang, she is dragged down and there is nothing to save her from utter degradation except that soundness of character that came to her at birth. It is a thrilling fight against what looks like fate, the odds all seemingly against her and hope as far removed as a miser's pity.

Principal in the support of Miss Costello is the debonair Conrad Nagel, cast as the good-looking crook. Among the others who help make the story throb are Mitchell Lewis, Dan Wolheim, John Miljan, Georgie Stone and Pat Hartigan.

Warner Bros. have made an imposing and effective production of the picture.

Leaders Register Gains, Market Remains Firm

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (Canadian Press).—The market maintained a firm tone throughout the morning session on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange, when several of the leading issues made good advances. Noranda was at 53.75 at noon, a net gain of 45 cents, after shooting up to 54.25 shortly after the opening.

Hudson Bay was spectacular on the curb list and rose 1.75 to 20.55 in heavy trading when yesterday's sales were almost tripled.

Abana was up 5 at 3.60, Mandy 12 at 1.47, and Pend Oreille 5 at 10.15, while Big Missouri at 57½ and Central Manitoba at 80 were down a half. Mining Corporation continued upward and gained 22 to 3.42. McIntyre gained 25 to 19.75, and Lake Shore 20 to 18.75. Towagamac, in spite of heavy falling off in sales, rose to 3.00 for a net gain of 12 cents. Sherritt-Gordon was up 10 at 6.75, and Teck Hughes 5 at 8.75, while Sudbury Basin dropped 10 to 7.35, and Murphy 7 to 73.

Leaders Take Drop On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, November 16 (Canadian Press). — Losses far outnumbered gains on the Toronto Stock Exchange during the morning session. Massey-Harris failed to keep its upward tendency dropping to 86⅞ for a fractional loss of ⅝ in very heavy trading. International Nickel showed more strength advancing half to 194½ after selling as high as 196 in the early part of the morning. Hiram Walker displayed a great deal of activity, having a turnover of 4,620 shares, but failed to hold its opening price of 87, and at noon was quoted at 85½c, a loss of 1½ points. Cockshutt Plow was heavily traded in, after selling as high as 40¼ it sold down to 36, and at noon was selling at 38½, a drop of 1 ¼points. Building Products, Canadian Canners 2nd Preferred, Canada Dredge and Canadian Industrial Alcohol were weaker by one point. The oil stocks were mostly higher with the exception of British American Oil, which lost ⅝ at 51¾. Imperial Oil advanced 1⅛ points to 95.

International Nickel New was 1½ points firmer.

Mining Briefs

A Special Service to The Examiner

Activity in Howey shares may be attributed to the report from Red Lake received in the city. This states that slashing operations on the 500-foot level has widened out the vein to 30 feet with values holding good.

Good progress has been made to date in underground work at the Amulet, it is said, and the crosscuts on the 250-foot level, east and west, are now understood to be in about 50 feet from the shaft. The present rate of crosscutting is about 9 feet a day.

In order to facilitate their diamond drilling program, Kirkland Huntin are extending their crosscut at the lowest level of the mine for about 70 feet, states a report from Kirkland Lake. A drill set-up will be established when this point is reached.

Bearing timbers are now being put in preparatory to sinking the Newbec shaft down to 250 feet. Lartic Mines, controlled by Newbec, have pushed their shaft down to a depth of 35 feet and this will be continued to 250 feet with an intermediate level to be cut at 125 feet.

The Keeley Silver Mines has issued a progress report, as follows; "During the three months ended October 31st, 1928, the mine produced 151,225 ounces of silver and 19,935 pounds of cobalt. Exploration of the lower contact has made good progress and interesting occurrences of cobalt and small quantities of leaf silver have been encountered. It is anticipated that the most favorable ground will be reached in from two to three months time. A surface discovery was made a few hundred feet east of the main shaft which shows high grade silver for a distance of about twenty feet. Drifting has been commenced from the second level to intercept this occurrence at that horizon." This official report of the surface discovery and subsequent operations at the second level bear out the reports to this effect published a couple of weeks ago in this bulletin.

The Vipond Consolidated Mines, Limited, also have issued a progress report, which follows; "During the three months ending October 31st, 1928, the mine has produced bullion to the value of $179,800, from 23,013 tons milled. Developments at the 600 and 700-foot levels as outlined at the annual general meeting of shareholders held on November 6th continue to show excellent results, and work has been commenced at the 500-foot level with a view to finding the upward extension of this ore body."

A probable factor in the world nickel situation looms on the horizon with the news of the rehabilitated Lake Superior Corporation owning approximately 160,000 acres of mineralized ground in the Sudbury district, in close proximity to the International Nickel Company's properties. No details of these holdings have been published.

What is described by A. J. Keast, manager of the Continental Mines, is that from work on the crosscut from No. 1 shaft at the 800-foot level, the original break upon which the first surface and near surface work was done, was discovered. At this horizon the vein is said to be wide, well mineralized and generally promising.

News From the Mines

Through
Solloway, Mills & Company

Robb Montbray.

Robb Montbray discontinued their underground development campaign some time ago. Diamond drilling is being utilized as the management believe that by this method they will size up the possibilities of the property more quickly and accurately. One drill is being used underground and two on surface. Nothing of importance has as yet developed.

Lartic.

Lartic Mines, in which Newbec own a considerable block of stock, have pushed their shaft down to a depth of 35 feet. The shaft will be continued to 250 feet and levels established at 250 and 125 feet.

Mining Corporation.

The publication of an unofficial report that Mining Corporation have cut a body of ore at depth on their property adjoining Noranda Wednesday sky-rocketted Mining Corporation 40 points to $3.60. Officials of the company stated that pumping out of the old shaft which was approximately 250 feet in depth had been in progress, and it was not thought that actual underground operations had commenced as yet.

Siscoe.

Siscoe Gold Mines' new 100-ton milling plant is expected to be ready for tuning up on December 15th. Mining is reported to be proceeding apace with the erection of the new mill. Dr. James has recently completed a geological report on the property.

Calgary Oil Gossip.

Our Calgary office reports that Okalta is blowing stronger every hour. The estimated flow at present is 22,000,000 cubic feet per day, from which it is thought a 300 barrel well to be a natural consequence.

Drilling on McLeod No. 3 is being continued with Okalta's diamond drill. Hole No. 1 is reported to be approaching the favorable gas horizon. A slight increase in gas pressure is noted on Wabash on Morley Reserve. It is quite possible that Regent will hit the lime this afternoon.

Turnover Record Sets Stock Values Higher

NEW YORK, November 16 (Canadian Press). — A sweeping advance in prices with a record breaking turnover of stocks was Wall Street's response to-day to a relatively insignificant gain in the Federal Reserve brokers' loans. Prices bounded upward in a riotous burst of buying at the opening, and continued to climb in the face of heavy profit-taking. Extreme gains in active issues ranged from three to twenty-one points with a long list of issues, including such favorites as United States Steel, Montgomery Ward, Packard Motors, Westinghouse Electric, and Texas Company setting new high records for the year.

Call money renewed at 6½ per cent.

In the first three hours of trading, total sales averaged more than a million shares an hour with the ticker more than an hour late.

All sorts of merger and dividend rumors accompanied the rise in the prices. Wall Street heard that the General Motors Corporation was negotiating with the Opel Automobile Works, Germany's largest motor concern, and that Chrysler Motors would take over the Keivinator Corporation.

ALUMINUM SUITS PROTECTS HUNTER

Would Protect Wearer From Attacks By Wolf Packs in North Woods.

The possession of an aluminum suit that protected him from the bites of ravenous wolf packs, was claimed by a stranger in the city yesterday. This marvelous wolf suit had been subjected to the most rigorous tests, according to his story. He had lain down in the deep woods in the north and allowed the hungry wolves to roll him around until they went away dismayed at the difficulties of the eating process. The suit was not present to be inspected, but the man claimed it was made in Montreal and consisted of a hat of twelve pieces, a jacket of twenty-three pieces, and trousers of ninety-five pieces, all together weighing only four pounds.

This man also claimed the possession of seventh sense that made it possible for him to find anyone lost in the woods. He said that he had just returned from one of these successful hunting trips in the north, where he had found four lost men without the least trouble.

The man was a burly chap and gave his name as George Henry Johnson, and his home port as Picton.

HUGE BRIBES ARE ACCEPTED

Home Secretary Is Severely Questioned In London Police Probe.

RECEIVED $240,000.

Labor Members Allege in House That There Has Been Unfair Treatment.

LONDON, Nov. 16. — (Canadian Press Cable.) — Labor members of the House of Commons questioned Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, at question time yesterday, regarding the recent developments concerning the corrupt activities of a few London policemen.

The Labor members sought an explanation of the apparent anomaly of a policeman getting a bribe of $10 from a bookmaker, and the dismissal of Sergeant Goddard of the West End Division, who is alleged to have illicitly received $240,000 from night clubs, bookmakers, etc., and why the constable who assisted Goddard was allowed to resign, although he is alleged to have been found in possession of $60,000.

Replying, the Home Secretary said Goddard pleaded guilty before a disciplinary tribunal on two charges: (1) Neglect, and failing satisfactorily to explain the receipt of large sums of money from unknown sources; (2) Betting and engaging in speculations with convicted bookmakers and other undesirable persons.

Sir William said the Commissioner of Police, jointly with the public prosecutor, was conducting an investigation regarding the sources of the money, and at present proposed to say nothing further with regard to the matter

Has No Information.

The Home Secretary said he knew he had authority for stating that Goddard received $240,000, but at present there was no information on which criminal proceedings could be taken against the constable who assisted Goddard. The constable was not found in possession of $60,000 or anything like that amount, he said. Sixty thousand dollars was found in possession of Goddard, he added.

The question of the rehabilitation of Goddard's brother-officers, who were dealt with for making charges against Goddard, would be covered in the official investigation, Sir William added.

SIMPLE TRICKS IN MAGIC
by JACK MULHALL

Featured with Dorothy Mackaill in "Lady Be Good," a First National Picture

.—The Ubiquitous Cards. Exhibiting the red seven and eight.

Exhibit the seven of hearts and eight of diamonds taken from a pack of cards. Do not call attention to the suits, however, simply saying:

"Here are the red seven and eight."

Place one of these in the deck anywhere except at top or bottom. Do the same with the other card.

"These two cards are inseparable," you observe.

Tap the deck smartly on top and turn it over, showing the two cards on the bottom, apparently having traveled clear through the pack and joined one another at the bottom.

Needless to say, you have first shown that you made no suspicious move with the cards.

The secret of this almost absurdly simple but mystifying little effect is as follows:

If you use the seven of hearts and eight of diamonds, place beforehand on bottom of deck the seven of diamonds and eight of hearts. If you do not take too much time to exhibit the two cards before placing them in pack, nine out of ten persons will be completely deceived, failing to remember which suits and denominations you exhibited the first time.

Try it and see for yourself.

MERCHANT IN CAR ACCIDENT

D. M. Minicola Has Car Badly Smashed When Returning From Chatham.

ON WINDSOR HIGHWAY.

D. M. Minicola, of this city, had his car badly smashed on the Windsor Highway about thirty miles from Chatham yesterday when a drunken driver ran into him. Mr. Minicola was conveying home some of the boys hurt in the motor accident near Chatham two nights previous when his car was crashed into.

Victor Minicola, son of D. M. Minicola, is still in the hospital suffering from injuries received in a motor crash near Chatham three days ago. He had his lungs crushed and is under careful attention at the hospital in Chatham.

The other boys, Donald Whatley, Tom and George Cupoli, were badly shaken up and are suffering from the shock, but were able to accompany Mr. Minicola home. The boys' car, it is reported, turned over twice when the driver tried to put it back on the road after having turned out to enable another car to pass.

Mr. Minicola's car was wrecked so badly in the second smash-up that it had to be left in a garage and the trip completed in another car.

WEDDING BELLS

KENNEDY—EVANS

DUNSFORD, Nov. 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — An impressive wedding service was conducted in North Emily United Church, at noon, on Wednesday, November 14th, when Mary Mildred, daughter of Mary Jane Hart and the late Simon Evans, of Emily, became the bride of William Marsell, eldest son of Phoebe Jane White and the late John P. Kennedy of Verulam.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John F. Everson of Dunsford United Church.

The church was prettily decorated for the occasion with house plants.

Miss Jean Elliott sang, "Happy Are They Who Love."

The bride, attired in a frock of hand-embroidered cream silk georgette over satin, with stockings and shoes to match, a net veil held by a bandeau of orange blossoms and carrying a shower bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath in ferns, looked charming as she entered the church leaning on the arm of her brother Thomas, to the strains of the "Wedding March" from "Lohengrin," played by Miss Mary Elliott, organist of the church, who also played softly at the close of the service.

Miss Laura Kennedy, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, and was prettily dressed in blue georgette over satin, blue hat with silver trimmings and shoes and stockings to match. The groom was supported by Mr. Elmer Evans, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony the immediate friends of the contracting parties retired to the home of the bride's mother, where a sumptuous wedding dinner was enjoyed, after which the bride and bridegroom left for a trip by motor to Brantford and points west, amid showers of confetti and good wishes.

The bride's going-away costume was of wine chiffon velvet, with hat and coat to match.

Immediately following the wedding dinner, Rev. J. F. Everson, baptised Marie Elizabeth, neice of the bride, and infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Evans.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy will reside on the bridegroom's farm a short distance south of Dunsford.

OBITUARY

MRS. HARRY MURDUFF.

Mrs. Harry Murduff died suddenly at her home on Patterson street last night after a short illness. Born in Otonabee township, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Porter, the deceased had lived in the city only eleven weeks, having formerly resided in Detroit, Michigan.

She leaves to mourn three brothers, Ernest of Toronto and Roy and Joseph of Otonabee, two sisters, Mrs. Harry Carter and Mrs. John Hope, also of Otonabee.

The funeral will take place on Saturday from the family residence-, 508 Patterson street, at 3 p.m., with the Rev. Mr. McNeilly, of Keene, officiating. Interment will take place in Little Lake cemetery.

GEORGE McCARTNEY.

George McCartney died at his home, 377 Water street, last night, after a short illness, at the age of seventy-seven. The deceased was born in Ireland in 1851 and has resided in this city about four years.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, one daughter, Mrs. B. A. Reid, of 377 Water street, one brother William McCartney of Bethany, and one sister, Mrs. J. Medd, of Bethany. The deceased was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church.

The funeral will be held on Saturday from the family residence, 377 Water street, at 2 p.m., with Rev. William Allen officiating. Interment will take place in Keene cemetery.

ANDREW GOODFELLOW

Peterborough lost one of its oldest citizens to-day when there passed away at his home, at 134 Park street, Andrew Goodfellow, who for the last twenty-seven years has been a resident of this city. The late Mr. Goodfellow was born in South Monaghan seventy-two years ago and resided there until he came to Peterborough to live. For the last twenty-eight years he was in charge of the shipping department of the C.G.E. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, two daughters, Mrs. M. Morgan of this city and Mrs. T. Medd of Toronto; one son, Cecil of Owen Sound, and two brothers, Joseph of Philadelphia and James of Toronto.

The funeral will be held Saturday, November 17, at 3 p.m., from the family residence, 134 Park street, to Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Mr. McLean of St. Andrew's Church officiating.

ALLEN EDWARDS CRAIG

The death occurred on Wednesday, Nov. 14, in Orillia, of Allen Edward Craig, eldest son of A. B. Craig, Roger street, of this city. The deceased was thirty-two years of age, and had been ailing for some time.

He leaves to mourn his loss besides his father, three brothers, Alfred, Bertram and Donald, and two sisters, Mrs. E. S. Davy and Mrs. A. O'Brien, all of this city. The funeral took place this morning at 10 o'clock from Comstock's undertaking parlors, to the Little Like Cemetery. Rev. A. E. Thornley of Mark Street United Church, officiated.

IN MEMORIAM.

DYER, WALTER J.—In sad and loving memory of a loving and devoted father, entered into rest November 16, 1927.

To-day recalls sad memories of a dearly beloved one gone to rest
Those who mourn and think of him to-day are those who loved him best. He left behind aching hearts who never have, and never will forget you, Dad, dear.

—Sadly missed by his daughter, Mrs. Cyril Cutt, Rochester, N.Y.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my son, Douglas.

Wherefore should I make my moan
Now my darling child is dead,
He to early rest is gone,
He to Paradise is fled;
I shall go to him but
He shall never return to me.

Fierce Gale Sweeps Over England

TEN PERSONS ARE KILLED SCORES KNOWN INJURED WHEN STORM HITS COUNTRY

Former Premier MacDonald and Labor Minister Have Narrow Escape.

TOWNS CUT OFF.

Damage to Property in England and Wales is Enormous and Widespread.

LONDON, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—The death toll of the south-western gale that swept over Wales, England, France and Belgium yesterday stood at ten to-day, with several scores of persons injured.

Princess Marie, sister of the former King Constantine of Greece who died in exile, was cut by flying glass while walking in Paris.

Former Premier Ramsay Macdonald and Sir Arthur Steel Maitland, Minister of Labor, had narrow escapes, when the trains on which they were riding in England ran into fallen trees.

Damage to property in England and Wales was enormous and widespread. Thirty families were homeless to-day, their dwellings having been wrecked by the gale. Roofs were swept off several large buildings.

Two hundred and eighty trunk telephone and telegraph lines out of London were down, and as a result eighty towns were either cut off from communication or were able to communicate only by round-about routes. Seventeen broadcasting stations were isolated.

There were several narrow escapes from disaster on railroad owing to fallen trees. The train on which the Labor Minister was travelling from London to Birmingham escaped derailment because it was going slowly when it bumped into a fallen tree. The engine was damaged and the train stalled.

SEARCH PARTY FINDS OSBORNE

Marmora Blacksmith Wandered Away From Home Early Yesterday.

SCHOOL DISMISSED.

MARMORA, Nov. 17 (Examiner Correspondence).—The search for Benjamin Osborne, a blacksmith of this village, who wandered away from his home early yesterday morning after a state of ill health, was rewarded last evening when the man was found. It was just as darkness was falling, after an all-day search, that the missing man was found about one mile west of the Craw River near the home of Frank James. Mr. Osborne appeared to be in a normal state of mind when found.

The students of the High School were dismissed from classes yesterday afternoon, so that they might join in the search for the man, and nearly every male resident of the village was occupied in scouring the country.

TRAVELLER ENJOYS TRENT CANAL TRIP

General Manager of Oakland Motor Company Was Delighted With Waterway.

That the Trent Waterway System has proved of great interest to at least one of the high executives of motordom is borne out by the following paragraphs from a letter just received by the Secretary of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce from Gordon LeFebvre, General Manager of the the Oakland Motor Company, Pontiac, Mich.:

"About thirty of us have been sailing on Lake Ontario and adjacent waters for the past three years and all of us are heartily in accord that the most enjoyable trip of our entire experience together was the trip up through the Trent Canal to Orillia. Needless to say, one of the most enjoyable incidents was our all too short stay at Peterborough. I cannot understand why more people do not use this waterway, as it seems to have everything that would entice or interest anyone who is fond of water and nature in general. The scenery is the loveliest that I have encountered and the treatment received from one end of the canal to the other by all of those associated with the Trent Waterway is certainly the acme of courtesy and consideration.

BARON DREADS FEUDIST SHOT

Surviving Members of German Family Live in Mortal Fear of Death.

IN UNITED STATES.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17.—The two surviving members of the ancient von Herr family of Germany live in perpetual fear that they may be victims of a one-sided feud being carried on by persons unknown for reasons equally unknown.

The story of the feud came to light here recently when an attempt to assassinate Baron Frederick Wilhelm Gustave von Herr was frustrated by several coins in a pocket book that deflected and stopped the bullet just over the heart.

Wounded by French Bomb

The score so far is—dead. The father of the present baron, killed on the streets of Metz in 1925; Eric von Herr, killed at the same time; still living, the present baron here and Hugo von Herr, 24, studying at Friedrischaven, the starting point of the Graf Zeppelin on its recent flight to America.

The ancient prestige and wealth of the von Herrs is gone—confiscated after the war. The present baron, 29, still showing the effects of undernourishment during the war and scarred from the explosion of a French bomb dropped from the air over Metz, has been working in the office of a New Orleans dentist, a compatriot of the baron who knew the family in Germany.

The assassin, according to the baron, warned him first that he was due to die that night. Then came the attempt which failed—a single shot fired point blank aimed at the heart.

It was an "army man," as the Germans know the type, who did the shooting.

During the war the present baron's father was a political leader in Alsace-Lorraine. After the armistice he suggested that the province be made an independent republic, and led a movement toward that end.

In the resultant turmoil, the baron says, his father made many enemies. Among them might be the ones who now are trying to exterminate the family.

For years after the war the von Herrs lived in terror. The present baron was sent to the United States for safety in 1921 after several attempts on the life of the old baron had failed.

Then came the shooting on the streets of Metz in 1925. A gang opened fire on the old man and two sons. The old man was killed, and one son, Eric, died with him. The youngest, Hugo, escaped.

OTTAWA MAN BITTEN BY DOG

OTTAWA, November 17 — Canadian Press. — Brought to hospital last night following a fight with an enraged bulldog, the condition of Albert Marleau showed little change to-day. Marleau's flesh had been badly torn, an dhe suffered from shock.

The neighbors heard a noise in Marleau's home last night and on entering the house, found the injured man lying on the floor while the dog chewed his arm.

Many Tourists Avoid The French Post Tax

PARIS, November 17—(A.P.)—The tax imposed upon all persons arriving at or leaving any French ports is defeating its own object. Steamship companies are finding that travellers are avoiding French ports in an increasing degree. Many tourists prefer to land at or depart from a British, Belgian, German or Dutch port rather than pay the tax which is in addition to the usual visa charge.

FEW HOUSES ARE FOUND IN CITY TO RENT

Forty New Dwellings Have Been Contracted For This Year.

WILL COST $168,840.

Only a Few High Priced Houses Are Not Occupied at Present.

That anyone desiring to rent a house in the city would have difficulties was amply proved to The Examiner to-day One would find it necessary to choose from a few houses with rather high rentals.

There are fewer houses to rent now than here has been for years is the opinion of all real estate men. The figures prove this claim. "Last year at this time there were easily one hundred and twenty-five houses vacant and to-day there are less than ten and they are all high priced" said one prominent realtor. Another when asked replied: "I can't give definite figures but now we have very few and they have rentals of $40 and $50, while last year we had plenty of vacant homes. "This fact is brought home to the observant person too who, when he goes about the city and observes the absence of 'To Rent' signs and vacant houses. One owner of a large number of houses said that last year he had thirty houses to rent and now he hadn't one.

Big Program This Year

This tightness in real estate is also active in spite of the big program of house building that has gone on in the city all year. More houses have been built than for many years back. Fifty permits for dwellings have been issued so far this year as against thirty-four during the first ten months of last year. The city has been feeling a building boom of no mean proportions during both years. New houses have sprung up in every section and whole streets have been opened up. One realtor expressed the opinion that the city is just beginning to get started on one of he biggest activities in building that has ever been seen here.

The building permits for dwellings and the amounts each month of this year is as follows.

January	1	$ 3,000
April	5	17,700
May	12	41,740
June	7	19,000
July	6	20,100
August	5	14,300
September	5	25,700
October	9	27,000
Totals	50	$168,840

In 1927 up to the end of October the thirty-four building permits issued involved the amount of $127,200.

The building of houses during each of the last two years far exceeds the amount in 1926 when there was a sum of $92,400 spent during the first ten months of the year.

Airplane Brings Back Memories Of Home Land

The other day A. Ackerman, of Toronto, visited Lakefield by airplane, for the purpose of calling on his son, a pupil at the Grove school.

On landing near the wharf, the two Eskimo boys, Sam and Ben, raced down to see the plane. It brought back memories of surveying planes seen in their northern home, Baffin's Land. They were quite excited, and gazed with wide open eyes as Mr. Ackerman landed. At the conclusion of the visit, and as the plane took to the air again, both lads looked sad and down-fallen, Ben putting his hands over his face and softly crying, Sam doing likewise, without shedding tears. Possibly they thought it came from their home land was returning, causing the two lads to be sorrowful.

10,000 Water Carriers Declare War In Pekin Waterworks Forces Them To Quite Occupation

PEKIN, Nov. 17.—Ten thousand water-carriers have declared war on the Pekin waterworks, which they declare is depriving them of their means of livelihood. Several riots have occurred recently in which the police have declined to intervene through sympathy with the carriers.

The water-carriers have been established in Pekin for centuries, with their own guild. They wheel water through the streets on their one-wheeled barrow which emits a harsh creaking sound. Householders wanting water hear the noise and come to their doors as the carrier passes to make their bargain.

Since the overthrow of the Manchus in 1911, many of this former ruling class, who never did any menial labor, have entered the ranks of the water-carriers. But now adversity is pursuing them further in the shape of the waterworks, which pipes water into a thousand new homes every year.

The recent riots have been caused by carrier attacking gangs installing pipes for the water-works. In spite of all protests, however, more and more Pekin people are having water piped into their homes.

KIWANIS CLUB CELEBRATES ITS SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY

J. W. McFadden, of Toronto, is Special Speaker On Charter Night.

LIFE OF DICKENS.

Excellent Musical Program Was Provided By G. F. Liddle During Evening.

"Don't ask me whether I will or not but put the bottle on the chimneypiece and I can put my mouth to it whenever I feel so disposed."

They were not his own sentiments that the speaker was enunciating but rather the utterances of the famous Sairey Gamp, speaking three-quarters of a century ago through the pages of Charles Dickens' book, and lovers of the great writer remembered with a smile the immortal Sairey, friend of the equally immortal Mrs. 'Arris, as they harkened to the address on "The Life of Dickens," given to the Kiwanis Club and their ladies last night, at the Charter Night dinner held at the Empress Hotel.... The speaker of the evening was J. W. McFadden, Assistant County Crown Attorney, of Toronto. There were eighty-three people in attendance.

Charter Night last evening, commemorating the seventh anniversary of the foundation of the Kiwanis Club in the city, was a merry event in the history of the club. It was Past Presidents' Night also, and Past President John J. Craig presided. At the head table, with its gay bouquet of chrysanthemums and a birthday cake which was adorned with pink icing and seven little pink candles, there also sat Past President J. A. McKone, who was second president of the local club, Past President J. R. Marshall, and President J. John. Past President Isaac McNabb was also included in the roll. Past President Charles Cook was absent, while the first presiding officer of the Peterborough Club, Frank Whitehouse, is out of the city.

A delegation of eight Kiwanians from Lindsay helped to enhance the gayety of the evening. Headed by President Arthur W. Allen, they included also two past presidents, B. L. McLean and R. W. Groves, the secretary, Wesley Mason, Fred Nugent, W. R. Alleley, F. J. Carew and Charles Tozios.

Splendid Music.

An exceptionally good musical program was provided by G. F. Liddle, who played accompaniments for the soloists. Ronald Fortune, possessor of a fine tenor voice, sang twice, each appearance meriting a hearty encore. His sweet, expressive tones were heard to much advantage in Oley Speaks' "Morning," "The March of the Cameron Men," a ballad, sung in English, from Verdi's opera, "Rigoletto," entitled "Questa o Quella" ("When a Charmer Would Win Me") and Tosti's "Good Bye."

William Ellis played, with much skill and splendid, smooth tone, the favorite number for the violin, "Liebesfreud," with an encore in the Kreisler arrangement of the Viennese popular song, "The Old Refrain."

Joseph Minicola's contribution to the program was a finely played cornet solo, with excellent soft, even melody in the rendition of "Out of the Dusk to you," and its encore, "Roses of Picardy."

Burlesquing the Neapolitan street song, "Funicula, funiculi," was a gay quartette with members in G. F. Liddle, Carl Browne, Verne Morphet and Walter Kidd. President Art Allen, of the Lindsay club, also gave a humorous introduction in song to the speaker's address.

The business of the evening, following the service of a splendid dinner, opened with the presentation of a gong to President John. This was presented by J. R. Marshall in the name of himself and the several past presidents of the club, also the past secretary, J. R. Heron.

President Art Allen of Lindsay then cut the birthday cake and Dr. Craig called on J. A McKone, "the oldest surviving past president," to speak. Mr. McKone referred briefly to the commencement of the club, seven years ago, and to the fact that, of fifty charter

Coyotes Are Blind For Rum Runners

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 17.—Tiny coyotes, only a few weeks old, are now being used as "blinds" in the rum-running business here, Custom officers believe.

Claudio Ramos, 24, and Juan Romero, 19, were arrested with a truck containing 36 pints of whiskey. The whiskey was concealed in a barrel.

The men, according to Custom officers, often crossed the bride with a little coyote leashed near the barrel. The animal distracted attention from the barrel.

Officers grew more inquisitive, however, and discovered the whiskey in the barrel. Rather than take the coyote to jail, Ramos sold it to Hal Patton, Custom inspector.

ANDREW CREBAR BADLY INJURED

Knocked From Bicycle By Car On Hunter Street Bridge.

RUN OVER.

An examination made in St. Joseph's hospital immediately afterward, revealed that Andrew Crebar had sustained fractures of both legs when he was knocked from his bicycle by a car driven by Walter Johnston and run over by a second car, the driver of which did not stop. The addicent, occurring at a point about midway across the Hunter street bridge at 10.30 last night leaves the police the duty of seeking out an unknown driver, which had not been accomplished at press time to-day. However, there is little doubt that he will be apprehended for Chief of Police Newhall told The Examiner this morning that he had the necessary information and was only giving its subject time to report of his own will before taking action.

From Johnston, who resides at 207 Lock street, the police learned the circumstances surrounding the accident. He was driving west at between 12 and 15 miles an hour, and failed to notice Crebar, riding east on his bicycle, because of the lights of another car. The cyclist was knocked to the pavement and a car, following directly behind Johnston's ran over Crebar as he lay on the pavement. He was immediately taken to St. Joseph's hospital where Dr. McNulty attended him.

Bus Driver Was Witness

Driver Gibson, of the Border Transit Company who was operating a bus that passed about the time of the accident, was an eye witness who corroborated Johnston's statements, including his estimate of his speed. The bus had just started after a stop at the east end of the bridge when a coupe, driven by Johnston passed him. Then followed the second car which did not stop.

LUCKY HE DIDN'T WAIT

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 17.—Fifteen years ago, Y. Posthuma sent a letter to a mining company in Columbia, South America, applying for a job. It laid in a Columbia postoffice for more than six years, and finally was returned to the sender. It has now found its way back to Posthuma, after being on the road for more than eight years.

Henry Ford Is Given A Rare Rattle Box

PENTON, November 17. — Ira Lyon, living here, recently sent a wooden rattle box to Henry Ford to be placed with his collection of curios, in his museum at Dearborn. Mr. Lyon now is in receipt of a letter of thanks from Mr. Ford.

The rattle is a rare toy, due to the fact that Mr. Lyon and his son, Eli Lyon, now living in Detroit, are said to be the only two living white men who know how to make them.

Ira Lyon was taught the art by his father, and has now handed it down to his son, Eli.

GATE RECEIPTS AT EXHIBITION DOWN $2,442

$7,000 Was Spent By Board During Year On Permanent Improvements.

$4,111 FROM MIDWAY.

Decrease in Grandstand Attendance For Five Days Amounted to 5,515.

The total gate attendance receipts at this year's Peterborough Industrial Exhibition amounted to $14,255.20, a decrease of $2,442.05 over last year, according to the report submitted at a meeting of the directors held last night in the board room of the Chamber of Commerce. The rain during the first four days was responsible for the falling off in attendance, which this year totalled 34,412, a decrease of 7,497 on last year's record of 41,909.

During the year the Board of Directors spent $7,050 on permanent improvements, and of this amount $4,000 had been paid. The midway and other concessions yielded $4,111 to the treasurer, while there was a decided decrease in the grand stand attendance. In the five days of the exhibition theer were 9,619 people occupy the grand stand, a decrease of 5,515 over 1927.

The quality of the livestock shown was far superior to that exhibited any other year and the quantity ranked favorably with that of previous years. The directors received many compliments from cattlemen on the extraordinary quality of the livestock. Practically all the dairy cattle were from accredited herds.

Following is the totals of live stock shown and the figures of last year:

	1927	1928
Horses	213	276
Cattle	450	396
Sheep	307	267
Swine	130	62

The decrease in the number of cattle is explained by the fact that the grade classes were not shown this year. The number of swine was also lower since the farmers did not raise many hogs because of the comparatively low prices.

Through the permanent improvements, the new cattle and horse barns, the exhibition now has accommodation for 286 head of cattle and 82 horses. These numbers do not include the accommodation in the old buildings.

R. A. ELLIOTT IS NEW PRESIDENT

Central Ontario Baseball Association Meets in Deloro.

QUADRUPLE SCHEDULE.

R. A. Elliott, of Deloro, was elected president of the Central Ontario Baseball Association at their annual meeting held in Deloro this morning. F. G. Chester, of Oshawa, will act as vice-president, while N. Thompson was elected to fill the position of secretary-treasurer. The executive will be appointed at the meeting in the early spring from the officers of the clubs in the league, which will be sent to that league representatives.

The quadruple schedule is to be drawn up with the opening games at Peterborough and Belleville on May 24th. There were representatives at the meeting from Peterborough, Belleville, and Deloro. Oshawa sent a message expressing their inability to be present and appointed H. T. McFadden to act as their representative.

Evidence-fixing Feared and Warning Is Issued At Disaster Investigation.

S.O.S. EVIDENCE.

Examining Attorney at New York Probe Wins Unwilling Admission.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (Associated Press).—From an 18-year-old wireless operator, United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle yesterday won an acknowledgment that "maybe" the captain of the steamer Vestris had announced by wireless that he was in difficulties more than 18 hours before the ship sank and 14 hours before the formal S.O.S.

Charles Veschere, the young Scottish assistant radio man of the Vestris, was the first witness at yesterday's session of the investigation of the disaster before United States Commissioner O'Neill, and the phrases "I don't know," "I don't remember," and "I forget," ran thickly through all his testimony.

"Who told you to forget?" Tuttle shouted at him at last. The pale youth shouted his answer back.

"No one."

At another point Veschere couldn't remember something, and Tuttle, in apparent exasperation, exclaimed:

"But you told me all about it down in my office, why have you forgotten now?"

Fixing Feared.

Then, turning to the Commissioner the Federal Attorney said: "Your Honor, this bears out a statement I made to you before this hearing began," and the Commissioner remarked, "It does."

"Are you sure you understand the seriousness of your oath?" the Commissioner asked Veschere, and the youth nodded slowly.

At the very opening of the case on Tuttle told the Commissioner that he had reports from confidential sources which made it necessary for him to announce at that time that anyone who attempted to prevent any witnesses from telling the whole truth in the investigation would be severely dealt with.

Tuttle's efforts yesterday were all directed toward an attempt to find just what wireless announcements of distress had been sent out prior to the S.O.S. and to whom they were directed and whether any instructions were sent to the Vestris in response which might explain why the S.O.S. was not sent until the middle of Monday morning, four hours before the ship sank, with no rescue vessels within many miles.

May Need Aid.

Veschere said that he was on duty from 8 to 12, day and night, and that from the time the ship left New York until it sank he only sent one message other than personal ones from passengers, and that was a weather report to Washington.

"But there was some other sort of message?" Tuttle asked.

"I'm not sure."

"Didn't you tell me down stairs there was one reading 'We may need aid'?"

"Yes I forgot."

"Who told you to forget?"

"No one."

"Who sent that message?"

"I don't know."

"When was it sent?"

"I don't know."

"Was it before you came on duty Sunday night at eight o'clock?"

"Maybe."

The witness under further questioning said he recalled that the message was addressed to the Lamport and Holt Line, but no repetition or rephrasing of questions could bring any answer regarding the time the message was sent, who ordered it sent, whether there were any others of a similar nature or other details. Tuttle made especial efforts to establish the time of the message.

"Isn't it a fact," the Federal Attorney pounded away at the dark youth with the expressionless face, "that when you went on duty at eight o'clock Sunday night you looked through the file of messages sent since you last went off duty and saw that message?"

"I don't know," Veschere replied. "I think I first heard of it Monday."

"But you said a minute ago it might have been Sunday."

Veschere made no response and Tuttle indicated his exasperation in a gesture directed at the Commissioner. Concerning the time the S.O.S. was sent Monday morning, Veschere was almost equally vague.

"It was about 10," he said.

"Was there a clock in the wireless room?"

"Yes, with Greenwich Meridian time."

"And you didn't note down the time when the S.O.S. was sent?"

"There wasn't any clock."

"But you just said——"

"Oh, that showed Greenwich Meridian time. I took no notice of that."

"Do you expect me to believe that?" Tuttle snapped. "What time was it?"

"I can't be definite," Veschere said firmly.

"Did you take the stand to-day

POWER LINES SOLD TO HYDRO

Final Agreement is Signed Transferring All Rural Lines To Ontario Commission.

TO REMOVE POLES.

A copy of the agreement between the Peterborough Utilities Commission and the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, relative to the sale of rural power lines in the township of Douro, by the local body to the Hydro, was received at a meeting of the Peterborough Commission held yesterday afternoon. The agreement signalled the completion of the sale of the entire rural distribution system which had served the townships of North Monaghan, Smith, Otonabee and Douro. The first three named were dealt with in earlier transactions.

Another matter dealt with at yesterday's meeting was a circular, to be sent to all users of flat rate water heaters. One object of sending it out is to avoid confusion relative to the term of months that the service must be subscribed for. The minimum period, as will be seen in the following copy, is six months in succession, so that subscribers should endeavor to engage the service early in the season, else they will be having it cancelled with the coming of cold weather before they have received full-time benefits. The circular reads:

The flat rate for water heater service is for six consecutive months or more at a specified rate, subject to change without notice. If the customer so desires, the heater may be disconnected after six or more consecutive months' service and again reconnected for six or more consecutive months' service, providing a charge of $1.00 is paid for re-connection.

All heaters must be properly connected ahead of the meter and all wiring properly installed in conduit.

We wish to point out that flat rate service for water heaters should not be used unless the tanks connected to these services are properly lagged with at least one inch of hair felt or its equivalent.

The rates for flat rate water heaters are as follows:

City rates—660 watt, $3.30 per month gross; 750 watt, $3.75 per month gross; 1,000 watt, $5.00 per month gross.

Rural rates—660 watt, $3.60 per month gross; 750 watt, $4.10 per month gross; 1,000 watt, $5.46 per month gross.

Other Business

Briefly, the Commission transacted the following other business: It acceded to the city's request for the laying of a grass water supply pipe system in Confederation Square, and for a light at the corner of George and Hilliard streets.

It agreed to remove a hydrant on Hunter street in front of the Border Transit Company's garage, the city to bear a part of the cost.

The city's request for the removal of the old trolley line poles was received and the manager authorized to remove the poles at a maximum cost of $2.50; the city to refill the holes.

THE WEATHER

Dull weather, rain and threatening rain seem to be almost a daily occurrence this autumn. Last night was no exception. The showers appear to be general over most of the country. Highest temperature yesterday, 47 degrees; lowest last night 37 degrees.—W. E.

Three Mail Bandits Get 15 Years

FOUR MEN ARE SENTENCED FOR THEIR PART IN TORONTO UNION STATION MAIL ROBBERY

Master Mind Is Still At Large —Bench Warrant Is Issued.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

Prisoners Struggle With Surprise and Despair When Sentence Imposed.

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—In a courtroom crowded to capacity, sentence was pronounced by Mr. Justice Wright late yesterday afternoon on the four men who have been convicted of taking active part in the Union Station mail robbery of June 19, and on a man and a woman who admitted being receivers.

For Findlay McLeod, Sr., Jack Sullivan and Everett McKibbon, who have been tried and convicted during the past two weeks on armed robbery charges, the sentence is to be fifteen years in the penitentiary. Ray Boven, the diminutive Windsor truck driver who was tried this week and convicted less than an hour before he was sentenced, is to serve ten years. Boven, alone of the four, has never before been in the penitentiary, and his sentence was accordingly lighter, although he was convicted on the same charges as the others.

Alex McLeod, who received some of the stolen money from his brother, Findlay, and helped the latter buy some at the rear of 40 Lang street, pleaded guilty to receiving and was given suspended sentence. Similar mercy was shown Mrs. Frances Boven, wife of Bill Boven, who took some money from her brother-in-law Ray Boven.

The first of the six to be sentenced was Alex McLeod, and Mrs. Boven was the last. In between the passing of sentence on these two, the other four were sentenced together.

Out One Hour

It had been expected that the sentences would be passed early in the afternoon, but His Lordship waited until after the jury had returned its verdict of guilty against Ray Boven. This verdict was returned at 4.44 o'clock after an hour's deliberation. By that time, every available seat in the court room had long been filled and scores of late-comers were being turned away by the sheriff's officers.

Sullivan and Boven heard their fates impassively but Everett McKibbon's head dropped to his chest. And Findlay McLeod, who testified for the Crown against all the others, seemed overcome with surprise and despair. He laid a hand on the dock rail to steady himself and as he was being taken out of the court room, his knees were sagging.

In the back of the court room Mrs. McKibbon cried softly all through the proceedings, while a Salvation Army officer held on his knee her ten-year-old daughter. McKibbon stopped and kissed them as he was being led out. He passed on again and his wife buried her head in her arms and sobbed aloud. The little girl, crying, seemed bewildered.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, November 17. — A trough of low pressure extends from Michigan to Texas, and an area of high pressure has spread over the Maritime provinces. Rain has fallen in Southern Ontario, where it continues mild, and showers have occurred in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The weather in the west has been fair and milder in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Lone Policeman Takes Five Robbers

MALTA, Mont., Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—Two of the robbers who held up a pool-hall at Turner, Montana, Tuesday night, when Frank Murray of Turner was fatally wounded, were shot to death, a third was wounded, and two others captured when they were overtaken by a Canadian Mounted Policeman about 35 miles north of Climax, Sask. Local authorities received word of the capture yesterday. The men were shot when they drew guns to offer battle.

MADAME DUSSEAU TO SING AT TRINITY

Singer is in Great Demand in All Parts of the Dominion.

Trinity United Church is to have a very distinguished singer as guest soloist next Sunday morning and evening, in Madame Jeanne Dusseau, of Toronto.

Madame Dusseau needs no introduction to the people of this province, nor, in fact, of Canada, as she has been in constant demand for all important musical events throughout the Dominion. Her singing of folk-songs at the Quebec Festival last spring, and later at the Banff Festival, when these wonderful feasts of music drew people from all over, were an outstanding feature of the programs.

Madame Dusseau leaves very soon on an extended tour of concert work, which will include a recital in New York City.

ROTARY CLUB IS ORGANIZED IN CAMPBELLFORD

Ninety-seven Rotarians and Prospetcv eiMembers Enjoy Banquet.

DIRECTORS APPOINTED.

New Organization Will Be Fostered By Belleville Club Extend Greetings.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 17 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Yesterday another name was added to the list of organizations and societies of which this town may boast. Rotary came in with a bang, and if the dinner last night may be taken as an indication of the success which the local club may expect, the organization will not long be junior in any other way than by virtue of its age. Ninety-seven Rotarians and prospective members enjoyed an excellent meal served in the Parish Hall, Rear street, by the ladies of Christ Church. There was much gayety during the meal and an excellent impromptu program kept things lively till the time arrived for the more serious business of forming the local club. The motion to form a club here was made by N. Alex MacCall and Charles Davidson, Warden of the Counties. It was granted and carried by a standing vote of the Campbellford men present. Five members were appointed to the board of directors: N. Alex MacCall; Harold N. Carr; E. Brunelle; E. C. Dolman, and Dr. H. B. Longmore. To these men will fall the major portion of the work of forming the club and getting it going in full swing.

Second Attempt

This is the second attempt to form a Rotary Club in Campbellford. Some time ago members from a neighboring club visited the town and attempted to interest some of the local business and professional men in the movement. But nothing came of the venture. Approximately one month ago, several members of the Belleville club paid an unexpected visit to the town and invited as many as possible of the business and professional men to take dinner at the St. Lawrence Hotel for the purpose of discussing Rotary. On this occasion there was little actually accomplished and the Belleville Rotarians paid a second visit. This time there was a committee appointed to see what could be done. Later, twelve local men were guests of the Belleville club at their regular luncheon at the Hotel Quinte, Belleville. Last night, Rotarians from practically every club within a radius of seventy miles, were present to wish the newly-organized local club every success and to assure them of every assistance which could be rendered. The local club will be officially fostered by the Belleville Rotarians, but it is understood that this does not mean other clubs cannot be called upon when desired.

Among the Rotary clubs represented were: Belleville, Napanee, Peterborough, Port Hope, Cobourg, Lindsay, Trenton. Those of the visitors who spoke, wishing the new organization every success on behalf of their home clubs, were Al Killaly of Peterborough; Jack Stenhouse of Cobourg; Kenneth Couch of Trenton; Wilfred Wilson of Napanee; Frank Joell of Lindsay, and Stanley Hodgetts of Port Hope. There was also a telegram from the Belleville Kiwanis Club wishing the Campbellford Rotarians every success and expressing a desire to co-operate with them. Bernard Collins of Belleville also extended the greetings of the Kiwanis Club there. It is expected that the weekly dinners of the local Rotary club will be held each Wednesday.

POPPY DAY IS BIG SUCCESS

Amount Received Passes All Previous Records in Lakefield.

TO PRESENT PLAY.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 17. —Saturday was poppy day in Lakefield and all day long and late into the evening a bevy of bright young girls sold the bright hued flowers of remembrance which were worn on both Saturday and Sunday by hundreds of people. The amount received passed all records and the girls received the heartiest vote of thanks from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion, who entertained them in the Council Chamber at the end of the day's work, while the money was being counted by Mr. W. H. Casement (who is a warm friend of the veterans) and Mr. F. Moon.

The tagging was done under the direction of the Ladies' Auxiliary and the young girls who assisted were Misses Margaret Tanner, Reba Preston, Merle Webster, Valieta Carveth, Annie Coughlin, Josephine White, Alma Tighe, Ellen Moore, Lulu Smith, Mary Dever, Dorothy Sutton and Ethel Blakeley.

Visits House of Refuge.

A company from the Lakefield Baptist church visited the House of Refuge on Tuesday night. The pastor, Rev. J. B. McCormack, addressed the old people, illustrating his address with lantern slides. The subject of the address was, "The man who could not defend his actions," with a gospel theme. The old time hymns thrown on the screen and sung were much enjoyed by the old people, all of whom were present who were able to leave their rooms.

The five act play, "The Young Minister," will be put on in the Lakefield town hall on Wednesday evening, November 21st, by the young people of Lakehurst, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of Knox church.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE HITS NEW HIGH RECORD MARK

Hysterical Bullish Outburst Carries 75 Issues To New Levels.

6,714,400 SHARES SOLD.

Trading On Curb Market Also Established New Record Mark.

(By Stanley W. Prendsll, Associated Press Financial Editor.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—All trading records on the New York Stock Exchange were smashed yesterday when 6,714,400 shares changed hands in a hysterical outburst of bullis henthusiasm which carried nearly 75 issues to record high levels on gains running as high as $23 a share.

This exceeds the previous record, established only last Monday, by 1,043,800 shares. The final sale of the day was printed on the ticker at 5.03 p.m., two hours and three minutes after the closing gong had sounded. Trading on the New York Curb Market also established a record high with a turnover of 2,151,800 shares, as against the previous high of 1,835,100 shares.

The spark which ignited this country-wide conflagration of speculation was the weekly statement of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, published after the close of Thursday's market, which showed a gain of less than $2,000,000 in brokers' borrowings as against early estimates of $100,000,000 or more. In view of the gigantic trading and rising prices of the past week, some skeptical traders were inclined to the belief that the true loan picture was not shown by the Federal Reserve, because large borrowings probably had been made through foreign and other non-member institutions. The large majority of speculators, however, accepted it as a proof of their theory that a tremendous volume of stocks had been purchased outright and taken out of the market, many of them by "sold out bulls" who had tired of waiting for the major reaction in prices which has not yet materialized.

Wildest Opening in History

The opening of the market was the wildest that Wall Street has ever seen. Specialists in the various active stocks were so deluged with orders "at the market" that they were forced to appeal to the Stock Exchange officials to appoint committees to set fair opening quotations. For instance, there were 30,000 shares of Packard Motors wanted at the opening and only 10,000 shares offered. The stock opened with a block of 10,000 shares at $116.87½, ran up later to a new high record at $118.87½ and closed at $117.75, up $8.25 net.

Total sales appearing on the tape in the first 15 minutes after the market opened fell just short of 600,000 shares. Within a few minutes after the opening, word came back from the floor that the tape was sixteen minutes late. The delay was increased to an hour by mid-day, and to seventy-five minutes at 2.45 p.m. The bunching of last minute orders accounting for the final delay of more than two hours.

A.Y.P.A. HOLDS BANQUET IN MILLBROOK

Members From District Churches Hold Enthusiastic Meeting.

HALL DECORATED.

Canadians Are Urged To Study Opportunities Offered By Their Country.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 17.—The annual banquet of the Peterborough and District Local Council of the Anglican Young People's Association was held in the Armouries on Thursday, November 15, at 7.30 p.m., covers being laid for one hundred and fifty guests, and when the workers of the Saint Thomas' church branch had been seated, practically every chair at the tables was occupied.

The A.Y.P.A. colors were exemplified in the blue runners centring the white tea cloths of the long tables, vases of flowers and bowls of rosy-cheeked apples giving added attractiveness to the daintily-laid and bountifully supplied board.

Seated at the head table were Howard Jordan, district president, and Mrs. Jordan; the speaker of the evening, S. Wilson, editor and publisher of the Times-Guide, Weston, and Mrs. Wilson; Miss M. Sadington, of the Toronto Local Council, and vice-president of the Weston Branch of the A. Y. P. A.; Leonard Davies, president of the Weston Branch A.Y.P.A.; Rev. Mr. Weir, of Omemee, and Rev. Mr. Hughes, rector of Saint George's church, Peterborough, past presidents of the Peterborough and District Local Council; Miss Blanche Graham of Lakefield, and Cecil Hope, of Saint Luke's Branch, Peterborough; Mr. Maniece of Peterborough, district vice-president; Mr. David Bachelor of the Saint John's church branch, Peterborough; and Miss M. B. Turner, B.A., vice-president of the Saint Thomas' church branch, Millbrook.

Mr. Jordan acted as toast master, and Miss Dorothy Worboy, of the All Saints' branch, Peterborough, was the pianist of the evening.

The Toasts.

Community singing was enjoyed immediately following the banquet, and after the toast to "The King" had been duly honored, the chairman called upon Miss M. B. Turner, B.A., vice-president of the local branch, to give the address of welcome, the rector, Rev. Canon Allen, who should have performed this duty, being ab-

400 ARE SERVED AT FOWL SUPPER

Soloist and Elocutionist entertain Audience With Fine Program.

HAROLD, Nov. 17 (Examiner Correspondence).—Four hundred people attended the fowl supper on Monday evening in the Orange Hall, Springbrook, held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid and in connection with the anniversary services held on Sunday. Everyone was loud in their praises of the good things provided and, as usual, the supper was a decided success.

The program of entertainment was opened by Rev. P. T. Gardiner, who acted as chairman. Mr. Gardiner, after a few opening words, called on Miss Bessie Conley, soloist, of Stirling, and Miss Anna Lafferty, elocutionist, of Belleville. These were very enthusiastically received and encores were given after each number. Addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Backley, of Marmora circuit, and Rev. Mr. Rowland of Stirling, which were enjoyed by all.

Girl Is Ordained In Father's Pulpit

GRAND RAPIDS, Nov. 17.—After having served five years as pastor of the Bostwick Lake Congregational Church, a pulpit held by her father for several years prior to his death, Miss Vesta A. Sturgis has been ordained a Congregational minister. When Miss Sturgis' father died it appeared doubtful if the parish could obtain another pastor for the small compensation it was able to pay and, consequently, the daughter, a school teacher, volunteered to do what she could until a minister could be engaged to carry on the work. She proved to be so acceptable the parish was unwilling to release her.

DRAMATIC CLUB PRESENTS PLAY

Characters in "Three Live Ghosts" Were Well Taken By Young People.

PROPERTY CHANGES.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 17 (Examiner Correspondence).—The play, "Three Live Ghosts," presented in the Town Hall here by the Orono Dramatic Club, under the auspices of the W.A. of St. Thomas' Church, drew a fairly good house, and won general commendation for the clever manner in which the various characters were taken.

This was not the first occasion when the Orono young people have earned for themselves high praise for the very creditable acting which characterizes their stage productions, and it is hoped that they will again be brought to the village for other entertainments during the months ahead. The cast of characters for the play on a recent evening was: Mrs. Gubbins, an old sweetheart, Mrs. C. Gamey; Peggy Winters, Miss M. Archer; Rose Gordon, Miss M. Dawson; Lady Leicester, Miss V. Neal; Jimmy Gibbins, Mr. David Robb; William Foster, Mr. J. Brown; Spoofy, Mr. C. Gamey; American Detective, Mr. A. Henry; Briggs (Scotland Yard) Mr. C. Thompson; Benson, Mr. L. Allin.

Property Changes

W. Kinaman is moving this week from the house on Main street, owned by Russell Brothers, to the house on Distillery street, recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Yake; the latter are now living in the apartments over Thorne and Yake's business premises, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Russell. Mr. and Mrs. R. Guthrie have moved into the house formerly owned and occupied by S. Sloan.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

IT HAS ALWAYS SEEMED TO ME that the absence of music in the home is a loss that cannot be supplied. The baby that is not soothed to sleep by a nursery song and whose cradle does not swing in rhythm with "Rock-a-Bye Baby" has lost something of its birthright.

A gay song chases away evil spirits. The music of David's harp transformed the inner nature of Saul. Anger flies out of the window when song and smiles come in at the door.

I like the old Spanish custom of beginning the day with song. The member of the family who rises first flings open the casement to the morning breeze, and begins to sing. One by one, the members of the family join in, and soon the song echoes and re-echoes from room to room. It is a beautiful salutation to one another and to the new day.

As I write, I can hear a canary singing. Between us there are walls and we cannot see each other. Between it and freedom—if it really would be freedom to a canary in a climate such as Canada has in the month of November—there are the bars of its cage. Yet it sings as if it were sitting amid the sunlight of its native land. Does that song help it to forget its prison bars and exile from home? Or is that its way of saying, "You can imprison this body of mine but my soul is free, and in my singing moments I seem to be out of the body and back in the land where I really belong!

BETTER THAN A CANARY.

Jesus once said, "How much better is a man than a sheep!" I wonder how many of us are demonstrating that we are better than a canary? When our circumstances play the part of prison bars do we sit and sulk or do we soar and sing? Or, to change the figure, are we like ancient Israel standing before the deep waters of some sea? Enemies pursuing us and no pathway of escape before us. Do we murmur and complain? Or do we, at the command of God's Word, go forward? As we advance, so does the horizon advance and widen; as we go forward in the journey of life, our perspectives change and broaden. Let us commence every day with a song and journey on with a smile.

"But for those first affections,
Those shadowy recollections,
Which, be they what they may,
Are yet the fountain light of all our day."

Every day is bringing us nearer heaven! And in heaven we shall live in our own element. We are now as fish in a vessel of water, only so much as will keep them alive; but what is that to the ocean? We have a little air let in to us, to afford us breathing; but what is that to the sweet and fresh gales upon Mount Zion? We have a beam of the sun to lighten our darkness, and a warm ray to keep us from freezing; and then we shall live in its light, and be revived by its heat forever.

In this world it is not what we take up, but what we give up that makes us rich. It is the man that makes the place. Personality is a stronger force than environment; Abraham would have immortalized the Plain of Sodom, Lot would have left Mount Moriah in its native obscurity. Lot chose the rich plain for the same reason that the ox chooses the rich pasture, and he has the ox's reward; he is browsing there still. I am quite convinced that if Lot started the day with a song he started his song on the wrong key!

A SPIRITUAL PRESCRIPTION.

What I herewith prescribe has been tried out in my own experience and found beneficial. I am not making any experiment on my readers.

I suppose you are sometimes down with an attack of the blues! Even Elijah could not avoid them. At such times, read the twenty-third Psalm. Read it and keep on reading it until the music and the swing of it gets into your soul. If you will do this your fit of the blues will soon be a thing of the past.

In spite of our best care we occasionally get a chilly sensation about the heart! The best remedy for this is to sit down quietly and ponder the third chapter of Revelation. This will help you when all else fails.

Most of us get discouraged at times. My advice to all such is to read Psalm 26 and Galatians 6:7-9. If you ever feel out of sorts read the twelfth chapter of Hebrews.

If the stovepipe has fallen down and the cook gone off in a pet, put up the pipe, wash your hands, and read the first chapter of James. It is only fair to add that I have never had such an experience as this myself; when I do—and there's no telling when I may have it—I shall take my own medicine.

PICKED UP IN PASSING.

Spend a little time to-day in meditating upon those wonderful words of Paul in Ephesians 2:19, when he says, "Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens with the saints and of the household of God." Then ask yourself this question: "How is my inner life developing in the light of my privileges as presented in these words?"

Why is it that we know so little of our household privileges? Why do we grasp so feebly our family heritage? We are too low down. Too many of us are on the plain, always in the dust of the level. The hedgerows are high, the walls of separation appear insurmountable, and we walk on somewhat wearily and often fretfully, in our own little beaten path. There is many a child of God who is entitled to reign like a prince, who continues to live like a miser. Why not climb to the higher ground, get from the lowlands to the highlands, above the mists and fogs? The air is purer as we get closer to Him.

"Far above the mists 'tis clear,
Though the earth-clouds seem so drear,
Faith can whisper even here —
Jesus knows."

He enjoys much who is thankful for a little. A grateful mind is a great mind. The juice which distils into a rose is returned in a sweet perfume; but that which drops upon a nettle is returned in an ill savor.

WILL YOU BELIEVE THIS?

God's sweetest dealings with us at the present would not be half so sweet as they are if they did not intimate some further sweetness. One has said: "Thou takest but the bare earnest, and overlookest the main sum, when thou receivest thy mercies, and forgettest thy crown." O that Christians were skilled in this art! Open your Bible and sit before it with an open heart; learn to open also the volumes of creation and providence to read also in these two volumes of God and glory. Thus we might have a fuller taste of Christ and heaven in every common meal than most men have in a sacrament. If you prosper in the world, let it make you more sensible of your perpetual prosperity through Christ. If you are weary with labor, let it make the thoughts of your eternal rest more sweet. And when things go cross, let your desires be more earnest to have sufferings and sorrows for ever cease.

SINGING STILL.

By how much the higher the morning larks rise in their flight, by so much the sweeter are their notes. The same law operates in Christian experience; the higher a Christian is raised above the things of earth the more he is ravished with the joys of heaven. Let us dwell in desire if not in very deed where sovereign grace has placed us "high above all principalities and powers." "Set your affections" there!

It is comforting to remember that God always gives prison songs for prison sufferings and they're often the richest in harmony. Some caged birds sing with as much melody as any which enjoy sky liberty. These nightingales warble the most sweetly, when they set their breasts against the thorns.

"O His matchless, boundless love:
Still there's more to follow."

Anxious and troubled soul, does your life seem at best a tangled web? All such thinking may be justified in your case; but what would it be if love and hope didn't weave into the hard warp of existence a woof of heart's-ease, roses and singing?

—Allan Fairbairn.

The Minister Remarks—

—If we had more honesty in religion there would be fewer shams and less hypocrisy.

—Many church-going people never get beyond a bowing acquaintance with religion.

—There's not much use in having sense if you have not acquired the art of using it in a definite way.

—There is no such thing as a ready-made education.

—A. F.

The Mark of a Superficial Mind

TO cast aspersions at Christian doctrine is the mark of a superficial mind. The spiritual life can only unfold in a congenial atmosphere, and the fruit of the Spirit will always be found on trees rooted in the fields of faith. When orchids grow on icebergs and wheat fields are found on glaciers, then, and not until then, may we expect the flowers and fruit of the Spirit to flourish in anti-supernatural and non-evangelical soil.—"The Seven Finalities of Faith."

—By Dr. A. Z. Conrad.

WHO DOES IT?

WHEN a woman darns her husband's socks, sees that the buttons are kept on his coat, doesn't make him wait for his meals and greets him with a smile and a kiss when she knows he is doing just the best he can—that is love.

But when she bows and scrapes to him when he throws money away at the club, instead of giving her a new dress, buys cigars when the home needs a bit more of furniture and remains out late at night and expects her to sew—that is being a fool.

BREAKING THE SILENCE

I do not want to die and go to heaven; I want immortality to come to me from heaven; I want my mortal body to be clothed upon, changed and made immortal.

• • •

Laugh often! It is good for you and those near you. Don't grumble! It is bad for you and makes you a depressing nuisance to those about you.

• • •

Apart from the Second Coming of Christ you have not a single fragment of Scripture which, under legitimate exegesis, warrants you even to expect the resurrection.

Think of it: The closing hours of the age filled with terrific judgments from heaven and the Son of God coming in flaming fire, in wrath and anger, to smite the earth!

Not Under Lock And Key

WHEN a certain public speaker announced that he would speak on, "The Key to Success," he was rather unfortunate in his title, for the simple reason that there is no such thing as a key to success. Every intelligent person ought to know that success is not under lock and key. It cannot be either patented or copyrighted.

Success has always been a matter of hard work, and it never can be anything else. Whatever short-cuts there may be in this world there is none to success.

Go through the list of really successful men to-day, and you will not find an idler among the number. It is impossible to find a single man or woman who can be classed as successful who has not worked long and hard and patiently.

There are opportunities that come to some which do not come to others. Such opportunities may lead to success; but if we are to reach the goal it will only be as the result of hard work. Anything that comes in any other way—no matter how much it may look like it—is not real success.

Take, for an illustration, any famous musician. He may be looked upon as a musical genius. Get close enough to his history and you will discover that he began early, that he worked day and night to perfect himself in his art, that he has never ceased working, and that while his admiring and applauding audiences are asleep, after his performance, he is hard at work. Genius has been defined as perspiration. After all allowance has been made for unusual gifts, not even genius has reached success without hard work.

To be left wealth, as sometimes happens; to have unearned honors conferred upon us, is not success unless we hammer it about us with the hard knocks of eternal work. There is no key to success; success is not locked up. Anybody can reach it if willing and ready to work hard.

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

CHARLES KINGSLEY says of Turner, the greatest Nature-painter of any age, that he spent hours upon hours in mere contemplation of Nature, without using his pencil at all. It is said of him that he was seen to spend a whole day sitting upon a rock, and throwing pebbles into a lake; and, when at evening his fellow-painters showed him their day's sketches, and rallied him upon having done nothing, he answered them: "I have done this at least—I have learnt how a lake looks when pebbles are thrown into it."

We must beware of "untheological devotion," which mistakes zeal for spirituality, and noise for power.

• • •

Devotional acts, cold and calculating, may be pushed in anywhere, and with a scrupulous economy of time, but not so the devotions of a true Christian. Those who have spent most time in prayer have accomplished most.

• • •

Devotional life is much more than the sum of devotional acts; it is an atmosphere, an attitude and energy.

• • •

To-day some of us are so well educated in cause and effect that if we have a pain in the knee we suspect that something may be wrong with our teeth.

A Pen Picture

MORE than a half a million men are marching home from the war! What a sight they are as the sunshine glances from their spears and shields! These are no mere parade-ground troops, for the enemy whom they have conquered far outnumbered them, and see, too, what spoil they are bringing home!

From the high ground on which we stand we can get an extensive view, and yet even those great droves of cattle are but a small portion, and those columns of soldiery but a few of all the returning multitude. Many no doubt will hasten to welcome the victors and to give them an enthusiastic reception; but above all the rest we notice one man wending his way down the hilly road. It is not his height nor is it his dress that attracts us, but a look in his eye, and an expression on his countenance.

Whence do they come? They are not of earth—that man holds communion with his God. No wonder that the soldiers halt to receive him—he has a message for them and their general. Theirs has been a wonderful victory, it is true, but he speaks to them of a stouter foe, a fiercer fight, and a victory far more glorious. His words bring home conviction to those who listen; a holy zeal is kindled in their bosoms, courage and enthusiasm are written on their faces, and unless we are much mistaken this day which many thought to be the end of fighting is the beginning of a new warfare which shall bring far greater blessings to the nation than even that glorious victory from which they have just returned.

The key to the previous Pen Picture of Bible History is to be found in Mark 15:4-46. Did anyone discover it?

The present Pen Picture will be found in some part of 2 Chronicles. Read the book and find the picture for yourself.

THINK OF THIS

AFTER all, it is not great talents, great intellect, great power, great genius, that God most loves. It is those gentle and whole characteristics inspired by a sense of duty to men and to God. Many a servant in a palace has been greater than the king upon his throne, many a soldier in the ranks greater than the general on his horse. Many a pupil trembling under the eye of the great professor has been finer, nobler, grander, than his instructor. Specific gravity varies with the elements. Some things that are very heavy in air are very light in water. Some things that are very small on earth are very large in heaven. Meditate upon the following statement which is taken from the Greatest Book in all the world: "He that is but little in the kingdom of God is greater than he."

Maybe we have failed in our prayer-life to a large extent in consequence of imagining that it was to be all heart, and that a deliberate effort of the mind and will would make it less spiritual.—Dr. Scroggie.

WHY BE AFRAID?

MAN is a timid animal; in each little pain he senses the pangs of dissolution; every ache he invests with the potentiality of a fatal malady; and, though such be his nature, he takes no care lest his body becomes unfit and, consequently, diseased. Man lets himself become fat and soft, or thin and flabby, as his physical heritage is, doses himself with drugs, feels miserable — and reaches for more medicine. Would he but forget his aches and take exercise in the air of the open, he could soon rid himself of most of his usually imaginary fears about his own health. The out-of-doors, that's the great panacea. Why be afraid? The human body can stand things that would kill a horse.

FAIR PLAY IS ASKED.

The appeal of Sir Burton Chadwick, Deputy Master of the Honorable Company of Master Mariners, for fair play for the officers of the ill-fated liner Vestris, would seem to be justified.

Captain Carey and other officers of the lost vessel have been already tried and condemned by the United States newspapers, the most lurid of which are hurling the gravest kind of charges.

Until there is an official inquiry into the disaster it would be well to suspend judgment

There are several features in connection with the loss of the Vestris that are, of course, difficult to understand.

The reported slowness in appealing for assistance is one of the most mysterious features of the tragedy.

A proper inquiry may throw light upon these things, and in the meantime it would be charitable as well as precedent to refrain from wholesale condemnation.

The traditions of British seamanship are so free from the suspicion of cowardice that the ugly stories circulated in regard to the conduct of the crew of the Vestris should not be accepted unless they can be substantiated in testimony before a proper tribunal.

WOULD SOLVE THE PROBLEM.

Hon. Dr. David Jamieson's statement that he has recommended the extension of mothers' allowances to the the wives of criminals serving long sentences, will create considerable interest.

It is presumed that the chairman of the Mothers' Allowance Board would include in his recommendation the wives of men serving a six months' sentence under the Liquor Control Act, even if such men might not be considered as criminals.

In view of the fact that in most cases, at least, the Government has sold the liquor responsible for these men being in jail, it may be regarded as logical that the Government should do something for the families they deprived of a breadwinner.

That point aside, however, Dr. Jamieson's suggestion would do much to solve a vexatious problem.

It is a distressing feature of the administration of justice that when a married man is imprisoned the greatest punishment is borne by the wife and family who are left to battle the wolf away from the door.

The man himself is at least clothed and fed and kept warm; there is no guaranty that the woman and children left at home have clothes or food or fuel.

The extension of mothers' allowances to such families offers an effective method of dealing with a troublesome situation, repeated many times over in most municipalities each year.

A TRIBUTE TO ONTARIO'S FLYERS.

The tribute paid to Ontario's aerial forestry patrol by Evan David, noted American authority on aeronautics, who says the forestry flying service in this Province is the most effective and efficient that he has seen, is a gratifying recognition of the progress that is being made in a solid but unspectacular way in the development of aviation in Canada.

It is just beginning to be recognized that while the flyers of other nations have been monopolizing the headlines by reason of sensational oceanic flights, Canadian aviators in the forestry patrol and in the opening up of the northern mining fields have been making a substantial contribution to the every-day usefulness of aircraft.

Leaving to others the circus stunts, these Canadian birdmen have been methodically demonstrating that the airplane is not merely a machine for making spectacular hops, but is a safe, efficient and reliable method of rapid transportation that can be used to advantage for many purposes of great importance to the development of this country.

Mr. David says the Provincial aerial forestry patrol furnishes "unusually fine service in timber-cruising by air, map-making and other public services. In fact, there are many things they could teach us across the line in this type of work and organization."

It is fortunate that once in a while, at least, some recognition is given of the splendid work being done by Canadian flyers.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

The preliminary report on old age pensions made after an investigation by the committee on research of the Social Service Council of Canada throws considerable light upon the cost of the system to Ontario when this Province adopts the Federal plan.

It is estimated by the Social Service Council that the cost to the Provincial Government would be between $4,500,000 and $5,000,000 a year, or about $1.50 per head of population, while as the people of Ontario have to pay their share of the Dominion contribution to old age pensions, about 9 per cent. would be added to the ordinary annual expenditure of the Province.

The cost to the Western Provinces where the percentage of old people is much smaller than in the East is comparatively light when compared to Ontario's contribution.

In British Columbia, for example, only about 2 per cent. additional expenditure is involved.

The Social Service Council's estimate of the number of eligible pensioners throughout the Dominion is 99,000, which would represent a yearly cost to the Federal Government of $11,860,920.

There is, however, no indication of Quebec's participation in the scheme, and provincial leaders in the Maritimes have declared that it would be impossible for their Provinces to adopt the present plan.

Old age pensions are at present being paid in British Columbia, the Yukon, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and Premier Ferguson has announced that Ontario will fall in line at the coming session of the Legislature.

ONE OF CANADA'S GREATEST INDUSTRIES THREATENED.

Premier Taschereau's decision to call a conference of provincial premiers and others to consider what may be done regarding a danger that threatens the Canadian newsprint industry does not come too soon. For the price-cutting situation that has developed during the past week or two, consequent upon over-production by Canadian mills, is one that has brought about a grave crisis, not only for those who have invested their money in the industry, but for thousands of Canadian workingmen, and, indeed, for a considerable portion of the financial and industrial fabric of the nation. To state the position simply, the price of $50 a ton which has been named for newsprint next year cannot, under the most favorable circumstances, permit a fair return upon invested capital. That price, therefore, is but temporary. It cannot continue for more than a few months; but in the meantime a great part of the industry may be crippled.

* * * *

The growth of the newsprint industry in Canada is one of the romances of post-war commerce. Attracted by a mighty demand for paper, created by an unprecedented outpouring of books, periodicals, magazines, and more particularly by a growth in the size and circulation of newspapers across the line that was simply stupendous, capital came flowing into Canada to exploit the vast forests which are among this country's great heritages. Mills began to dot the land; great water-powers were developed; communities with all sorts of expensive social agencies financed by the newsprint companies clustered round the industries; vast timber limits were auctioned off by provincial governments without much thought of the future. For a time all went well. Heedless of the warnings of people who declared that the industry was being over-developed, that a surplus production was in sight, and that our forests were being recklessly denuded, Americans and Canadians poured their money into further enterprises with astonishing abandon. Except for the development of water power, there was nothing like it.

* * * *

Now has come the reckoning. Despite the glutton appetites of a certain class of United States newspapers, with their hourly and gigantic editions, their daily waste of tons of paper, and despite the tabloids and other trash that are published in large United States cities, a time came when the newsprint market became glutted. There is not only over-production; there is over-capacity.

* * * *

The consequence is that the newsprint industry finds itself faced with a crisis. Newsprint is not something that, once manufactured, can be kept off the market. With its great bulk, the warehousing cost of controlling its sale is such almost as to be prohibitive; and, in addition to this, the overhead of the industry, with its great waterpowers, its expensive plants and machinery, is very great. Therefore, the situation that confronts the paper mills is that they must either go on selling their products at a price that will not bring them a return on their invested capital—and denude Canadian forests at a loss—or they must close down.

* * * *

Clearly, therefore, this is a situation which must be met by some sensible arrangement among the newsprint manufacturers themselves, backed up by the co-operation of the provincial governments. To permit the situation to drift, at the mercy of a price-cutting war that could only end in disaster for many, with an ultimate monopoly of the whole business by a few later on, with consequent soaring of prices for everybody, would be a grave piece of folly.

* * * *

Certainly the newsprint industry should not and cannot be lost to Canada. What is has meant and means to-day to the Dominion may be illustrated by a glance at its growth, as shown by the latest figures in the Canada Year Book:

	Production.
1917	689,847 tons
1918	734,783 "
1919	794,567 "
1920	875,696 "
1921	805,114 "
1922	1,081,364 "
1923	1,251,541 "
1924	1,388,081 "
1925	1,536,523 "
1926	1,899,208 "
1927	2,062,289 "

Taking pulp and newsprint combined, the value of the total production turned out by 118 mills last year was roughly $235,000,000. Seven years ago it was but $154,000,000. And the capital invested in the industry is colossal. It is close upon $550,000,000. The industry employs over 30,000 people; is the source of livelihood for 150,000 Canadians; provides an enormous traffic for Canadian railways; and pays out annually in salaries and wages $45,000,000.

* * * *

Clearly, therefore, anything threatening the life of this industry is of deep concern to the whole Dominion. The truth is, indeed, that the pulp and paper industry is interwoven with the warp and woof of our entire industrial and financial life, and that, consequently, this peril to it challenges the best of courage and common sense that industrialists and governments can bring to bear upon it.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Citizens are reminded of Monday night's Old Home Week meeting. A good start means everything.

A safety bulletin aptly points out that four-wheeled brakes are useless without fore-sighted drivers.

And now they are hinting at a Federal election next year. If the guesses prove true the public should benefit to the extent of some substantial tax reductions. A pre-election Budget is usually a Christmas tree.

The report of the Peterborough branch Employment Bureau indicates that real farm laborers, immigrants who want to do farm work, can be accommodated in this district. The bureau placed 218 farm workers, and adds, "and could have placed twice that number had men been available."

Perhaps it is just as well President Coolidge has not done much talking during his term of office.

A Thought

WEAKNESS.

To do anything because others do it, and not because the thing is good, or kind, or honest in its own right, is to resign all moral control and captaincy upon yourself, and go post-haste to the devil with the greater number.

The respectable are not led so much by any need of applause as by a positive need for countenance. The weaker and the tamer the man the more will he require this support and any positive quality relieves him, by just so much of this dependence.—R. L. Stevenson.

GOD'S MINUTE.

Praise the Lord, call upon His Name.—Isa. 12:4.

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, in Whom we live and move and have our being, from Thy hand comes down every good and perfect gift; and we humbly thank Thee for all Thy loving kindness to us.

We come before Thee confessing our sins, for which we ask Thy forgiveness. Bless us in our bodies and our spirits, which are Thine. Grant us food and strength and clothing and shelter as we need. And give us grace to know and do Thy holy will. Make the path of duty plain before us; keep us from temptation and from sin, enabling us to glorify Thee upon the earth.

Bless, too, all our loved ones whom, in the arms of our prayer, we would bring before Thee. Heal any who are sick, comfort the sorrowful and strengthen any who are faltering; grant them each one Thy favor, in which is life; Thy loving kindness, which is better than life.

Remember graciously the community in which we dwell, in all its interests temporal and spiritual. Prosper Thy Church among us, and give success to its work. Bless our country, and make us that happy people whose God is the Lord. Send out Thy light and Thy truth, and hasten the coming of Thy Kingdom.

In Jesus' Name. Amen.

LOCAL HOG PRICES

Live hogs, thick, smooth, $8.75 cwt.; select graded, $9.25; dressed hogs, head on, $15; head off, $16 cwt.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—Activity centred around all choice cattle, which brought higher values than last week. A gain of 25 cents cwt. was made on butcher steers and heifers. Heavy cattle remain slow. The total run was light, and even with the holiday on Monday, a brisker demand was evident.

Choice heavy steers were draggy at $9.50 to $10. Light butcher steers of finished quality sold at $9.50 to $10 with an odd sale higher. The best heifers sold well at $9 to $10. Good steers and heifers $9 to $9.25, and common butchers $7.50 to $8.75.

Few baby beeves came in. Choice sold to a firm trade at $13 to $13.50. Medium $10 to $11.

Cows showed a full 25c cwt. gain at $7.75 to $8.25 for choice. Good $7.25 to $7.75. Medium $6 to $6.75. Canners and cutters were stronger to a better feeling at $4 to $5.50.

All classes of bulls remained steady. Choice heavy at $7.00 to $7.50, and light butcher bulls at $7.50 to $8.50. Bolognas between $5.50 and $6.25.

There still remains a demand for stocker and feeder cattle. Sales of choice yearling heifers were made at $7.75. Stocker steers, $8.50 to $9.00. Feeding steers, $9 to $9.50.

An increase was made in the calf trade. A jump of 25c was shown for choice veal at $14.50 to $15.50. Some fancy were turned over at $16. Good $13 to $14. Grassers, $7 to $9.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—There was a good demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for wheat and oats here yesterday and a fair amount of business was done for November shipment.

A feature of the local grain market was the demand from exporters for Manitoba spring wheat on spot and sales of several loads of No. 4 wheat were made at two cents per bushel over the Winnipeg November option, c.i.f. Montreal. The trade in car lots continued good and prices were firm.

Considerable business was transacted with the United Kingdom and the continent in spring wheat flour for November-December and January-February shipment. The domestic trade was also active and values were unchanged.

The millfeed market was fairly active with a firm undertone. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was fair and values were steady.

The inquiry for eggs continued good and values for all grades were firmly maintained. Receipts were 1,544 cases.

The bean market was steady. Imported grades sold at $5.25 per bushel and Canadian qualities at $4.85 to $4.90 per bushel, ex-store.

The trade in potatoes continued active and values were about steady. New Brunswick Green Mountains sold at 65c per bag of 90 lbs., in bulk, and Prince Edward Island grades at 78c to 83c in bags.

An active business was done in butter and prices were firm. Receipts were 111 packages.

The local and foreign demand for cheese showed no improvement but values were firmly maintained. Receipts were 2,358 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—The grain trade actively centered to a large extent yesterday on corn, with nervousness prevailing about unseasonable delay to the main movement of the corn crop.

Rains were in progress all over the corn belt states and the outlook was for continued downpours that threatened to retard husking and hauling, even after weather conditions improve.

Closing quotations on corn future deliveries were stronger at ¾c to 2c a bushel net advance, wheat closed unsettled at the same as Thursday's finish to ¼c up; oats a shade to ⅜c higher, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 5c.

Chief anxiety regarding the corn situation was shown by previous speculative sellers of the December delivery of corn, and they made haste to switch to the buying side of the market. After a substantial bulge in prices that followed, a material reaction from the top level was witnessed, but renewed urgency to purchase brought about rallies during the trade near the end of the day. Despite assertions in various quarters that Europeans were relinquishing corn which had been bought for export, dispatches from St. Louis said exporters were taking number 4 and number 5 corn there. Meanwhile, shipping demand here was good, and vessel charters were made for 120,000 bushels of corn to Buffalo, as well as for 100,000 bushels to Georgian Bay.

On the other hand, rather persistent selling of March and May deliveries of corn was in evidence at times yesterday, besides, actual arrivals of corn in Chicago yesterday wre liberal, 400 cars, and receipts at primary points totaled 1,224,000 bushels against 658,000 bushels a week ago and 391,000 bushels on the corresponding day last year. However, country offerings to arrive were practically nothing. Argentine corn shipments for the week amounted to 4,592,000 bushels, a reduction of about 1,000,000 bushels compared with the week preceding. Oats averaged higher with corn.

Wheat kept within a relatively narrow price range and toward the last was eased by reports that Argentine weather is now generally dry and therefore favorable for the progress of the Argentine harvest.

Besides, Australian advices said New South Wales is about to harvest wheat from the largest area since 1916, and that the plant condition is above average.

Winterfront for Chevrolets

WHEN you guess about what to do for your motor in cold weather—9 times in 10 your guess is wrong—and your motor suffers.

Motor Protection must be Automatic

You have noticed the shutters now standard equipment on many leading cars. They are automatic. Their makers take no chances with cold. There is no waiting for the smell of heat—no guessing it's cold. Automatic motor protection guards your motor with scientific accuracy. The shutters open themselves when your motor needs cool air. They close themselves when your motor needs heat. Cadillac, Lincoln, LaSalle, Hupmobile 8, Chrysler 75 and 80, Dodge Senior Six and Pierce-Arrow now have this protection.

And now, so that Chevrolet owners can enjoy the same protection afforded owners of these fine cars, a specially priced Pines Automatic Winterfront is offered you. One that costs but little more than makeshift methods.

Pines Automatic Winterfront gives you full protection against excess dilution, scored pistons and cylinder walls, fouled spark plugs, corrosion and extreme carbonization. These are the troubles that bring costly repair bills and lower the efficiency of your motor.

Drive in—have your car equipped in a few minutes—and forget the danger of cold as long as you own it. Thermostats are guaranteed.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhoea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless that they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

SAFETY FIRST MEETING.

Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Calls Annual Meeting.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, Nov. 17—The third annual safety First mass meeting to be held at Deloro on the evening of November 21, for the employees of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, promises to be another auspicious event. L. V. Dixon of the Dunlop Tire Company, will be the chief speaker. A musical program has been arranged and educational and other films will be shown. With every inducement being offered the men to attend there is sure to be a full house.

WOMEN TO PRESENT MISSION PAGEANT

Women's Auxiliary of United Church Holds Regular Monthly Meeting.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 17. — Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones was hostess for the November meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the United Church, held at the parsonage on Wednesday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Jones, was in the chair for the opening business period, during which the recommendation of the executive that an open meeting be held at the church on December 11, and the missionary pageant published in the July 'Missionary Monthly' be presented, was adopted, the list of characters submitted being also received with approval. There will be other items on the program, and a silver collection will be taken. The meeting chiefly to present the claims of the W.M.S. official paper and to induce a number of women of the church to become subscribers.

Accepts Invitation

The invitation from the Mission Circle to attend its Thanksgiving At Home the same evening, in the church parlors, was gratefully accepted, and the treasurer, Miss M. E. Hetherington, reported a total of $207 on hand to date. This was considerably augmented when the autumn thank-offering was received, amounting to nearly fifty dollars, and fees were paid in bringing the total up approximately ten dollars more.

Mrs. T. H. Aiken, convenor of Group D, took the chair for the formal program, Mrs. R. H. Edmunds reading the devotional leaflet on "My Possessions," based upon Romans 14:7 "For none of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself."

The third chapter in the study book, "Drums in the Darkness," was impressively taken up by Miss Hetherington, and Mrs. H. W. Johnson sang a solo "What will you give to Jesus?" to the great pleasure of the listeners. ...

The December meeting will be held at the parsonage, the chief feature being the election of officers. A pleasant social hour was enjoyed at the close of Wednesday's meeting, during which Group D served homemade candy; the Auxiliary has been following the practice, in recent months, of not always serving tea after the regular gathering, the plan of dispensing with this custom occasionally, having been found more convenient for the hostess, and the group in charge.

sent owing to the unsatisfactory state of his health.

Mr. Maniece replied, expressing appreciation on behalf of the guests of the generous hospitality and the kind welcome extended by the Millbrook branch.

The toast to "The Church" was proposed by Cecil Hope, who traced the growth of this great institution from its origin in the one Man, Christ Jesus, then its development through the twelve disciples, the increase of its membership to afew hundreds until to-day the church of England has fifty million members within its fold. "As I give you this toast, 'The Church,' I would have you remember that it is built upon the faith of all its members."

Pressing Forward.

Response was made by Rev. Mr. Weir, of Omemee, who emphasized the theme "The Living Church," asserting that it is a mistaken idea, often in mind, to think of the church as something produced in the dim past, made in a perfect mould, and continuing without change ever since. "On the cnotrary, the church is ever pressing forward to something newer, fresher, and more perfect than the world has ever seen before."

Criticism from within the church, the speaker intimated, is not an unhealthy sign, but a stepping-stone to better things, and he believed those allied with the church should keep in touch with the outside world, giving thought as their best contribution to the welfare of this great religious institution. "We are working out the plan of God, the salvation of mankind, which was in His mind before the foundations of the world were laid."

The suggestion advanced by Rev. Mr. Hughes that a telegram of the heartiest congratulations and good wishes be sent to His Lordship Bishop J. F. Sweeny, who to-day is celebrating his seventy-first birthday, was received with approval and unanimously endorsed. The matter was left in the hands of the president, Mr. Jordan, and the district secretary, Miss Maretta Gray.

Greetings from St. John's Church, Weston, were brought by Leonard Davies, the president of that branch, who added, "We aer all links in a chain—the Diocese, the Province, and the Dominion—and we belong to an organization that has guided and inspired many lives."

Miss Blanche Graham, a well-known and greatly beloved worker, proposed the toast to "The A.Y.P.A." and in her opening remarks desired to thank the Peterborough and District Local Council for having made her a life member of this great organization. The certificate, handsomely framed, was passed round for inspection; it had been presented (by proxy, since the recipient was not able to be present) at the Dominion A.Y.P.A. conference at Windsor two weeks previously, an Miss Graham expressed herself as feeling highly honored by this mark of appreciation from her fellow-workers.

Fourfold Program.

The fourfold platform of the A.Y.P.A., 'Worship, Work, Fellowship, and Edification," was taken up in her address, and loyalty to these principles was strongly advocated. The hearty singing of "For she's a jolly good fellow," as Miss Graham sat down, was a fine tribute to her popularity and her efficient service to the Association.

Miss Sadington made response to the toast, bringing greetings from the Toronto District Council to its sister Council of Peterborough and district.

As an echo of the Dominion Conference, Miss Sadington spoke of the theme of this great gathering, "Building for the Future," mentioning that this would have to be done individually as branches, as local councils, and as a Dominion Association. "The best of materials are necessary, and we have these in one fourfold platform, and ideals. The A.Y.P.A. is a zone of safety for the young people of the Anglican church in Canada today."

The appointment of a full time field secretary for the A.Y.P.A. was dwelt upon happily, and hearty support in both money and prayer urged. The challenge of the Lord Bishop to "get busy and build" was passed on to the delegates, the intimation being that each should contribute "your bit of mortar, and your bit of brick," and the A.Y.P.A. would grow as an enduring, an important, and a life-saving part of the Mother Church.

Warm applause had greeted the remarks of all the speakers, and was vigorously increased as Mr. Wilson was called upon for his address, the guests singing heartily "He's a Jolly, Good Fellow," as he rose in response to his name, prefacing his earnest talk with a few words of appreciation for the invitation to be present, and speaking also of how deeply he had been impressed by the number of interested, capable workers there are in the A.Y.P.A.

Conservaion of Youth.

"The Conservation of Youth," was Mr. Wilson's theme, and he was anxious that it should sink deeply into the minds of all the young people present. Speaking specifically of the manner in which the government conserves the mineral, timber, agricultural, and fisheries wealth of the Dominion, the vastly greater importance of conserving the young manhood and womanhood of the country was emphasized. "Of what avail would it be to conserve the material wealth of Canada, had we not the men and women of fine Christian character to administer these things?" And how should a people of a high type of manhood and womanhood be produced were there no church to hold up high ideals? The four-fold ideals emanating from the A.Y.P.A. are great features being presented before our young people."

Mentioning the influence of the Supreme Being as productive of the finest development in the growing youth of the land, "This it was which led our boys, whom we commemorated on Sunday, to give their lives in freedom's cause," the question of "how shall youth be conserved?" was taken up. "By a systematic teaching, presentation, and living of the high ideals, passed on by the church, and exemplified in the life and death of our Lord Jesus Christ."

The importance of A.Y.P.A. members attending the early communion service of the church, and the spiritual vision obtained by many at this time of worship, was impressively presented, the inspiration to devote the life to active service for Christ having been the outcome for several of the young people of thus 'commemorating the Lord's death until He come."

Study Opportunities

Urging that Canadians should study the opportunities offered by their own country, rather than 'running off to the States for the big job and the big salary,' the speaker pointed out that the 'almighty dollar' should not be the only objective, but the obligation of service and the debt owing to one's own land should have first place.

"A definite responsibility rests upon each one of us; our Lord Bishop is expecting us, in this crisis, to fill our place, and to put into our branches all that each can give. The minds and hearts of young people are fertile soil, and our Lord Jesus Christ is looking to each one to develop not the reprobate, but the man and the woman who is in you."

Reciting the lines, "God give us men" Mr. Wilson closed his address, and after the applause had subsided one group began singing, "How do you do, Mr. Wilson, how do you do?" the others joining heartily in what was quite evidently meant for a tribute of warm-hearted appreciation.

The toast to "The Ladies" was proposed by Mr. Bachelor, of Peterborough, in a humorous manner, and was responded to by Miss B. Dawson, of the All Saints' branch, in a very capable way.

The formal vote of thanks to Mr. Wilson, and Miss Sadington, was moved by Mr. B. Graham, of St. John's branch, and seconded by Miss Blanche Graham; and the one to the local branch for the excellent meal provided, and the hospitality extended, was moved by Mr. Cecil Hope, of Saint Luke's branch, the whole body of guests giving an enthusiastic seconding.

The singing of "O Canada" brought a very memorable gathering to a fitting close.

WITNESS SAYS

with the intention of being definite about nothing at all?" Tuttle asked. "Was that the program?"

"No."

Lifeboat Leaked.

Veschere then told of leaving the radio cabin with the chief operator, who was drowned, and James MacDonald, another assistant wireless man, and sliding down the tilted deck of the ship into a lifeboat. This boat, he said, leaked, there was no drinking water, and no flares.

The only time during his long questioning that the youth smiled was when Tuttle at length said: "You may be excused now—temporarily."

James MacDonald, another radio assistant, followed young Veschere to the stand. MacDonald said he joined the Vestris November 10, the day she left New York, after having been a radio operator since 1915. Veschere had only been an operator for three months, and his experience consisted of one round trip to South America on the Vestris.

Listing on Saturday.

MacDonald testified he first noticed the ship listing at midnight Saturday, but said he spoke of it to nobody and that he did not hear it mentioned among the officers until the morning the ship sank.

"When was the first message sent out, except by passengers?" Mr. Tuttle asked him.

"It was a 'O.Q." message, telling all ships we might need help and to listen for us, on Monday morning," MacDonald replied.

"About 9 a.m.?"

"About that time."

"When was the S.O.S. sent?"

"Between 9 and 10—near 9, I'd say, but I couldn't swear to it."

Tried Many Remedies Without Success

Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended by Daughter

"I had such a Sore Back and tried several remedies without success," writes Mrs. M. Libby, 498 Julian St., Pembroke, Ont. "My daughter told me to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. I did so and when I had used two boxes my back was better."

The road to good health lies through the Kidneys. If they are kept strong and well all the impurities are strained out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the Kidneys in good condition to do their work of cleansing and purifying the blood. Weak, Nervous, Run-down women should give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial at once. MISSIONARY GIVES EXCELLENT ADDRESS

Proceeds of Warkworth United Church Supper Amounts To $90.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, Nov. 17.—The proceeds of the supper, served in the United church on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the W.M.S., amounted to nearly $90.00. An excellent program was given in the church immediately after the supper.

Perhaps the most interesting number on the program was the address given by Rev. Newton Bowles, B.A., B.D., returned missionary from China. In this address, Rev. Mr. Bowles drew a picture of the condition of the Chinese in various localities, pointing out the difficulty in Christianizing or even getting the interest of the Chinese in anything regarding Christianity. He expressed thanks for the work and the support of the people in this country and urged them not to fail in the support of missions. Missionaries are doing wonderful work, but there is so very much to do and the work is so strenuous and heart-breaking at times. If the missionaries should fail in keeping up what has been done, it would be fatal to China.

WREATH OF POPPIES PLACED IN CHURCH

Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly Preaches Impressive Armistice Day Sermon.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

YOUNG'S POINT, November 17. — On Sunday evening last the Rev. R. T. C. Dwelly preached a very impressive sermon on Armistice Day. A wreath of poppies and maple leaves was placed in the church, in memory of Pte. Royden Victor Wilson, who paid the supreme sacrifice.

Personals.

Mrs. Parker of Lakeview Hotel, returned home on Saturday last having been on a visit to Montreal.

Rev. R. T. C. and Mrs. Dwelly, and daughter Marion, left on Thursday for a visit with friends in Toronto.

ZION FARMER HAS HEAVY LOSS

Barn of Thomas Kennedy With Contents Destroyed By Fire.

LANTERN EXPLODES.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 17 (Examiner Correspondence).—Believed caused by a lantern exploding, the barn of Thomas Kennedy, on the Zion Line, two miles west of Millbrook, was razed to the ground by fire last night. All of last season's grain was destroyed, together with some of the farm implements and most of the poultry.

Owing to the good work of the neighboring farmers, who rushed to the scene of the blaze, the house and other buildings were saved. The loss is partially covered by insurance. It is understood that Principal Somerville of the Port Hope Public School, is the owner of the property.

SPEAKER APPEALS FOR MISSIONARIES

Foreign People Are Ready to Listen to the Word, Declares Rev. Pringle.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

DUNSFORD, November 17. — Rev. George Pringle, a noted missionary from the Yukon, gave an interesting address in Bobcaygeon United Church on Wednesday evening on. "The World Outlook and the Call to the United Church." There was just a fair attendance at the meeting, but everyone present seemed to be enthused with the speaker's appeal, which made very plain the great need of both men and money to carry forward the banner of the Cross. The call of the church lay in the opportunity before the church. Comparatively speaking the way is open, foreign peoples are ready to listen. What is needed is the means to carry on the work, was the speaker's plea.

The service was in charge of Rev. M. L. Hinton, pastor of the church. Mr. Pringle closed his tour of the Lindsay Presbytery with the meeting on Wednesday evening, and left on Thursday for Newburg, Adolphustown, and Napanee.

Every issue of the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal is worth the year's subscription price to the farmers of Canada, and farmers' families rejoice in getting the addition of a superb magazine.

A Successful Life

—available to everyone

LIFE, to be successful, should be a steady progress in saving, a constant adding to one's store of possessions, experience and knowledge.

¶ One of the world's criterions of success is financial independence—freedom from worry about those things which maintain pleasant living conditions.

¶ The surest, the safest and the most practical start upon the road to financial independence is the savings bank account.

¶ You acquire and maintain a savings account without the payment of any commissions. Your funds increase, in safety, without effort or supervision on your part. Your profits remain constant through periods of financial depression. Your money is safe and quickly available when needed.

¶ It is the policy of this Bank to give all depositors, whether their accounts be large or small, the utmost in service and consideration.

SOCIAL DEMOCRATS OPPOSED TO PLAN

Attempt To Halt Construction of First German Warship to Be Built Since War.

BERLIN, Nov. 17. — Social Democrats are making a determined attempt in the Reichstag to halt the construction of the first German warship to be built since the end of the war.

Otto Wells, member of the directorate of the party, presented a motion to halt construction of the cruiser, for which 9,000,000 marks (2,160,000) has been appropriated. The debate over the motion brought bitter animosities to the surface.

Herr Wells argued that Germans could ill aford to spend its money on a lone warship which would be no match for the navies of other countries.

BROKEN

Julie stood looking at Giles Chittenham with blank eyes, the newspaper still clasped in her hand and the tears running down her cheeks. She was hardly conscious of surprise; the shock of Jewel's death was the one thought governing her mind, and for the moment at least everything else seemed dwarfed by the tragedy.

Jewel was one of those people whom it is so difficult to realize as dead; so full of vitality and the joy of living, and to have gone to her death in such a fashion—in the darkness—alone—Chittenham made a quick step forward—

"Julie—what is it?"

Julie laughed sobbingly.

"My cousin—the other Julie—the one you wanted to punish—you'll never be able to hurt her now—she's dead!"

She almost threw the newspaper at him, and dropping into a chair she hid her face in her outflung arms.

Chittenham just glanced at the paragraph on the front page. He was not surprised. His chief sensation was one almost of relief.

Even though they had only met once, Jewel had left her personality impressed upon him as she did upon all men.

He hardly saw the tragic side of her death; he felt glad that after all her courage had failed her, and she had taken the short way out rather than face the unknown horror lying in wait for her. To him it seemed far less terrible to think of her as dead than as living on, suffering and alone.

He laid the paper down on the table and looked at Julie. During the hour that he had waited in the flat for her, he had thought of all sorts of things he would say and do whereby to try to overcome the enmity and bitterness existing between them, but now he was with her he could not remember any of them, he could not think of anything save that she was unhappy, and with a sudden impulse he went down on his knees beside her and took her into his arms.

"Julie!"

For a moment she resisted violently.

"Don't! How dare you? Leave me alone!"

Then quite suddenly her resistance was gone and she ceased to struggle. She looked at him with tragic eyes.

"If only it had been I!" she said wildly. "If only I could die too!"

"You don't mean that. There's much happiness in store for us—and together. Listen to me—Julie, you must listen!"

She strained away from him, her shoulders drawn together, her face averted.

"I suppose I can't stop you saying what you want to, but it's no use. I don't know why you have come back. I told you I never wished to see you again."

"I came because I love you, and because I know you love me."

"You are very sure of that!" she said bitterly.

"I am proud to be sure. Look at me, Julie!"

"No." She bit her lip to keep back the sobs that would rise to her throat. "If only you would go away and leave me!"

"I am not going. You belong to me—"

"Your wife would not be pleased to hear you say that," Julie said hoarsely.

Chittenham put his hands on her shoulders and forced her to turn to him.

"If you can look me in the eyes and say honestly that you do not love me, and that you wish me to go away and never come back I will believe you," he said.

There was a poignant silence. Julie raised her tear-drowned eyes with weary defiance, and her lips moved, but no words came. Chittenham laughed triumphantly.

"You can't say it! Julie!" With a fierce little movement he drew her into his arms and kissed her lips.

"I love you," he whispered. "I've never loved anyone but you. Forgive me, Julie."

She put her hands against his chest, trying to hold him from her.

"Forgive you? And then what?" she asked hoarsely. She began to cry, softly and brokenly. "You might leave me alone—you might leave me alone," she sobbed helplessly.

She knew she had reached the end of her endurance; she knew that if she gave in to him now there would be no retracing her steps; she tried to think of Lawrence Schofield—tried to believe that he was far the better man of the two, and that with him she would stand a greater chance of happiness, but common sense and logic died against the magic of Chittenham's arms and the touch of his lips. She only knew that during all the weeks since they had parted in Switzerland, she had ached for this moment, dreamed of it and longed for it, and that now in spite of her proud defiance, it had come, and when Chittenham asked again: "Do you love me? Do you want me after all, Julie?" she had no answer.

She let him draw her closely into his arms and when he pressed her head down against his shoulder, she closed her eyes with a little sigh of spent resignation.

It was a long time before either of them spoke again. Chittenham did not attempt to kiss her, he just held her in his arms, his cheek against her hair, as if she had been a tired child who had come to him for comfort and protection.

It was Julie who moved first.

"Bim will be in soon. Poor Bim, I've been such a beast to her lately!"

She drew a little back from him, looking at him with eyes that were all wet and ashamed, and yet happier than he had seen them since that night in Switzerland.

It was typical of Julie that now she had given in, she was ready to acknowledge herself fully beaten. With Chittenham's first kiss she put the past behind her and kept her eyes closed to the future. For the moment the present was all sufficient. The great ache and unhappiness of her heart had been taken away; he was here and he loved her. The happiness of that knowledge and the relief of her own admission that she loved him, for a little while blinded her to everything else.

"Bim is away," Chittenham said. "I rang her up before I came here. She was called out of town—I forgot what reason she gave—some friend, I think."

Julie flushed.

"I wonder if that was true? Or if it was I who really drove her away. I've been horrible lately—"

He folded her close to his heart once more.

"It's all over and done with," he whispered.

"Is it?" A line of pain creased her forehead. "You must be a wonderful man if you can say that with such confidence," she told him sadly.

"What do you mean?"

She closed her eyes wearily before the insistence of his.

"I mean—I suppose no miracles have happened, have they?"

"Only that you are here, in my arms."

"That is not what I mean."

He knew what she meant, and he answered her directly.

"I am still married, if that is what you mean, Julie."

"Yes." He could hardly catch the whisper.

He turned her face from its resting place against his shoulder and kissed her.

"I shall ask my wife to set me free. We are nothing to one another. To-morrow I shall ask her to—"

"To-morrow?" Julie raised herself. "Is she in London then?"

There was a touch of jealousy in her voice.

Chittenham flushed. He had forgotten that Julie did not yet know who Sadie was.

"I can soon get into touch with her," he said evasively. He wanted to tell her the truth, but somehow he could not bring himself to do so. He knew that his wife and Julie were friends, and he felt that Julie would blame him for the deception, even though it had been forced upon him, and for the moment he was too happy deliberately to draw clouds about their sunshine.

Julie shivered.

"Supposing she won't consent? Shall you tell her about me?"

Chittenham hesitated.

"She may not be sufficiently interested to want to know. She and I have not been anything to one another for a long time. Where are you going?"

Julie had risen to her feet, gently disengaging his arms.

"I am just wondering how all this came about," she said brokenly. "How I—how you made me give in to you. It was the last thought in my head when I came in. No, don't touch me, please—" For he had risen also and moved towards her. "Giles—do you think I've been very easy to break?"

Chittenham winced. Her words hurt him. She looked infinitely pathetic as she stood there, her face still stained with tears, and her lips trembling. He realized again how much she had changed in the few weeks since they first met on the lake steamer. He answered steadily.

"I am not flattering myself that it is I who have done it, my dear—I have her to thank, I know—" and he indicated the smiling portrait of the dead Jewel staring up at them from the paper lying on the table. If Jewel had not died he knew that he might have pleaded with Julie in vain—it was just that for once fate had been kind.

ENGINEERS PLAN ANNUAL BANQUET

J. C. Smith, President of Engineering Institute, Will Be in Attendance.

For the annual banquet of the local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, to be held on Tuesday, November 20th next, at the Empress Hotel, an exceptionally interesting program is being arranged. Special committees have been working for some time on the various details, and members are assured of the well-known high standard of this annual event being fully maintained.

The branch will be honored with the presence of the president of the Institute, Julian C. Smith, vice-president and general manager of the Shawinigan Water and Power Co., whose visit is anticipated with much pleasure The guest list also includes, besides representatives of the city and sister professions, such well-known names as: E. W. Bailey, manager of the Canada Cement plant, Lakefield; R. J. Durley, general secretary of the Institute; Professor Peter Gillespie, Professor of Applied Mechanics, University of Toronto; Fraser S. Keith, manager of the Department of Development, Shawinigan Water and Power Co.; O. O. LeFebvre, chief engineer of the Quebec Streams Commission; and C. K. McLeod, secretary of the Montreal Branch.

Tickets may be obtained from R. L. Dobbin, R. C. Flitton, and B Ottewell. Members are asked to procure them early in order to assist the committee.

GUELPH TO HONOR HER NATIVE SON

Edward Johnson Is To Be Feted By Citizens of City.

GUELPH, Ont., Nov. 17.—In recognition of the fame which Mr. Johnson, world-famous tenor, has brought not only to his native city, Guelph, Ont., but to all of Canada, Mayor Beverly Robson and the City Fathers are giving a banquet in his honor on December 5th.

At this civic function, Edward Johnson will be presented with an illuminated address by His Worship the Mayor. On this occasion Victor Talking Machine Company of Canada, Limited; for whom Mr. Johnson has made a number of Victor V.E. Orthophonic records, will present the City of Guelph with a life-size photograph of this great artist.

The archives of the City will also receive the first record pressed from the Johnson recording of "O! Canada," and "The Maple Leaf Forever."

Mr. Johnson's life story reads like a Horatio Alger novel. Just a poor boy in Guelph, Ont., singing in the local Episcopal Church. A burning desire to achieve fame in the world of art. Several years of intense study in New York. Then having succeeded in scraping together a sufficient amount of money, off to Europe for further instruction. Tremendous successes in Europe under the italianated name of Edoardo di Giovanni and finally a conquering acclaim in the United States and Canada.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE COLD ACORN

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

"You aren't going out today, are you?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy of Mr. Longears as she saw the rabbit gentleman looking in the glass to see if his pink nose was on straight. He always did this before he set out for adventures.

"Why shouldn't I go out?" asked the bunny uncle in surprise.

"It is so very cold," answered the muskrat lady housekeeper. "I'm afraid you'll freeze."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the rabbit. "I'm not at all afraid of that. I have on my warm fur coat and, besides, I shall hop so fast that even Jack Frost can't catch me."

"Well, please be careful, that's all I ask of you," squeaked Nurse Jane as Uncle Wiggily hopped away and he promised that he would.

Over the fields and through the woods went the bunny uncle, looking first on one side and then on the other for an adventure. But he could not seem to find any, and then he began to notice that it was very cold; much more frosty than he had thought.

He started a fire.

"But if I hop fast I'll keep warm," said Mr. Longears to himself. "Though if I hop too fast I may miss an adventure."

However, he hopped a little faster and he began to feel a little warmer, but still it was quite cold and seemed as if it might snow even before Thanksgiving, which was about two weeks ahead.

Now about this same time the Bob Cat slunk out of the den where he was paying a visit to the Fuzzy Fox. The Bob Cat yowled and stretched, sticking out his claws, showing his teeth and trying to waggle his silly little tail.

"Well, I'm on my way," he said. "Ta-ta, old dear."

"Where are you going?" asked the Fox.

"To catch Uncle Wiggily," snarled the Bob Cat.

"You can't catch that rabbit today," barked the Fox. "It's too cold."

"It's just the best kind of a day," answered the Bob Cat. "The cold will make Uncle Wiggily so stiff that he can't hop fast and I can easily catch him. I'll bring you one of his ears if I do."

"The cold will make you as stiff as it will make Uncle Wiggily," said the Fox. "So I don't believe you'll have any luck."

"Just you wait," the Bob Cat snarled.

So he started out to find Uncle Wiggily and by this time the rabbit gentleman was part way through the woods where the Bad Chaps lived. It was getting colder and colder and at last Mr. Longears said:

"I am going to stop and build a fire to warm me. After that I'll hop along some more and look for an adventure."

So he gathered some sticks and dried leaves and started a fire.

Just at this time the Bob Cat saw the rabbit and said to himself:

"Oh, no! I knew the cold would make him stiff. He has had to stop and make a fire to warm himself. Well, I must sneak up and get him before he gets warm and limber so he can hop away."

So the Bob Cat began slinking up and Uncle Wiggily was holding his paws out to the blazing fire when, all of a sudden, he heard a little voice saying:

"May I get warm at your fire?"

"Why, of course you may," answered the rabbit, looking down and seeing a brown acorn off an oak tree.

"Thank you," said the acorn. "Oh, I was so cold!" And he rolled closer to the blaze.

"Don't go too near!" warned Uncle Wiggily. "You may roast yourself or pop open and burst if you get too close to the hot fire."

"I'll be careful," said the cold acorn. But the fire felt so warm and cosy that he rolled nearer and nearer, though Uncle Wiggily told him to stay back. And what with talking to the acorn the rabbit did not see the Bob Cat sneaking nearer and nearer.

Then, all of a sudden, when the Bad Chap was ready to jump on Uncle Wiggily's back, the acorn saw the Bad Chap, though the rabbit didn't, and the brave little acorn cried:

"Good-bye, Uncle Wiggily!" With that the acorn rolled right into the hot embers and, as Mr. Longears had said, he burst like a popping chestnut. Pieces of the bursting acorn flew all over and hit the Bob Cat on his nose and in his eyes.

"Wow!" howled the Bad Chap. "I'm shot! Uncle Wiggily has shot me!" and back to the den of the Fox he ran without any rabbit ears.

"Poor, cold acorn!" said Uncle Wiggily when he saw what had happened. "He let himself be roasted until he burst to save me! Poor acorn!"

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE DON'T KILL OFF USELESS PEOPLE

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.

(Author, The Springs of Human Action.)

Among certain tribes of Indians and Eskimos it is the sacred duty of the son to murder his aged father who is too feeble to care for himself.

This is one way of getting rid of useless people—the aged and infirm, the cripples and insane. One might with better reason include the habitual criminal. Killing off the dangerous and useless people, the social misfits, would save the state many millions of dollars each year as well as a lot of trouble in taking healthy and worthy citizens out of ordinary pursuits to care for the riffraff of society which runs up into the hundreds of thousands.

Among the few advocates of a ruthless policy of killing off the social derelicts is the celebrated Nietszche, who originated the doctrine of the super man He said that the world was not progressing fast enough. He believed the time would come when the super man of the future would be as superior to us as we are to the apes. The reason why we do not reach the super-man stage, said Nietszche, is that we are too soft hearted with the weak and misfits. The thing to do with them is to let them take the consequences just like the animals in the world of nature who perish as soon as they are unable to meet the conditions of life.

Nietszche was therefore opposed to religion and especially the Christian religion because it teaches mercy and love and forgiveness and compassion. This is the sort of thing that makes us soft, said the advocate of the super man. He advocated a ruthless existence in which the strong should trample on the weak and climb to ever greater heights of achievement instead of being held back by so-called humane considerations.

Despite Nietszche who, curiously enough, spent his last days in an insane asylum, the conscience and judgment of mankind continue to spend increasingly vast sums of money to care for the criminal and the dependent classes. We can't afford to do otherwise.

It is true that any community would be strengthened by killing off a selected ten percent of its members. But if the feelings of sympathy, pity, and charity which holds society together were so weak as to permit the killing off of these defective classes civilization itself would cave in. It would hardly be worth saving.

Why do you do what you do? Ask Dr. Thomson. Write care of this paper, and send stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

The 'Seckatary' A Letter From

Dear Club Members:

Soon the big clock of the calendar will strike twelve, and we will wake up to find ourselves in the last month of the year. No matter how much fun we have had in the other eleven months, it seems that our hearts grow happiest in December. There is a tang in the air and the snow flies, and there is a whisper in the wind that tells us Christmas is on the way.

Now, I know all of our Club members love December, and Christmas, and are looking forward to what Santa will bring. It is only a little over a month to that wonderful morning when we will wake up to find our stockings just bulging with good things.

Therefore, our contest for this week will be "Christmas Stockings." You may write about your own, or someone else's.

Get your thinking cap on straight, pick up your pen and start to write the story that you think will win a prize. Always keep that in mind as you work—that you are trying to make it win the prize, and to do that it must be a very good job indeed. Even if you have tried before and failed, don't let that discourage you. Keep on—keep on—and keep everlastingly at it. And then, some day, lo! your name will lead all the rest.

Read the rules carefully—and if you do not wish to write a story, compose a verse, or write a letter that gives your idea of "Christmas Stockings." And be sure to get it in on time, even if you have to give up an hour of your playtime. Work first, and you will enjoy your play all the more.

Our Weekly Meeting.

This meeting will come to order. One of the things that must be brought up first is, that many of our club members who work hard on a story, or a verse, or a drawing, really do all their work for nothing when they leave off their names or addresses. Remember, we can not tell your work from the rest if you forget to write your name on it. And we can not know where you are to be found if you do not give your address. Another thing is, that the rule of putting your age behind your name is a very strict one. If you leave off your age, it can not be entered for judging, and much as we all regret it, your contributions must be laid aside, and all of your nice work has been done for naught!

And now we will proceed to announce the winner of last week's contest, and print some of the letters received by the Seckatary. The letters are very good and the Seckatary had to ask several grown-ups for their opinions before he could decide.

Willie Tinney, 372 Queen street, wins the big adventure book this time. Here is Willie's letter:

Dear Seck:

I was glad to get your letter. I am writing a story of how I found the pigs.

Two years ago I went to Norwood for my summer holidays. One day one of the pigs got away. There were two boys and myself that went to look for the pig. We each went a different direction. I had walked a mile and was just going back when I heard a noise. It was the pig and eight baby pigs.

I went back to the farm and told them what had happened.

They took a small wagon and brought the pigs home.

Yours fair and square,
Willie Tinney.

Dear Seck:

I am writing my poem to you and I hope you like it. Here it is:

The Little Fairy Playmate.

There's a little fairy playmate,
Who comes when I'm alone;
And no one else can see him,
So I call him all my own.

Yours fair and square,
Edith Long.

39 Jackson Ave.,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Seck:

This is the first composition I have ever written and I thought I would tell you about my pets.

I have a dog and a cat. My dog's name is Tinge and my cat's name is Dot. Dot is only young. She has some very funny tricks. Some of them are:

When she sees any person run she will run and jump at their feet; and when you throw a ball she will run and catch it in her fore paws.

Yours fair and square,
Mary Gwenyth Staples.

Fraserville, Ont.

Dear Seck:

Halloween.

It was nice on Halloween. I was out to a Halloween party, we had all nice candy and apples with that sticky stuff on them. We went around from house to house asking for taffy. We had to take off our false-faces to eat the candy. After a time, we went up to see the parade. My girl friends and I thought the parade was very good.

We saw a man on his bicycle, with wings, on it. We did not know what it was until we saw in the paper, that it said it was Bobo Baxter. We saw other things besides this and they were just as good. We had a good time, on Halloween.

Yours fair and square,
Effie Redmond.

268 Aylmer St.,
Peterborough, Ont.

P.S.—I thank you very much for the book you sent me, and I thought it was nice. I am starting to read it.

Dear Seck:

I am sending in a poem:

There was an old man with a beard,
Who said it is just as I feared,
Two larks and a wren;
Four owls and hen:
Have all built their nests in my beard.

Yours fair and square,
Eva Smith.

617 Aylmer St.,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Seck:

I'm awfully anxious to win one of your wonderful adventure books. I am going to keep on trying till I do. I'm sending a story and a drawing along with this letter. Hope I win one of your books. Here is my story:

Bread and Lots of Butter.

Far away across the broad Pacific, on a beautiful daisy covered hill, there stood a small white cottage. The family consisted of the widow Mrs. Brown, Louis and Louise, the twelve year old twins and little three-year-old Dot. One evening as the twins were undressing for bed, Dot was saying her prayers, the only prayer she knew, the "Our Father." She said it very well till she reached the part, "Our Daily Bread," she murmured the rest under her breath. Mrs. Brown got up from her knitting and went over to Dot's bed.

"Repeat it again, dearie," she said.

Dot said it the same as before. "Say it again out loud," she commanded, "Tell me what you are saying?"

"Oh, please do not be angry mummy dear, I only said, 'and please put plenty of butter'."

Yours fair and square,
Alma Thompson.

Hartley Ave.,
Peterborough, Ontario.

Dear Seck:

As I am one of your new members I am about to write my first letter. This letter is about my best trip.

My parents and some relatives decided to go to Stratford. We decided to go the next Sunday so we all were waiting anxiously for Sunday to come. But at last it came. To our satisfaction Sunday was a lovely bright day. We set off very early in the morning and passed through many beautiful towns. Some booths were very odd in shape and others were not, but very pretty. The scenery was also very nice. After some time on the road we arrived at Stratford. We were shown about the city and after enjoying ourselves for two weeks we set out for home.

Yours fair and square,
Anna MacKenzie.

Dear Seck:

The Squirrel's Thanksgiving.

There was once a fox who hid in a clump of bushes beside the tree that a squirrel came down daily. When the squirrel came down the fox sprang at it but didn't catch her. So the squirrel had something to be thankful for.

Yours fair and square,
Lloyd Perdue.

Dear Seck:

I guess you have thought I have forgotten you but as I have had a terrible cold I have not written. I am sending in a poem for your contest and am still trying for a prize. Try, try again is my motto. I am still looking forward to letters sent me by other members but have not received any so far.

Yours fair and square,
Jeanne Gray.

The Wreck of An Airplane.

Through the air a humming was heard,
And suddenly appeared like a huge-winged bird
A wonder of wonders an airplane.
It soared so high and it seemed to gain
Its way through the dark and misty clouds
That hung about its wings like some threatening shroud;
No one was there to watch its flight
Of danger, Crash! the pilot went white
As through the sky the plane hurled and crashed
The sides of it were cut and slashed.
To its doomed death the airplane dropped
Down, down the human wreck sank
To remain forever in a grave that was dank.

Our meeting will now be adjourned till next week, same time, same place. Hope you will all take part in our contest on "My Funniest Experience," and write an interesting letter to be printed in our next meeting, and another on "Christmas Stockings" to be printed on December 1.

Bye, till next week.

Yours fair and square,

Seckatary Hawkins

Fill out the blank and send it to Seckatary Hawkins, care of The Examiner, Peterborough:—

SECKATARY HAWKINS CLUB
FAIR AND SQUARE

"CHRISTMAS STOCKINGS"

Prizes announced each Saturday for Best Letter, Story or Poem

READ THE RULES CAREFULLY

In our next contest the title must contain the words: "CHRISTMAS STOCKINGS." You must write a letter or verse or story.

Write on one side of paper only.

Your composition must be original. You must write it without assistance from older persons.

Manuscripts or drawings will not be returned unless accompanied by self-addressed and stamped envelope.

All contributions must bear the writer's full name, address, and age. Don't forget to give your age.

The contest is open now. It will close next Saturday at midnight; all contributions must be received by that time.

Prize-winners will be announced December 1.

The Prize will be a Seckatary Hawkins Adventure Book.

Address all submissions in this contest to Seckatary Hawkins, care The Examiner Peterborough.

THE PASSWORD

D-N-G-V-U-T-E-H-P

Each dash means a missing letter. All you have to do is to fill in the dashes with the missing letters and you will have a piece of advice that, provided you follow it, will help you win a prize some day, even though you have tried and failed. This should be an easy one. Take your pencil and go over it slowly, one word at a time, and don't give up until you have filled it all out.

Our Members

Every boy and girl in Peterborough district should read this.

During the contest just closed, many hundreds of names were sent in for membership in the Club. Some of the contestants were not particular about getting the addresses and birthdays correctly, and the Seckatary wants every one to check up this list and see if the particulars are properly given.

On your birthday you will be sent a birthday card, and there are other things sent out which we do not wish you to miss. Therefore please see that birthdays and addresses are correct.

The following is a list of every member of the Seckatary Hawkins Club on this date. Look it over, and telephone one of the young ladies at the editorial department of The Examiner if there should be any correction made.

This is important, so please help.

KITCHEN HOLDERS

Washable kitchen holders are the only sensible ones. Make envelopes of cretonne, gingham or other colorful stuff used in the kitchen. Cut squares of flannel, or old blanket to fit inside. Either snap the envelope shut or button them. You can remove the insides and wash the outside easily.

CLEAN WOODWORK

Tea water is excellent for cleaning woodwork. Pour water over used tea leaves, strain through muslin and use it with a cloth. This does not hurt woodwork.

A STAR PERFORMER.

London, Nov. 17.—At least one hen at the Southend poultry show knew how to act a winning part. She laid two eggs while being judged and before the day was out a third was found in the nest. This is believed to be a record in hen fruit production.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

THERE are so many correspondents now that there is danger of some taking the same pen-names as others, and so I am going to give you an alphabetical list of those names which have been claimed. If any are missed, write me a letter giving the pen-name and your real name and address, which I will keep on record.

Adastia; Another Friend; Avis; Ann Gray; Bobbie; Blue Eyes; Countrywoman; Constance; Councellor; Cherry; Dot; Dagmar; Dal; Elizabeth; Goldy; Hildaguard; I dunno; Jenny Wren; Jenny Wren II; Mack; M.E.M.; Miranda; Marion's Mother; Mary Ellen; Margaret; Nelly Bly; Nelly Bly 2nd; Patsy; Plane Jane; Pollyanna; Quid Est; Quo Vadis; Rosebud; Ruralite; Rose Marie; Rae; Scotty; Sunshine; Sally; Topsy; White Heather.

If you have a favorite pen-name that you wish to keep, better write and book it.

• • •

I think pen-names are so much better than initials; don't you?

• • •

Where is "Blue Eyes"? Where are "Rose Marie," "Betty," "Marion's Mother," "Constance," "Councellor," "Rosebud," and all the others whose letters we so much appreciate? I hope you haven't forgotten the neighbors!

• • •

And how about you other neighbors who have never written us? We'll be so glad to hear from you.

• • •

Everyone will want the four-page Christmas help telling about how to make Christmas gifts at home. When sending in the coupon for it, just scribble a few lines to let us see how wide this circle of neighbors is. If you have an idea that will help someone, pass it along—but write anyhow!

• • •

In a play given recently in the city one of the actors said, "Two can't live as cheaply as one if one continues to live at the old rate."

• • •

The lines are recalled to mind by something one of my correspondents wrote the other day protesting that men continue to buy tobacco and papers and clothes on the same scale after marriage as before, while the women they marry have to save for family needs.

• • •

I do not know whether it is generally true, of course, but I have no doubt there are instances. The situation is most unfair. Both parties to the pact should share the responsibilities equally, and any woman is right in protesting against shouldering the whole burden.

• • •

But men are notoriously difficult to break off habits they acquired in the freedom of bachelor life. One neighbor wrote me about her husband's mania for collecting "treasures."

• • •

There are many men with the same failing. They collect drawers full of odds and ends that take on great sentimental value the minute friend wife makes a move to throw them away.

• • •

I wonder if there's a house in Peterborough where there are not boxes and drawers and desk pigeonholes packed with old newspaper clippings, snapshots, theatre programs, timetables, and all sorts of useless things that the man of the house would never think of looking at again if he lived to be a hundred.

• • •

Just try to throw any of them away! "Hey!" he'll shout, "do you know what you were going to throw away? Those are the pictures of the fishing trip I took with the boys eight years ago last spring."

• • •

"And look what else you've got there! All my old driver's licenses that I like to keep around for old times' sake. You'd better get away and leave all those things alone."

• • •

And, having been caught red-handed, all wife can do is push the unnecessary antiquities back into the bulging pigeonholes or boxes. It's a hard life!

• • •

And yet they have the nerve to call US the sentimental sex!

• • •

Dear knows, I have MY treasures, and I suppose every woman has hers, but I think they take a more sensible line than most men's. I'd hate to tell you about my private treasures, though!

• • •

Somebody might think I hadn't much room for criticism!

• • •

I have just read an article by a famous woman writer that made me good and mad. Pictures that adorn the article show this writer in her Paris salon and in her New York studio; the "blurb" tells that she is the "World's most noted writer for women."

• • •

In her article she asserts that 'Man fears women" and 'Man has for centuries contrived to keep her 'in her proper place,' said place being one that he fashioned for her, and one in which it best suited his comfort to keep her." Applesauce!

• • •

Both men and women are victims of circumstance, and the relation that has grown up between the sexes is not the making of either sex. Both have fooled themselves into thinking as they think now.

• • •

As a matter of fact, the idea expressed by this famous women's writer was expressed in identical words in the '80's by a man, whose book I have on my bookshelf. I don't know what the majority of the neighbors think, but I know very well my own opinion.

• • •

It is true that woman has just begun to find herself, but in this country, at any rate, she is not finding much opposition on the part of man to her development. Perhaps the training of centuries in the older countries of Europe does make it difficult for men to change their viewpoints. The backwardness of women there aided and abetted this situation.

• • •

But when I'm feeling mad at this writer is no time to discuss the affair without cattiness—and that self-preservative instinct of our sex has no place in a judicial discussion. So some other day I'll return to the subject, and in the meantime I'll be glad to learn the neighbors' opinions.

Dietetic Dissertations

(Specially Written for The Examiner.)

XV.—FRUIT (CONTINUED).

Taken for dietetic purposes, fruit is more effective when eaten alone, though the seedy fruits need some bulky carbohydrate accompaniment, such as bread.

As far as possible, it is well to serve fruit raw, though if of questionable quality, high acid content, or tough cellulose they are improved by cooking. Also, cooking and subsequent exclusion of air is, in many cases, the most satisfactory method of fruit preservation. Heat reduces the vitamine content, but, as the juice is always served with cooked fruits, little other food value is lost.

Dried fruits regain their bulk and, in part, their flavor, when soaked in water. They form a relatively cheap source of fruit during the winter months. Prunes, for instance, besides furnishing us with the anti-neuritic vitamine and excellent supplies of phosphorus and iron, yield one hundred calories per serving of three or four.

Enamel saucepans are preferable for cooking fruit. If aluminum is tarnished, cooking an acid fruit, such as tomatoes or rhubarb, in it will clean the pan, but naturally render the fruit unfit for use.

The following recipe for fruit confection makes a palatable and nutritious substitute for the far-too-numerous all-day sucker and chocolate bar:

Fruit Confection.

Half pound prunes, ½ lb. dates; ½ lb. nuts; ½ orange rind; ½ orange juice (or lemon juice); icing sugar.

1. Pick over and thoroughly wash fruits; if very dry, soak.
2. Remove stones.
3. Put fruit, nuts, and orange rind through food chopper.
4. Mix well.
5. Add fruit juice.
6. Add icing sugar until stiff enough to handle.
7. Shape and set aside on oiled paper to dry out slightly.
8. Roll in chopped nuts, cocoanut or sugar.

These may be used as centres to be dipped in chocolate or fondant costing, or used in layers with fondant, cut in oblongs and wrapped; they may also be used as centres for pulled candy.

Any dried fruit (figs, raisins, etc.), may be substituted for the ones mentioned here.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

A casual ensemble is achieved by means of a gray tweed skirt with matching coat with natural lynx collar, a light green crepe de chine blouse and a bottle green velvet beret.

There was something almost too easy about the one-color ensembles that so many women have been wearing. It is just a little too easy to acquire one's color harmony that way. If your flute has only two stops and those in the same key you can hardly play out of harmony; and yet your music will become rather tiresome. So if you limit yourself to one single tone for frock, hat, ornaments and a single neutral tone for stockings, gloves and handbag you cannot go far wrong, but your color scheme may not be very interesting either.

That at least is the opinion of some women who are now deliberating the possibilities of an apparently more impromptu assembling of their costumes. One very well-dressed woman I know deliberately wore a pair of brown shoes with gunmetal stockings and an oxford gray suit to get away from the look of precision and premeditation that an all-gray ensemble might produce. But one must have innate good taste to succeed in such departures.

The sketch shows a combination of grays and greens in a sports ensemble of the more casual sort.

Caracul, krimmer and Persian lamb are spoken of as the most important flat furs of the season and all these are of the lamb family. Broadtail is very young Persian lamb and American broadtail is made from certain more ordinary varieties of lamb, sheared and otherwise modified.

White lamb has now assumed importance for the sports type of ensemble. A two-piece suit of gray tweed has a simply fashioned collar of white lamb and I have seen a most attractive separate scarf of white lamb—in oblong shape, worn about the neck and crossed over in front much as one would wear a cloth or silk scarf.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

"I wanted the sweep of the wild, wet weather,
The rain's swift dash and the wind's low call,
The toss of the trees as they swayed together
And the misty grey that was over it all."

—November.

Every season has its major activities, where women are concerned. Just before Christmas, bazaars are in order and the feminine members of the various congregations are busily employed in preparing for them.

On November 29th and 30th, the Church Women's Association of St. John's holds its annual effort of this sort.

Formed about fifteen years ago, primarily for the purpose of providing a social organization that would bring all women of the church together, the C.W.A. has done a great deal of good for St. John's in financial ways, also.

A major effort was the paying off of the mortgage on the rectory, the members contributing the sum of $4,000 for this purpose, after four years of steady endeavor.

Last week, a piano was purchased by this society, for the Sunday School. The furnishing and equipment of the ladies' parlors and church hall kitchen was another excellent achievement.

Parochial work of any type is carried on with the best possible results by this society of St. John's, with Mrs. T. W. H. Young as president.

About this time of the year, the members of the Rebekah Golden Link Lodge, a sister organization of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, start in to collect money for the big Christmas Tree party given children of the members during Yuletide week.

Another interest of the Rebekah ladies is in the Home for Old People and Children maintained by the Oddfellows in Toronto. The children who live there, numbering now about seventy, are trained in various gainful occupations and their lives are made as pleasant as possible, under circumstances which have deprived them of a proper home environment. They are not made to wear a uniform dress, as is the case in so many institutions, but are allowed to dress according to individual preference, whenever this is possible.

The same rule applies, by the way, to both of our local institutions looking after the welfare of the orphaned or homeless child. In the Shelter maintained by the Children's Aid Society and in St. Vincent's Orphanage, the boys and girls do not wear a uniform which would stamp them at once as "Home" children. They appear just as other children of their ages would dress. Thus a stigma which might have a great deal of influence on a child mind is never allowed to penetrate to their consciousness.

Mrs. Jessie Alexander Roberts of Toronto, speaking to the Women's Canadian Club on Wednesday afternoon, told them about the old peasant woman, a seller of nuts in Genoa, home of Christopher Columbus.

This old lady knew that no one would look at her during her lifetime, so she scrimped and saved to buy a stone monument which would reproduce her own figure, "with her gnarled old hands and lined forehead." It was finished a year before her death and now surmounts her last resting place. It is one of the sights of Genoa, in the cemetery where many tourists go to look at the old woman who desired immortality and achieved it in her own way.

Swimming and its practice is fast graduating from the class of an accomplishment to that of a necessity. Just as the quality of fast stepping often avoids a nasty accident for the pedestrian who must at all times be on guard against the automobile, so a knowledge of swimming means in many instances the difference between life and death for its possessor.

The Young Women's Christian Association, with its well-equipped bathing-pool, does much to disseminate a knowledge of this art among the girls and women of the city.

Next week the annual swimming competitions of the Y.W.C.A. will be held. It is interesting to note the conditions governing the various contests.

In the test for the Senior City Championship and the Morrow Trophy, swimming for style is considered from many angles, in swimming with breast stroke, back with arms, side over arm and crawl. There is also a free style test of fifty yards in length, a long plunge, and plain and fancy diving.

In the Junior Diving Championship for the Hamilton Trophy, competitors must make dives of the running front, side dive, half twist, back, jack-knife front and high variety.

The special Babies' Swimming Cup, the tests for which among little tots always arouses much enthusiasm, calls for two dives and for twenty-five yards in free style swimming.

For the Special Junior Life Saving Cup, all conpetitors must have successfully passed the Proficiency test of the Royal Life Saving Society and yet be under the age limit for the bronze medal. They must make a neat dive, swim one hundred yards with breast stroke and fifty yards with back stroke, do surface diving to a depth of five feet for a five-pound weight, and illustrate four methods of rescue and three methods of release in the water (subject to be carried twenty yards).

The program promises to be as interesting as in former years, when a large and enthusiastic audience gathered to watch the young people competing for quatic honors.

STABBED BY SCIATICA SHARP AS A KNIFE

Hillsdale, Ontario, woman appreciates safe, speedy relief T-R-C's gave

The racking pain of Sciatica nearly drove Mrs. E. Thompson frantic. Although she knew something of herbal remedies herself, she could do nothing to relieve the torture in her hip. Desperate, she happened to read about Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules. Straightway she set out for Orillia to get a box of T-R-C's. That ride, only a few miles, seemed endless.

"I could scarcely sit in the train because of the pain," she writes. "Finally I got to Orillia. I told the druggist I couldn't take very strong medicine and asked him if T-R-C's were safe . . 'Perfectly,' he said, so I got a box."

"I am glad I did. Before I finished the first box I had the greatest relief and quickly got over my pain. I have recommended T-R-C's to many friends —always with good results."

Are you in misery with Sciatica? With Rheumatism? Lumbago? Neuritis? Neuralgia? Why? Your druggist has T-R-C's—ready and able to give you speedy relief—with absolute safety, too, as T-R-C's are entirely free from habit-forming or dangerous drugs. A wonderful remedy. Proved in use by thousands of grateful people.

There is no mystery about the action of T-R-C's. They enter the blood-stream. Go to the root of the trouble. Help your body throw off the poisons that are making your life wretched. Get a box of T-R-C's. Enjoy good health. 50c and $1 at all druggists.

WOMEN'S PAGE

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind.
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind.

CAVAN

At the Women's Institute Convention at Kingston, October 25th and 26th, with 290 delegates present, one of the interesting features of the convention was the address given by Miss F. P. Eadie, of Scotland, Ontario, who spoke on, "Feeding a Family of Five."

The Frontenac Juniors had arranged a most interesting demonstration in connection with this talk. They had set three tables complete with food and correct service, and these were a centre of attraction when the session closed.

Two school lunches were also on view.

Menus selected by the Juniors were as follows:

Menu planned for family of five—three adults and two children, 8 and 10 years.

Breakfast—Whole wheat porridge, milk; soft cooked egg in shell; toast, butter; fruit-jam, jelly; coffee, milk.

Dinner—Pot roast of beef, mashed potatoes, creamed carrots, celery; brown and white bread, butter; cottage pudding with caramel sauce; tea.

Supper—Cream of tomato soup, crackers, stuffed potatoes; Graham muffins, butter; coddled apples, plain cookies; tea, milk.

The noon meal will be for the three adults, the children being at school.

School Lunch—Container, tin pail or tin box. Food wrapped separately in waxed paper: apple; minced meat sandwich (2 slices of white bread); brown bread and butter (2 slices); small container with 1 tablespoon fruit jelly; half pint milk; oatmeal cookie or plain cookie.

MOUNT PLEASANT

The following was prepared and read by Mrs. Garnet Shield at the November meeting of Mount Pleasant Institute, and outlines a motor trip from Hamilton City to Buffalo City, with a few historical places visited. The first place is Stoney Creek. Here in February, 1897, our first branch of the Women's Institute was started, our pioneer branch, by Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless, herself a daughter of the farm. This branch was first called the Saltfleet Township Institute, but later changed to Stoney Creek, and here stands Squires Hall where the first Institute was organized. These first organizers were women who looked into the future, and saw great visions of useful spheres of activity for women and we see how their visions have been realized. At Stoney Creek is the battlefield, and the old house still stands that the staff took up their quarters in, also the burying ground of those who fell in the Battle of Stoney Creek. As we stand among their graves, we say, with Col. McCrea, "We are the dead, short days ago we lived, saw dawn, felt sunsets glow, loved and were loved." Their sacrifice is a hallowed remembrance.

Travelling on we pass through Winona, E. D. Smith has made Winina famous. He is called the Catsup King. Here his nurseries, factory, fruit farm and beautiful home. Mrs. E. D. Smith was the first president of the first Institute, founded at Stoney Creek. Passing on through this beautiful fruit country, through Beamsville, where the great aviation camp, where our boys trained for the last great war, then on again still the fruit orchards, grape yards and flowers, then we come to the garden of Canada, St. Catharines, over the Welland Canal, over the new Chippewa Canal and on to Queenston Heights. In this beautiful park, overlooking the mighty and turbulent waters of the great Niagara River stands the monument to General Brock. This monument was erected in 1853 and towers 185 feet high, in memory of the famous British General who was killed in battle on the heights in the war of 1912. There is also a small monument marking the spot where he fell, near the foot of the hill. Here also in this beautiful park is the monument erected to the memory of Laura Secord, the woman who made Confederation possible. For had she not in June, 1813, found her way through the enemy's lines, walked twenty miles over rough and difficult country, and warned Capt. Fitzgibbon, of a surprise attack planned by invading forces, Canadian history would have been entirely different, and a grateful country will ever hold her name safe in memory's keeping. We crossed over the ten-mile creek, as history tells us she lost one shoe in fording this creek. As I stood on Queenston Heights, overlooking that mighty river, the greatest single source of water power in North America, the great height above those waters, the grandeur and beauty of that scene, its shrubs, bushes, great trees, big rocks, there came to my mind the words of that hymn—

"For the beauty of the earth,
For the beauty of the sky,
For the love that from our birth,
Over and around us lies,
Father, unto Thee we raise
This, our grateful voice of praise."

Then we travel on, coming to the Falls and the never-ceasing roar of the great cataract. The whirlpool rapids with its aerial spanning the Whirlpool: the only one of its kind in North America. The aero car crosses at a height of one hundred and fifty feet above the raging waters below. It is the longest, safest passenger aerial cableway in the world. Then we cross the line into the city of Buffalo. In the heart of that great city stands the McKinley monument, erected on the spot where the President was shot. All streets lead to this monument in Buffalo. Starting on return trip across the great Peace Bridge, which the Prince of Wales opened sometime ago, that magnificent structure connecting the two great countries whose line is unguarded, the wonder and example of other countries of the world. Travelling on along the great Niagara with its beautiful roads and scenery, stopped at Lundy's Lane, viewed the battlefield and visited the cemetery of the fallen. Here a memorial dedicated to the memory of the men who gave up their lives in the Battle of Lundy's Lane. As I stood on that sacred ground you think of service and sacrifice, and not of the glory of war. Here also is the grave of Laura Secord, you think of the story of her life, the heroic spirit of this Canadian woman and you think of Canada as she stands to-day, a thriving nation ever advancing, and you feel glad that we have a part in the making of this great nation as members of the great organization, the Women's Institute, whose motto is for home and Country, and you feel proud you were born in Canada, beneath the British flag.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as an uncertain day in planetary direction for certain adverse influences are strong.

Under this sway the controversial spirit may be strong, and it is well to resist the inclination to criticize other faiths.

Many changes in the personnel of congregations may be expected in Protestant churches where there should be more solidarity than there has been in recent years.

Increased interest in the spiritual side of life is foretold for the winter when science which has conquered the earth, air and water will seek to pierce the veil hiding the occult world.

Women should benefit under this direction of the stars which is supposed to enable them to enjoy a more serene outlook on life than has been common in recent months.

According to ancient lore it is an auspicious day for wearing new clothing and should be favorable to friendly visits.

There is a promising aspect for music and musicians who will profit when they are expecting bad luck.

Whatever assures relaxation of mind and body is fortunate under this configuration, which should be lucky for assemblies of all sorts.

This should be a happy wedding day for the stars favor marriage that partakes of the ancient holy ideals of life partnership.

The evening is most favorable for intellectual pursuits and should be auspicious for the right acceptance of lectures or sermons.

Again there is high promise for aviation and for the development of all phases of aerial navigation.

Warning is given of unusual and severe storms that will affect ocean travel. Much cold weather may be expected in the new year.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of many new friends and much pleasure in the coming year, but they should be cautious about tips that promise quick profits. They should be careful to avoid loans.

Children born on this day may be endowed with exceptionally winning personalities. The subjects of this sign are usually more interested in enjoyment than in hard work, but they manage to get along to their own satisfaction.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1928

This should be a day of great activity in the business world, according to astrology, which reads the later hours as more propitious than the morning.

In industry there may be some uncertainty about policies that affect workers, especially women.

This is not an especially propitious wedding day since it seems to promise for brides subordination to the stronger masculine mind and a tendency on the part of bridegrooms to frown on independence.

Theatres may not be especially lucky today, inasmuch as critics are likely to be ill-natured.

Many theatrical failures are indicated for the season, but successful experiments in dramatic affairs are foretold.

The evening of this day should be favorable to the plans of landholders and should encourage big enterprises.

There is a benefic aspect today for real estate and agriculture. The stars benefit all who would own land or till it.

It is a day fortunate for the older generation which should find in the trend of public affairs much that encourages them.

Difficulties may beset musicians under this rule which presages better conditions for artists than for those of average attainment.

Some sort of sensation or scandal relating to police matters may be uncovered at this time when reforms will be much in the air.

Heavy rains may be expected in many places before snowfall and again there is danger of heavy floods.

Certain states may suffer from exceedingly cold weather during what promises to be an exceedingly long winter. Fur coats will be much coveted Christmas presents.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be cautious in all things throughout the coming year which may bring situations that call for wisdom.

Children born on this day are usually clever and quick-witted. The subjects of this sign are sensitive and capable of intense mental distress. They should be educated carefully.

LITTLE SONGS OF LOVE

COME TO ME, SWEET, IN MY DREAMS TO-NIGHT.

(By Lillian Glanville.)

Come to me, sweet, in my dreams to-night
Just for a little while;
Let me see your face again,
Let me see your smile.

Speak to me, sweet, in my dreams to night
So when your voice I hear,
I can forget my loneliness,
Knowing you are near.

Comfort me, sweet, with your tender kiss
Lay your dear hand in mine,
Oh, come to me, speak to me, sweet to night,
In a dream divine.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE HEART A WELL

The heart is like a well,
Sweet, cool and deep,
And in that lovely cell
What joys we keep!—
Old dreams of long ago,
Old faith, old love;
And men may come, they know,
And drink thereof.

The heart is like a well:
When parched the lip,
In deserts though we dwell,
Here we may dip
And draw its sweetness up,
Its nectar then,
Refill life's battered cup
With peace again.

The heart is like a well
From which we drink,
And what our acts shall tell,
The thoughts we think.
Both sinner, though, and fool
I call the man
Who poisons that one pool
Where drink he can.

A TIP OR TWO

PRUNE SANDWICHES

Children love prune sandwiches. Rub well-cooked prunes through sieve, add some chopped nuts and a few drops of lemon juice. Spread on whole wheat bread.

SAVING HANDS

If you put a little vinegar in the rinse water on wash day, it will prevent your hands from becoming rough and chapped.

CLEAN SHADES

Window shades should be cleaned each fall. Lay them flat, wipe off with a cloth dipped in a mixture of one pint of hot water and three tablespoonfuls of benzine. Dry by wiping with another cloth.

AIRING MATTRESSES

Air your mattresses and pillows on windy days. Brush them carefully, at least once a fortnight and thoroughly air in the sun.

Sour Stomach Sign of Carelessness

POLITE society frowns on those whose stomachs "grumble." For careful people heed this warning that the contents of the stomach is sour and fermenting. Those who don't, may some day develop gastritis—or even ulcers.

Nine times out of ten indigestion and allied stomach disorders are due to excess stomach acid, which impedes normal digestion and forms sour gases that cause intense pain. To restore good digestion you must eliminate this cause. A tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt will instantly neutralize the acidity and banish all digestive trouble and pain.

So, do buy a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" today. This not only means instant relief, but by soothing, healing and strengthening your weak and disordered stomach a little "Pape's Diapepsin" keeps your digestive system healthy and helps to prevent various disorders.

A Sure Relief for Women's Disorders—10 Days' Treatment Free

Orange Lily is a certain relief for all disorders of women. It is applied locally and is absorbed into the suffering tissue. The dead waste matter in the congested region is expelled giving immediate mental and physical relief; the blood vessels and nerves are toned and strengthened; and the circulation is rendered to normal. As this treatment is based on strictly scientific principles and acts on the actual location of the disease, it cannot help but do good in all forms of female troubles, including delayed and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, falling of the womb, etc. Price $2.00 per box, which is sufficient for one month's treatment. A Free Trial Treatment, enough for ten days worth 75c, will be sent Free to any suffering woman who will send me her address. Enclose 3 stamps and address. MRS. LYDIA W. LADD Dept. 1", Windsor, Ont. MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion at The Examiner Office.

DEAR MARION:

Will you allow me to uphold the fair name of Adastia by refusing to let it rest under the misapprehension as being the name of "a lady who upholds the sanctity of the clothes line?" Far be it from me!

In fact Most Monday a.m.'s my own particular sign of "the white women's burden" is only a blot on the landscape to me.

It was only this morning that this necessary evil of mine lowered itself ignominously to the cold, damp ground just as the last towel was being fastened thereon. I ask you! I also assure you it occurred to me at that moment that it would not spoil my life if I never saw a clothes line again. I think something should be done about it. (This is not propaganda for any steam laundry business). So I'm sure you understand that it was not on account of any particular thrill it brought me to see the folk's linen exposed to view that I burst impetuously into print on a previous occasion. One should learn to walk warily it seems. You expressed my meaning very clearly so I should feel vindicated I suppose. It was 'the principle of the thing' to quote a trite phrase. Enough, no need to add fuel to the fire.

May I say to the 'Lady of the clothes line' that in regard to this and other matters I delved into, I allow her the right to have and express her own opinion.

May I claim the same privilege without writing too many scathing comments!

Yours truly,
Adastia."

Thank you, "Adastia." If it were not for differences of opinion, would life be worth living? Just imagine! Everyone thinking alike! I'm glad you don't, and that I don't.

• • •

"Dear Marion:

Thank you very much for the hat patterns. I made a cosy little turban, but had to make the strip 23½ inches.

Have been slow thanking you, but I was busy, home work including the much discussed family wash, meetings, sewing, reading, and to-day I am feeding the threshers and it is an undertaking.

You certainly got in two good pages, though truly, I was surprised at appearing twice, I did not think the Armistice Day one worth printing. It was just my thoughts. The other was one of the funny things that happened, and there were so many of them. It is well there were.

That woman whose husband will not get up either married a useless piece of goods or made him one by spoiling him. Easily done.

Quid Est."

The poor family wash! Adastia surely started something—or did I?

Indeed, 'Quid Est,' both your contributions to the Armistice number were well worth printing.

"Dear Marion:

You want to know what we think of the special Armistice Day number of The Examiner. Well I, for one, think it does credit to the city of Peterborough and to the management of The Examiner. I was so proud of it myself that I procured several copies and sent them to friends who were one time residents of this city. Also while I am on the subject I think the management should receive a vote of thanks for time, money and effort spent in an endeavor to provide clean, wholesome and harmless amusement at Hallowe'en. I have been waiting for someone else to say this better than I can but in vain.

When my children were small and sometimes even now, I find it better to say, "Let's do this" or "why not do so and so," than to say, "Don't do that," or "stop doing so and so." This is just what The Examiner has done and the result is seen in less damage and rowdyism.

I find your page, Marion, quite interesting and am glad of the privilege of contributing in even a small way to it.

Sincerely yours,
Cinders."

Thank you a lot, "Cinders." I have allowed Mr. Glover to read your letter and he appreciates it greatly.

I like your idea about handling children, and your application of the psychology to what The Examiner is doing is splendid. One must have laws, of course, to which those who refuse to be amenable, but let all other organizations—church, school and press, endeavour to LEAD.

If you wish to book that pen-name, by the way, you'd better write again and give your name and address. I have a book in which I record them. Your name will not be used, of course.

• • •

"Dear Marion,

I wonder if you can tell me the meaning of the following sentence which I came across in an old story: 'Non temere credere est nervus sapientiae.' This book had a lot of Latin and French quotations, making it very hard to read.

Yours truly,
R. K."

"Not to believe rashly is the nerve of wisdom." It was considered necessary a few decades ago to use a lot of foreign quotations in order to show literary skill. It is now bad form.

"Dear Marion,

I enjoy your column a lot, and have often felt mean because I can't write something worth reading. At last I feel that I simply must do something, so I'm going to tell you about a boy's essay on girls I read and clipped from some magazine years ago. I keep a scrap book, and often in the winter nights when the chores are done I find a lot of fun in it. Here's the essay: 'Girls are very stuckup and dignefied in their manner and behaveyour. They think more of dress than anything and like to play with dowls and rags. They cry if they see a cow in afar distance and are afraid of guns. They stay at home all the time and go to Church every Sunday. They are al-ways sick. They are al-ways funy and making fun of boys hands and they say how dirty. They cant play marbles. I pity them poor things. They make fun of boys and then turn around and love them. I dont beleave they ever kiled a cat or any thing. They look out every nite and say oh aint the moon lovely. Ther is one thing I have not told and that is they al-ways now their lessons bettern boys.'

Isn't it rich? I hope you will accept this as my contribution, as it's all I have. I'm not at all brilliant as a housekeeper, but I'm worse at letter writing. Here's wishing you good luck.

Yours sincerely,
Primrose."

Lakefield,

Thanks very much, "Primrose," for your letter and its contribution. The essay is very good, and if you have many more like it your scrap book must indeed yield much amusement. I'm very glad to have the letter, and I hope you write soon again.

THE SATURDAY MARKET BASKET

The fruit and vegetable market this week is much the same as last week except that some fruits and vegetables are a little higher in price.

Grapes, the last of the season, are 60 cents a basket. Apples are very plentiful, and there is a great variety to choose from. Duchess apples are 30 cents a peck; Greenings are 40 cents a peck; Spies and Snows are also 60 cents a peck while McIntosh Reds are $1 a peck. Russets may be had for 70 cents a peck.

Pears are 50 cents a peck, while quinces are 90 cents and $1 a basket. Eating pears are 5 cents each and eating apples are 40 cents a dozen.

Bananas, oranges and lemons all vary in price. Bananas are 10 cents a pound; oranges range in price from 35 to 75 cents a dozen and lemons from 35 to 40 cents a dozen. Grapefruit are 2, 3 and 4 for 25 cents. Tokay grapes are still priced at 2 pounds for 25 cents.

Sweet potatoes are 4 pounds for 25 cents. Beets and carrots are 25 cents a peck and turnips 10 cents each. Potatoes sell from $1 to $1.10 a bag. Cabbages range in price, but are mostly 10 and 15 cents a head and cauliflower are 15 and 20 cents each.

Iceberg head lettuce is 15 and 20 cents a head, while leaf lettuce is 5 cents a bunch. Parsley is 5 cents a bunch. Tomatoes are 25 cents a pound and cucumbers are 15 and 20 cents each. Celery is priced at 2 bunches for 25 cents, while celery hearts are 15 cents a bunch. Spinach is 2 pounds for 25 cents and Brussel Sprouts are 2 quarts for 25 cents. Cranberries are 23 cents a pound.

Pumpkins are 15 and 20 cents each; squash are 25 and 30 cents each and vegetable marrows are 15 and 20 cents each.

Pumpkins are 15 and 20 cents each; squash are 25 and 30 cents each; and vegetable marrows are 15 and 20 cents each.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS ALWAYS IN THE HOME

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she always keeps a supply on hand, for the first trial convinces her there is nothing to equal them in keeping children well. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach, thus driving out constipation and indigestion, colds and simple fevers and making teething easier. Concerning them, Mrs. Saluste Pelletier, St. Dumas, Que., writes: — "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past ten years and am never without them in the house. They have always given the greatest satisfaction and I can gladly recommend them to all mothers of little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WHEN YOUNG GIRLS GROW PALE AND THIN

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Should Be Taken to Enrich the Blood.

When girls grow weak, pale and thin, parents should not neglect these symptoms; to do so means danger. The girl in her teens cannot develop into robust womanhood without an abundant supply of rich, red blood in her veins. It is the lack of this that is the great trouble with nine girls out of ten. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have achieved world-wide fame for their remarkable blood-making properties. In these pills there is vigorous health, with glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes for every weak, pale girl. The value of the pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. Winnifred Rutty, Barton Street West, Hamilton, Ont., who says:—"About two years ago my eldest girl got into very bad health. I took her to a doctor who advised having her tonsils removed, saying this was the seat of the trouble. We had them removed, but it did not help her, and she seemed to have absorbed so much poison from the trouble that she did not pick up at all. She could neither eat nor sleep, and what food she did take did not digest. Then she developed a cough that kept her awake at night, and went down in weight to 95 pounds. A neighbor said to me, 'You have tried so many things why not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?' I got some and before she finished the second box she began to show improvement. She continued the use of the pills for some time and is now in the pink of condition, able to work and play, and eat and sleep with all her old-time vigor. These statements can be verified by neighbors who watched her restored from ill health to perfect health."

If your medicine dealer does not keep these pills you can get them by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HOSIERY IDEAS

New hosiery has begun a revolution. The best style is to have the color almost match one's shoes, perhaps being a shade or two lighter than dark grey or brown. But instead of being plain chiffon, new hosiery is not only mesh but striped, checked or plaided—invisibly—in self color. It is as if, growing conservative in color, it can afford to take on some decorative design.

JADE 'N JONQUIL

A new combination of evening colors uses jade and jonquil, especially in soft velvets. A dinner gown of jonquil has jade touches and a wrap of jade lined with jonquil.

ENTERTAINING GUESTS

A Series Giving Hints on Arranging Parties.
By LAURA.

WOODEN WEDDING.

Invitations for the fifth or wooden wedding anniversary should be sent out on paper which is hardly known from wood. Real wood is used for decorations—archways are made unique with wooden plates, toothpicks, clothespins and anything unusual in the nature of wood. The toothpick curtain attracts much attention and is made on a silk cord with the toothpicks tied about two inches apart, crossways with a small loop in the cord. These could be draped back and tied with a bunch of silk cord. Place a large wire bell above where the bride and bridegroom are to receive their guests and cover it with shavings.

The dining table may look unique, by placing the cake in the centre having on it the figure "5" in wood. The cake should stand on a high stand and place around the edge of the stand a row of clothes pins, the kind that have a spring, and stick a row of toothpicks around the edge of the cake.

At the two corners of the table place little wooden shoes in which cut flowers have been placed, and at the other corners put two large apples stuck full of toothpicks.

Refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake should be served on wooden plates, the cake being made to represent different kinds of wood such as cherry, walnut, etc. Wooden spoons would, of course, be used for the ice cream. Souvenirs of the event might be little wooden spoons on which have been printed the year of the marriage and the date of the celebration.

The above is suitable for this time of the year, but if the celebration is to take place in the warmer season, a campfire supper would be more suitable—because one never wishes to stay indoors when we can get out. A meal consisting of "five" courses may be served:

Chops, "chips" and coffee
Individual tomato salad.
Crackers and cream cheese
Strawberries and cookies.
Toasted Marshmallows.

The "chips" would be, of course, potatou chips. The salads are big, ripe tomatoes scooped out and filled with chopped celery, nuts and mayonnaise dressing. The strawberries are served in little wooden churns and the doughnuts passed in a wooden fruit basket.

If any of the readers have celebrated any wedding anniversaries and something a little different took place, I would only be too glad to print some of the suggestions, even though they would not be for the particular evening I have written about.

BRIMS POPULAR

Turbans with cuffs or brims of some original cut are outselling the brimless skull cap now. The long sides, or some tricky manipulation of one or both sides, with the front brim short or turned up, are the favorites.

NEW PURSES

New purses grow as elegant as gowns. A grey kidskin has a floral motif worked out in modernistic manner in ten shades of pastel colored kid. The lining of one inside pocket is silver, the other gold.

METALLIC RIBBONS

Pastel colored ribbons, with metal patterns traced in them, are smart for girdles, sashes and other decorative touches on pastel colored frocks now.

Married women of middle age have a better chance of a long life than either widows or spinsters.

Proposals!

A glance at her blonde loveliness tells better than words why this beautiful New York City girl has received such flattering proposals from kings of movie and stage land. She's Collette Francis, of 238 East 25th St., Brooklyn; now one of the charmers in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita."

Miss Francis says: "Since I've been on the stage, so many people have asked me what I do to get the beautiful golden gleam and sparkle in my hair that I am beginning to think I'm really taking wonderful care of it. I really never thought much about it. What I do is so simple. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a little Danderine on my brush each time I use it. That keeps my hair silky and gleaming, makes it easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours. My scalp was very dry and I had a lot of dandruff when I first started on it, but all of that trouble stopped quickly. And Danderine keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often, now."

Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. The generous bottles are just 35c at any drug or toilet counter. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl.

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

"Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to ensure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

OLYMPIC GAMES AID SPORT COMPETITION

FRIDAY NIGHT SUPPER CLUB HEAR ADDRESS

J. Howard Crocker Gives Interesting Address on the Olympiads.

MEET EVERY FOUR YEARS.

Lantern Slides of Last Olympic Games Shown—Canadians Well Represented.

The Olympic Games are a means to bring the young men of the nations together for sport competition, was the definition given by Howard Crocker to the Friday Night Supper Club last night, when the club held its most successful meeting of the year. The club had the largest turnout of the year, when over a hundred boys were present. The usual form of program was followed, with the addition of three cheers and a tiger and the school yell for the P.C.I. rugby team who play Albert College to-day.

Mr. Crocker's speech was one of the most interesting ever heard by the club, and was greatly appreciated by all present. The International Olympic Committee," said Mr. Crocker, "does not keep any records of the games as won by nations, as that is not what the games are for. The games are to bring together the young men of the nations for fine competition."

The idea of having Olympic Games was first thought out by a Frenchman in the early nineties. Back in the days of the Grecian Games, every few years the warring tribes met in friendly combat and the originator of the present games thought, why not try to make it a fact for the modern world? Most of the nations were agreeable, and the first Olympic Games were held at Athens in 1896. One of the most interesting events of this Olympiad was the marathon race. In ancient days, the famous Greek runner, who brought news of the battle of Marathon, ran from the scene of the conflict to Athens, a distance of 26 miles and 385 yards. The first Olympic marathon was run over the same course, and was fittingly won by a Greek boy. Ten years later the marathon race was won by Sherrie, a Canadian.

Rules Changed

However, the first games were not very successful due to international jealousy. The rules were then changed to suit everybody, and it was decided to hold the games every four years. In 1908, Canada decided to send teams to the games. In the Olympiad of 1920 there was still more bitterness due to the war, but the latter games have been more of an international brotherhood of goodwill.

In the last conference, there were fifty-one nations represented and forty-three competed. It may be interesting to note that in the games of 1924 there were forty nations represented, and thirty of them did not score a point, while in 1928 there were forty-three nations represented and thirty-three of them were successful in scoring points. The games are so evenly contested that one cannot tell who is going to win. For instance, in the last marathon race the most popular runners picked to win were the entries of United States, England and Canada, but the honors were won by Ouifi, the Algerian, who had never been heard of before, while the ones who were picked to win were all below the fifth place.

Lantern Slides

Mr. Crocker then gave some very interesting lantern slides of the last Olympic Games. They included group pictures of the Canadian teams, the wrestling team, the boxing team, the Argonaut rowing club eight, who came second; Joe Wright and Jack Guest, the sculling champions; the swimming team; the track team, including Percy Williams; and the girls' track team, who scored more points than any other girls' team represented. He also gave some very interesting pictures of the happenings and finals of the different games. The most notable pictures were the finishes of the men's hundred metres and two hundreds metres; the pole vault; the high jump; the running broad jump; the diving, and the start of the great marathon.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, if you was at Port Hope last Sat. you mighta noticed 2 or 3 hundred young and old Peterborough citizens galloping up and down the side lines, while out on a muddy field Mister Carl Browne's P.C.I. srs. was winning a tough argument from a corn-fed Oshawa line-up ,what looked big enough for a police job. And when I say tough argument, Mac, I ain't exaggerating none. When them Oshawa lads played over here earlier in the season the P.C.I. kids made their line look as wide open as a New York night club, opening holes that woulda let a loada hay through. Sat., however, the boys from the Chevrolet belt tightened up all along the line, and take it from me, on a greasy field where speed was not a great deal of percentage, they was tough babies to knock off. But Mister Browne's boys done the trick, and if they never win another game, Mac, they deserve all kinds of credit for sticking to their guns and nosing out a win against odds. The way them light-weights dove at the Oshawa ball-carrier was a treat, old-timer, and my chapeau is off to the garnet and grey lads.

And the same goes for Mister Legon's intermediates, which on the same field and under the same handicap fought like a lotta bear-cats against the husky Bowmanville bozos. The Peterborough kids didn't win, but they come a lot closer than that Simcoe war veteran did to getting a postoffice job, and the winners was mighty glad to hear that final whistle. The youngsters had a win in their mits a minute before the show ended if they hadda varied their attack a bit, but they gambled on line plunges with only a short distance to go, and they failed to make the grade. The intermediates had a good year and uncovered a lotta good material that will be heard from later on.

I suppose everybody has pulled the nifty on you, Mac, that you couldn't see the Peterborough runners for Smoke in the road races Mon. Anyway, Mister Smoke, which used to grab off prizes as fast as The Examiner could put them up a few years ago, run 2 swell races to cop off the honor for Lindsay. If it hadn't been for this young Mister Art Goheen what breezed home in front in the jr. open the visitors woulda had a clean sweep, and Mister Doug. Loomis coulda saved a lotta of trouble and spared Doc Morgan's lawn by merely shipping the prizes up to Lindsay and not bothering about the races at all. But we ain't begrudging our Lindsay friends the honors. They added much to the interest of the holiday gallops, and we hope they'll be back again next year.

Incidentally, we gotta congratulate Lindsay again on Mister Dicky Butler being elected president of the O.H.A. Mister Butler is a square-shooter, believes in giving everybody a fair deal, and he oughta make a real live head of the big hockey body, even if he is a better curler than he is a baseball umps. And by the same token, our own Mister Percy Bond is headed for the presidency. This year he becomes 2nd vice-president, so it won't be long now. Mister Bond has took a lotta interest in hockey in this part of the world and has earned promotion.

I ain't discussed the football race much, Mac, but that upset Mon. when the Varsity Orfuns fumbled Balmy Beach outa the running would start anybody talking. The college lads looked to have as much chance of beating Balmy Beach as they is of Al Smith asking for a recount, but they done it, and now Mister Mike Rodden's Hamilton Tigers apparently have no more opposition than a Windsor rum runner has on the Detroit River. The jungle cats oughta romp home in the finals, but likely, if I call 'em to do so, Sarnia or Regina will come along and knock the dope for a row of filling stations. Anyway I'll take a chance, and so here's one wavering vote for the Tigers.

Well, Mac, the pro hockey season is under way, so next week will give us a chance for some weighty discussion of the cash and carry performers.

In the meantime Christmas shopping and other duties call, so I'll just slip off here.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

FAMOUS CANADIAN RUGBY GAMES, PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By NICK BAWLF— Former star football, lacrosse and hockey player, now coach at Cornell

Toronto Varsity alumni and thousands of loyal followers of the Big Blue Team still thrill with pride at the recollection of the glorious victory of "Red" McZenzie's rugbyists over McGill, November 21, 1914, that memorable year. The final score was 17-14 for Varsity And what a football game! Replete with spectacular half back runs, costy fumbling and a nerve-racking climax.

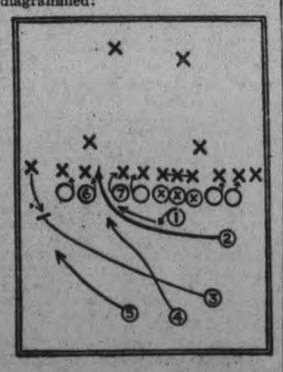
The game was "on ice" several times. Fifteen points were scored in by both teams in the last hectic five minutes of play. Laing of McGill thrilled the crowd with a clever 45-yard run which "Silver" Quilty, one of Canada's best plunging backfield men, converted into a touchdown at half-time; the score stood 7-2 for McGill.

The famous "Red" Mackenzie, the "Red" Grange of his day, took his place in the Blue backfield in the second half. McMillen, a big blue wingman, following up a punt, got a fumbled ball and made a touchdown, tying the score 7-7. McGill then added two rouges to her seven points, with five minutes to play. Shaughnessy's team looked like winners, till Laing fumbled Lindsey's 45-yard drop kick and Gardner of Varsity fell on the ball behind McGill's line for a touchdown. Score 12-9.

The next two or three minutes' play read like the finale of a Dick Merriwell match. Laing kicked off for McGill. The ball soared high and far. The Varsity supporters sat dumfounded when they saw a McGill player recover the ball and then watch the great Quilty in two plays fight his way over the Toronto students' goal line for a touchdown. Score: McGill 14, Varsity 12.

There were just two minutes to play. Gage kicked off and faster than it takes to put it down on paper the whole big blue team, following the ball demonlike, were on top of the McGill back catching the ball. He let it slip through his fingers; a Varsity player fell on it, and on two terrific plunges Cassels crossed the McGill goal line with the winning touchdown. What a hectic five minutes of ruby football.

Here is the McGill scoring play diagrammed:



The McGill team hopped to an unbalanced line from the shift. Montgomery, No. 1 in the diagram, faked a pass to No. 3 for an end run. Quilty, No. 2, came around low behind No. 1 and was given the ball. No. 1 and No. 4 jumped behind No. 2, and helped him through the hole between No. 6 and No. 7. Queen's and Ottawa used this play successfully in their championship games.

There were three Peterborough men in this game. Dr. Richard Sheehy and Wilfred Stratton were on the victorious Varsity team while Ross Laing played outside wing for McGill.

The line-up:

Varsity—Forwards, Gage, Lindsey, Carr; halfbacks, McKenzie, Sheehy, quarterback, Stratton; scrimmages, Horner, Gardner, Nicholson; insides, Bryan, McMillan; middles, Cassels, Hughes; outsides, Sinclair, Adelard.

McGill—Forwards, Quilty, Jeffrey, Laing; halfbacks, Paisley, Wollatt; quarterback, Montgomery; scrimmages, Greenwood, McColl, Brown; insides, Ross, Reid; middles, DeMuth, Williamson; outsides, Seath, R. Laing.

Officials—McEvenus, Dr. Hendry.

Monday we will look at the game between McGill and Harvard played 52 years ago.

HUSTON DENIES RE-ENTER GAME

Former Owner of Yankees Not Bidding For Brooklyn Franchise.

DISSENSION IN CLUB.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Where there is so much smoke there must be a little fire, and there was a great deal of conversation making the rounds last night regarding a possible change in the ownership of the Brooklyn baseball club.

Colonel Tillinghast L. Huston, former partner of Colonel Jacob Ruppert in the ownership of the Yankees gracefully bowed out of the picture last night. He has been in the city for three days, and it was reported that he was ready to buy out the McKeever interests in Brooklyn on behalf of his old friend, Wilbert Robinson. Robinson and the McKeevers are at sword's points. Huston simply said:

"I am not ready to go back to baseball yet."

On top of that story came another that Paul Block and Mayor Jimmy Walker are the real bidders for the club, and that they have made an offer for the entire club. It is said that they are willing to pay $2,500,000 for the team.

Robbie and Huston Close Friends

For some time past there has been bitterness in the club due to the attempts of Stephen W. McKeever to oust Robinson from the presidency. The latter was named for the place as a compromise candidate shortly after the death of both C. H. Ebbets and Edward McKeever. The club is owned 50-50 by the two families, and the Ebbets heirs refused to vote for Stephen McKeever as president.

In those days Robinson was acceptable to Steve McKeever for the presidency of the club. Later the "Judge," as McKeever is known to his friends, criticized Robinson very harshly and blamed him for failure of the Brooklyn team to win. He made a determined effort to drive Robinson from his position as president-manager, but as the McKeever opposition grew, so did the support from the Ebbets heirs.

Huston and Robinson have long been close friends, and Robbie was prominently mentioned as a probable Yankee manager during the latter years of Huston's part ownership. It was while Colonel Huston was with the Engineers in France that Miller Huggins was named by Colonel Ruppert for the position as successor to Bill Donovan, and Huston never reconciled himself to the change of leadership. This was but one of the decisions over which the partners disagreed, and this lack of harmony, with ill health at the time, caused Huston to sell his interests in the club in 1922 at a reported price of $1,500,000.

Huston first became interested in baseball in 1913, when he went to Marlin, Texas, the training base of the Giants, as a guest of John McGraw. It was while with the Giants that he first became a friend of Wilbert Robinson, and they have been closely associated since that time. They are the leading spirits in Dover Hall, a hunting preserve close to Brunswick, Ga., and the two have spent their winters at this resort for many years.

SPORT OF THE WEEK ACROSS CANADA

Next Tuesday, November 20th, marks the opening of the Pacific Coast Hockey League season This is the first time in a long while that pro-hockey has been attempted in the west. The coast has staunchly upheld the amateur game, but this year under the fiery leadership of Frank Patrick, a new pro-loop has been formed along the Pacific sea board. Nevertheless one thing is certain, namely, that the new group will have to show an A-1 brand of hockey to secure the support of Pacific coast fans, who know their hockey onions as well as any audiences anywhere.

Calgary recently decided it would not support any pro. hockey team at least for this year. But extensive preparations are being made to put a stronger amateur team on the ice for the present season.

The Reginal Rough Riders are still hot on the trail of the Dominion rugby title and are now awaiting the finals o fthe eastern group. The Rough Riders' record compares favorably with the best in Canada, and announcement that the western team will come east and fight for the championship has excited keen interest in Ontario and Quebec.

The real upset of the week arises out of the demand at the recent meeting of the Woman's Amateur Athletic Federation for a definition of their relationship to the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. Dr. Lamb, president of the latter, is said to have gone over the head of the women's sport organizations of Canada in voting against the participation of women at future Olympics. The ladies are a bit het up over his action and may provide some stormy sailing for him at the annual meeting of the A.A.U. of C. at Port Arthur early in December.

VIEWS ON SPORT

The F.C.I. rugby team are carrying the whole-hearted support of the city into their stiff game this afternoon.

Irvine Bailey, the Petes' old captain, played great hockey in the first game of the Leafs, but he had hard luck around the nets, and could not break into the scoring column. He was one of the most useful players on the Leafs' line-up last year, and should be effective again this season, as he always took the best of care of himself.

• • • • • • •

Andy Blair, the Leafs' recruit from the Manitoba Varsity team, won his way to the fans' approval when he scored a goal and gave a smart exhibition of hockey. The Westerners is reported to be one of the real finds of the season.

• • • • • • •

The 39th annual convention of the O.H.A. was held in the Temple Buildings this morning. The O.H.A. is a fine organization, and runs hockey on such clean basis that has elevated the sport to almost perfection.

• • • • • • •

It is reported that there will be no hockey in Havelock this winter. Barney Quinn and his merry men from the railroad town battled mightily with Louis Sabatino and his Lakefield team last season, and supplied local fans with some fine hockey. It took game after game to decide the better team, and then the count was close. It is too bad if Havelock finds it necessary to drop out this year.

• • • • • • •

Lakefield is fortunate in possessing a splendid rink, and with the constant practice afforded the youngsters, there will soon be turning out some great hockey players. The kids in the northern town learn to skate and stick handle soon after they get their first hair out.

• • • • • • •

Havelock are up against difficulties, having only an open-air rink, and they find it necessary to play most of their games at Brock Street. However, even down there the young players are getting a good opportunity to learn the game.

• • • • • • •

The Campbellford hockey players are already busy getting into shape for the ice. Earl Johnson is putting them through their drills, and he is one man that knows his P.T. There is nothing like the pre-season training that helps a hockey team to success.

• • • • • • •

Campbellford was noted throughout the province a few years ago for its girls' hockey team. Some few of those girls will likely be playing in a kitchen now.

Another Bout Offer For Toronto Flyweight

TORONTO, Nov. 17. — Willie Morrissey, manager of Steve Rocco, the Toronto flyweight who is to fight Frankie Genaro for the flyweight championship of the world at Detroit Dec. 14, has an offer from another promoter in Detroit for Rocco to meet Irish Johnny Gill, a Vancouver flyweight, in the Flivver Town within the next two weeks. The promoter of the Genaro-Rocco championship bout is willing that the Rocco-Gill bout precede the championship jamboree but Morrissey is busy looking for a possible Ethiopian in the fuel heap. He would like Rocco to have a bout under his belt before he meets Genaro for the title but he does not want him to fight too tough a boy nor in Detroit. Rocco has not fought for four months.

SENIOR ONTARIO TITLE AT STAKE

Varsity Orphans and Sarnia Imperials Decide Championship To-day.

WINNERS MEET TIGERS.

Executive Holds Final Meeting and Prepares for the Final.

TORONTO, Nov. 17. — There are only three senior rugby games on the program of the remainder of the year, one in Toronto to-day, another in Hamilton next Saturday and the third on Saturday, Dec. 1 in either Hamilton, Sarnia or Toronto, and if the dope is to prove reliable for once this year the third game, as well as the second will be played under the mountain. To-day's game will be for the O.R.F.U. title and will be played at Varsity Stadium between the Orphans and Sarnia Imperials. The latter have won championships in previous years but in the intermediate series, as this is their first experience in senior company, but the nearest that the Orphans have been to a throne was in 1924 when they looked to be in and were upset by Balmy Beach.

Both teams were in the same group this season and they broke even in their regular engagements, Sarnia winning at home 1 to 2 while in this city the Orphans made a brilliant finish to tie the score in the final ten seconds and then won in overtime 13 to 7. Both the league fixtures were close affairs and to-day's game should be one of the most exciting of the season although the underfoot conditions do not seem promising. The Imperials are at their best on a dry field, while the Orphans demonstrated they are good mudders in their defeat of the Canadian champions on the holiday. As a result the Orphans should like the conditions better than the visitors but the latter have had more experience than the locals and have more outstanding players than the Students. The latter are a great team and with the possible exception of Jack Sinclair no one stands out above the others.

RICKARD ADMITS NEEDS DEMPSEY

Promoter Believes Mauler Still Big Attraction To Ring Fans.

WOULD REVIVE GAME.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—George Tex Rickard came back from Florida armed with a six-figure fountain pen, a new book of certified checks and an unquenchable desire to stage another of his famous Battles of the Century.

All afternoon and all evening he centered his attention on Jack Dempsey, the only figure in the boxing world who would make a 1929 renewal of the series possible.

Abandoning the caution and doubt which has characterized his remarks about Dempsey in the past, the noted promoter frankly announced that he is doing his utmost to persuade the former heavyweight champion to return to the ring.

" I stand willing to pay him a guarantee of $437,000 for one fight next Summer," he said. "I think he's the only fighter in the world today who would draw $1,000,000.

Game Needs Him.

"I don't know what he's going to say, but I'm going to do my best to get him. The public wants to see him, the boxing game needs him, and I'm willing to admit that I need him myself. There are other fighters who may come along in the next few months, but it will take years before they can be built into the attraction that Dempsey is to-day.

"I know he would draw just as well this year in New York as he did against Sharkey. That is the fight on which I would base what I can pay him for a guarantee this year. I paid him $437,000 for that fight."

Quite a difference from the Tex who left here a few weeks ago, vowing that Dempsey would never come back, that he knew he would never come back, and that he wasn't going to waste his time or Jack's discussing the subject.

STAFF CAPTAIN TO VISIT ARMY

Former Officer of Salvation Army in This City Will Conduct Services.

CONCERT MONDAY.

Special services will be conducted in the local Salvation Army Temple this week-end by Staff Captain and Mrs. A. J. Smith, from Ottawa. The Staff-Captain has charge of the men's social work in the capital city. Owing to the steady growth and development of this phase of army activity another building is under construction and will shortly be opened to accommodate the increasing demand for cheap and yet clean and comfortable lodgings for men. Staff-Captain and Mrs. Smith labored in Peterborough for a number of years, and it was during their regime that the old Temple was partially destroyed by fire and the present commodious structure built. They endeared themselves to many friends in addition to the local soldiery.

The Staff-Captain will perform the dedication of one of their grandchildren during the week-end.

On Monday night a very unique sight for the Salvation Army will be the visit of "Ye Olde Village Choir." They are presenting a program full of interest and much variety. The proceeds of the evening will be devoted to the reduction of the present liability on the new organ installed a few months ago. One of the outstanding features will be the fact that all the musical contributions, both vocal and instrumental, will be rendered by ladies. The evening promises to be one that merits a full temple for the occasion, and will give satisfaction to all who attend.

One of the local Salvationists and a familiar figure on the streets, especially when Army open airs are in operation, namely Brother H. Illingsworth, of Albert street, recently collected $175.00 in connection with the local corps' Harvest Festival effort. Ensign E. H. Green, the officer in charge, would like through these columns to thank the many citizens who so generously responded to his annual appeal, and also donated to the genial and inimitable collector, Brother H. Illingsworth.

RADIO VALUES CAN BE JUDGED

Receiver Muet Be Demonstrated To Purchaser's Own Satisfaction.

NOT TOO LOUD.

It has been said that the American public has a canny sense of value. There are two kinds of value however—tangible and intangible, and it is probably the judgment of the intangible values in which the Americans so greatly excel. A man can buy a motor car in two different ways. He can get the most "car" or he can buy the most comfort for the money. In the first case, he judges mainly of the material things that go to make up the car. In the second, he judges by his own sensations in driving and handling the car.

The same is true of radio. A person can purchase a radio receiver by judging only the material things within the receiver, but everyone knows that the value of a radio receiver cannot be demonstrated in such a superficial manner. Like the purchaser who buys comfort in an automobile, he must demonstrate the receiver to his own satisfaction. With all manufacturers advertising fidelity of reproduction as a characteristic of their products, it is only by demonstration that the prospective purchaser can judge true tonal fidelity. And how few purchasers really know how to have tonal fidelity demonstrated to them!

Not Too Loud.

In the first place a receiver should never be operated so that the reproduction is louder than the original rendition for this makes unnatural reproduction even though no distorducti on is not hollow and that re-speaker should be tested on all kinds of music, including various types of instruments, various singing voices, male and female. Also listen to a male quartette for this is one of the most difficult vocal units for a receiver to reproduce correctly.

Lastly but most important of all, listen to the spoken voice, especially the male. Be sure that the reproduction is not hololw and that reproduction of the low tones of an orchestra is secured through correct audio and speaker design rather than through reverberation or resonance.

These simple rules will do more to make you satisfied with your purchase than any amount of sales talk or printed literature.

KIWANIS CLUB CELEBRATES

members, only ten were still in the city. Seven of those were present last night: F. C. Webber, D. Grant, J. J. Craig W. Oke, Dr. G. R. Scott, J. John and J. A. McNabb.

Gives Lacrosse Stick.

J. Wearing, at this juncture, took occasion to poke a little bit of fun at Past President McKone by presenting him with an ancient lacrosse stick, in token of his past prowess in that noble sport. The present was acknowledged in Mr. McKone's customary gravely humorous fashion.

Boosters of the evening were then introduced by fellow Kiwanians, telling all they knew or didn't know about them. President J. John talked about E. V. Morphet and J. A. Dewart recited bits from the history of J. B. Nelson. J. E. Smith spoke of Charles Saunders and the Rev. J. D. Paterson, in a characteristically funny speech, gave what he considered Mrs. McKone's opinion of her husband, who was booster for the card games.

Prizes donated by the other boosters of the evening were won by Mrs. George Gibbons, Mrs. J. B. Nelson, Mrs. J. E. Smith, Mrs. F. Stinson, Mrs. J. A. Dewart, Ronald Fortune, Dr. S. Y. Walsh of Keene, T. Mark, W. R. Alleley of Lindsay and Major Beatty of Toronto.

Dr. Craig read a letter from Miss C. Littlefield, inviting Kiwanis Club members to be present, as on other occasions, at the Life-Saving examinations to be conducted this evening at the Y.W.C.A. He also reminded the members of the invitation to attend a demonstration at the Bowmanville Boys' Training School on November 19th.

In answer to a question by Dr. Craig as to his absence from the Club meetings on several occasions, J. R. Heron rose to give a humorous response which included the reading of several skits having to do with activities of the Club members and purporting to be extracts from press reports. These aroused much laughter among the members and appeared to be thoroughly enjoyed. J. A. McKone countered by reading an extract from a Sault Ste. Marie paper.

The speaker of the evening, Assistant County Crown Attorney of Toronto, J. W. McFadden, giving an address on "The Life of Dickens," was introduced by Frank H. Dawson.

Evidently a great lover of the famous English author and also very evidently conversant with his many works, Mr. McFadden's talk was listened to with intense interest. It gave, in a series of entertaining brief glimpses and small cameo sketches of various characters in Dickens' works, an insight into the mind of their creator also, of whom one old lady who knew him said rather resentfully that he "was a little man I did not like. He always looked at you as if he were going to put you into a book."

"And that is what Dickens did with most people. He put them into his books," said Mr. McFadden. "With Dickens the plot meant little and the characters much. In fact, with the possible exceptions of "Edwin Drood" and the latter half of "Bleak House" there was no plot at all in his works, but the characters stood out like bluff mountains in the sunshine."

"One forgets the story, but the characters remain in memory. We go with Barkis in his cart, we travel along with David Copperfield and we can hear Mantalini describe his wife as 'that little rose in the demned flowerpot.' These characters of Dickens have become household words throughout the length and breadth of England, and many of them are used to advertise well-known products. They have become current coin. Every thick-lipped hooligan is a Bill Sykes and every slick, fawning hypocrite is a Uriah Heap."

The speaker went on to emphasize the fact that Dickens never sacrificed accuracy to laughter. "The great characters never do that," he said. But he was a great humorist, nevertheless. Here Mr. McFadden referred to the utterance of the General in "Little Dorrit," where he advises his daughters to mould their lips properly by repeating silently to themselves the words: "Papa, potatoes, poultry, prunes and prism," the two latter being especially favorable to the formation of a pretty mouth.

Speaking of the clear, fresh, sparkling humour of Dickens, "like a mountain brook in its clarity," the speaker referred to the utterance of Thackeray, when he thanked God for the sweet, unsullied pages of a book like "David Copperfield."

Although Dickens was a great reformer, his work was destructive, rather than constructive, as he seldom pointed out a way to replace that which he decried. However, he attacked and successfully reformed many abuses of his time, such as delays in Court, Chancery, the Poor Laws, prisons and nursing. The famous case of "Jarndyce and Jarndyce" was an epitome of the type of Chancery action that dragged on interminably. In it is pictured the shrinking old lady at the back of the courtroom, her reticule stuffed with papers, expecting a judgment on the Day of Doom. In Bumble the pompous beadle, he effectually ridiculed an old English system and in Sairey Gamp he caricatured the nursing sisterhood of that day and brought to it many much-needed reforms. Sairey was a real person and her original was in the employ of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts. When looking at a patient, she was wont to say, "wouldn't he make a lovely corpse."

The Prime Minister of England, said Mr. McFadden, declared the other day that when he reached heaven he would be a happy man if he could have a little Schubert music and then sit in a corner to talk to Sairey Gamp.

Dickens had a strong sympathy for the waifs and strays of the London streets. In the picture drawn of the Yorkshire schoolmaster, Squeers, and "DotheBoys" Hall, in "Nicholas Nickleby," he relied so much on the truth of what he saw in such schools that he was threatened with a legal suit by one such master and many reforms arose from the book. Dickens took the best way to reform. He drew a picture of suffering people who were yet able to laugh and he made other people want to give them a chance.

An idea of the tremendous popularity of Dickens, of whom C. K. Chesterton has said that "princes and prime ministers were just ordinary people compared to him," was given in the way in which his American audiences greeted him. On one occasion in New York, two queues of people formed a line three-quarters of a mile in length, prior to his appearance on the lecture platform. From his American tour, he sent home the sum of $100,000.

Never Emigrated.

"And yet this had no effect on his manner. He remained always simple at heart. It is said of some men that they are born in a poor man's country but they soon emigrate, but Dickens never emigrated."

Charles Dickens was the great apostle of Christmas. Christmas and its observance had been banished for several years from England in the 17th century and in Massachusetts it was not allowed to be observed for twenty-two years. But Dickens fought all his life for his conception of Christmas. It has been said he made it vulgar and associated with it too much eating and drinking. But Dickens could remember the time when as a boy of ten years of age, he stuck labels on blacking-bottles in a rat-infested cellar of the Thames, and when, if he had not enough nourishment from his supper of bread and tea, he took a walk to Covent Garden and looked at the pineapples there. To a little boy of that sort, the sight of fat turkeys and geese and a well-laden board would be a heavenly thing, and so Christmas assumed those proportions for him.

Dickens did not go into the homes of the great and the wealthy for the characters that made his works famous. He found Sam Weller in an inn yard, Mark Tapley in a bar, Dick Swiveller in a law office and Micawber, probably his greatest conception, and one of the greatest conceptions in English literature, along with Falstaff, was his own father, imprisoned for debt in the Marshalsea Prison, and always, to the end of his days, waiting for "something to turn up."

For the past eighty years, declared the speaker in conclusion, Charles Dickens and his works have been one of the greatest links of Empire. He has helped, through its sentiment, to keep the Empire together. On the western prairies, in the backwoods of Australia, on the South African coast, in far-away Indian hills, to the sailor on the sea, Dickens has meant a link with friends at home. Dickens' fellowships are increasing year by year and are known now in Copenhagen as well as Great Britain and America, and in Buenos Ayres and on the Gold Coast of Africa.

And the crowning glory of the works of Charles Dickens is their everlasting optimism and faith in humanity. To a man who had been everywhere and had seen much, there was still faith in the goodness of humanity an da belief that this was, after all, a fine old world.

"Like the notes of a great organ reverberating after the touch of the player has left it, so the words of Dickens and the faith and optimism which animated them, will live for many years after the man is dead."

A very appreciative vote of thanks to the speaker was voiced by J. A. McNabb, who took occasion to extend the thanks of the club to those who had assisted with the musical program of the evening.

Later a program of dancing and bridge games was enjoyed. Excellent music for the former was provided by the Paragon Revellers' Orchestra. Prizes for cards were won by Mrs. J. John, Mrs. J. Chadwick, J. W. McFadden of Toronto, and H. C. Huffman.

SALE OF FOWL WAS VERY SLOW

Large Collection of Hand-made Baskets on the Market.

BUTTER 48 CENTS.

The heady odor of sweet grass met the upstaid patrons of the farmers' market this morning, as they entered the door which led them past a collection of reed baskets and ornaments, offered for sale by several Indian women. Other out-of-the-ordinary offerings were painted flowers, which have such a vogue for interior decoration, and were offered in bunches at 35 cents.

Fowl was very plentiful this morning and the sale was slow. There were many fine chickens unbought at a late hour. The general prices was 25 cents a pound, and turkeys were priced as low as 35 cents a pound and as high as 45 cents.

Butter was 48 and 50 cents a pound and eggs were 50 and 55 cents a dozen.

On the open market, a novelty in the shellfish line was a quantity of pennywinkles, the retiring small fish of Nova Scotia, who lurk behind encircling shell walls and have to be disengaged with a pin. An argument as to the benefits of cold or hot water as a preliminary to the cooking of these wee succulent morsels was in progress, but a senior vendor who claimed much acquaintance with pennywinkles by reason of having often consumed a quart at a sitting, was firm in the advocacy of hot water. Then the fish must be tested with a pin to see if sufficiently cooked for eating. They sold at 30 cents a quart. Fresh herring were offered at a dime apiece or three for a quarter.

Live Barred Rock fowl were priced at $3 for the darker specimens and $2 for the light, a differentiation which seemed rather peculiar to one unlearned in the ways of fowl and their markings. Little Yorkshire piglets, seven months old, and described by their owner as being very good little pigs indeed, were $9 a pair.

White Leghorn fowl were quoted at $2 each.

Potatoes were 20 cents a peck or $1.10 a bag. A man with a load all the way from Manvers was asking $1 a bag. Vegetable marrows were 10 cents apiece, and carrots were 25 cents a peck. Pears were 75 cents a peck at one stand, and larger specimens were 90 cents a peck at another. Brussels sprouts were 10 cents a quart Snow apples were 50 cents a peck.

Pork was priced at 16 and 18 cents, or 17 and 19 cents a pound, for front and hind quarters, and lamb was 24 and 26 cents a pound.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

MANY FAMOUS STARS IN "SHOW PEOPLE" CO-STARING MARION DAVIES AND WILLIAM HAINES, WHICH COMES TO CAPITOL MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY.

"Show People," a film of life in the movies, which opens at the Capitol Monday, has one scene in which Marion Davies and William Haines, co-stars of the piece, are helped out by William S. Hart, Douglas Fairbanks, Norma Talmadge, John Gilbert, Mae Murray, Rod La Rocque, Renee Adoree, Leatrice Joy, George K. Arthur, Karl Dane, Aileen Pringle, Claire Windsor, Estelle Taylor, Dorothy Sebastian and Polly Moran.

There's another sequence in which Charlie Chaplin does his bit in making realistic this peep into the inner circles of cinemaland. Lew Cody and Elinor Glyn also are among the atmosphere players.

In her role as an actress in the movies, Miss Davies watches John Gilbert and her real self arrive at the studio for work. King Vidor, who directed, also is shown directing a film within a film.

Why other well-known players were not included in the crowd scenes, has not been stated officially. It may be because they didn't need the extra's daily wage of $7.30, which Fairbanks, Chaplin and the rest collected for their labors.

All the stars named were perfectly willing to give their services for friendship's sake, but there was some rule governing actors' pay that made it necessary for them to take their wages for doing their jobs.

In the picture, Miss Davies, as "Peggy Pepper," a Southern girl, got her start in the movies through the aid of William Haines, as "Billy Boone," in an old-time, pie-tossing, seltzer-squirting comedy. Miss Davies dodged the pie that caught her share of the seltzer.

The picture then shows Miss Davies translated from comedy into feature pictures, where, as star, she becomes most insufferably superior, and turns down "Billy Boone" until he finds a comedy method of restoring her equilibrium.

Miss Davies said she was portraying a composite of several stars she has known personally in order to get over the satire aimed at.

"AMERICAN BEAUTY" BRINGS NEW GLORY TO SCREEN'S LOVELIEST STAR

Billie Dove Scores Triumph in Latest Production.

If the beautiful Billie Dove did nothing but flash one of her radiant smiles at the picture fans she would be worth the admission price to a theatre but in "American Beauty," which opens Monday in the Regent Theatre, she demonstrates that behind her lovely smile there is ability to act.

Miss Dove's Work in "American Beauty" is on a par with, or one might say a shade better than her last stellar effort, "The Stolen Bride,' which First National recently released.

This is the sort of picture that is entertaining, but more than that, it gives young people an inspiration to forge ahead in business and social enterprises.

Miss Dove as a "checker" in the restaurant of a fashionable hotel, craves pretty clothes and a life of ease in keeping with her beauty.

While she lives in a cheap boarding house with her mother, in her imagination she was always travelling in the social whirl and carries out her pretense to the extent of having the telephone girls send her calls to the restaurant as though she were a guest at the hostelry.

She meets a wealthy youth who proposes marriage, but she has in the meantime fallen in love with a young chemist who lives across the hall in her boarding house.

The plot of the picture is developed at a smart dinner party given by her rich beau, but it would spoil prospective theatre goers' enjoyment to relate it here.

However, the lovely Miss Dove's tears, bravado and emotional work stamp her historically as one of the outstanding stars on the screen firmament.

In "American Beeauty," a Richard Wallace production which he personally directed, Lloyd Hughes takes advantage of his many opportunities to win friends in the role of the young chemist, who finally wins the fraudulent "checker."

This picture is a distinct relief from the flock of heavy emotional dramas that have been flooding the cinema rialto for months and should prove popular during its engagement at the Regent Theatre. Carey Wilson produced the picture which was adapted from the story by Wallace Irwin.

HOPE CHEST WON BY H. H. SISSON

Otonabee Chapter's Draw Took Place in Capitol Theatre Last Night.

The long-expected draw for the Otonabee Chapter's Hope Chest and its contents took place last evening at the Capitol Theatre. The draw was made by G. A. Gillespie, assisted by J. A. Stewart, manager of the theatre, after the tickets had been well mixed up in a churn provided for the purpose.

Winners of the ten prizes were as follows:

1—Hope Chest, won by H. H. Sisson of 254 Aylmer street, with ticket No. 1355.

2—Magazine Stand, won by Miss Evelyn Bentley of Homewood avenue, with ticket No. 1924.

3—Blanket, won by B. McClellan of 589 King street, with ticket No. 395.

4—Quilt, won by F. J. Shannon of 545 Gilmour street, with ticket No. 1707.

5—Silver cream and suger servers, won by H. J. McCannon of Walkerfield avenue, with ticket No. 225.

6—Set of breakfast dishes, won by Mrs. A. W. Turner of 572 Weller street, with ticket No. 1759.

7—Luncheon set, won by Mrs. M. McNabb of 690 George street, with ticket No. 1057.

8—Pillow cases, won by Miss M. A. Lees, of 514 Gilmour street, with ticket No. 2132.

9—Lamp, won by G. H. Watson of 300 Frederick avenue, with ticket No. 2132.

10—Brass candelabra, won by Mrs. F. Hills of 498 Weller street, with ticket No. 1790.

Only two of the articles were claimed at the theatre last night. The balance of the contents is at Comstock's Furniture Store, where holders of the winning tickets may reclaim their prizes.

CHURCH CELEBRATES 18TH ANNIVERSARY

Collections On Sunday Amounted to More Than $300.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MORGANSTON, November 17. — The eighteenth anniversary of the Morganston United Church was celebrated on Sunday and Monday. Rev. John Glover, B.A., of Smithfield, preached inspiring sermons on Sunday afternoon and evening, and Mrs. Glover was soloist for the occasion.

Serves Fowl Supper.

On Monday evening the Ladies' Aid served a fowl supper. St. Andrew's seven-piece orchestra, of Brighton, supplied excellent music. Other items on the program were readings by the Misses Brooks and McCracken, of Brighton, and with local talent also taking part a very enjoyable evening was spent. The proceeds from the supper and the collections on Sunday amounted to more than $300.

This small church was built at a cost of $7,000, and in four years was absolutely free of debt. Rev. A. H. Foster, now of Parkhill, was pastor when the church was dedicated by Professor McLaughlin, of Victoria College, in 1910. The following ministers have been pastors of the church: Rev. Mr. Spargo, of Bowmanville, superannuated; Rev. William Dafoe, now deceased; Rev. R. T. Richards, B.A., B.D., of Port Perry; Rev. J. E. Beckel, of Napanee, and the present pastor, Rev. G. Gardiner, who came to the church from Smith's Falls, last summer.

Personals.

Miss Stella Massey, B.A., of the Stratford Collegiate Institute, spent Thanksgiving at her home here.

Miss Kathleen Morgan, of Toronto, visited her mother over the week-end.

Mr. Harry Thompson, Provincial constable, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Thompson, visited the former's sister, Mrs. Walter Carr, on Monday and attended the fowl supper held on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Taylor returned on Wednesday from their wedding t.o.

Mr. Jim Todd, of Toronto, visited Mr. and Mrs. Wallance Turney on Sunday.

Stock Trading Sags On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—Frenzied trading in stocks continued in to-day's brief session on the market, which assumed record-breaking proportions, the main price movement was still upward, but the advance lost some of its violence, and the number of issues fell back under the enormous volume of week-end profit-taking. The ticker again fell hopelessly behind the market.

Price movements continued to bear little relation to the day's news developments, most of which, however, continued favorable.

Radio was again the speculative feature, opening two and a half points higher at 300, advancing to 301, breaking to 293 and then rallying to a new high record at 303. Montgomery-Ward also held around the record high established yesterday. At least two score issues moved into new high ground, the list including Anaconda Copper, eBthlehem Steel, Packard Motors, North American Company, and National Bellas Hess.

Continued Rainy Weather Strengthens Grain Values

CHICAGO, Nov. 17. — (Canadian Press.)—In the absence of any specific new farm relief development looked for by the numerous traders, wheat averaged lower in price early to-day. Continued rainy weather and the Kanass reports of floods gave an upward rise to the corn market. Opening unchanged at 5-8 decline to 3-8 advance, wheat later showed some setback all around. Corn started ¼ to 5-8 up and subsequently held near to initial range. Oats were firm. Provisions also tended to advance.

Wheat, December 115 1-8, March 121 3-8. Corn, December 85 7-8, March 88. Oats, December 45 5-8, March 46.

Mine Market Settles After Strong Opening

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (Canadian Press).—The market was easier at noon after a strong opening this morning on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange. Noranda dropped back to 53.75 for a loss of twenty-five cents, as did Lake Shore at 18.50. Amuet, however, was active and went up 25 to 2.35. Sherritt-Gordon gained 5 to 6.80, and Sudbury Basin fell twenty cents at 7.30. Teck Hughes dropped 5 at 8.70, and Towagmac ten at 2.90. McIntyre was down 5 at 19.75, while Mining Corporation was up 5 at 3.60. Barry Hollinger was up a half at 35½. Hudson Bay advanced 15 at 21.15, Pend Oreille 5 at 10.20, Big Missouri one at 61, while Falcon Bridge dropped 10 at 5.00, and Abana three at 3.57.

Mining Briefs

A Special Service to The Examiner

Murphy has cut a rich streak of ore assaying about $30 to the ton, states a report from Kirkland Lake. No further details of the strike were given.

A strong pool is reported to be operating in Peterson Cobalt and it is said that they have been accumulating the stock for some time past. A pool is also said to be still active in Bathurst and that this group has taken up the remaining treasury stock at 40 cents a share, while a bid for one-half million shares coming from another group has been turned down.

Tough Oakes are reported to be disposing of their equipment, including mill and machinery. A great deal of the machinery, especially the mill, is old, and consequence a very good price cannot be expected. The mill is made up of parts of both the old Tough Oakes and Burnside mills with some additions. It is also reported that shareholders will not get anything, as after the Kirkland Lake Proprietary have taken the property in liquidation of their loan it would seem that Tough Oakes stock would have nothing behind it. The report that this company would recommence operations in the spring seems to be unfounded in light of the above despatch.

A report from Rouyn states that the rake of Noranda's "H" ore body is to the south and east, or away from the Murray claims of Mining Corporation. No diamond drilling has taken place during the time that Mining Corporaation had had this property, continues the report, and any work that hase been done by Noranda from the 975-foot level in drilling and underground operations has been so far away from the Murray line that no sustance can be given to the story that Noranda have the "H" ore body indicated close to it's north line.

A report from Nelson states that operations are proceeding rapidly at the Salmo Malartic property. Two ore zones are said to be indicated on the property and as far as can be ascertained these are parallel. Work is proceeding with a view to proving up these zones and results to date, officials state, have been satisfactory.

A report from Nelson states that operations are proceeding rapidly at the Salmo Malartic property. Two ore zones are said to be indicated on the property and as far as can be ascertained these are parallel. Work is proceeding with a view to proving up these zones and results to date, officials state, have been satisfactory.

It is understood that developments of importance are brewing in the Pend Oreille situation. The western officials are at present here in the east and it understood that some news regarding the property will be forthcoming shortly.

The shaft at the Haslat Duck Lake Mines, controlled by the Sudbury Basin Mines, will be sunk to 100 feet during the winter. Lateral work will follow on the development recently carried out when the shaft was sunk to 60 feet. Showings of gold, silver, lead and zinc have been noticed.

Financial interests in Toronto are negotiating in connection with the development of the O'Donald property, at Boston Creek, to the west of and adjoining Barry-Hollinger. The O'Donald holdings are claimed to be directly in line with the strike of the ore shoot developed at the 1,250-foot level of the camps producer.

News From the Mines

Through
Solloway, Mills & Company

Sherritt-Gordon

An official statement issued Thursday night by Sherritt-Gordon cleared up the wild rumors that were in circulation Thursday to the effect that a serious explosion had occurred on the property. The officials of the company stated that a thaw house contained 29 cases of dynamite exploded during the morning due to excessive heat from a steam line. Due to the isolation of the thaw house nobody was injured and damage was slight.

Howey

The Street heard Thursday that slashing operations on the 500 foot level of Howey Mines had widened out the vein to 30 feet with good values prevailing throughout the width of the vein. No reports have been received from the mine by officials of the company for several days, and this rumor could not be substantiated at headquarters.

Howey was in strong demand yesterday and moved over the dollar mark, selling up to $1.08, closing firm at $1.06.

Calgary Oil News

Our Calgary office reports that Okalta No. 1 is now believed to be a 400 barrel well. No test as yet has been possible for measuring the production of the well.

Mayland is now at a depth of 4155 feet and is reported to be in lower Dakotas and will probably reenter the Kootenays any time.

The Vulcan, which has been frozen over for some days, blew back again Thursday.

The Regent is reported to have punched its hole into the lime.

McLeod No. 3 have practically concluded arrangements for the use of Okalta's diamond drill.

Comment On The Market

A Special Service to The Examiner.

Shredded Wheat Earnings Will Show Steady Growth For 1928.

So far in 1928 the Shredded Wheat Company are maintaining their average increase in sales of 5 to 10 per cent. over the corresponding period of 1927, when their gross earnings were $3,123,724. This is in keeping with their record of a consistent increase each year for the past 35 years, except 1918. It has been the policy of the company when earnings have grown in past years, well in excess of current dividends to declare bonuses in addition to regular disbursements.

During the years from 1922 to 1928 the company paid dividends ranging from 9 to 11 per cent. per annum, and in 1926 the $100 par value stock was split up, four shares of no par value being given for each share held, and the new shares were placed on a $3.00 per share per annum dividend basis, equal to 12 per cent. on the old stock. Net income of $1,610,648 last year was equivalent to $403 a share on the 400,000 shares of common stock outstanding, compared with $3.67 a share in 1926. The annual dividend rate on the common, the company's sole capital liability, is $3. At the end of 1927 the company showed surplus of $1,939,371.

Product of the company, which was a novelty when it was first marketed, has become an established breakfast food used daily in an ever increasing number of homes. Its sales distribution, while not so rapid as for similarly well managed companies, which have not yet achieved as thorough covering of actual and potential markets, are the reverse of "spotty."

To-day, in addition to the big plant of the parent company, in Niagara Falls, N.Y., there are four subsidiaries, namely, The Canadian Shredded Wheat Company, Ltd., the Pacific Coast Shredded Wheat Company, Shredded Wheat Company, London, England, and the National Food Company. Expenditures for this process of expansion have been met only in part by increase in stock and records indicate that profits have more than kept pace with increases in capital liability. Sales of stock, moreover, have brought important rights to shareholders.

Financial Briefs

Steel Prices Rise As Output Declines.

New York—Although steel production continues at a heavy rate a moderate decline from the record-breaking rate reached in October is noted by the weekly reviews of the iron and steel trade. The needs of the steel works for raw material have been reduced by the decline, and this has tended to relieve the tension in the pig-iron market. The trend has been reflected also by another decline in the price of heavy melting scrap at Pittsburgh, the third drop of 25 cents a ton in three weeks.

Pig-iron prices, however, continue to gain strength, particularly in territories where surplus stocks are not an important market factor. Steel prices, likewise, remain buoyant, several independent mills have announced increase of $2 a ton on sheets and $1 a ton on sheet bars, which, it is believed, will win general adoption. The new quotations will apply, principally to contracts for the first quarter of next year, as consumers are well covered on their requirements through the rest of this year.

Participation in the steel markets continues less broad than a month ago, it is said, but the total is scarcely affected. Freight car orders in the last week have been the heaviest of the year. Four active pipe line projects call for 250,000 tons of pipe. Automobile specifications for steel are passing the low point and should turn upward as makers schedule new models.

Standard Oil Ends Gasoline Discounts

New York—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey will discontinue the practice of giving discounts from the posted price of gasoline on tank wagon deliveries, beginning on Nov. 21. This means the elimination of all concessions to the commercial trade. Similar change will apply to New Jersey, Maryland, West Virginia, North and South Caroline and the District of Columbia.

A true tank wagon price of 15 cents a gallon will be published by the Standard of New Jersey. The present posted tank wagon price is 17 cents, with discounts allowed to large purchasers. The service station prices will be reduced from 19 to 18 cents a gallon. Under the new policy, gasoline will be sold from all of the company's service stations at one price.

In making this change in marketing policy the company is seeking to eliminate unfair trade practices which, it has frequently been contended in the trade, were encouraged by the practice of giving special allowances or concessions to purchasers of large quantities.

It was also announced Thursday that the Standard Oil Company of Ohio would put into effect a new schedule of gasoline price to-day, eliminating discounts on coupon books. Dealers will be allowed a discount of 2 cents a gallon from tank wagon. All other customers at tank wagons will receive a discount of 1 cent a gallon.
